Marlies, Rangers Win

Flyers Demote Generals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros and Kitchener Rangers used the same formula for Ontario Hockey Association Junior A victories Friday—outscore your opposition in one period and you can take it easy for the rest of the game.

In Toronto, the Marlboros shook off the stubborn St. Catharines Black Hawks with five goals in the third period to post an 8-4 victory. And at Kitchener, the Rangers enjoyed a five-goal first period before settling down to toy with Montreal Canadiens in a 7-4 win.

In another game, Niagara Falls Flyers stayed within two points of the first-place Marlboros with a 5-3 victory over Oshawa Generals, who fell to third place. Neither team will be safe for long if red-hot Kitchener, winner of four of its last five games, keeps up its pace.

Marlboros were spurked by Wayne Carleton's return to his 1963 form. Carleton, who missed the early part of the season through injury, scored three goals including the winner in the early part of the second, through Marlboros with a 5-3 victory over Oshawa Generals, who fell to third place. Neither team will be safe for long if red-hot Kitchener, winner of four of its last five games, keeps up its pace.

The Golden Years

Wife Writes a Love Letter To Her Just-Retired Spouse

By THOMAS COLLINS

A love letter to a 65-year-old husband who has just retired:

My Beloved Husband—

I welcome you home with pride and pleasure. There may have been times when I felt 30 years ago, but there never would have been more pride.

And I welcome you with a reassertion of the vow I made to you 42 years ago: I still take you for better or worse.

My pride lies in the fact that you've made it to 65. This is a great achievement, you know. I'm glad you're here with me to work you have maneuvered your way past many formidable dangers. A couple of wars, cancer, heart attacks, automobile crashes, mental breakdowns and lightning. A man who has survived the perils of the last 30 years is a love prize for being alive.

You have survived the pitfalls of working for a living. There was a frightening period in the Thirties, but you got another job. And from that point on you have held a job against what, at times, must have been great circumstances. My life has been good because you did this. At this point I can see my goals that I had a man with the stuff in him to do it.

You have survived the perils of friendship. And from that point on you have held a job against what, at times, must have been great circumstances. My life has been good because you did this. At this point I can see my goals that I had a man with the stuff in him to do it.

GREATEST SECURITY

Have you realized yet that by reaching retirement you have brought me — and us — the greatest security we ever had? Always while you were working there was the chance of layoff, being fired, of pleasing the company go broke, or injury or illness that would make you invalid, all of which could have stopped our income. None of these things have happened to me, but true that a successful retired man is the most reliable mail-dicket a wife can have.

In another way, you are of course a more valuable than ever before. Out of self-interest it nothing else I will be definitive to keep you safe and preserve you. About 70 percent of our retirement happiness depends on staying alive. If you had died in your working years it would have meant pension, poor insurance, and I would have been young enough to go back to work and get a job. As alive I am in the fine circumstance. If you die I am a poor old widow.

I'll want you to have a nap every afternoon because I'll be good for you, and because you deserve the luxury. I'll want you to sit up on your eighth until your heart's content and see all the late TV movies you want. I'll want you to go to the doctor every six months for a checking. I'll want you to go and have an eye-I'll, to fish or boat or play with your pals as long as you want. I'll want you to take 50 out of savings and go buy some casual clothes for this great new adventure of your life.

"YOUR INSTRUCTIONS"

Now for your instructions: Stay out of my kitchen.

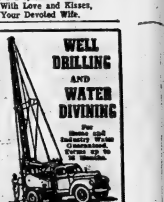
Start cleaning up your cabinets and any other messes you make during the daytime. I'll still take care of your evening and weekend messes.

Prepare to give me two free afternoons a week to be with my women friends.

Have your eye-glasses checked, and subscribe to a second newspaper. Because we are going to have a lot of conversation time from here on out and will help fill it.



Set up in the bank, in your investments, or somewhere at least $250 in my name so I can get it in a hurry if I have any emergency to face alone.

Read your life insurance policies and let me know what in the world they say, then go make a will . . that is, if you want your estate any of mine.

Be inform d that when "retirement letdown" hits you in about a month or two — say 10 days — no more — to feel sorry for yourself, after which you'll get on with your new life.

I am glad you have come home to retirement, My Dear. As soon as we get acquainted with each other we are going to have a splendid life.

With Love and Kisses,
Your Devoted Wife.

ENOUGH NAILS to build three modern houses went into this 110-year-old house at 249 William Street, according to Archie Boomhower. The house was wrecked last week by Clayton Boomhower, to make way for a clinic to be started this week.

Hold Mother As Daughter Slips From Ice

TIMMINS (CP) — A hysterical mother was grabbed by bystanders as she plunged into the icy Mattagami River Friday to rescue her five-year-old daughter. The girl slowly sank and disappeared.

Suzanne Ouellette held onto a thin piece of ice for about five minutes after she broke through the surface ice and dropped into the river, but went under as a hastily-launched rescue boat approached.

Mrs. Isidore Ouellette leaped into the river to go to her daughter's aid, but was dragged back. She made several attempts to get free, but was firmly held.

Construction Round-Up

By DOUG SEIP

ASSOCIATION

Charles Lambert was installed Thursday night as new president of the Quinte Home Builders' Association. His election and the election of the other officers of the group was announced last month. Installation of all officers was by Homer Embury, of the National Home Builders' Association

The Home Builders expressed opposition to the city council's plan to levy a $300 impost on each lot in a new subdivision, and they will go to council Monday to say so. Plans are to hire a lawyer to do the talking, and about twenty members of the association will be there to back him up.

Speaking to the meeting last night, Lambert agreed that the impost would be fair for an outlying subdivision, for which sewers would have to be laid. Main objection is to the idea of applying it to subdivisions already served by trunk sewers. Purpose of the impost is to cover about one-quarter of the cost of trunk sewer service to the subdivisions.

WILLIAM ST. CLINIC

West Park Construction will begin a new Medical Building next week at 240 William St. The structure to be owned by Dr. John Stock, will consist of four suites. Clayton Boomhower, hired to tear down the old building on the site — previously a property of the O'Flynn estate — estimates the now levelled house was over 100 years old; flat rectangular nails had been used and 1" x 8" planks were used in place of 2" by 4's. McCormick Real Estate handled the deal. Price of the new building is $26,500.

BUILDING PERMITS

Building permits are up. Over 400 issued by November 21—a gain of 15 over last year. Total value also up.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY GARAGE

The new garage, started Oct. 1, now has the walls up, roof on, and floor poured. Twenty overhead doors, size 16 by 20, open off 10 double bays. Designed by Ron Thompson, county engineer, and built by Tatham Construction, completion is expected in three weeks. Located in Picton, the building is made of concrete block with precast roof and mezzanine.

DIXIE LEE

McCallum and Bridge poured the Dixie Lee chicken building Wednesday at the Dixie Lee site for the take out restaurant and north side office. Thirty-nine yards of concrete were used. The foundation for the south side office will be poured Monday. To make way for the south side foundation, jackhammers cut away four feet of solid rock. Blasting might have shifted the retaining wall bordering the river.

AMODEO

The house at the south end will be levelled to make way for a parking lot. Will build a retaining wall at back of the store next week, then lay in about four feet of fill for the rear drive. The rear drive will be level with the parking lot.

UNION CARBIDE HEXA PLANT

Heavy machinery is now installed. The walls have been clad inside and out with sheet metal and the building is being insulated. Lightfoot Construction connected a water line to the building last week.

UNION CARBIDE DRAINAGE

Lightfoot Construction is installing an additional sediment basin to handle Union Carbide's water discharge. The piping will run from the plant to a concrete tank south of the railway tracks, then into an existing tank for more settling and from there into the bay.

SMITH TRANSPORT GARAGE

An offer of $3. an hour failed to turn up brick layers last week, foreman Don Newton reports. Appears to be a general shortage in the area. Electricity, doors, some window frames, and panels of green glazed brick over and between the windows were installed last week.

CITY BARN

Tatham Co. Ltd. continued foundation blasting Wednesday and hopes to pour the footings starting Monday. The drainage pattern is laid out but little has been done. Twenty six thousand tons of granular fill will be needed for the site.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER BUILDING

Abe Dick's masons started work this week, laying concrete block and brick on the east wall of the Ontario Intelligencer building. Brick is a special glazed custom product, made of clay shipped up from the U.S. and fired at about 2,000 degrees. It has a glossy grey surface, (about the same color as the Intell's trucks), on the outside. Foreman Tony Cadeddu had three masons this week and wants to find about ten more. He is hoping to find them in Ottawa. If he gets the men, he expects to be able to close in the building by Christmas.

Superintendent Mathan Carr hopes to be able to pour the second floor Tuesday. Forms are almost in place now. An out-of-town outfit is waterproofing the basement and Stark's plumbers are at work in the basement now.

CHARLES LAMBERT

Three double tri-planes are under construction by Charles Lambert at the corner of W. Moira and Wallbridge Rd. Tailings have been poured for the Moira St. tri-plane, and the lots have been cleared for the two tri-planes on Wallbridge St.

POURING THE FOUNDATION for part of the Dixie Lee chicken building on Coleman Street, McCallum and Bridge employees used 39 yards of concrete Wednesday. About three-quarters of the foundation is poured now, the rest will be poured Monday. George Seames was in charge of Wednesday's pour.

2 Comfortable Homes in Your Choice of Locations

THE BRIDALWOOD (Above)

A new design from Rollins Construction, this split level model has the appearance of a bungalow. Available in a variety of elevations, this home through the use of a carport, affords complete shelter from car to front entrance. It is designed with a minimum width to permit construction on a smaller lot — this brings the cost of land down and allows the maximum house at a lower cost. The Bridalwood is now in construction in East Gate, Stanley Park, Glenarden and Parkdale Subdivisions.

THE RAVENWOOD (Right)

One of the many features of this home is that the rec-room is accessible from the centre hall rather than a rear entrance. This model is available in either conventional brick finish or Tudor decor with cut stone and stucco. Basically the centre hall plan with entrance to all areas provided there from. This plan also provides an extra large kitchen. L-shaped living-dining room, three bedrooms and tiled bath. The Ravenwood is ideal for the family that makes great use of the rec-room as it affords a more gracious entrance to that area — there is also an outside entrance. The Ravenwood is now in construction in East Gate and Glenarden subdivisions and on Victoria Ave. in Belleville.

Carlson Gets New Stay Of Execution

Talks Staged Outside Congo About Hostages

Tshombe Warns Rebels Resistance Is Useless

From AP-Reuters

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Congolese rebels said today they have granted a stay of execution to American medical missionary Dr. Paul Carlson pending the outcome of diplomatic negotiations outside the Congo with the United States. A broadcast indicated the stay was for only 24 hours.

This report was made by a rebel leader Christophe Gbenye. The rebels in Stanleyville had scheduled Dr. Carlson's execution for today.

Earlier Premier Moise Tshombe of The Congo warned the rebels that Stanleyville was encircled by government forces and it was "useless to offer resistance on their arrival. All resistance will be crushed."

Meanwhile, central government troops led by white mercenaries resumed their advance on rebel Stanleyville. They captured the town of Lobutu, about 125 miles southeast of the rebel capital.

A Stanleyville radio broadcast heard in the Central African Republic, Gbenye added: "We expect results of the first negotiations before 24 hours." Gbenye was speaking of talks in Nairobi on the fate of Carlson and about 1,000 white hostages held by his forces.

Gbenye also charged that an American plane bombed a small boat Sunday 25 miles from Stanleyville killing several men, a pregnant woman and a two-year-old child. An earlier rebel broadcast claimed that an American plane bombed Ponthierville, south of Stanleyville, and killed several persons.

The United States says it is flying on combat planes in The Congo but has furnished planes to the Congolese Air Force which Cuban exiles are flying.

PARATROOPS ARRIVE?

Bank Rate Increased In Britain

LONDON (CP) — The Bank of England discount rate was raised two per cent today to seven per cent to help turn the tide of Britain's critical trade deficit.

The government has said the deficit may reach £800,000,000 ($2,400,000,000) this year. The higher interest rate will attract foreign money to Britain.

A spokesman for the bank said the change was made "primarily to strengthen the international positions of sterling," which has been under severe attack in world currency markets.

Treasury Chief James Callaghan was scheduled to make a statement about the higher bank rate in the House of Commons this afternoon.

BUT ONLY MOVE EXPECTED

A treasury spokesman said the statement "was not understood to include any other measure."

Political observers said an increase in the bank rate — key lending rate affecting all international borrowing rates — had been widely expected following growing weakness of sterling.

The bank rate last reached its post-war peak of seven per cent between July 23, 1961 and Oct. 5, 1961.

The move followed overseas fears about Britain's economy since the end of last week, with some pressure speculation the pound might be devalued.

But today's statement that the bank rate increase does not foreshadow any other measures appeared to dismiss any such possibilities.

POUND RECOVERS

Immediate reaction to the increase was a marked recovery in the pound on the London Stock Exchange. The news came as a surprise to London's

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian agriculture hit a golden wheat jackpot in 1963, cashed in on it in 1964 and can expect a slight settling to above-normal sales in 1965.

Preliminary statistics for 1964, provided in the conference white paper, showed a record cash income of $3,488,000,000, 20 per cent from the previous high of $3,180,000,000 in 1963. No figure was given for 1965 but the cash position was expected to be "slightly below the record level."

Today's Chuckle

Some people have no talent for counting calories - - and they have the figures to prove it.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A new low developing over the north central U.S. is expected to move towards the Great Lakes. It will likely bring some wet snow to southern Ontario Tuesday.

The more significant figure of realized net farm income—what the farmer gets after deducting operating costs and depreciation from gross income—would be 19 per cent increase in 1964 to $1,660,000,000 from 1963's $1,371,000,000.

The 284,000,000 bushels of wheat exported to Russia during the three-year period ending July 31 was the main factor in total exports of 594,000,000 bushels. That compared with total exports of 331,400,000 bushels in 1962-63 and an average 320,700,000 in the five previous crop years.

The white paper said forward sales for the current crop year ending July 31, 1965, are encouraging and that exports of wheat and flour totalling 375,000,000 bushels are anticipated. Exports of barley and oats had been trimmed to 480,600,000 bushels from 1,210,700,000. The 1964 crop of about 600,000,000 bushels brings the current stock up to a normal 1,000,000,000 bushels.

The 1964 returns from cattle and hogs are not likely to differ greatly from 1963, the lower average prices being offset by increased marketings. Total income from both sectors is expected to rise in 1965.

Spending Program On Tap

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — As the Commons steams ahead this week on the 1964-65 spending program, the government is trying to whip its labor code legislation into shape for further parliamentary action.

The big question attached to the labor bill is whether it will be ready in time to go before the Commons again next week or whether the Canadian flag will come up for debate.

Privy Council President Mcilraith, government leader in the Commons, said at the weekend that the government hasn't decided yet about when to proceed again on the labor code, which still is at the second reading stage.

The government still is holding consultations on some of the bill's provisions about which elevator and trucking companies have expressed concern.

Progressive Conservatives and New Democrats have urged that the bill be dealt with before the flag. A number of Liberals are said to have taken this stand, too.

GOVERNMENT PRESSED

But the government also is being pressed to get the flag debate over with, then wind up the parliamentary session with passage of the labor code.

The flag debate had been scheduled for last Thursday until an all-party agreement was negotiated by Mr. Mcilraith that the whole 1964-65 spending program would be debated until this Friday and passed.

The announcement upset many Liberals who have been anxious to get the flag debate going just in case the Opposition plans to debate it at length. They say such a debate might endanger Prime Minister Pearson's commitment of a flag by Christmas.

Mr. Mcilraith says he expects it will be toward the end of this week before the government is in a position to make up its mind about the timing of the next stage of debate on the labor code.

He anticipates a round of talks with the House leaders of the other parties to settle the question.

Meanwhile, the Commons plows into the justice department's spending program with a distinct possibility that the Progressive Conservatives will renew their charges that the government coddled Hal Banks, deposed boss of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada.

Diefenbaker Pleads for Eastern Farmers

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP)—Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker said Saturday night that an attitude of "indifference" towards eastern agriculture has become obvious in the Liberal government.

Addressing the Renfrew North Conservative Association, Mr. Diefenbaker said government indifference "has produced a crisis in eastern agriculture."

He called for a broad federal policy to increase the income of eastern farmers.

Around World Tribute Is Paid To Memory of John F. Kennedy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Air force planes flew over Cape Cod in the missing buddy formation known to pilots as Echo.

In these and many other ways a thoughtful U.S. paused Sunday to remember and pay tribute on the first anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

The tragedy that had reached around the world was relived around the world in solemn ceremonies, as hundreds of thousands put aside part of their day for their own private ways of remembering.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy sent a small spray of wildflowers to the grave. They were delivered by her mother, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss.

The mother of the 35th president, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, attended two Roman Catholic masses in Hyannis Port, Mass., where the Kennedy family has its summer home.

Senator-elect Robert F. Kennedy and his sister, Mrs. Sargent Shriver, knelt by the Arlington grave to lay roses on it, and to pray.

Two Feet of Snow Dumped On 2 Areas by Intense Storm

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Georgian Bay and Lake Huron areas, still plowing their way free of some two feet of snow that fell during the weekend, could be in for more of the same Tuesday after today's respite.

The weather office is predicting wet snow from a new low-pressure area developing over the north-central United States this morning. The weekend storm was the result of a small but intense storm that swept in from the U.S. Friday night.

At Kincardine, 47 persons, occupants of cars and a bus, were stormbound during the weekend at the farm of Ray Walden. They were forced to stay at the farm because roads were not plowed and visibility was poor. Provincial police took supplies to the farm in an auto wrecker.

Thirty-two summer residents from Windsor, Hamilton, London and Toronto were also stormbound in Kincardine about 50 miles southwest of Owen Sound. The residents, there to hold a bonspiel, found their cottages surrounded by two feet of snow and were unable to leave at the end of their game.

At least two deaths and several highway accidents were attributed to the storm, which came off Lake Michigan and Georgian Bay accompanied by winds gusting to 53 miles an hour and leaving up to six inches of snow in its wake.

In Ottawa, city employee Henri Joanisse, 39, was killed during snow removal operations when he fell from the driver's cab of a grader and was crushed.

Visibility was cut to zero w some 40 motorists in the Kincardine area, 45 miles southwest of Owen Sound, were forced to shelter at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walden. Provincial police from Kincardine, aided by a snow plow, forced their way through the storm to replenish food supplies at the farmhouse.

Outcome Of War In Doubt

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor believes that U.S. air strikes against Communist bases and supply lines in North Viet Nam and Laos could contribute to victory in South Viet Nam.

He also thinks that the outcome of the guerilla war is very much in doubt."

The ambassador's appraisal, made in an interview with Life magazine, set off speculation that he might recommend an escalation of the war when he meets this week with President Johnson in Washington. Taylor flies home Wednesday.

"Military action outside the country, just as pure military action inside the country, will not win it itself," Taylor cautioned in the interview. "Let us say generally that the war is very much in doubt. The ultimate will to win. But the military aspect is only one piece of it."

U.S. policy makers, dissatisfied with the way the war has been going, have been studying the possibility of extending it to the north in check support of the Viet Cong. Reports from observers feel China then might take a direct hand.

Taylor said the Communists have grown in strength despite heavy losses. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in Viet Nam, said in the interview that body counts show 12,000 Viet Cong have been killed so far this year, compared with 8,000 government casualties. He said actual Communist losses probably totalled 18,000.

Fear 50 Dead; Plane Hit Truck On Runway

Passengers Leaping to Safety Before Explosion

ROME (AP)—A TWA four-jet airliner with 72 persons aboard burst apart in explosions today as it was about to leave Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport at Fiumicino. About 50 persons were reported killed.

Trans World Airlines in New York said the plane hit a truck. Capt. J. E. Frankum, TWA vice-president, said the jetliner at the time was trying "to abort" its takeoff.

"Unfortunately, there was a truck in the vicinity of the runway," he added.

Reports of the number of survivors brought to Rome hospitals varied from 20 to 25. Most were reported in grave condition.

The TWA office in Rome said the plane carried 55 passengers and a double crew of 17. Among the passengers were 25 TWA employees and their families.

It was TWA flight 800 from Kansas City, Chicago, New York, Paris and Milan to Rome, Athens and Cairo.

REPORTS CONFLICT

There were conflicting reports on the time the explosion occurred.

While some persons said the blast occurred just as the plane lifted off the ground, others said it exploded while on an approach strip just before reaching the runway to begin its takeoff.

An airport employee said he saw the jet roll another few metres and stop. He said the doors opened, and passengers began jumping out. At that moment, he said, an explosion ripped it to pieces.

One version by witnesses was that the plane actually was making its takeoff run, rolled a few feet off the runway, then dropped back, while the pilot tried desperately to brake it to a stop.

One wing of the plane was reported to have struck a truck at the edge of the strip, damaging the wing and causing fuel to pour out. This version said the fuel ignited and the plane exploded 200 yards farther on.

PEOPLE BLOWN UP

An airport employee said:

"I heard the blast, turned and saw people blown into the air. Then the flames broke out and explosions followed."

First of the identified injured was taken to Rome's San Camillo Hospital. Carlo Bassi was taken to Role's San Ca-

NEW YORK (AP)—The jetliner tragedy at an airport in Rome, Italy, this morning was caused by the aircraft crashing into a truck "on or crossing" the runway during a take-off attempt, Trans World Airlines said.

TWA said the plane, Flight 800 originating Sunday in Kansas City and destined for Cairo, had 72 persons aboard at the time.

Capt. J. E. Frankum, TWA vice-president, said in New York that the jetliner was "aborting" its take-off.

"Unfortunately there was a truck in the vicinity of the runway," Frankum said.

Frankum said the truck's location was "not clear" in TWA's first reports from Rome, but that it was believed to have been on a taxi-way adjacent to Runway 25, from which the jetliner was to take off from Fiumicino Airport.

Catholic Council Adjourns

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Participation of the Roman Catholic episcopate in the Pope's authority is a doctrine of the church now, but only time will bring the answers to questions about its application.

The decree "De Ecclesia" (on the church), proclaimed when the Vatican ecumenical council recessed for the fourth time, spelled out supreme and full power over the universal church" along with the Pope and never without him.

The next council session which Pope Paul said Saturday would be the last, will complete work on a draft about pastoral duties of bishops. It also will finish work on the schema on the church in the modern world, a draft that included many attitudes on birth control and nuclear arms.

It will also complete action on a declaration of religious liberty and a declaration saying Jews cannot be blamed for the Crucifixion.

Confederation Travelling Shows Will Depict Canada of Ice Age

OTTAWA (CP) — The sights, sounds and scents of the Canada 80,000,000 years ago are going to be recreated for some 500,000 Canadians in witness in 1967, the Confederation centennial year.

Plans are to see the features of the Confederation train and highway caravans which are to tour Canada in 1967, depicting the history, development and modern progress of the country. The schedule brings the train and caravans into virtually every community of any size in the country.

The first outline of the train and caravan display is to be given this week to delegates to the 60-member national conference on the centennial, meeting in Toronto.

The six display cars making up the train, with 540 feet of displays along the walls, will depict the geological origins and explorations of Canada, the settlement and pre-Confederation period of Confederation, media achievements of the last 100 years, the Canadian way of life the future, and Canada's place in the world.

The train line for the train display, condensed also in the six truck-trailer caravans, was drafted by Blair Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's Magazine, and Laurier Lapierre, McGill University history professor. It was then developed by artists and authorities in the most advanced techniques of display.

Not forgotten, for instance, is a prospector who struck it rich in the Yukon and promised his wife on her deathbed he would get her body back "home" to eastern Ontario. He buried her and exhumed her three times before she finally was put to rest at Summerstown, eight miles east of Cornwall.

Only Four Aldermen Have Signified Intention to Run

SEED JUDGING RESULTS AT THE ROYAL WINTER FAIR

As a matter of interest to local farmers as well as urbanites, we are printing here the results of local entries in the Royal Winter Fair Seed and Grain Show.

This is a world-wide competition including a large number of entries from the U.S.A., some from Europe and the keenest of all from Great Britain.

The success of these locally grown and locally prepared samples is an indication that the Quinte District is a prime production area for forage seeds. It is also, we might add, a tribute to the processing capabilities of Bishop Seeds Ltd. who are joint exhibitors with the growers.

In most cases show samples are selected by Bishops from seed lots purchased in the normal course of harvest accumulation. After contacting the grower for permission to enter his sample, these lots are taken in hand by mill foreman Hans Wien for processing over several specialized separating machines to remove impurities and eliminate all small or imperfect seeds. Each sample is finally hand-picked to bring it as near to a state of perfection as possible.

Over the past few years Bishops have taken a keen interest in Royal Winter Fair competition and have enjoyed numerous successes including world championships in Birdsfoot Trefoil and also in Alfalfa seed. This year's list of placings follows:

BIRDSFOOT TREFOIL

Col. Campbell—Bath, Ont.: First in Trefoils and Reserve Champion in small seeded legumes.

D. MacDonald, Wolfe Island: Second in Trefoils.

ALFALFA

H. Hagerman, Stirling: First in Alfalfas.

Reg. Barber, R. R. 7, Belleville: Second in Alfalfas.

RED CLOVER

Reg. Barber, R. R. 7, Belleville: Sixth in Red Clovers.

OATS

H. Gorsline, Demorestville: Second in Oats.

Municipal nominations are only two days away but so far there is little outward indication of any keen interest in the December 7th election.

Only four of the seven aldermen, whose two-year terms are up this year, have definitely stated they will offer themselves for re-election. Two others have adopted a "wait and see" attitude and say they will make up their minds at nomination, while the seventh man says he will not stand.

And so far the name of only one man outside of the present council has been mentioned as a possible candidate — and he wants to remain anonymous until nomination day.

Aldermen who say they will run again are Jack Deacon, Enos David, Jack Allin and George Brown. Indefinite are Aldermen George Wishart and Eugene Harrison, while Frank Murray says he will not run.

To be elected are seven aldermen, a public utilities commissioner, and seven school trustees for the public and separate high school boards.

There will be no election for the office of mayor this year, but voters will be asked to decide on three referendums.

These are: Beautification of city water supplies; reduction of council to ten members, and the return of city parks to city hall administration.

Council May Increase Pay For Aldermen

City council will meet in regular session this afternoon and included on the agenda is a recommendation which could result in considerable discussion.

The finance and executive committee will bring in a recommendation to have aldermen's remuneration increased from the present $700 to $1,000 per year.

Aldermen's pay in Belleville for many years stood at $600 per year. Then a few years ago it was raised to $700.

But there is a feeling on the part of several members of council that at $700 many good men cannot afford to take the time from their business to run for public office.

WILL RUN AGAIN

TORONTO (CP)—Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said Sunday he will seek to represent the Liberals again in Toronto Eglinton in the next federal election, but said reports that an election is imminent are pure speculation. Mr. Sharp said he had been asked by a number of persons to seek a candidacy in Western Canada—where the Liberals have only three members — but had decided against it.

MISS EDITH A. BURKE

RAWDON — Word has been received this week of the death of Miss Edith A. Burke, missionary of the Free Methodist Church in the city of Kharagpur, India. Miss Burke died just eleven days before her 83rd birthday.

Miss Burke was the daughter of the late Van-Buren Burke, and his wife, Mary Watson, of Moira. She was educated at Moira and Fuller public schools, Campbellford high school, and Albert Model School. She taught public school at Fuller for a few years and while still a young woman she chose missionary work as her vocation and attended a Mission Training School in New York City. Later she was appointed by the Standard Church to serve in Egypt.

Her next appointment was to a mission in China and she was in that country at the time of the Boxer Rebellion. This was followed by a lengthy period of service in Egypt. Her one desire was to serve in the Sudan, but until 1930 the necessary visas were closed to women missionaries. She came home to this area on furlough in 1930, but owing to her desire to retirement age her church refused to sponsor her return.

At the age of sixty she made her own arrangements to carry on mission work in the Sudan and travelled then at her own expense. Until approximately three years ago she held church services, conducted Sunday school classes, held week by prayer meetings and made twenty-five visits to various homes each week.

Despite her years she kept active in mission work until a week previous to her death, which occurred after a brief illness in the Mission Hospital in the city Omdurmah.

The funeral was held in the Church of the Evangelical Christians in the city of Khartoum and was largely attended by a congregation of several nationalities, Americans, Egyptians and Sudanese, with whom she had labored for many years.

Several ministers had a part in the service and paid tribute to her work. At the end an Egyptian Coptic official prayed in memory of her years, thanking God for the life of Miss Burke, who was in their village, Akbara on upper Egypt, when he was a boy and had led him to Christ.

At her request the interment was made in the nearby British cemetery.

She was the last of her family and was predeceased by a brother, Walter Burke of New York and a sister, Addie (Mrs. Harvey Wallace) Oshawa.

She is survived by one first cousin, Mrs. Frank Hutchinson, Stirling R.R. 3, and other cousins, among them Mrs. Jack Baxter, Frankford; Mrs. Arthur Brown, Thomasburg; and Mr. Frank Brough, Foxboro.

Cheese Judging Opens For Empire Dairy Show

Judging of 180 cheese exhibited by 23 different cheesemakers commenced this morning as preparations continued for the 37th annual British Empire Dairy Show to be held in Belleville on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

The judging display at 363 Front street was all in place this morning as district dairy fieldman Tom Heath of Stirling and his committee continued setting up of decorations and displays marking the centennial of cheese making in Ontario.

Judges for the cheese show are Jack M. Bain, Charles Gil lan, Frank Robinson and J. G. MacMillan. Judging of the many entries will be completed on Tuesday in time for official opening of the show Wednesday morning. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Of special interest at the cheese show this year will be old-time cheese making equipment in use 100 years ago when the industry started in this area.

The Ontario Dairy Princess recently returned from a trip to the United Kingdom, also will be in attendance at the show.

The big cheese show is sponsored by Central Ontario cheesemakers who annu ally hold their convention in conjunction with the display.

The convention and dairy show will be concluded Thursday evening with a banquet and dance at the Club Canara.

Bank

financial world because bank rate changes are normally announced on a Thursday.

Internally, the net effect of the increase in bank rate will be to check spending at home.

Externally, it will serve to deter businessmen from buying abroad, since most of this business is done by loans.

The bank rate is technically the minimum rate at which the Bank of England, the government's banker, will discount approved bills of exchange. In practice, it also decides all other borrowing rates.

At the same time, increased rates of interest tend to attract foreign investors to the British money market. In this way, a high bank rate has in the past helped strengthen the pound in the international money market.

SEE NEW CLASH

Political observers said today's action was likely to serve as a focus for a new clash between Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor administration and Sir Alec Douglas-Home's opposition Conservative party about the state of the national economy.

The government has argued that all its measures since it took power after the general election Oct. 15 have been aimed at "clearing up the Conservative economic mess."

Basic cause of the financial difficulties is that Britain is spending more abroad than she is selling and the deficit is growing.

The government has said the deficit may reach £800,000,000 ($2,400,000,000) this year.

First danger sign of the weakness of sterling came Friday when the pound declined to $2.7815, the lowest level in eight years and the floor at which the Bank of England must step in and buy to prevent the pound going lower.

Quints Are Born In Paris

BULLETIN

PARIS (AP) — Quintuplets — three boys and two girls—were born today to Mme. Monique Sandor at a clinic in suburban Asnieres. The children were reported to be in good health.

Mme. Sandor, 27, delivered the quintuplets during a two-hour period this afternoon with the aid of two physicians.

The Sandors already were the parents of two children — four and six years of age.

The father is a postman in Asnieres.

The children were born prematurely and placed in an incubator. Hospital attendants said they probably would need incubator care for at least a month.

The manager of the clinic said Mme. Sandor had been delivered of five babies during a two-hour period.

Attendants at the Bourguignon Clinic—a small, modern clinic in suburban Paris which specializes in maternity cases—said the quints were in generally good condition.

FOUR ARE EXCELLENT

One attendant said "four are in excellent condition, but the fifth was not as lively."

Officials at the clinic said the quints were transferred to the Paris Centre de Puericulture where presumably facilities were more extensive for the care of the infants.

There was great activity at the clinic where the babies were born and reporters were not immediately able to locate the father, Raymond Sandor.

you can reach Stanleyville from Lobutu in four or five hours driving," a military source in Leopoldville said.

Rebel Foreign Minister Thomas Kanza arrived in Nairobi, Sunday with talks with Kenya Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta on the fate of 1,000 white hostages including 31 Canadians in a rebel territory. They also include 60 Americans and more than 600 Belgians.

The U.S. ambassador to Kenya, William Attwood, met with Kanza and Kenyatta this morning.

Attwood said Kanza had made proposals that had to be referred to the U.S. government. The talks were to be resumed when the U.S. government's reply was received.

Attwood said Kanza assured him Carlson still was alive.

The 36 - year - old missionary from Rolling Hills, Calif., was sentenced to die last Monday on spy charges, but rebel leader Christophe Gbenye postponed execution for one week pending negotiations.

Could Improve Words of Anthem Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Sunday night he thinks the words to the English version of O Canada "would be improved and would add to the impressiveness of the anthem."

Mr. Pearson, asked by television interviewer Pierre Berton whether he will place words before Parliament, said he would be in trouble with the Commons "if I told you what the words would be now. . . .

"All I will say is that I think the present words in English could be improved and would add to the impressiveness of the anthem," he said.

He said the phrase "We stand on guard" is rejected five times in two lines.

MORE IMPRESSIVE

The prime minister said he thought the words for the French version more impressive.

However, asked whether he thought the government would have as much difficulty with designating O Canada as the national anthem as it has had with the flag issue, Mr. Pearson said:

"No, I think basically the words are all right, and I am not suggesting we run the chance at all, but if I had a free hand and I were not the prime minister I would think I would like to do my own verse, but perhaps I had better not get into any more trouble."

The prime minister also said the government resolution naming the national anthem should prove "less contentious than the flag issue because O Canada seemed to be generally accepted now, at least unofficially."

VON Campaign For Funds Short of Target

TRENTON — The recent Victorian Order of Nurses' campaign for funds has fallen short of the target mark of $2,600 by about $700. However, president George Greer and Hugh Weaver have yet to make a follow up on a letter campaign of businessmen and it is hoped the total will come up to the needed sum.

At last week's VON monthly meeting, it was decided to hold the combined annual meeting of the VON and the Trenton and District Cancer Society in Frankford in January. Frankford has recently been added to the area served by Trenton and district VON nurses.

VON nurse-in-charge Mary Margaret Gillies reported she had made 129 visits during October, 71 of those nursing care. The pre-school clinics have been well attended this year and ten women were enrolled in the prenatal clinic in October.

Santa Arrives by Copter To Delight of Children

TRENTON — Santa Claus arrived by helicopter in Trenton Saturday morning and greeted several thousands of his widespread fans along the parade staged by the Trenton Chamber of Commerce to honor him.

Parade organizer was Nostbrand Sprague; parade marshal, Capt. Stanley Down, and the judges, Group Captain C. R. Thompson of No. 6 Repair Depot, Wing Commander J. A. Arnott of RCAF Station Trenton, George F. Kempf, president of the chamber, Fire Chief Cecil Ellis and Douglas Whitley judged each of the 37 entries out of a possible ten points, then totalled the points.

First prize for floats went to the Belleville Elks' Club entry; second to the Trenton Kay Club's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs", and third to "The Land of the Sugar Plum Tree", entered by the Eastern Ontario Theatre Company.

Crawford McCreath's Quinte Pipe Band got first for bands, (senior) and the trumpet band of RCSCC Skeena, Port Hope first for juniors.

An entry, seen by few, was a traditionally walking mule, whose job was to haul a two-wheeled gig. The mule stood his ground, and didn't get off the ground, in spite of carrot lures, haulings from in front and pushings from behind. One of his attendants even tried to get him underway by literally "lighting a fire under him". When four men, strong and true, had lifted the mule and his rig around with the rear facing the parade, Mr. Mule took off in a cloud of dust and hasn't been seen since.

What's your stand on life insurance as an investment?

Miss Pepper
Investment? I thought you bought life insurance in case something went wrong.

Interviewer
You do. But it's not just protection.

Miss Pepper
If it isn't, what is it then?

Interviewer
An investment, too. Your Mutual Life policy can give you insurance protection until retirement age. Then the same policy can be used to provide a monthly income for as long as you live.

Miss Pepper
So it really is an investment. Funny, I had never thought about insurance that way. Where can I find out more about it?

Will Study Water Diversion

Hon. Arthur Laing, federal Minister of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources, wants to "press forward" with a study of the feasibility of diverting waters into the Great Lakes.

We presume this study would include, but would not necessarily be limited to, the ambitious "Grand Canal" proposal, which envisions formation of an artificial fresh-water lake just south of James Bay in Quebec, and the draining of this lake southward through Quebec and Ontario into Lake Huron or Georgian Bay.

There have been, of course, other proposals from time to time which would involve less extensive work, turning Arctic-flowing rivers southward some distances from their mouths.

Mr. Laing cannot be faulted for his desire to have qualified engineers study such plans. Indeed, if existing conditions in the Great Lakes continue, he would find himself severely criticized, a few years hence, if no preliminary work had been done in preparation for such diversion schemes.

At the same time it is desirable that the general public, as well as the experts, view the problem in the proper perspective.

We do not believe there is any convincing evidence that existing conditions in The Great Lakes are permanent. That the low water level at present is not merely a nuisance, but an economic handicap is freely granted. But have we any real reason to believe these conditions will not remedy themselves within a few years? Those who have lived anywhere along the shores of the Great Lakes for several decades can remember other periods of low water—and can remember, too, how the trend was reversed and steadily rising water did considerable damage to docks, land reclamation projects and other shoreline improvement undertaken in the belief that the low water level was permanent.

If there had been a heavy addition to The Lakes' normal inflow, damage could have been tremendous. Thus any scheme for diverting northward-flowing river sinto The Lakes would have to have a system of control dams, by means of which the rivers could be routed into the Arctic again if a period of high water returned to The Great Lakes. This could probably be provided without any great addition to the cost of the scheme.

In weighing the costs against the benefits though, we ought to remember that these benefits will probably accrue in only some of the years. In other years not only might the diversion of water not be helpful—it might actually be harmful.

Hoover Out of Line

The doctrine of the divine right of kings is not compatible with a belief in republicanism, but the human need to believe in the infallibility of those chosen to keep watch over us and our safety is so universal that even the most ardent republicans often seek a substitute.

In the United States the mantle of infallibility has for years been draped over J. Edgar Hoover, the director of the FBI.

In Hoover's infinite wisdom and flawless efficiency, all red-blood loyal Americans have long believed.

This probably did less harm than one might have expected. The American people seem to have managed to combine this implicit faith in Hoover with that high degree of scepticism regarding political parties and programs which is essential if a country is to be governed with even reasonable efficiency and concern for justice.

Unfortunately, there are now signs that Mr Hoover has proven more susceptible to the insidious results of the doctrine of infallibility than have the American people.

He seems to have reached the point where he believes his own publicity.

In an interview with a group of women reporters he criticized Mr. Warren commission which investigated the assassination of President Kennedy as "unjust and unfair," denounced "bleeding heart" judges and called Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. "the most notorious liar in the country."

Even if he were right on all three counts, he had no right to say these things without first resigning.

When a police chief starts attacking the findings of a body headed by the Chief Justice, when he undertakes to tell judges what verdicts they should render, when he publicly blackens the character of a man who represents a large segment of the people, it is time to get rid of him. He is no longer acting like a servant of the public.

One of the worst train wrecks in India's history occurred eight years ago today — in 1956 — when a train plunged into a river 170 miles south of Madras. More than 140 lives were lost. Rescue teams worked for days to retrieve bodies from the submerged carriages and along the river bed.

Fog's Clearing . . . All Engines Full Ahead!"

Government Weakest Yet

Quebec L'Actieu

The parliamentary session at Ottawa is heading all records for length. It is also beating all records for impotence. Because of this, the repeated evasions the Commons is paralysed. . .

The invasion of our era, the complexity of situations and the flood of problems require strong governments that know where they are going. For months and months, Canada has had the weakest government since Confederation.

"We must adapt or perish," Prime Minister Pearson said in speaking of relations that must be created within a new federalism. But this present task is largely compromised at the start by the lethargy of Parliament and by the hesitations of the government.

This is the case of the nation flag. Discussions ended and the name would have known how to cut across the debate and would have rallied Canadians around a symbol of their unity, despite initial differences of opinion However, the debate has rotted away in the Commons.

What is most surprising is that the paralysis gripping Parliament on the flag question is. on the whole, the work of one man. When an organ of govern ment becomes, atrophied to the stubbornness and bad faith of a single person it shows its in capacity to adapt itself to the needs of the times. The words at Mr. Pearson, "adapt or perish," do not only apply to constitutional structures. They apply equally to the mechanism of democracy. . .

Canadians have had enough of this state of affairs in Ottawa.

How do we get out of this blind—alley? By general election, if necessary. No election campaign, no matter how hard it might be, could have any more serious consequences than the disbonor that has fallen on Parliament.

Integrate Two Cultures

Bowdoin Herald

Bowdoin College has embarked upon a novel senior centre program that will be watched with interest.

The idea is to provide an integrated social learning environment and thus return to the concept that liberal education includes both arts and sciences, and that the two cannot be divorced.

It is a move designed to reduce the conflict between the "two cultures" — the sciences on the one hand and the humanities on the other.

In establishing its senior centre program, Bowdoin has earned the praise of those who believe liberal arts colleges should produce literate men, whatever their academic specialty may be.

To Your Good Health
One in Four Women Have Cystic Breast Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am concerned about swelling and soreness of the breast. Do you think I am foolish in wanting to have X-rays to determine whether it is cancer? The doctor found no lump. I am 45 years old and had one breast removed several years ago because of cysts. — Mrs. A. M. M.

In these days of cancer-consciousness, I cannot blame women for being alarmed. I certainly will not say you are "foolish" about it. However, you may be unduly frightened.

About one woman in four has what is called cystic disease of the breast, to some degree. This is not truly a disease at all. Rather, some of the countless small glands of the breast can become closed and hence form cysts. Many women never notice this.

But the cysts can sometimes produce soreness. This usually is in the outer areas of the breast tissue. It is more common in the age bracket of the late 30's and 40's, and usually decreases a few years later with menopause. The tenderness also comes and goes, depending on the phase of the menstrual cycle — more sore just before a period.

The fact that your doctor found no lump is extremely significant. A cystic breast may often have areas of firmness which can be mistaken for a "lump" unless you know what to look for.

Cancerous lumps are usually distinct, and not painful. They are firm rather than cystic or fluid-filled.

Where no lump has been found, I see no reason for X-ray. Examination every six to 12 months should be adequate precaution (and, of course, a pelvic examination and "Pap" smear" to guard against trouble in that area).

Mammography (X-ray of the breasts) is an excellent method when it's necessary. Recent figures show it to be accurate in 92 percent of instances defining malignant (cancerous) lumps, and 88 percent in defining benign (noncancerous) lumps.

A distinct lump (as opposed to cysts) should be X-rayed or removed for biopsy. (That does not mean removal of the entire breast; just the lump.)

Cysts, in severe cases, can be painful indeed, and sometimes removal may be necessary for that reason.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain lingual tonsils, cause and treatment. — Mrs. H.

Lingual tonsils are perfectly natural. Anybody can have them. It is only if they cause some trouble that anything need be done.

There is a ring of tonsil tissue at the opening of the throat. On the two sides are the tonsils with which we are most familiar. High behind the nose are the adenoids — although actually, these are "tonsils," too. At the base of the tongue, on either side, are smaller clumps of tissue called lingual tonsils or "tongue tonsils."

Unless they become infected, or unduly enlarged, they should be left alone. They do not cause the trouble encountered with the other tonsil groups.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is emery dust harmful? If so, what conditions can it cause? — T.P.A.

If you mean that there is something special about emery dust, and it alone will be harmful, the answer is no. If you mean continuing breathing of that (or other kinds of hard particles), the answer is yes. Such particles can settle in the lungs and contribute to bronchial disorder.

Motorists Need Helmets

Watertown Times

Helmets and other types of protective headgear have been in use many years now, chiefly in the fields of heavy construction and contact or "high speed" sports. Now a movement is in progress to provide equipment of a similar type for the motoring public. And why not?

Workmen engaged in heavy construction, where there is a danger from falling or flying objects, are equipped with the familiar "Hard hats," in the world of sports, protective devices for the head are gaining widespread support. Bobsledders for example, have worn helmets almost since the day the sport was invented. Helmets are a major item in football and polo equipment. And a few years ago it became mandatory for baseball players to don helmets while batting.

Headgear of various types is worn by some hockey players, boxers while in training, skiers and horsemen. And airplane pilots often use a type of protective cap.

Why this emphasis on head gear in sports? First, there has been an increase in participants in some types of sports, creating congestion. And congestion often breeds accidents. Second the speed of play has increased.

But what about automobiles? Certainly their speed has increased—and so has their number on the highways.

Dr. Harold P. Fenner, jr. of the University of New Mexico says helmets made of fibreglass shell offer vastly superior protection to a football player, race driver and others.

And Dr. John E. States, an orthopedic surgeon and professor at the University of Rochester, says the federal government should require that new cars be equipped with safety devices such as shoulder harnesses, elevated headrests, and padded dashboards.

Who would have prediicted, ten or so years ago, that we would soon be wearing seat belts in our cars?

Therefore it is not unrealistic to foresee the day when we will don fibreglass helmets. Automobile race drivers wear them when top racing speed was 70 miles an hour — and private autos were chugging along at 25-30.

Racers have more than a doubled their speed and continue to use helmets. Private cars have more than doubled their speed—but still motorists go unprotected.

Speak Up, Man

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Party unity and party harmony can be carried to extremes. Independent thinking is necessary within every party in a democratic system. If more backbenchers would vote and speak accordingly to the dictates of their consciences and not according to the dictates of party whips, how much freshen the air would be in the hoary halls of Parliament.

With seasonal farm work beginning to be caught up for another year, many younger farm workers in the Bay of Quinte district and in the north part of Hastings county are being placed in lumber and pulp wood camps for winter employment, according to the local selective service here.

Such workers accepting employment for the winter months are given permits to work outside their agricultural pursuits until March 30th when they are expected to again return to the farm. Approximately 20 young farmers in Hastings have already been given permits to work in camps for the winter months, it was stated.

Will Not Make Parks Modern

Guelph Mercury

"The parks are for people who want to get away from every day life", observes Frank McDougall in denying that the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests may allow liquor outlets and install coin-metered radio channels in the provincial parks. The odd bum fills whose hobby is making violins is more than right. The statistics support him: More than one million people visited the parks last season and 800,000 camped in them.

Three new parks to be opened next year are all in Southern Ontario, as are three of five more on which work will begin for opening later than 1965. But with the remaining three in the North, Maximum provision should be made within easy range of the bulk of Ontario's population. That policy should also appeal to tourists from other provinces and the U.S., not all of whom relish having to drive the many extra miles needed to reach the northern parks.

Strictly Personal
Person's Point of Stress Varies

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was driving to the airport during rush-hour traffic the other day, and even though I had plenty of time to catch my plane, I found myself scooting along faster and more tensely than any reason called for.

It reminded me of a recent study in California, wherein several hundred men who are subjected to intense pressures in their work were asked to log their activities against a "pulse-counting device."

One of the men, a newspaper editor, found to his surprise that his pulse rate was not fastest when he was coping with some emergency at the office: in fact it didn't reach its peak at all during working hours. His pulse showed the most stress when he was driving to and from work on the freeway.

The "stress concept," originated by Dr. Hans Selye a few years ago, has still been only slightly explored by the medical profession. In reading Dr Selye's book, "The Stress of Life", I was persuaded that this general concept may be a valuable and rewarding way of looking at human behavior and trying to control those elements that foul us up.

It has also given us a new approach to disease. Formerly it was thought that each specific illness had a specific cause; today has determined that this stress may "cause" a dozen different illnesses.

As yet, we don't really know what are the most "stressful" conditions for the human organism. The research in California (and elsewhere) indicates, however, that stress is not merely hard work, or even work in an emergency, or exerting one's personality. Even a marathon runner does in that last sprint toward the tape.

Rather, it seems to be the kind of situation we find on the freeway — a fast, frantic, high competitive pattern of activity in which the individual is in most powerless to exercise an autonomy or freedom of choice. The frustration in a traffic jam is almost a classic modern example of stress, and the automobile is almost its archetypal symbol.

What is stress for the housewife and mother? I would guess it is not the cleaning and cooking and shopping and entertaining and decorating and all the other innumerable chores of running a household. The most stressful situation for her, I should imagine, is when her children who are too sick to go to school and not sick enough to be put to bed. There is absolutely nothing she can do about that.

The real frontier in medicine is exploring the relationship between the body and the mind: the emotions and the glands the environment and the personality. The concept of stress may prove the most fruitful means of reconciling the mind-doctors and the body-doctors.

Outfoxing Burglars

Hamilton Spectator

Lately we have been coming across news stories about burglars who not only steal valuables from homes but who drink their unsuspecting host's liquor. It seems to us that there is a valuable lesson in this trick strategy to be learned from this.

Assuming that most burglars are inordinately fond of drinking, the strategy that would trip them in their tracks would consist of these following easy steps:

(1) Have beer or hard liquor available in a prominent spot near every conceivable point of entry to your home.

(2) Place your most expensive liquor on display near where you have valuables.

(3) Leave your kitchen lights on when you leave for the burglar to find ice, glasses and mixers.

The strategy should work. If the burglar hasn't drunk himself into insensibility by the time he leaves the house, he will pass into unconsciousness on the street and be picked up there by the police. If the public employs this strategy religiously in the future, only a tasteteiling burglar will be able to get away with a thing.

There's only one drawback to this strategy and that is the under-21 burglar. If he gets potted among your valuables, you could get arrested for serving liquor to a minor.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Speculators were back into the stock market today, bidding for shares of companies in the Timmins area. This time nickel is the attraction; last time, about three months ago, it was copper.

McWatters led the popularity polls, trading more than 1,000,000 shares and climbing 37 cents to 19.90 in 30 minutes after its opening was delayed for almost an hour while exchange officials tried to match buy and sell orders.

McWatters started its move last week when it climbed sharply from 31½ cents to a high of $1.38 on rumors—subsequently acknowled as fact—that the company had made favorable findings on its property in Langmuir township near Timmins.

The company said after the market closed Friday it encountered mineralization in its drill core from the 145- to 440-foot levels with the first 135 feet showing 1.11 per cent nickel.

Rumors today held that the next 80 feet showed about two per cent nickel.

Other active traders—volume on the TSE in the first hour was 3,427,000, shares, the best first hour's volume since July 18—were Urban Quebec, up 11 at 27 cents; Quebec Manitou, up 14½ at 37 cents; Paramaque, up three at 21 cents; Norlex, up 5½ at 25 cents.

Meanwhile, industrials took a minor loss on index as papers continued to move lower. Price Brothers and Great Lakes dipped 1 each to 42 and 25½ respectively.

In base metals, Falconbridge and Hudson Bay were down ½ each at 58½ and 72.

On index, industrials lost .46 to 168.07, base metals .19 to 72.77, western oils .25 to 96.75 and the exchange index .41 to 157.01. Golds were ahead 1.27 to 132.03. Volume at 11 a.m. was 3,427,000 shares compared with 1,615,000 shares traded at the same time Friday.

TWA said the plane hit a truck used for laying tar. The truck was rolled over.

TWA said its employees aboard the plane were making vacation trips or were on their way to stations of service. Nineteen of these boarded the plane at Rome.

ARE BLOWN AWAY

Most of the survivors were blown free of the plane and, though critically injured, were saved from the worst of the flames.

"It's the worst accident we ever had here," one said.

HEARS BLAST

An employee working in an office less than 200 yards from the plane said: "I rushed to the window as soon as I heard the blast. All I could see was flames.

"The explosion was like a bomb. Flames were shooting skyward. There was a great cloud of dense smoke.

"The plane poised for a moment with its tail high in the air, then it fell flat and explosions continued to blast the plane to pieces."

It was the first major accident at Fiumicino since it opened in 1960.

to me that the Viet Cong could ever militarily defeat the armed forces of South Viet Nam," Westmoreland said.

Saigon was hit Sunday by its most serious anti - government riot since premier Tran Van Huong took power 3½ weeks ago. Huong ordered police and paratroopers to use tear gas to disperse a crowd of 1,000 Buddhists on the government palace.

An earlier Buddhist demonstration in which a score of persons were injured and 46 were arrested touched off the palace march. Police swung clubs and kicked with heavy boots to scatter the dissidents calling for Hoang's resignation. The Buddhists claimed four persons were killed but the government denied this.

Paratroopers arrived in battle dress after the Buddhists reassembled for the palace march. They lobbed tear gas grenades and drove the demonstrators off with bayonets.

Some observers feared the police action could lead to Buddhist reaction of the kind that resulted in the overthrow of president Ngo Dinh Diem last November.

Huong had warned that the government would use force if necessary to put down demonstrations. Opponents charge Huong's cabinet is composed of technicians rather than politicians and that some of its members served under Diem.

Police reported that 173 persons were arrested during the demonstrations Sunday, but 158 were released. The others, all students, will be drafted, the sources said.

Formal Year of Mourning Ends for Mrs. Kennedy But Little Change in Life

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—It is a year since President John F. Kennedy died at the hands of an assassin and for his widow memory is often not quick enough to dim the past.

But there is the future and there are other things:

A walk with daughter Caroline to school . . . boating with son John in Central Park . . . a weekend on Long Islano . . . a quiet dinner with friends off Fifth Avenue . . . the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

"I don't think there is any consolation. What was lost can not be replaced," she wrote recently for Look magazine.

. . . Now I think that I should have known that he was magic all along. I did know it —but I should have guessed it could not last. I should have known that it was asking too much to dream that I might have grown old with him and see our children grow up together.

The formal year of mourning ends, but friends do not expect Mrs. Kennedy immediately to take up an active social life or make enumerous public appearances.

"There will be no sudden change," says Pamela Turnure her press secretary at the White House who now has an office in New York handling the mail that still floods in at the rate of 800 letters a day. "She is involved in getting settled and she values her time with her children. What she does will depend on how she feels later on."

One of her first public appearances will be in Los Angeles Dec. 2, when Mrs. Kennedy will be guest of honor at a fund-raising dinner for the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. The $30 000,000 development will contain a John F.tgerald Kennedy pavilion.

ESCAPED TOURISTS

At present Mrs. Kennedy's attempt at private life is succeeding quite well in New York as it did not succeed in Washington. There the narrow street outside her home in the Georgetown section was congested with tourists and curious.

The throngs were too much, and Mrs. Kennedy announced in July 6 she would move to New York in the fall.

When she moved her children to New York in September, sightseeing guides were asked not to call attention to her new home. City license commissioner Bruno C. DiGaetano said "the wife of the late president is entitled to the full dignity she deserves."

At first she lived at the Carlyle Hotel where she had stayed in happier times. Few people seemed to recognize the slender, dark Mrs. Kennedy as she took the children boating or on the merry-go-round in Central Park.

Only once, when she visited the campaign headquarters of Robert F. Kennedy, who won a New York Senate seat in the Nov. 3 election, was she almost knocked off her feet by enthusiastic crowds.

In early fall the 35-year-old widow and her children moved into a 15-room apartment on the top floor of a gray, granite 14-storey building at 1040 Fifth Avenue. The apartment cost about $200,000, with annual maintenance charges running about $14,000.

It has five bedrooms and overlooks a bridle path and the reservoir in Central Park. The furnishings were brought from the Washington home.

SISTER NEARBY

Her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, lives only a few blocks away and it's a short hop by cab to the occasional apartment of the Joseph Kennedys, the president's parents. Six blocks up Fifth Avenue is Caroline's school, the Convent of the Sacred Heart. Caroline who is in Grade II, often is accompanied by her eight-year-old cousin, Sydney Lawford, also enrolled at the school.

Mrs. Kennedy's fellow tenants wrote notes of welcome when she moved in; some sent flowers. Many are in the social register.

On weekends Mrs. Kennedy takes Caroline and John to a stone house on the former J. P. Morgan II estate in Gre: Cove on Long Island Sound, which she purchased a few months ago. The Robert Kennedys live a five-minute drive away.

For the present, apparently, Mrs. Kennedy will continue to live in New York. She probably will travel some, as she has in the last year, but she will not live abroad. She once settled that with the statement: "I'm never going to live in Europe. I'm going to live in the place I lived with Jack."

NO SOCIAL AFFAIRS

She skied in New England last winter with a family group, and later went to the Caribbean. She dines out occasionally in New York, but there have been no social affairs to home, though she is a charming hostess.

There are, of course, the visits to Arlington National Cemetery, and the library to her husband's memory.

Mrs. Kennedy has been called "the spiritual executrix of her husband's historical legacy." She spent months assembling an exhibit of his memories which toured the U.S. and now is in Europe to raise funds for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard.

"I just hope that everyone who visits the exhibit will come away feeling that now they know him a little better," she wrote at the time, "He changed our world and I hope people will remember him all their lives."

Improving Public Relations Through Home and School Association

(By H. R. FRINK)

Ed. Note: Mr. H. R. Frink, B.Ed., Principal of Queen Victoria School, Belleville, prepared the following assignment as part of his work toward the Master of Education degree with the University of Toronto. Although it is directed towards fellow-teachers, the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations has made use of it, and it is pertinent to every parent of a school or pre-school child.

The need for improved public relations between education and the taxpayers who support it is a recurring theme in the educator's literature. Speakers at educational conferences stress the urgent necessity for better communication between the school and its community, and emphasize that this communication is not a one-way street. Busy superintendents take time out from their other duties to draft plans for public relations programs which, they devoutly hope, will be willingly and whole-heartedly implemented by their subordinates. What is the reason for this flood tide of concern over public opinion?

CAN'T HELP MY CHILD

The main reason is the lack of understanding by the public of the great changes in public education forced upon the schools by the developments of the present century. Although John Citizen is reasonably aware of the changes in his own life patterns, he has failed to realize that these changes dictate changes in the education of his children. When the school program of earlier years was simply a repeat performance of that which the parent had undergone, adults knew what was going on in the schools, understood it, and accepted it. Today "... this very correlation of the individualized task tends to isolate it from the life of the community of which it is a part and upon which it depends for its very existence." Perhaps the most common remarks made by parents to teachers today is: "School seems so different nowadays from when I went to school that I can't help my child at home any more."

MET WITH HOSTILITY

It is all the more unfortunate that this lack of understanding should develop at a time when the public is willing, faced with rapid expansion and its attendant higher cost. To an uninformed public, the increased demand for a system which is incomprehensible are likely to be met with hostility. As Dr. Hutchinson, Director of Information and Publications, Seattle Public Schools, said: "The mood of the taxpayer, buoyed up by obvious educational needs in the early 50's and bolstered by Sputnik in 1957, is rapidly changing to a 'hold-the-line' attitude against any tax for any purpose." Although he was referring to a situation in the United States, the same attitude is plentifully in evidence in Canada.

Andrew Stewart has suggested that if the schools are to get a larger share of the tax dollar, they can do so only by changing the attitudes of the public towards the importance of education. To change these attitudes, it is necessary that the school to a large degree is informing the public of their aims, their methods, and their needs. It is also necessary that the public be given a share in the formulation of these aims, through more indirect process. It should not be forgotten that a good public relations program will enable educators about what the public is thinking, and what they expect do to win support. Communication involves traffic in more than one direction.

FRONT LINE

Although, as Harral and others have pointed out, public relations programs must start at the top it is in the school itself that the best and most effective public relations work can be done. The principal, the teacher and the pupil can do more to interpret the work of the school to the grass-roots level than can any other agent.

"Here," says Harral, "is the front line of public relations." For this reason, this article will concentrate on public relations within the individual school, and indeed, on but one of the avenues which the school has open to it — its Home and School (or Parent-Teacher) Association. "The Home and School Association," says Pilkington, "is tailor-made to assist the school in its communication to the public."

MOST VALUABLE ALLY

"Of all community organizations, the Parent-Teacher Association is the most valuable ally of the Home and School Federation's By-Laws, (6) lists: "to give parents an understanding of the school and its work, and to assist in interpreting the school in all its aspects to the public." If this premise be granted, it is the duty of every principal and every teacher to take another long hard look at their attitudes to the Home and School Association with a view to making it the effective means for good public relations which it can be.

UNWARRANTED INTERFERENCE

To a few school principals and teachers the Home and School is a nuisance, a time-consuming device which adds further commitments, to an already overloaded working day; at worst, it is a group of people whose aim is unwarranted interference in the school's operation. They forget the "School" in the organization's title, and regard it a collection of parents who are habitual "joiners", "organization-happy" women who might be better occupied looking after their children at home, or else budding politicians, intent on making a reputation in the community before plunging into municipal affairs. In the face of such an attitude by teachers and principals, a Home and School Association wastes away through malnutrition, and dies an unlamented death.

A second, and larger, group of school men sees the Home and School as a body which has the administration's approval, and therefore one to which lip service must be paid. It is given grudging support, essentially when, through its fund-raising activities, it provided services or equipment which could not otherwise be denied the school. In such an atmosphere the Association may linger on for years, but really performs no useful function.

JOURNAL FOR GOOD

There is, fortunately, a growing number of school staffs who realize the great potential for good which the Home and School offers. Although they may acknowledge the support of the organization will place a greater burden on their time, they are anxious to help it succeed because they find that it helps them to do a better job. Probably the thought of a formal publicity program rarely crosses their minds. Yet the friendships they establish, the understandings they are able to create, the sense of common purpose which they achieve constitute a living, functional public relations program. Not only has an important segment of the community an awareness of, and a sympathy for, the school's needs, but, in addition the staff has a finger on the pulse of public opinion.

What is required of the staff which achieves this happy relationship with its Home and School Association? Perhaps the most important ingredient is interest. Mere interest may be carried on in dealing with parents, whether individually or collectively. A already overloaded teacher is aware of its weaknesses and mistakes and must be ready to take time to plan how they may be planned to remedy the situation. If the staff operates a good school, the close partnership with the community will spread the good news in the community; if it does not, the fact cannot be concealed behind a mask of friendliness. If faults are admitted and tackled cooperatively, they will soon be remedied, and both parents and teachers will grow in the process. Constructive criticism should always be welcomed, and, if valid, acted upon.

PARTY PERFUME

Does this hostess play a record of Love in Bloom while she fills the air with magic perfume?

Dear Susanna: An illusion of pleasant relaxation is a basic necessity for successful entertaining. Here is one of the ideas I use for creating such an atmosphere.

Just before turning on my lamps, I put a drop or two of my favorite perfume on each bulb. As the light warms it imparts a lovely fragrance to the room. — Fastidious Hostess

Now there's a suggestion that really scents me!

REALLY BIG

Dear Susanna The next time a great quantity of chopped egg sandwiches is the order of the day, use a potato masher instead of a fork. Cuts time in half and does a lovely job.

With all the extra company you may be having over the holidays, here is a reminder that a thin coat of wax on the inside of ash trays enables you to simply wipe them out with a dry cloth or paper towel after they have been used and they come up clean as a whistle.

Here are two ways I save on laundry detergent. I always buy the largest size box and transfer it into smaller containers when I get it home — and do hold it over a newspaper or a load of washing while the transferring is going on so that any spilled soap isn't wasted.

Before I open the box away, I swish it out well with hot water. There is often nearly enough suds here for a load of washing. — Mrs. J. Gourley.

You've been great, Mrs. Gourley. Just one small question. How does one really know which is the largest size? Is it the super, the mammoth, the giant, or could it be the king size?

STORY HOUR TIME—Saturday morning is story hour time at Corby Public Library. Here Mr. S. Alec Gordon relates a story to young listeners. The day marked the end of Young Canada Week.

Indian Story Wins Award

The Madame Rollet Hebert medal for the best book for children written by a Canadian in the English language goes this year to Dorothy M. Reid of Fort William, Ontario, for her Tales of Nanabozho, published by the Oxford Press.

The Sleeping Giant, a rock formation overlooking Nanakoni near Fort William, was believed by the Ojibwa Indians to be Nanabozho, their creator-magician. They told many tales about his mighty works. "Wherever you look in the woods and lakes," writes Mrs. Reid in her foreword, "there is something to remind you of Nanabozho. The marks on the trunks of the white birch trees, the flying V of the wild geese winging through the sky, even the great rocks that dot the landscape—all are part of his work. The earth itself was remade by him following the great flood."

Mrs. Reid has taken these tales which are filled with adventure, humor and fantasy, and skilfully given them point and continuity, beginning with the birth of Nanabozho and ending with the coming of the white man.

Dorothy M. Reid is the head of the Children's Department of the Fort William Public Library and for five years has conducted a weekly radio program of stories for children. She was born in Scotland and educated in Scotland and Canada.

Each year the Canadian Library Association offers two bronze medals for the best children's books produced in Canada in English and in French. The winners are decided by vote of the Canadian Association of Children's Librarians, and the medals are presented during the Canadian Library Association Conference the following June.

Girl With Responsibility Should Have Privileges

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — I am a girl of 19. I work steady and I have a good paying job. I help my mother pay the bills every month and buy the groceries.

I have a steady boy friend. We see each other once a week and on the week ends. My mother says I have to be in at 11:00 every night. I have asked her for a half-hour over but she refuses. I have only been late once or three times and only by ten or fifteen minutes. Don't you think a girl of my age should be able to stay out later than 11:00?

We sometimes go and visit relations or friends of my boy friend. We have even spent nights here at home. He is a very nice boy, Doris, and has very high principles, as I have. — NINETEEN.

• • •

DEAR NINETEEN — Yes, I do. You are carrying a substantial part of the load at home and are entitled to some privileges. When will your mother come to realize you are no longer a child?

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I would like any information you may have to give on renting an apartment in our home. It is necessary by law, to give a tenant a full month's written notice? Must a notice be given on the day the rent falls due? Is it necessary to provide washing facilities when none are in the apartment? How do you handle aliens who pretend not to understand when I try to explain something to them?

These people upset me so much I am actually ill. Is this not sufficient reason for my asking them to please move even though they have only been here a short length of time? — FORLORN HOME OWNER.

• • •

DEAR FORLORN — What does your contract say? Rent monthly? Then a month's notice is expected. Are washing facilities stipulated? Then they are expected.

If your tenants are being purposely obtuse, put what you have to say in writing. Keeping a copy. Have them sign your copy to say they have read it and understand it.

If the nature of your upset means they are in some way failing to live up to their part of the bargain, they have in effect broken it. In which case the notice period may be waived. Better seek legal advice before you really needa doctor.

• • •

To D.K.M.G.—Matriculation is required. Some air lines require bilingualism even on domestic flights. But note this: bilingualism may mean English and one other, not necessarily French. And some overseas routes, particularly in the South Pacific and over the North Pole, call for only English.

Then again, air stewardesses tripping to the Latin American countries need Spanish. Or if you'd prefer shuttling back and forth to China, better brush up on your Chinese.

Confidential to DAWG — It's not always the forward ones who get the prizes — although it may look that way. Your time will come. When he smiles, smile back. And take part in school activities involving both boys and girls.

• • •

Confidential to DESPERATE, SHERRY AND MIXED-UP SEVENTEEN — If you will write in again, enclosing your right names and addresses on stamped envelopes, I will be glad to answer your questions privately. Repeat them.

Confidential to INTERESTED — Your friend is jealous. But your friend has a right to other friends — such as you. If the jealous one gets angry, this will not start a fight unless your friend also gets angry. I'd suggest she keep her temper and have as many friends as she wants.

Women's Institutes

WELLINGTON — The November meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held on November 17th when guests from Hillier and Green Bush Institutes were present.

Mrs. Bruce Wilson, the president welcomed the members and guests and opened the meeting in the usual manner. A brief business period followed. A gift was received for the V.I. from Mrs. Flora (Granny) Bennett, a former member of the W.W.I. now residing in British Columbia. Mrs. Durant collected her 50th birthday this year. She sent two nice tea towels with W.W.I. embroidered on them and a lovely embroidered luncheon cloth which she had made.

Mrs. Evans introduced the county president, Mrs. Onderdonk whom a lovely corsage was presented by Mrs. Shuttleworth the W.W.I. for the exhibits shown at Picton Fair and asked members to think of something new for the next year. She spoke of the changes that are being made in the world today and that all must learn to think and accept these changes and that the W.I. task is to build a better world to live in.

Mrs. Wilson thanked Mrs. Onderdonk for her words of wisdom and for coming to the meeting.

ITEM PROGRAM

Mrs. R. Moore and Mrs. O. Bragg, hostesses for the evening, presented the program. The Misses Elaine Bishop and Sharon McNeil sang selections with their own guitar accompaniments. Poem of the month was read by Mrs. J. Callow. Miss Margaret Bailey and four of her dancing girls, Misses Karen Monday, Heather Monday, Robin Shumaker and Sharon Conley gave a fine exhibition of baton twirling and dancing. Misses Bishop and McNeil sang a number. Current events were given by Mrs. R. Wood.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Sam Tripp introduced Mr. Art Dumore of Malawa, who gave an interesting talk on public relations. He said that the secret of humor is the cheapest and best tonic in the world and that the most important quality is the quality of appreciation. The greatest effect of public relations is team work and in that, we get what we give. In concluding his fine talk, he said that all should be thankful for whatever they have and recited, Edgar Guest's poem, "He Little Knew the Sad Years".

Mrs. J. Callow thanked Mr. Dumore on behalf of all present.

The next meeting will be the annual Christmas family night with pot-luck supper and exchange of gifts.

Main Course Meat Pie

By MARY MOORE

Over the weekend just past I made nine different items but the one I am most enthused over must be put down on paper first.

It is a main course meat pie like my mother used to make. My brother and sisters were coming to dinner and I wanted to stir their fond memories of home. This pie did.

A great deal was followed-did Mother serve her mixed mustard pickles or chili sauce with it? Did she use ground raw or cooked meat? My sister-in-law Wyn changed the subject by noting that this pie would be a dandy item for a Christmas buffet table — and change from "dips" and "nibbles" — and mercifully economical.

And the flavor? All you needed was one whiff of it baking in my oven.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Barbecued Sausages or Wieners; Baked Buttered Pepper Hashed Brown Potatoes; Broccoli; Tossed Green Salad; Lemon Snow; Custard Sauce; Coffee.

HOMESTEAD MEAT PIE

Pastry: 2 cups sifted unsifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup shortening, 3 tablespoons water.

Filling: 1¼ lbs. ground fresh pork (shoulder; not sausage meat), ½ lb. ground round steak (no. hamburg), 1 small onion (or ½ medium onion) ground, 1 medium-large carrot, ground, 2 medium-small potatoes, ground, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon curry powder, ½ cup hot water.

Make pastry by cutting shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas. Drizzle in water, 1 tablespoon at a time tossing with fork until flour is dampened, then press into a ball. Divide and roll out half of dough to fit 9 x 1¼" deep pie plate. Roll out other half, gash to allow steam to escape. Let rest on board while you make Filling: In large frying pan over high heat sear ground pork until fat rendered out, chopping and stirring all the while to break up chunks. Add ground beef and continue chopping, stirring until it is seared too. Put onion through grinder first and add to meat in pan and saute until onion is limp but not brown. Remove from heat. Put carrot and potatoes through grinder. (I had 1 1/3 cups ground potatoes and carrot.) Add to meat mixture along with salt, pepper, curry and water. Mix well. Turn into pastry-lined pie plate. (Note: This is a lot of meat filling, but pile it in and smooth top.) Seal on gashed top crust and crimp edges snugly. Glaze top liberally by brushing with 1 egg yolk mixed with 1 tablespoon water. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes to reduce again to 300 deg. for 20 minutes Pie was in oven 1 hour in all.

NOTE:

It took me nearly an hour to make this meat pie, but when I put it in the oven the main course for a good, inexpensive guest dinner was ready. If you would like to enhance it with an exotic vegetable try Creamed Mushrooms, see last Tuesday, November 17th.

ANAF Auxiliary Enjoys Dinner

A delightful dinner was arranged by Comrade Charlotte Clark for the ladies of the Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans' Auxiliary on November 16th.

Unfortunately illness prevented Mrs. Clark from attending as she was admitted to Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Clark was 90 years of age on Friday. Comrades Gladys Fitzgerald and Comrade Alice Storms assisted with the surprise party, and all members expressed regret that Mrs. Clark was unable to attend.

After the dinner of roast beef the regular meeting was held with Comrade Elizabeth Buckley presiding. Two new applicants were initiated and six applications were received and accepted with all to be notified for initiation in December.

Winner of the draw on the bedspread was June Walker; winner of the pillow slips, Mrs. Prime; and of the bath towels, Agnes Browning.

With the adjournment of the meeting the remainder of the evening was spent in the spirit of Christmas with gifts exchanged in a room appropriately decorated with lights and a Christmas tree.

Following several sing-song arrangements a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Comrade Charlote Clark for her generous contributions and good fellowship, and a wish for a speedy recovery.

The next meeting will be on the third Monday in December.

The secretary read a letter stating allocation would be an additional three and one half per cent for the coming year.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley gave the highlights of the Hastings East U.C.W. rally held recently at Melrose United Church.

Woman of Year Award Given Miss Whitton

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa accepted the Woman-of-the-Year award from the Toronto, B'nai B'rith Women Sunday, then climbed on a packing case to reach the microphone and give her speech.

She said she sees Canada as a nation "proud, vigorous and pulsing, greatest of the undeveloped lands left in this planet, with fewer people dwelling in it than in any two of the world's five largest cities."

This was the seventh time Miss Whitton has received a Woman-of-the-Year award, although it was the first time she had been chosen for the B'nai B'rith Women citation.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Herbert Stone of the York chapter, who recalled that Mayor Whitton once said: "Whatever a woman does, she must be twice as good as a man to be thought half as good."

SPEAKING of MANNERS

OBLIGATIONS OF THE BRIDESMAID

True, there's a bit of expense involved, but most young women who are asked to be in a wedding party actually jump at the invitation. Bridesmaids usually are invited to a round of parties during the weeks before the wedding and generally end up having a wonderful time.

Obviously, one does have a look at the practical side, as well, and with so many weddings scheduled for th. Christmas holiday season, we've received many letters asking what the obligations are, all fun aside. Here's a capsule version of what being a bridesmaid involves:

First of all, she pays for her wedding outfit. The bride often consults her attendants about style and color, but she makes the final decision on what will be worn. In addition to the gown, the bridesmaid pays for her own shoes, gloves and headpiece, but the bride provides the flowers.

If the bridesmaid has to travel to take part in the wedding, she pays her own fare, but the bride's family takes care of putting, her up. Arrangements often are made for bridesmaids to stay either at the home of the bride or the home of a relative. If the bride has to leave to go to a hotel, the bride's family makes the reservations and pays the expenses.

Bridesmaids often perform helpful tasks for the bride, like addressing invitations and announcements, shopping or running errands. The work load really isn't strenuous. Bridesmaids give the bride individual wedding presents, sometimes give a tea or luncheon in her honor and usually are invited to showers being given by friends. Shower gifts can be very inexpensive, no more than a pot holder or shower curtain rings, depending on the type of shower. It's not expected that she should bring an "important" gift to each and go broke in the process.

Among her other "duties" is attending parties given by friends and relatives for the bridal pair. She must attend the rehearsal a night or so before the wedding and the rehearsal supper that usually follows. Bridesmaids dress at the bride's home before the wedding and assist her in getting ready. Transportation is provided for them to the wedding and reception.

At the reception they stand on the receiving line, sit at the bride's table, dance with the ushers and take a turn around the floor with the bridegroom. Their official duties over, they can just relax and enjoy the party. When the bride leaves, the bridesmaids — those who are unmarried — form a group to try to catch the bride's bouquet. If she's the winner — well, she won't be "always a bridesmaid."

Women's Bureau in Labor Department Is Essential Says Publication Article

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial labor departments should have their own women's bureaus to handle the special employment problems of women, says an article in the official publication of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Eileen Robins, a free-lance writer who comments on labor topics, says in the current edition of Canadian Labour that provincial governments should have followed the example of the federal government when it set up a women's bureau 10 years ago.

"One can hazard a guess that since labor legislation lies mainly within provincial jurisdiction there was some hope that provincial governments would follow suit. They didn't. And the problems which were there to be faced 10 years ago now have multiplied a hundred fold.

"Married women with children are finally admitting—albeit loudly — that marriage and motherhood are not all they get from life. For the vast majority of these women, who can never quite seem to keep within their budgets, the road away from the sink and stove leads to an income-paying job."

Miss Robins says those who suffer most are the pre school ers, the children who are placed by working mothers in the care of neighbors, private nurseries or private homes.

ASKS TAX EXEMPTION

"All three levels of government can legislate to improve this situation. The federal authorities should exempt from income tax, that portion of a mother's earnings which pays for child-care, thus encouraging working mothers to seek truly adequate care for their children."

She says the nursery school (for three to five year olds) should become a part of our education system and be freely available to any mother who wishes to enrol her child.

"Municipalities should initiate plans for making day care available on much the same basis as baby-sitting services are often co-ordinated by a central agency."

Employers could help the country's thousands of working mothers too. Hours of work could be shortened or staggered. Lunch hours could be longer. Organized labor can do its bit by pressing for such considerations from employers."

"Above all," the writer concludes, "it is quite clear that the time has come when all provincial governments must follow the federal example and set up their own women's bureau."

Mixed up Groom Requires Help to Gain Perspective

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I've heard of young brides going to pieces on their wedding night but I've never heard of this happening to a groom — until my daughter came home from her honeymoon after 24 hours of "married life."

Beverly went with Phillip for two years. They met in college. Beverly knew Phillip and his mother (a widow) were devoted to one another but she didn't know they were crazy.

We gave the couple a beautiful wedding which was almost ruined by Phillip's mother. She cried so loudly during the ceremony you would have thought it was a funeral. Then she had to leave the receiving line and go lie down because she didn't feel well.

ANN LANDERS

The wedding was on a Saturday. Sunday night Beverly was home. She said Phillip was up all Saturday night talking to his mother on the phone. He called her once and she called him twice. Then Beverley and Phillip got into an argument over his mother and Phillip said he had a headache and went to sleep. Beverly packed her suitcase and came home the next day.

Almost two weeks have passed and Phillip has not even called Beverly. What should be done? — DISTRESSED.

* * *

DEAR DISTRESSED — There is no hope for Phillip unless he leaves his mother's side long enough to go see a head doctor. And Beverly should see a lawyer about an annulment.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My wife and I have been married 13 years. Our 11-year-old daughter is retarded. We have a fine 7-year-old son who understands his sister's problem and treats her beautifully.

The doctors have told us that our daughter is teachable and has urged us to put her in an institution where she will be among children on her own mental level and can be trained to do many things for herself. We could visit her any time we choose and talk to her on the telephone.

It is heartbreaking to give up this dependent child but we know we must do it now while she is young enough to be taught.

The problem is our relatives. They say we are heartless and selfish — that we are getting rid of the problem since she is a burden. We think it is best for the girl but it is going to cost us the love and respect of several members of the family.

Will you say something in your column to let people know how difficult it is to give up a retarded child and that we need understanding and moral support in such a time — not criticism and hurtful remarks. — BRENDA'S FATHER.

* * *

DEAR FATHER — The viciousness and cruelty of your relatives is exceeded only by their ignorance.

Don't waste time or energy attempting to justify your actions. Your decision is the wise one, based on the recommendation of your physician. Parents must always act in the best interests of their children. And this is precisely what you are doing.

Bethel Church Observes 90th Anniversary

RAWDON — Bethel United Church on the Rawdon charge observed their 90th anniversary on Sunday, November 15th, with many guests from other points in attendance. Bouquets of chrysanthemums were used for special decoration.

Rev. Robert O. Reid of Foxboro was guest minister at both services. His morning message was centred on "Spiritual Calouises" and in the evening he chose for his theme "A Saint for Our Times." In the evening the pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, assisted with the services.

Mrs. Harold Elliott provided appropriate piano music at both services. In the morning the church choir rendered an anthem and Miss Donalda Heath contributed a vocal solo.

In the evening the Stirling-Rawdon District High School choir under the direction of supervisor Philip Fairman, director Donald Armstrong and accompanist Miss Anne Watson contributed a special selection and Miss Mary Dracup rendered a vocal solo.

The ushers were Messrs. William Heath and Donald Heath.

The visitors included the guest minister's mother Mrs Bryson Reid and his uncle, Mr. Clarence Reid of Ivanhoe.

U.C.W. Meeting

VICTORIA U. C. W.

THE GORE — Victoria U. C.W. held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Gordon Waterhouse on Thursday evening with a good attendance

Miss Audra Brickman, president, was in the chair. Following the opening exercises several business matters were discussed. A satisfactory financial report of the ham supper at the church on November 11th was given. Mrs. Smith Brown invited members to the December 9th meeting at her home. Each member is requested to have a Christmas number for the program and each to bring "White Gifts" for a needy cause.

Mrs. Morris Pulver gave an interesting and concise report of the U.C.W. rally held recently at Wellington.

Mrs. Harmon Montgomery brought the study book message. It dealt with the growth of church unity in India. The impetus for the ecumenical movement undoubtedly came from the sense of urgency in mission lands where it was seen that a denominational witness was defeating the church

Mrs. Waterhouse and committee served a lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

HOW WOULD YOU CHOOSE BETWEEN THEM ?

The CARAT WEIGHT of these two diamonds is the same. Neither has visible imperfections . . . yet the actual value differs widely in each gem.

The degree of CLARITY is one of the qualities which determines the worth of any diamond. There are more than a dozen categories of perfection which separate the flawless, "perfect" diamond from the stone with inclusions — even if these are invisible to the naked eye.

CUTTING — Its accuracy and style — controls the brilliance of a stone and greatly affects its value. The traditional color of a diamond is called white, or colorless. Tinges of brown or yellow, which deviate from this standard, decrease the worth of a stone.

COMPARE BEFORE YOU BUY

Come in and let us explain the difference, the time will be well spent if you are considering the purchase of a diamond. Terms of course.

How come 3,700,000 Canadians are insured by Metropolitan Life -more than any other company?

Mostly it's because our customers like the way we treat them—and their money. Big as Metropolitan is, we've never lost the personal touch.

With 2,100 field representatives across Canada—a staff of 4,100 in all—Metropolitan always has someone nearby to give personal attention to every claim or question.

These advisers are specially trained to give Metropolitan's famous Family Security Check-Up. This is a clear-eyed analysis of your family's financial security that often turns up assets you never even knew you had.

Your Metropolitan adviser can also show you a number of ways to stretch your coverage far beyond what you thought your budget would allow.

For example, take a simple Metropolitan income rider. This can make a $10,000 policy pay off as much as $50,000 to your wife and children. Something to look into.

Also, be sure to ask how you can start collecting from Metropolitan while you're still around. One way is an ingenious plan that lets you turn an ordinary policy into a retirement fund at any time you feel like it.

These are a few of the facts and figures that explain why Metropolitan advisers are asked to give thousands of Family Security Check-Ups every week. And why almost one out of every five people in Canada is insured by Metropolitan. And also why one out of every two Metropolitan Life policies bought, is bought by one of our present policyholders.

- We pay Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries an average of two million dollars a week. Last year, that added up to $104 million. And two-thirds went to living policyholders.
- Metropolitan offers an unusually wide range of life and health plans. This permits your Metropolitan adviser to tailor a program specifically to your needs. We can insure you for any amount from $500 to a cool $5 million—or even more.
- More than 3,800 companies, large and small, insure their employees in Canada with Metropolitan. These companies include some of the largest in the country.
- Metropolitan Life insurance in force on Canadians amounts to $6 billion.
- A pioneer in health education, Metropolitan has given away over 100 million pieces of health and safety literature in Canada.
- Metropolitan has $1,496 million invested in Canada—including $868 million in bonds of Canadian industries and $213 million in business and residential mortgages—getting a good return for our policyholders at the same time as it stimulates business and jobs.

Remember, after the three basic necessities, food, clothing and shelter, the Fourth Necessity is enough life insurance. And the company you get it from can make a difference—a very big difference in the security you provide for your family.

Why not call your local Metropolitan adviser? There's no obligation . . . except to those you love.

Millions choose Metropolitan Life
—more in Canada than any other company

White House Atmosphere Considerably Changed Since Johnson Took Over Reins

The atmosphere around the White House has undergone a marked change in the last year, Douglas B. Cornell, veteran AP reporter of the presidential beat, contrasts the different styles of the Kennedy and Johnson administration.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The shot that brought down John F Kennedy brought about a difference in atmosphere, style and operation at the White House—The difference between Austin and Boston.

Western bubbles and bounce have replaced a New England reserve and elegance that sparkled at times with wit and warmth.

Kennedy was an intellectual interested in ideas and ideals, a man who drew on classics, a man who created classic phrases of his own: "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."

You never would have heard John Kennedy pounding down the campaign trail screaming the world: "Wall come down to the speakin. Y'all vote for the sake of Molly and the babies

If this was corn, Lyndon Johnson style, the Nov 3 election showed that a lot of people ate it up.

The contrast in the White House flashes from one momentous events and minor os es.

The Kennedys planting a grove of holly shrubs in the south grounds to protect privacy. Johnson opening the black iron gates and taking astonished tourists on a trek around the grounds.

The Kennedys seeking solitude at sea on a high-speed relic on a Massachusetts beach The Johnsons a m o s t never without guests, staging barbecues for hundreds in the front yard of the LBJ Ranch.

Mrs. Kennedy riding to hounds in the Virginia hunt country and President Johnson riding Texas style after a ranch press conference where his microphone was perched on a bale of hay.

The differences apply to the womenfolk, too.

It's almost impossible to imagine Jacqueline Kennedy on a whistle stop campaign train, or getting up to thank a political audience this way for the warmth of a welcome:

"I think you have really pu: the big pot in the little one."

It is equally difficult to imagine Lady Bird Johnson whisking along on water skis among the Greek islands or off the Italian coast.

With the men, there were two worlds for Kennedy at the White House and there is only one for Johnson.

When Kennedy took a mid-day dip in the White House pool, close friend Dave Powers frequently dipped with him, but nobody else.

At the end of the day, when Kennedy moved from the office wing of the White House to the living quarters, he pulled down a figurative curtain and left the staff behind it.

He is apt to whomever is around—officials, friends, staff —to dive in with him when he takes a swim.

If Kennedy didn't like someone in his official family, he made an effort to hide it and the object of his displeasure usually found it convenient to quit. If he liked someone, that was equally evident.

Johnson sort of flips this characteristic around 180 degrees. To a person who doesn't impress him, he may give a pat on the back, a cigarette lighter, an LBJ pin—not always but now and then.

But he may—and does—raise the roof with persons to whom he feels close.

Staff members have learned to accord Johnson this sort of escape valve without barking back except when they feel he is utterly wrong and off base.

When he is wrong, Johnson seldom apologizes but shows he wants to, in other ways, perhaps by an especially thoughtful gift.

Two Youths Die, Two Hurt As Their Car Hits Truck

On Saturday afternoon a car-truck collision in Stirling on Highway No. 14 took the life of an 19-year-old Stirling Youth, Donald Richard Towns while a second youth, 18-year-old Robert Earl Ryan of R. R. 1 Harold, died in Belleville General Hospital Sunday afternoon.

Injured in the crash which occurred about 1:30 p.m. in front of Wells Motors Limited, were Lynn Richard Canniff, 18, of Ivanhoe, reported still in a serious condition and Ernest Wayne Outwater, Jr., also 18, of R. R. 3 Campbellford, said to be in good condition.

Police Chief C. E. Hicks of Stirling said there was evidence to show that the car, occupied by the four youths, was proceeding south when it crossed into the northbound lane coming into collision with a north bound gravel truck carrying seven yards of gravel.

The truck was being driven by 44-year-old Harold Thompson of West Huntingdon. Mr. Thompson escaped the crash uninjured but was treated by Dr. Hipwell for severe shock.

Both the car and the truck were a complete write-off. The 1957 hardtop model car occupied by the four youths was a damaged and twisted heap of metal.

The injured were rushed to hospital by Quinte Ambulance Service of Stirling.

There will be an inquest into the accident, which is still under investigation. The driver of the car has not been established.

Agricultural Minister Closes Fair

TORONTO (CP) — Federal Agricultural Minister Hays rang down the curtain on the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair Saturday night with the comment that "of all the 36 royals I have seen, I think this year has been the greatest."

Some 10,000 cattle, horses, pigs, sheep, goats and poultry have departed with their prize ribbons and the $170,000 in prize money, and work has already started on plans for next year's show.

Immediately preceding the final ceremonies, the United States equestrian team — consisting of captain Bill Steinkraus, Frank Chapot, Kathy Kusner and Mary Mairs — was presented with the O'Keefe International Team Trophy for amassing the greatest number of points in the five - nation equestrian competitions. West Germany took the award last year.

Miss Kusner, riding Untouchable, gave the U.S. another victory in Saturday's final event, the $1,500 McKee International Stake. She beat Canadian team captain Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., by slightly more than a second in the final jump-off.

Canada — with Elder, Tom Gayford of Toronto and Gail Ross of Edmonton—placed second in the over-all team standings. Argentina was third, Mexico fourth and Brazil fifth.

Ford to Resume Car Production

DETROIT (AP) — With the last of its local strikes settled, Ford Motor Company planned to begin turning out automobiles again today.

The first of 80,000 laid-off or strike-idle employees returned to assembly plants and manufacturing units as Ford prepared to rejoin the production race on 1965 model cars.

Ford, crippled since June, 6 because what it called parts shortages resulting from United Auto Workers union walkouts, had lost production ground to its car industry Big Three rivals, General Motors and Chrysler.

In what the company called the cumulative effect of the parts shortage, the last assembly line had closed down Friday night. Now company officials say full production likely will not be possible before Nov. 30.

The strike at a key parts plant in Sterling Township (Mich.) was disposed of Sunday when workers at the 6,500-man plant ratified an agreement reached earlier.

Kathy Kusner Wins $1,500 Stakes at Fair

TORONTO (CP)—Kathy Kusner of the United States riding Untouchable, won the $1,500 McKee International Stakes at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair Saturday night.

The win by Miss Kusner in the final event of this year's international horse show was the seventh U.S. victory in the 10 events in the show.

Jim Elder of Canada, riding Johnny Canuck, was second. Bill Steinkraus, U.S. team captain, riding San Lucas was third and Frank Chapot, the third member of the U.S. team, riding Manon was fourth.

The victory by Miss Kusner came in the second jump-off. She beat the unlucky Elder—he was second in four events—by 1.4 seconds. In the first round, with 15 riders competing—three each from the U.S., Canada, Brazil, Mexico and Argentina—only six were clean. Beside the top four finishers Tom Gayford of Canada riding Blue Beau and Gianni Franco Samaja of Brazil riding Mr. Jim went into the first jump-off.

Indians, Eskimos Demand Jobs, Not Handouts

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario division of the Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada ended a three-day conference Sunday with the 200 delegates seemingly agreed on at least one point:

"We want work, not handouts."

It represented a general resolution-in-principle, one of a series designed to better the Indian's lot in matters of employment, recreation, medicine and education.

During the sessions, Citizenship Minister Rene Tremblay told delegates the federal government is formulating plans to allow band councils to manage some of their own affairs.

The aim of the program, he said, is doing not "for the Indian but "with" the Indian. "The aim is not to tell Indians what is best for them, but to assist them in introducing their own plans for development."

He said that during the first three years of the program, the government plans to hire about 60 community development officers and 80 assistants to work on reserves. The program techniques so far have been applied during field officers' spare time.

Nuclear Bombs Will Not Be Used Says Red China

PEKING (Reuters) — The Chinese Communist party news paper, People's Daily, called Sunday for the complete prohibition and thorough destruction" of nuclear weapons and repeated that China would not resort to the use of nuclear der ary circumstances.

In an editorial quoted by the New China news agency, People's Daily says China has but one objective — To make joint efforts with all peace - loving countries to strive for the realization of complete prohibition and thorough destruction of nuclear weapons. It says China does not plan to "use nuclear weapons to raise our own prestige and manipulate international

The newspaper says the United States wants to drag China — now that China has exploded a nuclear device — into the affairs of the United Nations. It says China will have nothing to do with the UN as long as it is denied membership.

"As long as the (UN) fails to restore to the People's Republic of China her legitimate rights as the sole legal government representing the Chinese people and as long as the illegal status of the representative of the Chiang Kai-shek is not nullified," China would not join any UN-sponsored discussions on the banning of nuclear weapons.

(The U.S. has said it would not be opposed to China's participation in 18-nation disarmament talks in Geneva.)

Seven Convicts Flee by Tunnel

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) Seven veteran escape artists tunneled out of the Washington State Penitentiary from their maximum security cell block Sunday night.

Police in southeastern Washington and nearby northeastern Oregon set up roadblocks for the men, described by the state patrol as dangerous.

The men were not believed armed.

Warden Bob Rhay said the tunnel, about 40 feet long was just big enough to crawl through. It ended outside the prison walls. He said the men dug their way out with homemade shovels, which were found in the tunnel.

The men were last seen at dinner about 6 p.m. The tunnel was discovered between 9:30 and 10 p.m.

Rhay identified the escapees as Jerry Lee Carter, Elmer Thomas, Neil Wallen, Richard Loux, Verdis Barrett, Donald Navarro and John Louis Mullenix.

St. Peter, Thomas and Loux participated in a daring escape from the King County jail at Seattle in October, 1961. Eight men lowered themselves out a 10th-storey cell on a rope of sheets. One fell to his death. The others reached the ninth floor and made their way out of the building. All were recaptured.

AN OTTAWA MAN northbound on South John Street, failed to stop at Dundas Street Saturday night and struck a concrete wall on the north side of Dundas Street. Ervan Dale Cross, 25, driver of the 1965 car, has been charged with careless driving. Damage to the car was about $700. In the picture, a police constable collects debris, after the accident.

U. S. Proposal Will Never Be Adopted, Norstad

LOS ANGELES (AP)—General Lauris Norstad, former commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, says the U.S. proposal for a Multilateral Nuclear force has succeeded in dividing, rather than unifying the member nations of NATO.

Norstad told a press conference Saturday that he doubts NATO member nations will ever accept the U.S. proposal.

"It doesn't appear that any agreement is imminent, and an impassioned speech at a conference table won't alter things," he said, referring to an American this week in support of a Paris NATO conference.

"General de Gaulle will not agree now, later or ever," Norstad said. "The plan has not been accepted by Britain either, and Germany agreed only under pressure."

The former commander said he believes the flaw in the plan is that it "does not go to the core of the problem—who will control (nuclear arms) and how is that control to be exercised."

Norstad said he has a plan under which a committee consisting of the chiefs of state of five or six member nations would assume command and share the responsibility for control and use of nuclear weapons.

"When I was commander, I decided that if anything happened—I would telephone the heads of government of the United States, France and the United Kingdom," Norstad said.

"The responsibility was for the political authorities, and I damn well wanted them to take it," he said.

West Germany Called on to Join France

STRASBOURG, France (AP) President Charles de Gaulle has called on West Germany to join France in building a united Europe allied with the United States but free of its influence.

France, he said Sunday, "stands ready for political and spiritual efforts to establish friendly relations with the Germans after years of enmity Now it was time for the Germans to respond on a "proportionate scale."

He claimed that a West German decision to join with the United States in manning a fleet of nuclear missile ships under the North Atlantic Alliance "would gravely wound the great hope" of French-German cooperation.

Instead, he proposed "the accomplishment in common with Germany of an ambition that is both very ancient and very modern, the organization of a European Europe, that is to say independent, powerful and influential at the heart of the world and of liberty."

But there was no indication that the West German government will show any readiness to yield in de Gaulle in German-French differences.

Not Planning for Election But Planning to Be Ready Says Pearson in TV Talk

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Sunday night he plans no general election now but is "planning to be ready" for one if it is forced on the government.

Mr. Pearson said in a television interview that he is interested in getting the government's program "through Parliament this session and the next session and the session after that.

"Whether there is any chance of an election I don't know," he told interviewer Pierre Berton on a taped CTV network program. "That depends more on the Opposition, I think, than it does on the government.

"If you mean am-I now planning to bring about an election the answer is no but if you ask me whether I am planning to be ready for an election if it is forced on the government the answer, of course, is yes."

DOESN'T EXPECT CLOSURE

The prime minister said he did not think closure would have to be imposed on Parliament in order to get a decision on a committee recommendation for a single-leaf national flag.

But he said "if there was no other way of reaching a decision than by using the rules to provide for a decision then you have to do it or you would forfeit your leadership."

During the interview program Mr. Pearson also said:

—It is "pretty difficult" for a prime minister not to appoint members of his own party to the Senate as long as the upper chamber is operating in its present form.

—He thought the words for the English version of O Canada, which the government has proposed should be the country's national anthem, could be improved.

—He is committed to negotiate the transfer to the provinces of fields such as mone tary policy, tariffs and fiscal policy that are now under exclusive federal jurisdiction.

—There seems to be evidence individual members contributed money to individual members of Parliament in Montreal, but "no donation by Mr. Rhéaume was made or received by the party organization which finances the election nationally."

ELECTION POSSIBLE

The prime minister said he thought it possible there will be an election before the redistribution of federal ridings but hoped any election would come afterwards. Redistribution is expected to take up to two years.

He said it would be "deplorable" to fight an election over national unity because the issue would divide the country.

Mr. Pearsou, asked to indicate what residents of Quebec want from the rest of the country, said his own conclusion is that they want to feel at home in Canada.

"This does not mean that the French people in Canada who never hear French — very little French — from one year to another should all be expected to become bilingual, but somehow we have got to make the French - speaking Canadians equally at home in English-speaking Canada as English-speaking Canadians feel at home in Montreal," he said.

He saw no possibility of Canada surviving as "two nations," using the English interpretation of the word nation.

EASTERN CHAMPS AGAIN — Hamilton Tiger-Cat coach Ralph Sazio rushes on the field to hug quarterback Bernie Faloney after the defending Grey Cup champions overcame a 17-point deficit and defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 28-8 at Hamilton Saturday to win the two- game, total-points Eastern Football Conference final 39-38. Tigers, Lions Clash In "Cats" Final

By IAN MacLAINE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats did what the experts considered next to impossible when they whipped Ottawa Rough Riders 39-8 here Saturday to overcome a 17 point deficit and take their two game, total point Eastern Football Conference final 39-38.

The victory, before 21,000 fans chilled by mid-20 degree temperatures and a raw, westerly wind of 30 miles an hour and gusting, enabled the Ticats to move into next Saturday's Grey Cup game at Toronto to defend the national title they won last year.

And their opponents again this year will be British Columbia Lions who won the Western Conference title Sunday with 33-14 victory over Calgary Stampeders which gave the Lions the best of three series two games to one.

The Riders lost their last chance for the title with less than three minutes to play when place-kicker Moe Racine, with the wind at his back and a two point deficit to overcome, booted his second field goal attempt wide of the posts for a single.

Coach Frank Clair admitted following the game that his Rough Riders didn't deserve to win the game on their performance, particularly in the final quarter when they were held to a single point despite having the wind in their favor.

CLAIR STUNNED

But the loss of the series appeared to have a stunning effect on the Ottawa coach and it was a half hour after the final whistle before he consented to discuss the game with news paper men.

Even then his voice was choked with emotion as he surveyed his defeated team moping about the dressing room, appearing to say under the weight of a heavy mist that billowed from the shower room.

Meanwhile, the Hamilton club was rewarding coach Ralph Sazio by tossing him into the shower. He nursed a swollen lip and ear which resulted from the merry-making.

The Ticats went into the scrap with a 17-point deficit following a 30-13 trouncing they took in the series' first game at Ottawa the previous week.

An explosive 14 - point third quarter gave the Ticats the lead for the first time in the series and quarterback Bernie Faloney's offensive thrusts complemented by a determined defence, snuffed out any Ottawa hope of making the national finals. Hamilton has represented the East in the Grey Cup the last four years.

SCORE TOUCHDOWNS

Dick Cobee, Tommy Grant and Faloney scored the Hamilton touchdowns. Don Sutherin converted all three and added four singles on attempted field goals that went wide. Joe Zuger, who had been out of the Ticat lineup since Sept. 20 with a shoulder injury, kicked a single to complete the Ticat scoring.

Racine's two first - quarter field goals gave the Riders a 6-0 lead in the game and a 36-13 lead in the series at that point —mainly due to an inept Ticat team that fumbled away the ball three times in the first 10 minutes.

And while there was never too much doubt from half-time on who was going to win the game, mental lapses by Rider import Ed Ulmer, whose booming punt accounted for the eighth Ottawa point enabled the Ticats to pile on those much-needed points.

The 23-year-old defensive half and punter was caught napping when he allowed Grant to snare a pass from Faloney for the Ticats' second touchdown early in the third quarter. Two minutes later, on a third - down punt, a bad snap eluded Ulmer near his goal-line. Rather than concede a two - point safety touch, he attempted to run the ball out of danger only to be dropped by a surging horde of Ticats on the Ottawa one-yard line.

GO AHEAD

Moments later Faloney romped over, the Ticats went in the front in the series. Had Ulmer stepped back into his own end-zone, the Riders would have retained possession of the ball at their own 20 and possibly changed the eventual outcome of the series.

The Riders, with the wind at their backs, threatened to take the game away from the Ticats with three minutes remaining when Racine attempted his third field goal of the afternoon from the Hamilton 39 it went wide and was conceded for a single point which left the Ticats with their one-point edge— and in possession of the ball, with time running out.

Clair wasn't eager to place the burden of the loss on any one person's shoulders but did admit that Ulmer "failed to respond" under the pressures of the game.

However, he felt the entire Ottawa team was at fault for not controlling the ball as it should have in the final quarter.

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions are bound again for the Grey Cup final, their tickets punched by the long pass.

It was their spectacular but risky weapon Sunday, fired almost unerringly for a 33-14 victory over Calgary Stampeders in the deciding game of the Western Football Conference final.

Quarterback Joe Kapp threw four touchdown strikes, three of them in the first half, to set up last Saturday's Grey Cup game in Toronto as a rematch with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who defeated Lions 21-10 in last year's national final here.

Sunday's victory before a crowd of 32,504 followed a split earlier in the best - of - three series and it was nothing like Lions' opening 24-10 win or Stampeders' 14-10 reply last Wednesday.

Kapp hit halfback Willie Fleming, flanker Sonny Homer, and ends Mack Burton and Pat Claridge for touchdowns Stampeders held the B.C. rushing game to 125 yards but the aerial attack got by them for 308 yards.

The other half of the story was Lions' defence against the passing of Eagle Day and Jerry Keeling, the Calgary quarterbacks who together completed only 11 of 30 passes and suffered two interceptions each.

Stampeders gained 94 yards on the ground ball and 141 yards passing.

Lions led 6-0 after the first quarter, but had the game put away by halftime with a 23-3 lead. Stampeders scored 11 consecutive points in the third quarter, but failed to score in the last 18 minutes of the game.

Peter Kempf converted three of the B.C. touchdowns kicked a 12-yard field goal in the second quarter and scored a single when he missed a 33-yard field goal try in the fourth quarter. Keeling slipped behind his line in the third quarter and gave up two points to Lions on a safety touch.

Calgary's lone touchdown came on a 13-yard romp by Keeling in the third quarter. Larry Robinson converted and kicked two 42-yard field goals, and Jim Furlong kicked a single.

B.C. coach Dave Skrien said the biggest element in the victory was better protection for Kapp, accomplished by keeping an extra backfielder in the pocket.

"Just the bombs — that's all that beat us," said coach Bobby Dobbs in the Stampeder dressing room.

Ulmer Erred Twice

Costly Mistakes Beat Riders

HAMILTON (CP) — An emotionally upset Frank Clair could only pass off the stunning loss of his Ottawa Rough Riders to Tiger - Cats in their Eastern Football Conference final to their inability to control the ball in the final quarter of the second game.

The Ottawa coach, who first balked at making any particular player the goat, admitted that a couple of mental lapses by punter and defensive halfback Ed Ulmer aided the Hamilton cause considerably.

Clair said Ulmer failed to respond under pressure but "the game situation was tough." While others may have neglected to carry out their assignments, Ulmer made two costly mistakes that led to two of Hamilton's three touchdowns.

The first was when he allowed Hamilton flanker Tommy Grant, to break clear in the Ottawa end zone in the third quarter for the Ticats' second touchdown and two minutes later when he attempted to run a bobbled snap but was finally brought down on the Rider one-yard line rather than concede a two-point safety.

But taking nothing away from Hamilton's defensive club, which continually bottled up Ottawa's running game in the fourth quarter despite the Riders' advantage with the strong, bitterly cold wind, Clair gave credit to quarter Bernie Faloney who controlled the game for Hamilton — particularly in the dying minutes.

Clair also noted that the Tiger-Cats connected on plays that counted while the Riders had difficulty making the passplay in key situations.

Of his own future, Clair declined to make any comment.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The 1964 Grey Cup classic will be strictly for the Cats. That is if you're hip—and get the clue.

From the mountain lairs in far-off British Columbia the B.C. Lions, their claws sharpened in the western championship "kill" of a valiant Calgary Stampeders squad, will trek eastward in celebration-hungry Toronto.

From their jungle stronghold, forty-miles westward of the amphitheatre of battle, will come the Tiger Cats of Hamilton, fully recovered from that spine-jarring one-point victory over Ottawa's Rough Riders.

Thundering their "Eat-'Em-Raw" battle cry, the Bengal faithful will pour down the Hamilton slopes in the wake of their heroes, in slavering anticipation of a repeat victory of 1963.

And good old "Trawuta," the mother who cradled the first Grey Cup extravaganza back in 1948 when the Calgary Stampeders in all their colorful western paraphernalia, flapjacked and square-danced their way into eastern hearts, awaits the invasion, hearts, arms and cash registers wide open.

This, I believe, is the first time the Lions of the Pacific have invaded tenderfoot country in search of Grey Cup honors. The Jungle Tabbies of Hamilton are experienced travellers. Also they are football players of opportunity, experience and ability. It should be quite a change for the loyal buffs of the Argonauts.

The eastern blood is thick. Even before the semi-finals were over, their gridiron experts were predicting victory for the Tiger-Cats with the famous Grey pewterware remaining on its Hamilton pedestal.

So far they have been half right. The starboard side of their crystal ball flashed the signal the Calgary Stampeders would furnish the loyal opposition by declawing the Lions in their western holdout. But the Leos of the Pacific slopes spoiled that.

The Lions have a fine record this season and proved themselves worthy western champions. They defeated a somewhat tired Stampeder squad yesterday but I am inclined to go along with a Vancouver sports editor who intimated the Lions, somewhat healthy, would have a better chance to wrest the Grey Cup from the eastern champions than the Lions.

Hamilton, naturally, and the greater part of Toronto will be behind the Tiger Cats. The Lions will be the choice of the fans who accompany them and the minority of eastern addicts. They will have to be more than "up" for this game.

Everything, it seems, favors the Bengals. They should be completely rested and their wounded released from hospital and in good playing shape. . . And with the Tigers in good shape for a Grey Cup final it will take a mighty good club to beat them.

But, they can be beaten. With a little less generosity the Rough Riders from Ottawa would have accomplished that, but they were in a giveaway mood.

Next Saturday's "Battle of The Cats" should be a thriller. The talons are sharp. The morale is high. Both clubs core confidence—and respect for each other.

As was noted, I believe the Tiger Cats will be the choice of the greater majority of the thousands who invade Toronto. The Lions will get the unseen support of the many thousands of television viewers in the western areas of the country. And some parts of the east.

The Lions proved they are the best in the west by their record. The fortunes of war and Ottawa lapses in the second eastern final game sang the victory pendulum to Hamilton.

May the better team win—and I hope it is the Lions!

Barber Wins Cajun Golf

Nicklaus 'Loot' Champion

As 1964's top tour money earner, he will be exempt from paying entry fees in all 1965 tournaments.

Nicklaus won the money title when Gay Brewer missed a 15-foot putt on the 18th green, which kept him from finishing second by himself.

As it was, Nicklaus and Brewer tied, each picking up $1,900. Nicklaus edged Palmer, who had been seeking his third dollar championship, by $81.13.

Barber's two rounds Sunday were as hot as the weather was cold. He turned in a 68 in the morning and a 67 in the afternoon over the par 36-36—72 Oakbourne course to finish with 277 for 72 holes.

Palmer won $1,500 and boosted his earnings for the year to $113,203.37.

Leafs Win Pair; Wings Retain Lead

Hawks Whip Habs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Pulford fought with Toronto Maple Leafs for a fatter contract this season and now the 28-year-old centre is proving he's worth every extra cent.

Pulford argued over terms until he was suspended by the club before he signed a richer pact. He still isn't the highest paid player on the team, but you'd have a tough time proving he's not the most valuable.

The hard-working playmaker scored the winning goal twice during the weekend as the Leafs took second place with a 1-0 win over Chicago Black Hawks Saturday night and a 3-1 triumph in Boston Sunday night.

It was also a goal by Pulford that decided Toronto's 3-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens last Wednesday, running the string of winners to three games.

The victories moved the Leafs to within one point of the National Hockey League leader. Detroit Red Wings held first place with a 3-1 win over Boston and a 3-3 tie in New York while Chicago bombed Montreal 6-2 Sunday night in the only other weekend game.

LEAD FORECHECKING

A crowd of 14,450, Toronto's largest of the season, saw Pulford beat Glenn Hall with a perfect shot in the first period and then lead the Leafs forechecking through two scoreless periods. Terry Sawchuk earned his first shutout for Toronto by stopping 27 shots.

Smith got his fourth of the year in the first period and, after Dean Prentice tied it for Boston in the third, scored the winner on a 20-foot screened shot. He also set up Ullman's clincher.

RANGERS FIGHT BACK

Ullman's Seventh and eighth goals twice sent Detroit ahead at New York Sunday night but the Rangers fought back and only Lowell MacDonald's breakaway goal late in the final, saved the Wings from defeat.

Bob Nevin earned New York a 1-1 tie after the first period and Donnie Marshall drew the Rangers even again in the second. Nevin clicked again at 0:44 of the third to send the Blueshirts ahead.

MacDonald, however, took the puck in his own end and skated the length of the ice to beat goalie Jacques Plante for the equalizer at 16:53.

Chicago rebounded from the shutout at Toronto to rout the Canadiens with a four-goal splurge in the second period.

Montreal went in front 1-0 on first-period goals by Jean Ferguson and Claude Larose. Bobby Hull's 14th of the year was Chicago's only reply.

But Eric Nesterenko sparked the second-period uprising with two goals and Kenny Wharram and John McKenzie added singles. Phil Esposito added the sixth goal in the finale.

The Canadiens, outshot 30-27 faded after the first period as the Hawks came on strong and bottled up Montreal skaters.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago's Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita continued to share the scoring lead in the National Hockey League scoring race during the weekend while Norm Ullman of Detroit closed in from behind.

The co-leaders each registered a point, Hull on his 14th goal and Mikita on his 12th assist, as Ullman scored three times and earned an assist. The Chicago stars have 19 points, one more than Ullman.

Another big Ullman gainer was Detroit Bobby Pulford, who scored two winning goals and earned an assist in the Leafs' two victories. He now has 12 points, a gain of five over last week.

The leaders:

	G.	A.	PTS.
Hull, Chicago	14	5	19
Mikita, Chicago	6	13	19
Ullman, Detroit	9	10	19
Backstrom, Montreal	7	7	14
Howe, Detroit	7	7	14
Pulford, Toronto	7	5	12
Henry, New York	7	5	12
Baitsgate, Toronto	4	6	12
Mahovlich, Tor.	4	6	12
Rousseau, Mont.	3	9	12
Hay, Chicago	1	11	12

Toronto had just finished killing off a Chicago power play when Bobby Baun started the pay play, charging into the Hawks end with the puck and feeding a seat pass to Pulford.

Pulford whistled a 30-footer between two Hawks defenders as they backed too far in on Hall and the puck clanged in off the left goal post.

Sawchuk and Pulford again combined to throttle Boston. Pulford set up Ron Stewart's goal and then scored what proved to be the winner as Sawchuk turned back 33 of 34 shots, losing his shutout bid to Reggie Fleming midway through the final period.

It was the former Detroit goalie's eighth game without a loss in the Toronto nets. The Leafs have registered six wins and two ties with Sawchuk between the posts.

SHACK CLINCHES IT

Stewart opened the scoring in the second period and Pulford added his seventh of the season early in the finale. Fleming narrowed the count, but Ed Shack clinched the victory at 13:30 with his second.

The Leafs were outshot 34-28 in a game marred by a crowd in the middle frame. A portion of the 13,080 fans also got into the act and it took a squad of police to quiet them.

Ted Green ignited the fight by high-sticking Toronto's Tim Horton. When the smoke cleared, Green was handed 17 minutes in penalties, Horton 14 and miners went to Dave Keon, Allan Stanley and Wayne Rivers.

Norm Ullman was the sparkplug as Detroit took three of a possible four points. He scored once and set up one of Floyd

Colts Gallop To 10th Win; Browns Lose

By MURRAY CHASS

Baltimore Colts are planning a retirement party for Gino Marchetti that promises to be more exciting than the one they gave him when he retired last year.

The prize defensive end helped prepare for the festivities Sunday as the Colts whipped Los Angeles Rams 24-7 and clinched first place in the National Football League's western conference.

The victory, their 10th straight since losing the season opener to Minnesota Vikings, brought the Colts their first conference title since 1958 and 1959 when they also won the league championship.

Immediately after the game, Marchetti announced this was his last season. But retiring is nothing new to the 37-year-old veteran of 13 years in the NFL. He quit after last season, only to be coaxed to return for another year.

The Colts most likely will play Cleveland Browns, who lost to Green Bay Packers 28-21 Sunday but still hold a 1½ game lead over St. Louis Cardinals in the East with three games to play.

LEADS BLITZ

Marchetti led a Colt blitz that consistently gave the Ram quarterbacks on their backs. Roman Gabriel was dumped six times for 56 yards in losses and Bill Munson five times for 36 yards, a total of 102.

In other games, St. Louis crushed Philadelphia Eagles 38-13, Detroit Lions tied Minnesota 23-23, Pittsburgh Steelers annihilated New York Giants 44-17, Chicago Bears edged San Francisco 49ers 29-21 and Washington Redskins trimmed Dallas Cowboys 28-16.

In the American League, Kansas City Chiefs defeated Houston Oilers, 29-19 and Oakland Raiders downed New York Jets 35-28.

Green Bay used a fumble by Jimmy Brown to help hold Cleveland's magic number at two. The number of Cleveland victories and St. Louis losses totalling two will give the Browns the eastern title.

McFARLANE SHINES

CANMORE, Alta. (CP) — Bristol McFarlane, an All - America hockey player in 1955 and now a Toronto sportswriter, scored three goals and assisted on two more Saturday night as the St. Lawrence Alumni beat the varsity, 8-7. McFarlane now reports National League hockey from Toronto for an independent radio network.

Trenton Minor Hockey

TRENTON (Special) — The visiting Markham midgets held Trenton Lions to a 3-3 draw while Trenton Juveniles nipped Wellington's juvenile - junior "D" squad 6-5 in exhibition hockey here Sunday.

In the midget game, Trenton led 1-0 and 3-1 by periods but Markham battled back to snatch the tie in the final period.

Trenton juveniles led Wellington 2-1 and 4-3 by periods although the visitors had it tied 3-3 at one time and scored a pair late in the game to make it close.

Al Ferguson fired two Trenton goals with singletons for Jim Johnson, Poachman, Steve Holmes and Hampson. Andy Teeple helped on two, Reynolds, Baker and Poachman on one apiece.

Gallagher was a two-goal man for Wellington while Bob Lavender scored one goal and set up two others. Don McNeill had a goal and assist, Dan Quilty a goal and Dick an assist.

Welland Wins Third In Ten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Welland's Ontario Hockey Association senior team changed its name from the Burloaks to the Blacks during the weekend and started doing something about getting out of the red.

Working under a new sponsor, the Blacks downed Woodstock Athletics 4-2 Sunday, but still have a long way to go before they climb out of the cellar. It was only their third win in 10 games.

In other weekend action, Galt Hornets defeated Guelph Regals 5-3 Saturday and Oakville Oaks 4-1 Sunday to move into a first place tie with Guelph, eight points ahead of Oakville and Woodstock.

Gordie Howe's Hockey

By GORDIE HOWE

Although I'm an ambidextrous shooter, I'll wear out the palm of the glove on my left hand three times during a season compared to about half of that for my right hand. My left hand rests on the taped end of the stick. The rest of the glove is good but the palms have to be replaced.

We all love a thin palm in our gloves. You get a better feel, have better control of the stick. It gives you a better grip so that if you take a hard pass near the toe of the stick, the impact of the puck won't turn the stick in your hand.

Nowadays, manufacturers curve the leather of the palm of the hand in making a glove so it is more form-fitting.

Before, with the palms thicker and flat, when you took hold of the stick, the folds of the leather would make it more difficult to grip the stick. So we'd cut the heel out of the palm to overcome this.

Nowadays, it is illegal to have an open palm. That's because of a strategem some defensemen developed. They'd put their glove against a player, apparently just resting it there.

Then they'd sneak the fingers through the open palm and grab the sweater of the opposing player. They could have a vice-like grip on a player and yet the holding virtually would be undetectable.

Now if you detect an open palm, you merely have to call it to the attention of the referee and the offender will be penalized, made to change equipment.

There's an art in skirting the rule against holding. Veteran defencemen learn little things, the technique of holding an opponent just long enough to put him off stride but not long enough for the referee to detect it and give him a penalty.

Again, holding and interference, unless flagrant offenses are border line calls that references exercise their judgment in whistling down. As I said before, wise, old defencemen have developed this technique to a science. Study them sometime.

Clippers Take Two From Reds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jean Ratelle is in the American Hockey League this year mainly because he was a holdout and missed the New York Rangers' training camp at Winnipeg before the start of the National Hockey League season.

During the weekend Ratelle served notice he was ready for National Hockey League duty, counting five goals as Baltimore Clippers swept a two - game series with Providence Reds.

The victories moved the Clippers two points ahead of cellar-dwelling Providence in the AHL's eastern division.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Sunny, a colt with a million-dollar pedigree and a $70,000 price tag, began to live up to expectations Saturday at Greenwood race track as he won the $11,765 Mohawk Stakes.

It was the second successive victory for the four-year-old son of Princequillo and he made a short out of trainer Warren Bailey.

Beasley predicted last Monday, when Sunny ran away from an allowance field with ease, that the colt would win the Mohawk and capture his second stakes victory of the season.

With 11,727 fans looking on, Sunny came from second-last place on the final turn of this mile and five-sixteenths grind to defeat Runadic by half a length. Latin Artist, the favorite, was third.

With Eric Walsh riding, Bunny collected $6,675 for his effort. He returned $9.00, $4.30 and $2.30.

Purchased as a two-year-old by Bill Beasley for $70,000, Sunny didn't quite live up to his breeding until this season. Princequillo also sired Round Table, recently replaced as the Kid's leading money-winning thoroughbred.

NEW YORK (CP) — Marshua, two-year-old daughter of Preakness-winning Nashua, won the $67,100 Marguerite Stakes at Aqueduct Saturday to become the shortest-priced winner in the history of the Baltimore track's fall feature for juvenile fillies.

Paying only $2.80, $2.40 and $2.20 and creating a minus show pool of $3,485, Marshua won by six lengths over Wayne Chambers. Mrs. Wallace Gilroy owns the filly.

No match for the winner, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Admiring, second choice at $4.20 and $2.20, came from the back to be second, a length in front of William H. Floyd's Fairway Fun, at $2.20 show horse.

Marshua pulled away in the stretch to run out the 1 1-16 miles in 1:45 4-5. She earned $42,516 to increase her first season bankroll to $211,767.

Smart was second and Fan Jet third in the field of nine. Third Martini paid $15.90 $7.80 and $5.60 and earned $36,330. Smart returned $8 and $6.70 while Fan Jet paid $7.80 to show.

The time for 1¼ miles was 1:59 3-5, 2 2-5 seconds off the track record.

Four horses reached the wire so tightly bunched that each driver thought he had the winner. But when the judges separated them in the finish photograph, the Hanover horse was a nose in front of Speedy Rodney. Express Rodney was third and Argyle Kid fourth.

'Fighting' Irish Unbeaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top-ranked Notre Dame continued unbeaten in Big Ten and United States college football Saturday, while Michigan led a parade of teams into post-season bowl games by blanking Ohio State and grabbing the Big Ten title.

Notre Dame rolled over Iowa 28-0 for its ninth victory, leaving only Southern California in the way of the first undefeated, untied season since 1949. The Irish, however, apparently will not play in a bowl game since the major pairings have been just about completed.

Sixth-ranked Michigan moved into the Rose Bowl, defeating seventh-ranked Ohio State 10-7 with the help of a Buckeye fumble.

The Wolverines did not know immediately who their Pacific Athletic Conference opponent would be since Southern California and Oregon State finished in a tie for the title. USC crushed UCLA 34-13, and Oregon State nipped 10th-ranked Oregon 7-6 on Booker Washington's two-yard touchdown. Steve Clark's extra point with 54 seconds left.

The Sugar Bowl was filled as eighth-ranked Louisiana State and ninth-ranked Syracuse accepted invitations. LSU defeated Tulane 13-3, but West Virginia edged Syracuse 28-27, giving the orange their third loss in 10 games. LSU is 7-1-1.

PLAN MEMORIAL

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's permanent memorial to the late president Kennedy will be a hillside garden near London resembling a "neo-buddhist garden of contemplation," it was announced Saturday. Three acres of meadowland overlooking Runnymede Island in the Thames, where the Magna Carta was signed in 1215, will be surrounded by a sunken fence.

AT THE BELLE — Peter O'Toole, as King Henry II of England, seems to be telling Richard Burton, his Chancellor, that there are better times and better places to discuss affairs of state. This scene takes place in Hal Wallis' highly acclaimed screen production, "Becket", showing today and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre, with a supporting cast of stature and eminence. Directed by Peter Grenville, in Panavision and Technicolor.

Three Networks Give Fine Commemorative Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Special commemorative programs on the first anniversary of John F. Kennedy's death were important ingredients in all network television schedules Sunday.

NBC's John F. Kennedy remembered, was a thoughtful, slow - moving and impressive hour. At the outset, the narrator invited us to return along the route that carried the assassinated president almost a year ago from the Capitol Building to Arlington Cemetery with a supporting cast of stature and eminence. Directed by Peter Grenville, in Panavision and Technicolor.

The simple unpretentious ABC approach seemed to this viewer the most rewarding, for it showed the qualities — wit style and grace—that gave his short administration its special lustre, especially in retrospect.

CBS, which had a memorial hour earlier, devoted a summary of events a year ago that carried the president from Dallas to Arlington in four days.

A number of people who knew him well — from a primary school teacher to White House associates — sat before microphone and camera and reminisced about the Kennedy they had known. Gen. Maxwell Taylor was so affected by his recollections that he wept openly before the cameras.

As they talked, motion picture and still-photographs were on the screen, showing an active man who loved the outdoors, the sea, his children and enjoyed life.

The simple unpretentious ABC approach seemed to this viewer the most rewarding, for it showed the qualities — wit style and grace—that gave his short administration its special lustre, especially in retrospect.

CBS, which had a memorial hour earlier, devoted a summary of events a year ago that carried the president from Dallas to Arlington in four days.

Cary expressing appreciation for the Thanksgiving favors made by the retarded children, for patients' trays; also a large decorative advertising poster had been made for the C.W.L. bazaar. These two projects have been the community contribution prepared by the retarded children in the last couple of months.

Mrs. Hoey, in speaking of the teaching of retarded children, said there is a distinct difference between an emotionally disturbed child and one who is retarded.

Dealing with an emotionally disturbed child, Mrs. Hoey stated they should not be classed as retarded as some tests showed an almost normal I.Q. Frequently such children, for some as yet unknown reason show violent, bizarre behavior erupting suddenly from a period of acceptable complacency. She felt these children could be pupils in a special auxiliary class.

The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Peter Gomery of the Ontario Association who addressed the Campbellford Association in regard to new government regulations as contained in the recent Bill 131.

In regard to teacher's salary, Mr. Gomery stated a new schedule would be in operation next year with granted membership in the Ontario Teachers' Federation. Money spent by the Association since September can be refunded on the basis of new regulations, the teacher's salary should be on a par with those of an auxiliary class teacher.

In the new administration, associations of which there are now 90 in Ontario, will work in conjunction with an educational authority, made up of two members from the association and four municipal representatives. The setting up of the new authority will be the responsibility of Mr. D. G. Rikley, public school inspector.

As the association will still be responsible for providing a suitable building, Mr. Gomery suggested that in view of the fact money is being held in trust for a building fund that the association will continue to raise money for a building suitable for day care, school training and sheltered workshop to round out a complete training program particularly suited for trainable retarded. This idea has to be successful to get government approval.

Mr. Gomery stated he would check into the possibilities of transportation costs relative to pupils from Marmora who might wish to attend Merryvale school, also the responsibility of a municipality in relation to pupils living in homes other than parents' homes.

A question period followed Mr. Gomery's address.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

QUESTION: We are planning a motor trip through the mountainous sections of Canada and the U.S. as we have never travelled through mountains before. I heard that there are some precautions that one must take. Could you please give me this information? — L. M., Belleville.

ANSWER: The following suggestions will help you to get the most out of your trip though the mountains while keeping the wear and tear on your car to a minimum:

1) Always keep to the right half of the road, especially on curves and grades.

2) Heed the signs which indicate the maximum safe driving speeds on curves and grades.

3) On down-grades don't ride your brakes. Slow down by shifting into a lower gear. Always remain in gear; coasting is dangerous. Avoid hindering your engine on a steep climb by shifting to low gear when your speedometer drops below 20 miles per hour.

4) It is wise to carry a container of water as you travel. Because high altitudes reduce the boiling point of water, your radiator should be full.

5) If your engine becomes overheated and stops (although the gas tank is full), there may be condensation in the fuel line known as a vapor lock. Try placing a damp cloth over the fuel pump for a few minutes.

QUESTION: We would like information on the Everglades National Park in Florida. Could you give us some information about it? We would like to go November 30th, and are taking a trailer. — Mrs. D. McK., Trenton.

ANSWER: Everglades National Park, Flamingo, is southwest of Royal Palm Ranger Station, at the end of State Route 27. There are 54 campsites in trailer sites, toilets, fireplaces, drinking water, shower, booth concessions, electricity. There is camping all year, but best from December to April, 14-day limit, subject to change. no reservation accepted. Primitive camping permitted in back country; campfire permit required from park headquarters or ranger station. There is sub tropical animal and plant life, boat trips, nature study, swimming and fishing.

QUESTION: As we visit Florida each year, we always see you could give us some new attractions for us to visit? Your comments would be sincerely appreciated. — G. A., Picton.

ANSWER: The following are some of the new attractions for visitors to Florida to see and enjoy:

ST. PETERSBURG — Two new attractions await winter visitors, a London Wax Museum and the new Aquarium with its performing animals and fish.

MIAMI — The seaquarium here has added a new tank in which the only albino bottlenose dolphin in captivity performs.

EVERGLADES CITY — If you are entering the Everglades to be the eerie jungle you see in pictures, you will be disappointed because it is mostly mangrove clumps. But the 16-mile trip through Everglades National Park here (price $2) is well worth the ride, just to see the wildlife, including great white herons, snowy egrets and spoonbills. You may even see the odd alligator.

JACKSONVILLE — Fort Caroline a French Fort of 1565 which the U.S. has restored and dedicated this year, can be seen 10 miles east of Jacksonville on St. John River.

MICANOPY — On Orange Lake near here, you can ride along on islands which float back and forth in the wind. Then you can visit the home of Marjorie Rawlings who wrote "The Yearling" at nearby Cross Creek.

You can get a price list of the top attractions in Florida free at the Welcome Stations on major highways at the Florida border, or by writing to the Florida Development Commission at Tallahassee.

Bishop Evans of Ontario, Accompanied by Kingston Choir, Led Canada's Tribute

WASHINGTON (CP) — President John F. Kennedy testified the courage and the will of free peoples in many lands as few other leaders have been able to do, an Anglican bishop from Canada said Sunday.

In a memorial evensong at the Washington Episcopal Cathedral, Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, the Anglican bishop of Ontario, said Kennedy was one of those individuals who "touched both the mind and the heart of humanity."

Bishop Evans, accompanied by the choir of his cathedral, St. George's in Kingston, Ont., led a solemn Canadian participation in this still-bereaved capital's tributes to Kennedy, assassinated one year ago in Dallas.

In offering prayers for Kennedy, the bishop said the late president "brought resolution, courage and a sense of purpose, perhaps even of mission, to the people of many lands other than America."

He called Kennedy, the first Roman Catholic president of the United States, "a union of true American and progressive Catholic."

The 60-voice, all-male cathedral choir from Kingston, directed by George N. Mayhew, sang Purcell's anthem O God-Thou Art my God-and also music by Hubert Parry and Maurice Greene.

Bishop Evans said Kennedy was in the successor to the noble spirit of George Washington, and Abraham Lincoln." The late president had "helped to uphold the lofty American ideal" and had, during his 1,000 days in office, capably fulfilled "the sacred duty" that the U.S. ha. to offer world leadership.

Part of the evensong at Washington Cathedral was included in a memorial program televised on the network of the National Broadcasting Company. It was part of the commemorative mass at St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral attended by members of the Kennedy family and the U.S. cabinet.

All Washington churches were crowded on the first anniversary of the president's assassination and thousands of people thronged the Arlington National Cemetery, where he is buried.

JACKIE'S TRIBUTE

Just after dawn, the first of hundreds of floral offerings was placed at the grave. The bouquet of wild flowers from Hyannisport, Mass. was the widow Jacqueline's tribute.

Mrs. Kennedy was not at Arlington Cemetery to see it arrive. She spent the day quietly in New York with her two children, Caroline and John. Her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, brought the flowers on the former first lady's behalf.

At St. Matthew's, Rev. John Cavanaugh, former president of Notre Dame University and a friend of the Kennedy family, celebrated the mass. In his sermon he urged mourners to pray each according to his faith, to carry on the Kennedy labors, which he said "were God's work."

Many visitors to Arlington brought children Sunday. By nightfall, however, the cemetery's litigion's gates said the crowd flow indicated that at least 40,000 persons would visit the grave by the end of the day. Among the visitors were a foreign minister Gerhard Schroeder of West Germany, and a large delegation from the West German embassy.

PLACES WREATH

Juana Castro, sister of Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba who has dedicated herself to the overthrow of his regime, placed a wreath.

Miss Castro gave out a statement, saying:

"All the countries of this hemisphere, with the exception only of Cuba, are sending flowers to the memory of the great president of the United States, John F. Kennedy.

"He is and will be forever in the heart of the free people of Cuba. In the name of the Cuban people, we lay this wreath with the colors of our national flag, in the grave of this martyr of the human freedom."

Engines Hurt By Oil Contaminants

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Multi-grade oils may have solved the dual problem of adequate all-weather protection and easier cold engine starting — but oil contamination, especially in winter, remains a headache.

Water and raw gas are the contaminants referred to here. When they dilute the oil, less pressure, less oil mileage, less protection can result. If the contaminant is water, it's usually due to excessive crankcase condensation plus short trip driving which doesn't allow the engine to get hot enough to burn it off. Raw gas gets into the oil when the engine is overchoked or the pedal is pumped madly during every early morning start. Obviously, an over-rich carburetor adjustment is the other contributing factor. No matter what the cause, the gas plays hell and slays in the oil. You can see why the experts try to hammer home the thought that the best defense against contamination is frequent oil changes.

R. B. asks: "How much does a trickle charger cost? I'd want one which can be used on both 6-volt and 12-volt batteries."

You can get them for as little as $12 — or as much as $30.

F. N. writes. "Can you publish some facts about anti-freeze effectiveness after one year in use?"

Much depends on the car mileage during that year. The type of anti-freeze — even the brand. Generally speaking, after 10,000 miles, permanent antifreeze can lose as much as 1-3 of its original effectiveness against freezing and cooling system corrosion.

From S. J. "I bought a 1963 sedan recently and soon experienced many hardstarting and stalling troubles. The dealer eventually replaced the ignition coil, advising that all of these '63 models had defective coils. Can I believe this?"

You can — especially if you no longer have starting and stalling trouble. Many faulty coils were found before the factory changed this part.

T. H. asks. "If a battery is brand new, is there any real danger of it freezing when the car is not charged and the mercury hits bottom?"

If short trip driving is the usual case, and the battery doesn't get much chance to recharge itself, there is a possibility of freezing when sub-zero temperatures arrive.

NAMED COMMISSIONER

OTTAWA (CP) — Georges Gauthier of Ottawa today was nominated associate commissioner of the Centennial Commission, replacing Robert Choquette who has been named Canada's consul-general at Bordeaux, France.

That Day in Dallas, Texas

It was a dreary morning a year ago as the 35th U.S. president stewed about about the techniques of assassination. Heavy later he was dead. Associated Press White House correspondent Frank Cormier, who covered John F. Kennedy's illfated trip to Texas, here recalls the events of the late president's final day.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The weather in Fort Worth, Tex. was dark, damp and full of foreboding on the morning of Nov. 22, 1963. Perhaps for that reason, John F Kennedy's thoughts turned to a most unlikely, virtually unthinkable subject.

Kennedy, lounging in his suite at the old Texas Hotel, turned to Kenneth O'Donnell, his friend and aide, and, as O'Donnell later paraphrased it, said:

"If anybody really wanted to shoot the president of the United States, it was not a very difficult job—all one had to do was get a high-powered rifle with a telescopic rifle, and there was nothing anybody could do to defend against a thing like that."

About two hours later and 32 miles away, in Dallas, a flock of pigeons was startled as the 31-story warehouse and office building of yellow brick, which looks like some sunning bird frightened by the bark of a rifle.

From this tall, drab building called the Texas School Book Depository, a man armed with a rifle and telescopic sight had assassinated the 35th president of the United States, a man who had been able to defend against it.

Death struck without warning and, as John F. Kennedy slumped mortally wounded in his open-topped limousine with the presidency—wife Jacqueline reached for him and cried: "Oh, my God. They have shot my husband. I love you. Jack."

FILLED PARKING LOT

On the morning of Nov. 22, a large and boisterous crowd filled a roped - off parking lot across from Fort Worth's Texas Hotel, waiting for the chief to hear Jack Kennedy.

At 8:00 a.m., he appeared, barebeaded and sporting a proffered umbrella. The crowd yelled but was disappointed because Mrs. Kennedy had remained in the hotel where they had spent the night.

"Mrs. Kennedy is organizing herself," the president explained. "It takes longer, but, of course, she looks better than we do when she does it."

Everybody smiled.

Inside the hotel, guests at a Chamber of Commerce breakfast waited. The president and his vice-president, Lyndon B Johnson, went there directly from the parking lot. Mrs. Kennedy was there.

Some wore hats. Kennedy told the breakfasters, "I introduced myself in Paris by saying that I was the man who had accompanied Mrs. Kennedy to Paris. I am getting somewhat that same reception as I travel around Texas. Nobody wonders what Lyndon and I wear."

Someone said the breakfast thought Jack Kennedy ought to wear a Texas hat, and gave him one. Always shy about being in out - of - character costume, Kennedy declined to wear it for photographers.

Come to the White House on Monday, he promised, and he would try it on.

Then he went upstairs and, unaccustomed to philosophizing about the impossibility of giving a president certain protection against assassination,

DROVE TO AIRPORT

A few minutes later, Kennedy and his party drove to the airport in Fort Worth's blue-and-silver Air Force One, and flew the short hop to Dallas.

Another noisy crowd was waiting. The president, after shaking free of official greeters, headed for a fence where hundreds of hands were held out for him.

Mrs. Kennedy striking in a pink suit and pillbox hat, and carrying red roses, went to the fence, too, and offered her hand to the crowd.

At 11:50 a.m., the Kennedys settled back on the long-cushioned rear seat of the president's bubbletop limousine. Because skies were bright, the clear plastic roof had been removed.

Into the jump seat ahead of Kennedy moved Governor John B. Connally of Texas. Nellie Connally, his wife, took a similar position ahead of Mrs. Kennedy.

William R. Greer, a secret service agent, was at the wheel. Agent Roy Kellerman shared the front seat with Greer. In front of him was a small microphone through which he could make instant contact with other agents and with Dallas police officials.

Greer and Kellerman were separated from the Kennedys by a horseshoe-shaped jump partition, a part of the roof that could not be removed, between the front seat and the rear compartment.

LONGER ROUTE CHOSEN

Then the Lincoln moved ahead on a 10-mile journey toward the Dallas Trade Mart where a luncheon and speech awaited the chief executive. The trip could have been mapped for four miles but a longer route was chosen so more people could see the president.

All along the way, happy, enthusiastic people stood on the streets. Only occasionally could Kennedy glimpse an unfriendly sign—one, for instance, proclaiming absolute contempt for his policies but avowing great respect for his office.

"Please take my hand," said another sign. And Kennedy ordered the limousine stopped so he could do just that.

Farther along, some nuns stood with their pupils along the curb in front of a Roman Catholic high school. Again Kennedy made an unscheduled stop for more handshaking. The school girls squealed with delight.

Approaching downtown Dallas, the crowds thickened. Along Main Street, in the business district, businessmen in suits came from a sea of people standing 10 deep or more along both sides.

Nellie Connally turned to face Kennedy.

"Mr. President," she said "you can't say Dallas doesn't love you."

"That," he replied, "is very obvious."

Down Elm Street, heading for a multi-lane freeway leading to the Trade Mart, the presidential car moved at 11 miles an hour.

RIFLE AIMED

From a partially opened window on the sixth floor of the building, a rifle with telescope thrust forward and aimed at the Kennedy limousine. The hands of a massive clock atop the building pointed to 12:30 p.m.

The rifle cracked once, those below heard an echoing report. A fleeting moment of silence. A backfire, others believed.

Jack Kennedy stiffened and threw both hands to his throat. Mrs. Kennedy turned and saw what she interpreted as a quizzical look pass over his face.

Then, possibly more, shots followed. One ripped open the president's head. He slumped toward his wife, his face now empty, of all expression.

It was then that Jacqueline Kennedy cried out: "Oh, my God, they have shot my husband. I love you, Jack."

The limousine sped ahead, Connally, shot through the body, wrist and thigh, bundled into his wife's arms murmuring:

"Oh, no, no, no. My God, they are going to kill us all."

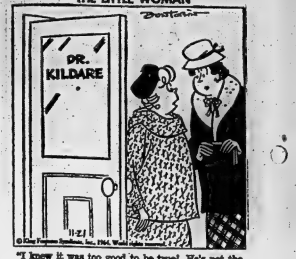
Greer tramped on the accelerator. Kellerman grabbed the microphone and snapped instructions to the police car leading the motorcade:

"We are hit. Get us to the hospital immediately."



HILL ACTS

Mrs. Kennedy, seconds earlier, had begun clambering out of the back seat and onto the trunk deck of the big car. From a secret service follow-up vehicle directly behind, agent Clinton J. Hill was sprinting toward the presidential limousine. He grabbed a handhold on the trunk just as Greer hit the accelerator. Hill started momentarily, then pulled himself onto a foothand built into the rear bumper. He crawled over the trunk and, pushing Mrs. Kennedy back into the seat, threw his body over the slain president in an effort to offer protection against any further shots.

Mrs. Kennedy does not remember climbing onto the trunk of the car.

Parkland Hospital was four miles away. Greer pushed the presidential limousine to speeds of 70 and 80 miles an hour in a futile race to save Kennedy's life.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

A team of doctors was waiting when the cavalcade arrived and they employed the most desperate measures in an effort to sustain the faint spark of life in the president's body.

While they labored, Lee Harvey Oswald drank a Coca-Cola in the school book depository, passed scrutiny by a Dallas policeman, and went into the street—to kill again.

At 1:36 p.m., at Parkland, acting White House press secretary Malcolm Kilduff stood before reporters, eyes red rimmed, and announced in a choked voice:

"President John F. Kennedy died at approximately one o'clock Central Standard Time today here in Dallas. He died of a gunshot wound in the brain. I have no other details regarding the assassination of the president."

Sixty-two minutes later, Lyndon B. Johnson took the oath as 36th president of the United States.

Liberals and NDP Watch Experiment in Party Politics In Toronto Municipal Field

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal and New Democratic parties are watching with close interest an experiment in Toronto municipal affairs aimed a breaking the taboo against political parties engaging openly in municipal politics.

The experiment, started by a zealous group of Toronto-area New Democrats, already has had some effect on both the federal and provincial political scene. Many of those involved assisted in the upset byelection victories this year by NDP candidates in the provincial riding of Riverdale and the federal riding of Waterloo South.

Three New Democrats, proclaiming their party affiliation and presenting their program as a party program, have been entered in the forthcoming election in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough—one for a seat on council and two for seats on the board of education.

Reid Scott, MP for Toronto Danforth, one of the federal New Democrats actively engaged in the Toronto experiment, says the aim is to see whether the voters will accept the idea that there is a need for unified and orderly progress in municipal affairs through a program to which all party candidates are dedicated.

Both Mr. Scott and Liberal National Director Keith Davey, who personally favors greater party activity in municipal government, forecast a growth in party participation at the municipal level.

Mr. Davey considers it inevitable that Canada will develop active party participation at the municipal level as have Britain and the United States.

These views aren't shared by Progressive Conservative National Director Richard Thrasher, who says Canadians haven't accepted party participation in the past and won't in the future.

He says the Progressive Conservative party is always happy to see supporters active in municipal affairs. Municipal Politics was a good training ground for future candidates in provincial and federal ridings.

One argument against it is that too many matters in municipal affairs are problems requiring individual judgment that can't be decided on the basis of a party attitude.

On the other hand it is argued that the traditional system gives rise to log-rolling among elected representatives. Councillors trade among themselves, one man getting support for a special project in his ward in exchange for his support on a project in another councillor's ward.

A practical argument against party participation comes from candidates who feel they may have bipartisan support among the voters. Identification with a party may cost them votes.

The counter - argument is heard that an established party provides the candidate with a firm base from which to operate, complete with trained organizers, canvassers, well-analyzed voters' lists and access to the party's information and publicity machinery.

Predicts Higher Retail Sales This December

TORONTO (CP)—Retail trade will "skyrocket" to more than $2,000,000,000 in Canada this December, an increase of seven per cent over December, 1963, David Gilbert, general manager of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada, predicted Thursday.

"Sales this year will outdistance anything we have known in the past," Mr. Gilbert said in an interview. And, he added, "from the sales that are taking place, it's evident that a substantial portion of it is in Christmas gifts."

The association, he said, is forecasting a growth in retail sales in Ontario alone this year of $480,000,000, bringing the total for the year to $7,300,000,000. The national sales will approach $20,000,000,000, he said.

CITY ATTACKED, HOSTAGES DIE

Deficits Equal Hand-Outs
No Future in This Kind of Dithering Around

MONTREAL (CP) — Federal-provincial tax arrangements were sharply attacked Monday by Dr. Kenneth Eaton, Ottawa fiscal consultant and former assistant deputy minister of finance.

He told the annual conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation that at each federal - provincial conference Ottawa "gets talked out of more tax space for the provinces."

Then, instead of taxing to recoup its "give-away" program, the federal government simply had so-called planned deficits. Since 1957 these deficits were roughly equal to the additional hand-outs to the provinces.

"Now there is just no future for a nation in this kind of dithering around," Dr. Eaton said.

He said that for all practical purposes the provinces have just as much, and as good, scope for taxing as has Ottawa and "any statement to the contrary is nonsense."

Dr. Eaton, 70, who resigned from the finance department in 1958, said the old tax rental agreements with the provinces gave Canada a tax system unsurpassed in any other federal state.

"In the latter years of their long term of office the Grits, after building up this orderly tax system, found it inconsistent with certain of their political objectives and the edifice started falling apart.

"The Progressive Conservatives hastened the break-up and today only remnants remain of the enviable tax system which we once . . . had."

Massive Report Pins Sole Guilt On Lee Oswald

Mountains of Evidence On Murder Made Public

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mountains of newly - disclosed evidence have pinned the sole guilt of president Kennedy's assassination firmly on Lee Harvey Oswald, the Marxist who said he hated the United States but found that Russia "stunk."

The 26 volumes of Warren commission hearing transcript, released Monday, disclosed the charges of those who hold that Oswald was only the triggerman for a conspiracy or—as his mother testified — a scapegoat for murderers still unca ught.

But the testimony revealed that those witnesses offered only admitted speculation, opinion, or unsupported theory.

Most of it was rebutted by the hard evidence against Oswald, piled up in thousands of pages of testimony and still more thousands of exhibits.

There were disagreements even among those at the centre of the nightmare events of Nov. 22, 1963. Did the dying president speak? No, said the widow, Jacqueline, who was splashed with his gushing life blood. Yes, said the Secret Service agent in the front seat, the president said, "My God, I am hit."

HEARD TWO SHOTS

Texas Governor John B. Connally heard only two shots, his wife heard three. On some other details those closest to the vortex of sudden swirling tragedy disagreed.

But the inexorable thrust of the mass of evidence was that:

Canada Raises Rate To 4½ PC

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada quickly nudged its lending rate up to 4¼ per cent from four per cent Monday night, just a few hours after the United States federal reserve bank hoisted its rate in the wake of a stiff increase by the Bank of England.

The chain reaction of increases began early Monday when the Bank of England, to halt a run on sterling, boosted its lending rate to seven per cent from five. To prevent an outflow of short-term U.S. capital as a result of the British move, the American rate was raised to four per cent from 3½.

Shortly afterwards, the Bank of Canada announced its increase.

The central bank's lending rate applies to infrequent advances to the eight chartered banks and is considered the leading indicator of the cost of credit in Canada. Any major increase usually signals a tightened money supply, but changes are not necessarily reflected in the rates of commercial lending institutions. Monday night's slight increase is unlikely to seriously alter the existing credit situation.

Offered Bribe Charged

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MP Erik Nielsen charged Monday that a former ministerial assistant offered a $20,000 bribe in a narcotics smuggling case and said the "tentacles" of the Mafia crime syndicate have reached into the federal government.

Mr. Nielsen rocked the Commons with his statement that Raymond Denis, when he was executive assistant to immigration Minister Tremblay, offered the bribe to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne.

He said it was an attempt to have Mr. Lamontagne, acting for the United States government, not oppose a bail application by Leo Rene Maranda Rivard, arrested in Montreal June 19 on charges of smuggling heroin into the United States.

Mr. Nielsen, member for the Yukon, also said that Guy Lord, former special assistant to Justice Minister Favreau, tried to "coerce" the lawyer by mentioning a cut-off of all further government legal work.

He said Mr. Denis was fired over the incident and he was assured Mr. Lord had been an "innocent dupe" although he had broken the law. Mr. Lamontagne rejected the bribe offer immediately, he added.

CALLS FOR ENQUIRY

NDP Leader Douglas called for a judicial inquiry and said he understands a third man.

Condition of Quints Remains Precarious for Ten Days

PARIS (AP)—Doctors keeping vigil over the new French quintuplets said today their condition still remain precarious for at least 10 or 13 days.

The three boys and two girls born prematurely Monday to a postman's 27-year-old wife lay in incubators at the pediatrics centre of the Paris faculty of medicine.

"The fragility of the children is extreme," said a statement from the clinic. "It is impossible at this time to comment on their chances for survival."

Professor Marcel Lelong, director of the pediatrics centre, said the last baby to arrive was having temperature trouble. He did not explain.

The mother, Mrs. Raymond Sambor, gave birth about two months ahead of schedule in a private clinic in suburban Asnieres, where her 35 - year - old husband delivers mail. She was reported in excellent health.

The babies, weighing less than three pounds, each arrived at intervals of about 10 minutes.

"We knew a month ago they were coming," said Dr Rene Chasques, who made the deliveries. "They showed up on the first x-ray, so everything was ready."

Chasques and other doctors at the clinic had been studying up on multiple births. They believe the Sambors are the first quintuplets to be born in Europe.

Four other sets of quintuplets are known to be alive: Four boys and a girl born to Mr. and Mrs. Filiberto Mariano in Montzahique Nov. 16, 1964; four girls and a boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pischer of Aberdeen, S.D., Sept. 14, 1963; five boys born to Mr. and Mrs. Efren Lobin Prieto in Venezuela Sept. 7, 1963, and two boys and three girls born to Mr. and Mrs Franco Diligenti in Argentina July 15, 1943.

The Dionne girls were born in Callander, Ont., in 1934 but one of them died in 1954.

The children have been named. In order of birth they are Catherine, who weighed in at two pounds, 2½ ounces; Thierry, two pounds, eight ounces; Monique, two pounds, 11 ounces; Dominique, two pounds, 12 ounces, and Jean-Luc, two pounds, seven ounces.

The Sambors also have two sons, Yves, 5, and Jean-Paul, 3.

Sambor, who has been making $120 a month as a postman, said he was worried about the future.

"I don't know yet what I'm going to do and whether I'm going to look for another job," he told reporters. "I've asked for a leave of absence. I've got to get organized."

One problem will be living quarters for the expanded family. Their apartment consists of two bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath.

A government official promised aid in locating a larger home. A number of children's clothing and baby food firms made overtures for endorsements. The family hired a public relations expert.

Rebels Kill 50 Captives As Belgian Paratroopers Take Stanleyville Airport

American Missionary, Dr. P. Carlson, Is Among Foreigners Murdered

By KENNETH L. WHITING

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Belgian paratroopers swarmed down on Stanleyville today and seized virtual control of the rebel capital, but not before about 50 foreign hostages were killed, including a U.S. missionary doctor, official reports said.

U.S. transport planes flew in the paratroopers, and some of them were shot at and reported damaged. But they were able to carry out their mission.

As the Belgians landed, white-led Congolese government soldiers attacked Stanleyville. The attacking troops moved quickly to free the rest of 1,613 foreigners held as hostages and marked for slaughter by the rebel regime should their capital be attacked. More than 30 Canadians were among the hostages.

Refugees flown to Leopoldville from Stanleyville said the rebels had killed Dr. Paul Carlson, medical missionary from Rolling Hills, Calif. He had been condemned as a spy, a charge denied by Washington.

(The state department in Washington said Carlson was among 250 hostages herded by the Congolese rebels into Lac mumba Square and fired upon. Belgian officials reports said 15 hostages were killed and 40 were wounded when the rebels machine - gunned them in the square. The state department notified Carlson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Carlson of Alhambra, Calif., and his brother Dr. Dwight Carlson of Orange, Calif.)

Accounts of the "monument massacre" were told by the first planeload of survivors to reach here.

The embassy spokesman said about 15 men, women and children were killed at the spot.

They included an American woman identified as Miss Phyllis Rice of the Christian Mission Society. The rest were believed to have been Belgians.

About 40 persons were said wounded in the machine-gun massacre.

A 43-year-old Belgian resident of Stanleyville, Mademoiselle Frere, who ran a small hotel in the rebel stronghold, gave the following account of the massacre:

"For about one month we had been interned in the Victoria Hotel. This morning about 6 a.m. all of us were called out of our rooms and forced into the streets by the rebels.

"They marched us down the street and then made us sit down on the street right near the Lumumba Monument. For one hour a discussion went on about what they were going to do to us.

"Then the rebel leader (a Colonel Opepe) shouted an order. The next thing they started firing.

"It was awful. It went on for so long. I remember them reloading three or four times."

Mme. Frere said everybody tried to get away when the shooting started and there was mass confusion. Belgian paratroops moved in just as the rebels opened fire.

"The rebels then fled as the paratroops moved in, but most got away as the paratroops could not fire because of the many hostages in the way."

Canadians Standing By

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Canadian officials are standing by at Leopoldville and Nairobi to go to Stanleyville at the first opportunity to find out the fate of more than 30 Canadians who had been held hostage by Congolese rebels, authorities here said today.

The official at Nairobi is Michael Gauvin who had been on a special mission to try to arrange freeing of the hostages. The other official, unnamed, is a member of the Canadian embassy in Leopoldville.

In Brussels, Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak said he was informed that "at least 50 non-Africans have been killed."

Some of the foreigners were shot down when they dashed toward the airport as the news of the Belgian paratroop landing swept the rebel capital in the northeast Congo.

Spaak said 200 foreigners were held in a Stanleyville hotel, and at least 15 were killed when the soldiers of left

Fear Canadian Missionary Victim in Machine-Gunning Of Crowd of 250 Hostages

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP-Reuters)—A United States embassy spokesman said today a Canadian missionary, Rev. Hector McMillan of Avonmore, Ont., was among white hostages killed by Congolese rebels after Belgian troops landed in Stanleyville in a rescue operation.

(In Toronto, however, Rev. George Thomas, Canadian secretary of the unevangelized Fields Mission, of which Mr. McMillan was a member said, he had received word indicating the Canadian was safe.

(Mr. Thomas said he was advised at 9:30 a.m. by the mission's North American headquarters at Philadelphia that all 16 Canadians with the UFM in The Congo were safe.)

Mr. McMillan and his wife and six sons had been among Canadians reported held hostage by the rebels in the Stanleyville area.

The fate of Mrs. McMillan, the sons and the other, Canadians was not immediately known.

The embassy spokesman said Mr. McMillan was among those killed in the "Lumumba Monument massacre." The monument in the centre of Stanleyville is dedicated to Patrice Lumumba, slain leftist first premier of The Congo when it gained independence from Belgium.

Dr. Paul Carlson, American missionary doctor under sentence of death by the rebels on spy charges, was reported among those killed beside the monument.

Spokesmen said 250 hostages were herded together for an hour at the monument while the rebels decided what to do with them. Then the rebels machine-gunned the crowd.

Work Crews Commence Grim Task Of Recovering Bodies From Wreck

From AP-Reuters

ROME (CP)—Work crews today began the grim task of recovering bodies from the wreckage of a TWA Boeing 707 jet airliner that crashed during takeoff at Rome's Fiumicino Airport Monday with the loss of 40 lives, including a Canadian.

The plane never got off the ground as it started a takeoff for Athens and Cairo on the windup of a flight that began in Kansas City and came to Rome via Chicago, New York, Paris and Milan.

The giant Trans World Airlines 707 faltered as it sped down the long runway, overran its takeoff point, hit a road grader parked on a cross runway under construction and plowed to a stop as flames and explosions ripped the fuselage and wings.

Twenty-eight of the 72 persons aboard — most of them Americans and many of them TWA employees—survived the disaster.

The dead Canadian was listed by the airline as Pandelis P. Tsamanis of Toronto, believed to be a Greek waiter on his way to Athens.

Some of the survivors were hurled 80 yards by the explosions that turned the airliner into a white mass of burning wreckage.

Eight of the survivors were in critical condition.

Almost incredibly, others came out of the disaster with not a scratch. A pilot plane ground to a halt with flames enveloping it, doors opened and passengers jumped to the ground.

Of the 45 dead, 37 were passengers and eight were crew members. Of the 28 survivors, there were 19 passengers and nine crew members. The plane was carrying a double crew for a later changeover.

Wilson Sharply Assails Plan For Multi-Nation Nuclear Fleet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson appears to have dealt a severe —if not fatal — blow to the proposed NATO mixed nuclear fleet Monday by declaring Britain opposes the project.

Wilson told the House of Commons Monday his Labor government believes "a mixed manned surface fleet adds nothing to Western strength, is likely to cause dissipation of strength in the alliance and may add to the difficulties of East-West agreement."

On the surface, his statement puts London in opposition to Washington's plan at the moment when it seemed to officials here that the new British government's interest in the fleet had given fresh cause for hope that, perhaps after some modification, it might be acceptable to a number of NATO allies.

U.S. officials were surprised at the flatness of Wilson's declaration, but there was some feeling here that the proposed NATO mixed nuclear fleet may be declaring Britain opposes the project.

Wilson told the House of Commons Monday his Labor government believes "a mixed manned surface fleet adds nothing to Western strength, is likely to cause dissipation of strength in the alliance and may add to the difficulties of East-West agreement."

At the same time he declared "we are irrevocably committed against more fingers on the (nuclear) trigger." London's aim, said Wilson, is to have the United States serve as the custodian of Western nuclear power.

The position Wilson outlined appears to leave little room for manoeuvre in an effort to reach accommodation with the strong positions already taken by the United States and West Germany in favor of the proposed 25-ship fleet. Armed with Polaris nuclear missiles, it would be largely controlled by participating nations and they would share the cost and provide the manpower for the vessels.

Wilson's statement came as State Secretary Dean Rusk and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder were start ing two days of discussions on U.S.-German and NATO problems, centring around the multilateral force (MLF) plan.

Neither the state department nor Schroeder reacted publicly to what Wilson said.

Privately, U.S. officials said that on this issue Wilson's stated position is close to that of French President de Gaulle. The French position is that the West Germans must choose between closer ties with France and closer ties with the United States on the MLF.

Legal Opinion Showed Banks Could Not Be Charged With Theft, Embezzlement of Fund

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Another angry round of debate over public funds that Banks bought his freedom from the Liberal government. This feeling had been reinforced by reports that the SIU gave $1,000 each to five Montreal Liberal candidates in the 1962 election.

"Perhaps Mr. Banks has been the new Liberal national bank," the Conservative MP said. "Perhaps he has been behind the whole Liberal campaign.

Mr. Favreau protested: "It is all very well to smear reputations by innuendo, by insinuation."

"The old character assassin," a Liberal MP shouted at Mr. Woolliams.

Mr. Woolliams said Banks apparently was allowed to get out of the country because of his connections with certain people. A full inquiry should be ordered to learn the facts.

READ FROM LETTER

Mr. Favreau reported Mr. Robinette's opinion by reading part of a letter from the lawyer.

This touched off an opposition demand that the entire letter be tabled. An argument raged for 25 minutes over whether the letter was a public document, finally ending when Mr. Favreau agreed to table it.

The tabling could not be done until the end of the night's sitting, however, and the letter was not available to the press until today.

He said Banks would never have been allowed out on bail if the chief justice of Quebec, who granted bail, had been supplied with "available and complete evidence as to the actions of Mr. Banks."

There was suspicion in the public minds that Banks bought

Kiwanians Hold 'Ladies' Night' To End Year

Addressing the annual President's Dinner and "Ladies' Night of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville held at the Hotel Quinte last night, President Robert Freestone said he felt the Kiwanis Club of Belleville had served its purpose as a service club during the past year.

"Service is the rent we pay for the space we occupy," he said, and added "I feel that we have paid our rent."

Mr. Freestone thanked everyone for their co-operation during the past year and said he was most happy and honored to have been able to serve as their president.

Presentations were in order, the most important being the presentation of an honorary membership to Kiwanian Staff McKenna; 12 members each received a rose in recognition of outstanding work during the past year. They were B. J. Bradley, M. Moffat, R. Dulmage, B. Wilson, F. Beistedt, G. Herchak, R. Heath, C. Hulme, G. Wishart, Neil Davidson, P. Allcorn and K. McDonald. A third presentation was made to Mrs. R. Share Will be Added to City's Costs

Sometimes it costs more to collect money than the amount received.

And that is the situation Belleville city hall has found it would be in if part of the cost of the Dundas Street West sidewalk was collected on an area assessment basis.

Council yesterday gave first and second readings to a by-law for constructing the proposed walk at an estimated cost of $30,000. The total $2,272 was to be collected from area property owners.

Builders Oppose Impost Levy On Undeveloped City Land, Council Tables Resolution

Members of the Quinte Home Builders' Association along with local realtors strongly oppose city council's intention to levy an impost towards the cost of installing trunk sanitary and storm sewers in undeveloped areas of the city.

Quinte Home Builders turned out in force yesterday at city council to protest the impost while another group of private developers also lodged an objection against the city's intentions.

In the end, council agreed to reduce impost schedule by 25 percent and then laid over for two weeks further consideration of its impost resolution. Council's intension is to levy the impost against all undeveloped land in the city, whether it is for residential, commercial or industrial use.

Two weeks ago council approved the impost and directed that a covering by-law be brought in to council.

However, the city solicitor advised the matter should be dealt with by resolution instead of by by-law and accordingly it was back to council yesterday in resolution form.

The impost originally decided on by council was at the rate of 85 per foot of frontage for residential building lots; $1.415 per acre for multi-family property plus $30 per residential suite; $1.130 per acre for commercial property, and $500 per acre for industrial property.

RATES REDUCED

Last night, however, these rates were reduced by 25 per cent when an amendment by Mayor Jack Ellis was approved by council. The resolution itself was laid over for two weeks.

Appearing as spokesman on behalf of the Quinte Home Builders' Association, lawyer Leo Marrocco claimed the proposed impost would seriously affect the future growth of the city.

He said the $300 impost against residential properties would increase the down payment for the purchaser and also claimed the impost in many instances would be unfair as storm sewers might not be required in the area for years.

From the builders' viewpoint he said the impost would mean these men would have to acquire additional capital, and might even drive smaller contractors out of business and force them to build in surrounding municipalities.

He end result, Mr. Marrocco said, could be to cause a serious reduction in building in the city, reduce employment, curtail business and increase welfare rolls.

SAID SERIOUS STEP

He said it would be a serious step for a community the size of Belleville to impose such an impost and asked that the matter be tabled for further study.

R. Lorne Mowbray, farm adviser for a group of private developers who had year purchased the Mosamin farm along North Sidney Street, said his group had applied for a new division plan for 60 residential lots.

If the impost was made effective, this would mean an outlay of about $25,000 he said.

He felt that his group should be allowed to proceed with development as other firms in the same general area had been allowed to do.

The impost resolution resulted in considerable discussion by council members.

Alderman Don Whalen said it was just another example of council moving too hasty. He said at no time had council extended the courtesy of having groups affected appear before council.

CLAIMS WRONG APPROACH

He said the matter had been dealt with wrongly two weeks ago and that council should have realized the impost would be detrimental to the economy of the city and also to industrial development.

Alderman Enos David agreed the matter should have been deferred for two weeks to allow more consideration, but on the whole he felt the many municipalities had imposed such an impost on undeveloped land.

Alderman Ross Doolan doubted that the $300 impost on residential lots would have any effect on the cost of new homes. He noted that owners were being asked to pay only 25 per cent of the estimated cost of services and suggested that the remaining 75 per cent be more benefits should have to pay.

In any event, he said that $300 was a small amount to assume relief from the 25 per cent impost.

City solicitor William Jarvis said it would take millions of dollars to provide the necessary services for undeveloped Belleville area and residents should be advised what the impost would be to open up this area.

MUST FACE ISSUE

He said that the matter should be tabled to give citizens to be informed of the cost.

But Alderman Don Williams took the same view. "We must think of the future," he said. "We are up with the delegation but are they thinking of the future?" he asked.

Alderman Corbett Denyes said he thought the impost would frighten away industry away from Belleville. "I think we are stupid to think that if they did not pay this they would not have to pay later," he said.

He said that basically the impost was a very forward step.

TAKES SAME VIEWS

Mayor Ellis also took the view that the impost would confer industry from locating in Belleville.

He said it would indicate that the city was taking the bull by the horns to provide money for the trunk sewer construction.

He went further to say he believe the number of housing starts in 1965 would be as much as in 1964 regardless of the impost going into effect.

The mayor said Belleville had a very favorable per capita tax rate when compared with many Ontario municipalities. The per capita rate in Belleville was said to be $90 as compared with up to $115 in certain other centres.

"Because of the attractive per capita tax people wanted to live in Belleville," he said.

EXPECTS EXCEPTION

When the mayor brought in his amendment to reduce by 25 percent the suggested impost rates, Alderman Ross asked him of bowing to "pressure groups."

"The pressure groups have already exerted 25 percent of the pressure needed to wipe out the impost," he said.

Mayor Ellis took exception to the remark and said the amendment had actually been written prior to opening of the council meeting.

Council approved the amendment by Mayor Ellis and then on motion from Alderman Doug Boyle voted to lay the entire matter over for two weeks to allow further consideration.

Aldermen Vote To Increase Pay by $250

With only one dissenting voice, Belleville aldermen yesterday voted themselves a $250 increase in their annual allowance, bringing their remuneration up to $1,000 from the present $750.

Alderman Don Whalen was the only councillor opposing the recommendation brought in by the finance committee.

The dissenting alderman said that no monetary value should be placed on council membership but that it should be considered as a "public service." He said if a monetary value were placed on council membership service the amount would have to be at least $2,500 per year.

Alderman Ronald Boyle said he approved the proposed increase to $1,000 but said there should be a $15 deduction for non-attendance at committee meetings the same as for regular meetings.

But his amendment was defeated. It was one put forth by Alderman Douglas Boyle who suggested an allowance of $1,200 per annum.

The increase to $1,000 will go into effect January 1.

Cardinals' Queries Suggest Great Change May Yet Come In Stand on Birth Control

U. S. Bank Discount Rate Is Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States put a bigger bank discount rate into effect today as a safeguard against the flow of dollars abroad.

At the same time, the government hopes to keep the domestic economy on course by modestly increasing the funds available to bankers, businessmen and consumers.

The Federal Reserve Board Monday ordered an increase to four per cent from 3½ per cent in the discount rate—The interest bankers must pay when they obtain funds from the federal reserve system. The board acted after Britain jumped its bank rate to seven per cent from five per cent earlier in the day. Monday night, the Bank of Canada raised its rate to 4¼ per cent from four per cent.

Today, Representative Wright Patman, chairman of the House of Representatives banking and currency committee, charged that the action would aid the vigorous business expansion that has run 45 months.

Patman, Texas Democrat, has fought thrifty for years for lower interest rates, arguing that only bankers benefit from a tight money policy.

CAN PAY MORE

Banks will be permitted to pay four per cent interest on savings deposits regardless of how long the funds have been in the bank. Previously, the maximum rates were $4.5 per cent on deposits of less than a year and four per cent on longer deposits.

The new rates on time deposits are four per cent for funds left for 90 days and 4.5 per cent for deposits of longer duration.

Patman charged that the board had acted on orders from the American Bankers Association, which recently called for a tighter check on monetary policy. He said Americans pay $75,000,000,000 in interest a year and that they were victims of an international "money cartel."

He said it was ludicrous that the richest nation in the world should follow Britain's lead.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council's 1964 session left birth control an issue still unresolved, but it posed questions that imply the possibility of historic changes in church teaching.

Some of the council's prelates took the floor during debate on family planning and marriage morality to ask:

Might not centuries of church teaching have been misconstrued?

Might not the Roman Catholic moral laws on conception be in direct conflict with the need of man and wife to express their mutual love physically?

Experts see in such challenges to traditional teaching—raised by Cardinals Paul-Emile Leger of Montreal, Leon Joseph Suenens of Belgium and others —a milestone in Catholic thinking on birth control, even though official Catholic teaching remains unchanged.

That teaching long has been that procreation is the one chief purpose of marriage, that any interference with sexual intercourse by means of interruption or the use of contraceptive devices is sinful.

In recent decades the rhythm system to avoid pregnancy has won conditional church acceptance, and in the last few years theologians have been told they can can follow it to space out their families, if they consider it necessary, without consulting a priest.

The Vatican council's schema (draft decree) on the Church in the modern world includes a section on marriage and family. It says that science and psychology have made recent advances and gained new insights affecting the biology and the human relations of married couples. And Catholic couples to be patient while experts look into theological and scientific possibilities.

Neither the schema nor the cardinals and bishops who spoke to it during the debate have pushed for any council action on the new pills. Pope Paul announced three months ago that would be the subject of a special study "as wide and profound as it must be on a subject of such importance."

Most speakers endorsed the Pope's announced study.

But the speeches of progressives went deeper than that.

Cardinal Leger of Montreal brought up the matter of contraception, saying the child-bearing duty should not be tied to each individual act of sexual course.

The Canadian cardinal said he thought it wise that the schema made no distinction of primary and secondary goals in marriage. But it does little good "if the schema does not speak of conjugal love except in so far as it has relation to fecundity," he added.

Cardinal Suenens of Brussels urged the council not to be afraid of re - examining traditional church moral laws on marriage.

Report Heavy Fog for Cup Game Unlikely

TORONTO (CP) — Weather statistics of the last 20 years indicate that chances is heavy fog, a significant snowfall or a heavy downpour are unlikely for Saturday's Grey Cup football spectacle at Canadian National Exhibition Stadium here.

The statistics suggest a cloudy day with temperatures near 40 degrees and a westerly wind of 10 to 15 miles per hour. Chances of rain are about one in five, of heavy snowfall one in 20 and of seeing more ice than four.

However, Gordon Gee, meteorologist supervisor for the Department of Transport, said it is not impossible that there could be a repetition of the fog that enshrouded the CNE stadium for the last event in 1962 nor the famous 1950 mudbowl match at Varsity Stadium.

"Any forecast now in terms of specifics for the Grey Cup game is almost impossible, Gee said Monday. "There could be two or three centres of low pressure go through here before Saturday."

ONLY TWO SUNNY

A look at the record book shows that in the 20-year period from 1948 to the present, only two days were sunny, the temperatures has ranged from 30 to 50 degrees, rain has fallen on four of the days and although light flurries of snow have been observed several times, only one significant snowfall occurred—Nov. 28, 1958 and 7.5 inches fell.

A warm front would be required to produce fog conditions such as those which existed during the 1963 Grey Cup game and turned it into a two-day affair.

"That might not happen again in 20 years," said Gee. "As it was, it was just a localized condition. The fog receded during the night before the game, but a southeast wind freshened and brought it back for the game."

PRESENT COAT

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives of the Toronto Junior Board of Trade, sponsors of the Grey Cup Festival in Toronto, Monday presented a fur-lined suede stadium coat to Prime Minister Pearson to wear at next Saturday's football classic. The prime minister told the group he is looking forward to the Grey Cup game, which he will kick off. The coat was made in Elmira, Ont.

Moira Conservation Authority Has 14,218 Acres of Property, Over Two Million Trees Planted

Since its formation back in the late 1940's, the Moira River Conservation Authority has acquired a total of 14,218 acres of property and has planted well over two million trees.

These figures are included in a twenty-year history of property includes 13,340 acres of reforestation property and 869 acres of conservation and water control property.

The total number of trees planted is 2,183,225, with 288,600 being planted this year by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

MUCH IN HUNGERFORD

Close to two-thirds of the total area is in the Townships of Hungerford and Elzevir with the balance spread equal slight other townships in the southern part of Hastings and two townships in Lennox and Addington.

During the year nine properties comprising 934 acres were recommended for purchase by the Authority. At the same time 30 acres in Hungerford Township were sold to a mining company; 90 acres in Thurlow Township were transferred to the Belleville Fish and Game Club to be used for wild life conservation and one acre in Hungerford, was sold to the Ontario Department of Highways to widen Highway No. 7.

SMALL DAM BUILT

Major activity of the Authority during 1964 included construction of a small dam near Downey's Rapids to control the level of Moira Lake and further development of the Vanderwater, Price and O'Hara Mill conservation areas.

A new camp area was developed at the Vanderwater area with 40 new camp sites being constructed together with fireplaces and a well drilled to provide water for campers.

The forestry demonstration plots were enlarged and 11,000 more trees planted.

USED BY MANY GROUPS

More than 30 large picnic groups used the Vanderwater area during the summer and each year sees an increasing number of tourists using camping facilities.

The picnic areas at the Price Conservation area at Actinolite were expanded and five acres of land is being purchased to provide access to the new picnic area on the west side of the Skootamatta River.

At O'Hara's Mill the millpond was improved, the dam was repaired and a gate valve installed to reduce water leakage from the pond.

Council Exempts YMCA From General Tax Levy

Belleville city council yesterday passed a recommendation providing for an amendment to a private bill exempting the new YMCA in east Belleville from payment of the general tax levy.

Earlier in the meeting W. S. Wills, president of the YMCA board of directors, presented a brief asking the new YMCA be exempted from all taxation except local improvements and school purposes.

However, the city has annually donated sums of money, which have stood equivalent to the annual school tax.

PROPOSAL TURNED DOWN

The amendment to the private bill approved by council calls only for general rate tax exemption, but no limit is placed on the value of the property.

Council turned down a proposal by Mayor Jack Ellis that the YMCA also be exempted from payment of school taxes.

In presenting the YMCA brief, Mr. Wills outlined the services which the "Y" provides for the community.

Since the opening of the new building in East Belleville, he said membership has increased from 934 to 1712 with the youth membership increasing from 400 to 865. Attendance for Oct. 1963 was 2,144 and for the same month this year had increased to 4,932.

In presenting the recommendation calling for tax exemption for the "Y" on the general rate only, Alderman Ben Corke said there were many people in Belleville who were not great support ers of the "Y".

He said he realized the value of the "Y" to the city but pointed out there were many people in the city who did not use its services.

Canada's Prisons To Be Improved Says Favreau

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Favreau announced in the Commons Monday a program of development for Canadian penal institutions that he said will help "will mean a conclusive end" to statements that Canada ranks with in the world in prison penalty.

Opening consideration of his department's 1964-65 spending estimates, Mr. Favreau said a two - phase program covering 1963-67 and 1967-73 is underway.

For Canada's four regions—Atlantic provinces, Quebec, Ontario, Western Canada—it would provide institutions of varying security and with training programs based on the "reformative needs of the inmates to be confined in the particular institution."

Reception facilities would be provided to diagnose prisoners and assign them to appropriate institutions. There would be hospital facilities for medical and psychiatric services and "pre-release hostels" designed to prepare convicts for their return and successful adjustment to civilian life.

Meet Approves Zoning for Study Area

City council yesterday approved of the basic land use pattern and zoning for northeast city area bounded by North Front, College and Sidney Streets and Highway 401, as recommended in the planning study for this area.

The one exception is the commercial uses relating to North Front Street for which a supplementary report will be brought in.

Also approved by council were the road widening plans proposed in the study for North Front Street, College Street and Sidney Street, and also the alignment and reservation width proposed for the new east-west collector road link between North Front and Sidney Street.

Major Tourist Spending Spree By Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians in 1964 went on a major tourist spending spree in other countries, notably Europe.

The result will be a deficit in Canada's tourist trade balance this year after a small surplus in 1963. Over-all expenditures by Canadian tourists in other countries reached a new effort spending by visitors to Canada.

Forecasts of this 1964 trend and some of the reasons for it will be given today to the annual federal-provincial tourist conference by officials of the bureau of statistics.

Last year Canada had a favorable tourist trade balance of $13,000,000. Visitors to Canada Tackaberry, George Green, R. J. (Dick) Whitley, Donald McPherson, Vernon Wannamaker, L. C. Phinney, Herbert Simrod, and Paul Tripp have said they will stand for council. Three seats are vacant. Alfred Vaupp an said last week he may run for council.

That Gift to Indonesia

Canada will donate $350,000 worth of wheat flour to Indonesia in spite of that country's declared intention to take over Malaysia, a Commonwealth country. Australia, New Zealand and Britain are, also, providing Indonesia with non-strategic aid, but Conservatives in the House of Commons tried last week to kill the Canadian efforts. In a superficial way, the Conservative efforts appear to be justified.

But are they? Indonesia is trying to kill the Malaysian Federation in direct opposition to Commonwealth support of the new nation, but is this of any interest to the Colombo Plan, under which the flour donation is to be made. It is of no interest.

The Colombo Plan is a plan for peace, and should be kept distinct from, and as far as possible independent of, war preparations.

The Canadian flour may be used to feed soldiers while they kill Malaysian and, perhaps, other Commonwealth soldiers, but it is being shipped to Indonesia to feed Indonesian civilians. Canada might withhold it, as an adult might withhold goodies from a spoiled child, but this would make little difference to the Indonesian armies. The armies of a country at war, especially the armies of a totalitarian country at war, will get fed whether the civilians starve or not.

By withholding the gift, Canada would be advertising to Indonesia and to the world that the reason for the gift is self interest, and that Canada has no real concern for the peoples of underdeveloped countries that would continue if such countries disbanded their armies. That is, unintensely, probably partly true. But by giving the flour to a potential enemy, Canada can give the impression that Canadians, (and, by inference, the peoples of other wealthy countries), are really sponsoring foreign-aid programs in a disinterested effort to help people who need help. True or not, this is a good impression to spread through the world.

What of Tomorrow?

The total of public spending on education in Canada in the current year is forecast by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at $2,750,600,000. Five years ago, according to the same source, the total was only $1,426,642,000. Our needs and obligations in this field, of course, will continue to expand.

These are facts to measure against points raised in a recent speech by Mr. A. J. Little, newly elected president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Governments, said Mr. Little, are making too many decisions on the basis of politics rather than economics; without knowing where the money will be found to meet existing commitments, costly new commitments are being made. There is no question that genuine welfare needs must be met but, as in the case of the Canada Pension Plan proposal, vast sums are being transferred to people who are quite capable of looking after themselves.

Mr. Little noted the rising tax cost of the old age security pension from $691,000,000 to $900,000,000 over the past two years. Cost of the proposed new retirement pension, which would do little if anything for the poor, would be at least $500,000,000 a year, and the proposal for a complete medical care program would add $600,000,000 a year to our payments to governments.

"These are not the only big commitments on our doorstep," Mr. Little added. "We have yet to find the way to meet our rapidly expanding cost of education, training and retraining of our labor force, research, roads, housing, etc., all necessary for continued progress."

Politicians are inclined to live for today; but the workingman, the taxpayer, has to think for tomorrow. As is being urged in many quarters, it is absolutely essential that the federal and provincial governments defer extensions of welfare spending until a study has been made of resources and needs, and an orderly system of priorities established.

Mental illness tends to run in families. That this is so is often cited in support of the gene theory. But remember that, as well as inheriting his family's nose, a man inherits his family's money, or interest in mines or roses. Transmission through environmental mechanisms is at least as important as the physical inheritance of genes.—A. Russell Davies, Professor of Mental Health, University of Bristol.

I would much rather people were worked up about unimportant issues than not worked up at all.—Jo Grimond, leader of Britain's Liberal Party.

To Your Good Health
Cushioning the Feet May Relieve Pain of Spurs

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does a spur occur only on the heel? Could too much or too little of something in the diet cause it? — Mrs. H. M.

Dear Doctor: Is there a cure for spurs in the heels? The pain is very painful. I have been taking ultrasonic treatments which do not seem to help. I have them in both heels and they seem to be on the bone right where I walk. — B. M. W.

Such spurs can occur in tendons elsewhere — but they are not where your full weight comes on them. That is why we hear a lot about heel spurs but rarely of them otherwise.

Put it this way: A mighty small pebble in your shoe can be painful because your weight presses on it. The same pebble would not matter much in a glove.

Diet has nothing to do with formation of spurs. Rather, the calcification (think of it as an accumulation of pebbles) that is what it is) forms because the tendon has been damaged in some way. The healing results in this lumpy hardness.

Repeated pressure can cause it, or injury (such as jumping and landing with your weight on the heel) or infection. Bursitis is an example of the latter.

Depending on the precise location and size, some spurs are painful, others are not.

Careful cushioning of the foot with an innersole placed so as to take pressure off the painful spot, is in general the best solution.

Ultrasonic treatments (actually a method of applying heat inside the tissues rather than just to the surface) can reduce inflammation if it is present, and thus be helpful, but they cannot remove the "spur." Consider them, rather, as an adjunct in acute cases. Unless you provide effective cushioning, you will simply keep on irritating the area.

Occasionally painful spurs have to be removed surgically, but the cushioning should be tried first, plus such additional temporary measures as your doctor believes may be helpful in your particular case — ultrasonic treatments, soaking the feet in hot water, and trying to keep off your feet, giving the inflammation a chance to subside.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any truth in saying that an unborn baby can be marked? I hear so many older people say not to do certain things or the baby will be marked. I am 30 and pregnant. — Mrs. L. C.

No, there's no truth to that saying, but many of the older generation believe it, and they keep on worrying younger people with it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently had surgery for breast cancer. It seems like people I have been around act differently now. Is there danger to anyone else? We have lots of small children in the family. Would there be any harm from me holding them, cooking their meals, etc? We cancer patients have a lot to lead, too, but I also want to do the right thing for my family and friends. — Mrs. J. S. C.

Perhaps others "acting differently" is imagination on your part. I hope so, because cancer is not contagious and you can't harm the children or anyone else by touching them, cooking for them, holding them.

If any of your friends or relatives doubt this, show them this item in the paper. If they still have any doubt, it's up to them to check with as many doctors as they please. They'll get the same answer.

Strictly Personal
Harris Knee Deep in Boat Names

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Well, the Great Boat-Naming Contest is about over. A few letters are still dribbling in, but the polls have closed. Please, no more suggestions — my secretary can hardly keep up with the ordinary mail.

Among the many hundreds of letters, a few names kept coming up over and over again: "Strictly Personal," "Writer's Cramp," "Rough Draft," and "El Byd."

Most of the suggestions were keyed to the column. One of the best, and most recurrent, was "Mac Manifest." An astonishingly high number wanted "Shrink" or "Couch," which are my names spelled backwards. But I can't see much point to that, though I keep the boat in reverse gear.

Some of the suggestions were keyed to my job as a drama critic. "Critic's Choice" and "Intermission" were quite popular. Another one was "Drama Mine"

— a neat pun, entwining my craft and my aversion to the water.

"Column Left" was offered by many. Other favorites of this genre were "Column Bine," "Type" "Thirty," "Editorial Wee," "Printer," "Charming," "Keyword Ho," "Date Line," "Penman-Ship," "Out of Print," "Miss Print" and "Short Take."

One of my bridge - playing friends suggested that, since the boat will take a lot work and probably go down with seven, we call it "Small Slam." A wholesale meat merchant of my acquaintance weighed in with "Aperitif," which is a rather tasty name for a boat. And one of a director I know suggested that as my first aquatic venture, it should be called "Audition."

A lady with a puckish sense of humor came up with "Osmosis," which is surely the ultimate in irony for a tiny craft. Another, fed up with such mock-gallant names as "Invincible" and "Indomitable," voted for "Trepidity" — the most positive form of "intrepid."

Another friend had no printable suggestion, but did tell me about a name he gave to a fishing boat bought by his Hungarian neighbor: "Hunky Dory."

And I was informed of a man with a limping wife named Betty who blew up a conjugal storm by calling his boat "Shilly Shally." (This is almost as bad as the man who named his boat after his mother, Malvina: : "Mal de Mere.")

My 9-year-old boy, knowing I had purchased the boat from Don Hutson, the former Green Bay football player, came up with the most outrageous pun of all — he wants me to call it "Hutson's Buy." And my 7-year-old daughter said simply, "Call it 'Boat.'" Their mother, a more budget-minded type, offered "Float-Along." That's what I may have to float.

Ottawa Offbeat
Keith Davey Dipping In Political Hot Water

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Unable, obviously, to place their National Organizer, Keith Davey, under some kind of political house arrest, the Liberals may have made a start towards solving their particular personnel problem by publicly rebuking him.

Mr. Davey, who ordinarily quarterbacks the Federal Liberal campaign plays — he called the signals in the last three elections — has publicly proclaimed that what he considers as the "old-fashioned, go-to-meeting type of rally" is out, and that election-eering by television now is the "in" thing, politically.

And just as publicly, one of his top bosses, Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp has proclaimed him wrong, telling him so, on the platform, to his very face.

In what Mr. Davey considers "the new politics," it is his contention that most voters would rather sit out just about any election campaign at home, watching Prime Minister Pearson on television, than to go out to attend a party rally and hear some lesser political light in person.

Dead wrong, says Mr. Sharp. The Prime Minister hasn't got the local touch, so essential to winning the vote on the all-important constituency level. Television, while a conveniently easy, even lazy way of following a campaign and its issues, is a hit - and - miss and doesn't carry the vote-impact, as he called it, even for the Prime Minister or member of the Cabinet that at a living, breathing, handshaking, party rally, in the-flesh appearance does.

MASS AUDIENCE:

But, agrees Mr. Davey, so few now ever go to campaign rallies, why bother holding them? Why not, instead, make it easier for all concerned by confining the electioneering pretty well to television?

And anyway, who wants to make the voter mad by pitching politics at him when he is all set to watch "Bonanza" or Jack Benny or some such, providing, of course, that he bothers to tune in to the TV station.

Suppose campaign rallies are not well attended—and not all politicians agree that they are—the newspaper coverage, Mr. Sharp reminds the national organizer, is basic and fundamental, with top priority in any election.

Reports in the news columns of the papers, large and small, says Mr. Sharp agreeing with the practical experience of the working politician, are read by thousands.

Read at their leisure, when those thousands are prepared to listen, rather than be forced into their unwilling ears by television when they would rather sit or hear their banter on which The Untouchables.

The political candidate who can't be seen before holding a public rally, believes Mr. Sharp, is the candidate who doesn't get through. He is the one and no matter how often he televises his shadow on the screen in the essentially losing candidate.

The Liberals are hoping that, out of concern for Mr. Diefenbaker criticism, Mr. Davey may stay home, in and around Toronto where, they feel, he may do more damage than on the political missionary trail.

GOSPEL OF CONFESSION

It was just the other day, amid great groans and lively lamentations, they observed that he had been busy with some of this missionary work among the New Democrats, only to have his alarmed reports had it, down Nova Scotia way.

It was one for real concern that Mr. Davey was rumored to be carrying the Liberal gospel to the political NDP heathen, hoping to convert such as Malcolm MacInnis, who held Cape Breton, until Mitchell Sharp, "the short Parliament" of the Conservative minority government a couple of years ago.

The Liberals were less than ecstatic over the news since it followed so closely the rather disastrous results of an early Davey "conversion" that of Conservative Democrat Roderick Stewart whom he induced to see the political light just in time to take that classic clobbering for them in Ontario's Waterloo South.

With understandable modesty, Mr. Davey has been busy trying to decline all credit for the "saving" of Mr. Stewart from the sins of Socialism. But the Liberal find the evidence rather points to Mr. Davey since he was on hand at not particularly successful band at such conversions.

His earlier effort a political soul-saving landed him before the Commons Privileges and Elections Committee when Gerard Girouard, former Quebec Socred who defected to the Conservatives, testified that Mr. Davey had sought valiantly to have him embrace Liberalism instead.

Alas, Mr. Girouard proved invulnerable to the wiles of the national organizer. But Mr. Davey, who does not discourage sadly, carried on with missionary zeal in Waterloo South, and then, to hear the worried Liberals tell it, in Nova Scotia's Cape Breton, until Mitchell Sharp, Walter Gordon and some others of the party's high command summoned him home for what amounted to a public ticking off as a campaigner who still had something to learn.

Letter to The Editor

Jaycees Sponsor Many Fine Programs

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In regards to the recent editorial "Quite a Stunt," I would like to clarify several poignant details about Jaycees.

We do have other projects Mr. Editor. You may know of them. The Jaycees in Belleville (and all over the world) offer a young man between the ages of 18 and 35 a chance to train himself and his community, regardless of race, color, and creed. We offer, to be more specific: Public speaking courses, community development programing, civic affairs courses, Parliamentary procedure and international relations studies. To enumerate all the programs which Jaycees offer would consume more than two full pages of your paper. Yet, Mr. Editor we do pull some "crazy" stunts, so that IF more men who are interested in something more than the regular day-to-day offerings of our community may learn — by following — may lead — by following.

Zwick's Island playground equipment, trail barrels, park benches, junior rifle range are only a few of the too numerous projects that have been attempted and Jaycees have given to the city of Belleville — no matter which way you take it — Mr. Editor.

S. L. ALBERT,
Past Vice-President.
And Charter Member of the Belleville Jaycees.

Old Parties Are Rebuked

Ottawa Journal

NDP leader Douglas said his party won the Waterloo South byelection because it had campaigned on the issue of public "fooling about" on pensions and "frittering away" time in the house.

Mr. Douglas' opinion is shared by The Journal which has criticized both older parties for the impotence of this parliament.

The Conservatives have lost an Ontario seat which they won comfortably in 1963.

The Liberals ran as a candidate a man who was the NDP entry in 1963 and in the new ride he gathered only two-thirds of the votes he won last year. That is bitter medicine for a new government, lavish with promises, which sent its best speakers into the byelection campaign.

The Liberals held Westmoreland in the other byelection last night and will make much of that. But a New Brunswick stand-pat power got offers of Ontario rebuff in a contest where the failures of parliament were the leading issues. For the first part, the Conservatives can find no comfort in Westmoreland where their share of the total vote was substantially reduced as compared to 1963.

A deserved rebuke has been given the two old parties and, as Mr. Douglas said, the voters have told them to begin grappling with the important tasks parliament so far has delayed or fumbled.

Such terms as "synthetic resin" and "low-pressure lamination" may not mean much to the average citizen; but they are going to mean a lot in his daily life after the war.

One of the big chemical companies announces that it has developed a new synthetic resin plastic capable of being moulded under low-pressure lamination processes into articles of virtually any size or shape. Up to now, mass production of moulded plastics has been restricted to relatively small objects — radio cabinets, instrument housings, handle knobs, trimmings and small sheets, tubes and shapes.

Under the new system a fabric core tailored to the proper shape, is impregnated with the plastic, under heat and pressure making possible three-dimensional molds of bathtubs, luggage boats, furniture, wall panels, fenders, or trailer bodies.

War was brought home to the Japanese people when a mass raid by Superfortresses of the U.S. Army Air Force wreaked severe damage on Tokyo, 29 years ago today—in 1944. This was the first land-based attack on the Japanese capital and was launched from Saipan in the Marianas Islands, 1,500 miles away. In spite of the great distance each aircraft carried six tons of bombs.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell School Off Sidney Street Now Is in Operation

Over 300 eager students flocked into the newly-built Sir Mackenzie Bowell school, off Sidney Street, as its doors were opened for the first time Monday morning.

Built to accommodate grades 5 to 8, the new school contains seven regular classrooms, a Home Economics department, and an Industrial Arts room. Home Economics will consist of lessons on sewing, laundry, cooking, grooming hygiene and etiquette.

Texas FBI Agent Considered Oswald 'Quite Harmless'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony released Monday by the Warren commission included an allegation that a Texas FBI agent considered Lee Harvey Oswald "completely harmless" in the months preceding President Kennedy's assassination.

During questioning of Everett D. Glover, Dallas oil chemist of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, March 24, a letter written to the witness by a Swedish oil consultant was introduced. It said in part:

"It is interesting, but before we began to help Marina and the child, we asked the FBI in Dallas or in Fort Worth about Lee and he told us he (Oswald) was completely harmless."

The letter was written by Gerard de Geer, Swedish oil consultant, whose Russian-born wife, Jeanne, a Dallas clothes designer, had befriended Marina.

In testimony before the commission, de Mohrenschildt said he once remarked to Oswald that he had known Jacqueline Kennedy as a young girl and thought her husband was doing a very good job as president. De Mohrenschildt said Oswald replied:

"Yes, yes, yes."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dallas detective Capt. Will Fritz said Lee Harvey Oswald claimed he had broken only one law in his life.

"I told the officer in the (motion picture) show; he hit me in the eye and I guess he deserved it.

"That is the only law I violated. That is the only thing I have done wrong."

Fritz testified before the Warren commission.

Fritz said that Oswald denied killing either the president or police officer J. D. Tippit.

"He told me he was eating lunch with some of the employees when this (the assassination) happened, and that he saw all the excitement."

Oswald, Fritz said, declared and "I never fired a rifle, but had seen one in the book building two or three days earlier that the manager and some workers were examining.

WASHINGTON (AP) — How did Lee Oswald, who killed president Kennedy, appear to the woman who knew him best?

The testimony of Oswald's Russian-born wife, Marina, was made public by the Warren commission.

If he had any particular animosity toward John F. Kennedy, she said, he never spoke of it to his wife.

"From Lee's behavior," Mrs. Oswald told the commission, "I cannot conclude that he was angry with the president and therefore the thing is incomprehensible to me. Perhaps he hid it from me."

Then came Nov. 22, 1963, and when Mrs. Oswald heard Ken was dead she cried.

"He said that I should not worry, that everything would turn out well but I could see by his eyes he was guilty."

That was on Saturday, Nov. 23, the day before Oswald was killed by Jack Ruby.

Plight of Negroes in South Outlined at Rotary Meet

Conditions — dark conditions — under which negroes in the south, particularly in the state of Mississippi, were given, were outlined at the regular dinner meeting of the Rotary Club by a former Belleville High School graduate, Miss Dianne Burrows, a member of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee of Atlanta, Georgia.

Miss Burrows' remarks were focused mainly on the living conditions and rights of the Negro living in the State of Mississippi. She said that politicians fear the Negro vote more than anything else, because they are elected each year by a white electorate on the race issue.

Miss Burrows explained that a Negro vote would mean loss of power in Mississippi as well as in the Federal Government, because of a committee chairmanship would mean a shift of power to the north.

She also stated that only 42 percent of the Negro population in Mississippi vote and only seven percent of those of age to vote are registered.

The speaker explained that the reason for this was that the Negro will lose his job if he votes and since he works for a below average wage and has to support his family he is not worth his while to vote.

Miss Burrows also explained the school situation in the Negro sections of Mississippi, remarking that the average education in school among the Negro race is grade six.

INSTANCE RECALLED

One instance recalled by the young civil rights worker was when she arrived at this home, a southerner had called on the other end of the line then said, "Well, if you aren't a nigger, then you must be pretty low down while trash to be living there".

A graduate of the University of Toronto, Miss Burrows took part in an intensive series of summer projects in Mississippi involving 300 student workers. While's several times.

DIANNE BURROWS

Some 300 have remained to continue the work, some have returned to school and some — ton in Mississippi — are attempting to raise funds to support next summer's operations.

Dianne is back in Canada until the end of January at least, in an attempt to find a sponsor to bring a group of young men called the SNCC Freedom singers, who tell the story of the Negro. It is the hope that is raise enough money to be able to bring this group to Belleville.

She is doing this by speaking to various organizations such as the Rotary Club, Young People's Groups and Church organizations.

While in Biloxi, Miss., the 25 members of Dianne's group talked with ministers and civic leaders. They went then to speak out for the integrationist's cause in the south. The group was considered "outside foreigners" — a term that included anyone north of Tennessee.

Miss Burrows said, however, that many of the local people realized the group was doing things they themselves should have done, but could not because of reprisals from extremists in the community.

When asked how she liked living in Biloxi, Miss Burrows replied, "I was scared every minute I was there". She added that she had been threatened by

Women Out of School Ten To 30 Years Learning to Be Nurses in New Course

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — Women who have been out of school 10 to 30 years are learning to be nurses in an experimental program here. And though determined and intelligent, they admit there are problems in adjusting to classroom routine.

Finding time to do homework after a 9-to-5 day in school is a problem for those with families. Some are rusty at book work and suffered from back - to - school nerves when the course opened in September.

But Margaret Mackenzie, director of the course, says she is confident of their ability to complete the two-year course. And she is already impressed with the easy relationship these mature student nurses have developed with patients.

The idea of a school for women in the 30-to-50 age group grew out of a project of the Catholic Hospital Conference of Ontario.

The thought was that women who were probably already married and had had their families would be likely to stay in the nursing profession longer than young unmarried graduates of nursing schools.

The school is independent and non-sectarian. Its funds, for now, come from the Ontario Hospital Services Commission and are channelled through St. Joseph's Hospital which provides classroom and clinical facilities.

GOOD ATTITUDE

Thirty-two women between 30 and 50 make up the first class of Quo Vadis, as the school is known.

"The students are very concerned about learning," Miss Mackenzie says. "Their interest has remained at a high level. Their attitude toward studying makes them themselves is exceptionally high."

Entrance tests showed the women to be above average in intelligence, determination and motivation. But after varying periods away from school, most had difficulty adjusting to book work. Tests were more nervous than expected.

"I knew there were bachelors," said Norman Mc-Adam of Toronto, "but I didn't know there were so many of them."

Miss Mackenzie says curriculum, teaching methods, age grouping and the number of students all may change on the basis of experience.

For example, the school may give tests earlier in the year to help students overcome initial book-reading. And future classes are less likely to suffer from back-to-school nerves because they won't be subject to the pressures inevitabe with the first group.

HOMEWORK IS PROBLEM

A problem neither students nor staff has solved yet is when to get homework done. Most of the women have husbands and children as well as housework and social lives to attend to.

Out-of-towners such as Mrs. John O'Leary and Mrs. Uli Wickman of Lucan, Ont., have brought children to live with them in Toronto apart-ments. Their husbands drive in to visit on weekends.

Most of the families lend a hand. Husbands and children tackle housework and perhaps more important, offer moral support.

"I think they are kind of proud I am that ambitious," says Mrs. Lazar of Toronto.

The four students interviewed said that in spite of the tribulations they are glad they started and are determined to finish.

Miss Mackenzie says she thinks they are better than younger students at some of the practical work because they have more experience at living.

"We've been pressed with the sensitivity of students to patients' needs. The whole area of human relations appears to be easier. They are not as nervous about talking to or meeting patients. The patients seem to be more at ease, although they are aware our women are students."

$270 FOR TUITION

Students must meet the educational requirements set by the College of Nurses. They pay a total of $270 for tuition, books and uniforms for the two years.

The first class was picked from about 80 applicants, most of them from Toronto and other parts of Ontario.

Since the school opened inquiries have come from as far away as Southern Rhodesia. Forty women came here for a preliminary screening for next year's class and the school already has half a dozen applicants for 1965.

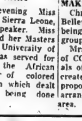
Hold Convention For Home and World Missions

An inspiring World and Home Missions convention was held in the Belleville Wesleyan Methodist Church with guest speakers from Illinois, U.S.A., Puerto Rico, Haiti and Africa. The visitors were welcomed to the church and introduced by the pastor, the Rev. Elden Le-Roy with each one bringing a challenge representing a different missionary emphasis.

Speaking on behalf of church extension in America, the Rev. A. Bray was a worthy example of zeal in action; having instituted the building of 13 new churches in as many years within the Illinois Conference of which he is president. Rev. Bray made it plain that there is no dividing line between home and foreign missions; real compassion toward the lost is demonstrated wherever people live, to love. He quoted as an example a Wesleyan pastor who retired at the age of 68 and has since gone to the Philippine Islands where he has started 20 new churches with an ultimate goal of 50 in mind.

EDUCATIONAL EMPHASIS

Presenting the educational emphasis in Wesleyan World Missions, was Mr. Robert Stowell, a young man who has just completed his first three year term in Puerto Rico as a teacher in Wesleyan Academy. The Puerto Rican enjoys all the advantages of any other U.S. citizen, but has added advantage of no federal income tax hence the scale of living is on a much more advanced level than on most Caribbean islands. Land prices are exorbitant, but staff has been paid on which to build for the 350 students who up to the present have been using the basement of a church building, has been procured.



Prayer was requested for Secondary School teachers with degrees, who would be willing to forsake the allure advantages of America to go to Puerto Rico.

A doctor from Haiti gave a resume of his life, from childhood as a son of missionaries in Africa, through college and into his acceptance as a student at Temple University in Pennsylvania.

Since 1952, Dr. and Mrs. John Edling have labored in Haiti supervising dispensaries where with a staff of seven nurses, they administered medical aid to over 60,000 patients. Now specializing in work among 70 patients, Dr. Edling has contracted the disease and will be unable to return to the island for another year.

A "RICAN MISSIONARY

On Sunday evening Miss Marie Evatt from Sierra Leone, Africa was the speaker. Miss Evatt who received her Masters Degree from the University of North Carolina has served for 15 years with the African people. A number of colored slides were shown which dealt with the work being done there.

SHIP SHAPE

Dear Susanna: Being married to a navy man, I have had considerable experience shipping my refrigerator-ahem! room place to place. For anyone planning to move, or to put a fridge in storage, I have a good suggestion.

After it is emptied and washed out with warm soapy water, apply a thin application of baking soda to all the walls, including freezer and vegetable hydrator. These are really easy to do and housekeeping again, just rinse it off and your refrigerator is sweet and clean. No need to bother with coffee, charcoal, or other messy remedies often recommended. — R. T. S.

Your method is fabulous, and a fridge treated this way turns out as fresh as a salty ocean breeze. So it's ship ahoy, mebbers, and ship away — SUSANNA

TRAVELLIN' ON

Dear Susanna. Here is one of my pet musts for travelling. It is the greatest aid in the world when it comes to finding a spot for my hose and lingerie each night.

Take an ordinary thin wooden coat hanger, cover it with waterad ribbon (won't show water marks), or you can crochet or knit a cover. Next, attach about ten colored plastic clothes pegs at their hinges with a chain stitch or two.

This is an ideal little gift for that someone going abroad. . . I have made several for friends and relatives and they wouldn't travel without them now. — H. W. D. F.

Since you never know from one day to the next on these long trips even where you're going to hang your hat, I'm sure it would be most reassuring to have a permanent little built-in spot for hanging unmentionables. — SUSANNA

Mrs. Roy Pound spoke about Trinidad from the study book, "The Island Home". It is a square became part of the British Empire in 1798.

The inhabitants speak beautiful their language, and their religion is Roman Catholic. They are making great strides in education and in music of which they are fond.

The flag is green, white and red, each color having a significance of its own, but combined they symbolize "we aspire together we achieve."

Trinidad is a tropical country with two seasons, wet and dry. Flowers abound on every hand and there are many species of birds, among them the flamingo.

The main industry is sugar cane. When harvesting this one might earn $15 a week, but in growing time only $6 or $8. Oil is the second industry. Three industries soon to start are an oxygen plant, a ready mix plant, and a detergent plant.

Mrs. Y. Howard gave a reading on Newfoundland. Mrs. Crosby conducted the devotional part of the program. Mrs. E. Anderson read the Scriptures. Mrs. Farnham, church organist was guest pianist for the afternoon.

Gifts From Your Kitchen

Canadian cheese is always a welcome gift—right to the, to give, and fun to open. Might team up some good Canadian cheddar with an inexpensive Canadian handcrafted cheese board . . . or send cheese along with your box to theirs' with a handy cheese cutter, half a dozen novel hors d'oeuvre knives, or a smart basket for the accompanying fruit or crackers.

Complete With Tray

Or set your gift of cheese on an inexpensive tin tray that you've painted in smartly modern colors. And what not include your favourite cheese dip recipe, along with the other ingredients?

Cranberry Velvet

Here's a dessert idea to use from now till Christmas. It's elegant, and easy, to make. Whip a cup of cream and fold in a cup of whole cranberry sauce, and half a cup each of drained crushed pineapple and tiny marshmallows. Chill well and serve simply—spooned into sherbets.

Holiday Squares

Ever try giving those favorite Date Squares (or Memorial Cake) the cranberry touch? Just make up that butter, sugar, flour and oats mixture, put half of it in the pan, then spread a layer of thick cranberry sauce over the crumbly base. Add a sprinkling of orange rind, then put in the rest of the oats mixture. Bake 40 to 45 minutes at 350°F. Serve warm or cold, cut in squares. Great dessert for the holiday season topped with ice cream!

Party Pâté

With party time around the corner, here's a wonderful way to make a really smashing mock-pâté to serve with crackers, pre-dinner! Beat a large package (8-ounces) of cream cheese until soft and blend in 1½ pounds of liverwurst and 2 teaspoons finely-chopped onion. That's all there is to it, but be sure to keep it refrigerated until serving time.

Butter-Up The Bird

Make a mental note for Christmas . . . that the basket birds are really "buttered-up" ! Meaning they're butter-basted throughout the roasting time, as well as having lots of butter in the stuffing. Ummm, let's not wait till Christmas for a scrummy turkey dinner.

Ghoraibi Are Lebanese Cookies

By MARY MOORE

On the cooling racks in the kitchen is a batch of some of the daintiest cooking I have made.

I worked from a Lebanese recipe given to me by a Lebanese colleague of Pete's. I thought it would be a shortbread type but it was much more delicate. The surprising product has made me sing on and off all afternoon and my helpers are laughing at me.

All ye cookie makers take heed. These are a find you will treasure and serve to special friends.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Citrus Fruit Cup; Breaded Pork Cutlets; Tomato Sauce; Potatoes in Parsley Cream Sauce; Quick-Cooked Shredded Cabbage; Chocolate Layer Cake; Tea.

LEBANESE COOKIES (delicate shortbread type — (Ghoraibi):

1 cup (½ lb.) butter (not margarine — room temperature), 1¼ cups sifted icing sugar, 1 egg yolk, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 cups sifted cake flour.

Beat butter in beater bowl 2 or 3 minutes until well creamed. Add sugar gradually and beat until mixture looks airy and nearly white. Add yolk and lemon juice while beating, then beat in the sifted flour until thoroughly blended. All this is done in electric mixer, but can be done by hand. At this stage batter looks like whipped butter. Chill dough in bowl for at least 1 hour or until it is firm. Now with floured fingers and palms shape dough into sixty 1" balls. The dough is very easy to handle and roll between your palms into balls, but keep your hands lightly floured. Place balls 2" apart on buttered cookie sheets. These cookies spread. The Lebanese decorate the tops with 3 pistachio nuts. I did not have pistachios so I dipped the tops of half of them in sesame seeds. These were a great success with me. On the remaining half I arranged little twigs of red and green candied cherries.

The baking instructions must be very exact. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr., turning pans around at half time. The cookies that were in the back of the oven first took 12 minutes. The others 15 minutes, so watch them carefully as they burn, and are too precious. They are done when there is a narrow golden rim at the edge. Lift carefully with spatula from cookie sheet to cake racks and let cool. Makes 5 dozen delicate cookies for about 80c.

These may be made as early as the first week in December and stored in airtight container in cool place for use around Christmas time.

Women of Various Faiths Pour Tea at U. C. Bazaar

Eastminster United Church Women welcomed the many guests to their "Holiday Boutique" in a cheery, warm hall depicting an old fashioned Christmas. —

This well planned bazaar was under the convenership of Mrs. Leanor Smith, who also looked after the decor, which was most attractive in its simplicity. The decorations throughout the church were kept strictly Christmas.

The guests were received at the main entrance by Mrs. A. McDowell, wife of the minister. Mrs. J. Ham, U.C.W. president; Mrs. A. Glover and Mrs. H. Swann.

Rev. A. McDowell officially opened the bazaar, compliment ing the ladies on their skilful work and time given to afford such a wonderful display; and wishing everyone an enjoyable afternoon.

TEA ROOMS

The tea rooms in the auditorium were gaily decked with the head tables nesting white feather Christmas trees in tulle, centred with red candles, flanked by red candles in gold holders. The individual tea tables were centred with crystal candle holders and Christmas trim. Pouring tea throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Sherry, St. Joseph's Parish; Mrs. R. Vessey, College Hill United Church, Mrs. H. Jones, Bridge St. United Church; Mrs. A. Shukster, Sons of Jacob Synagogue; Mrs. J. Wilson, St. Margaret's Anglican Church; Mrs. N. Hutchinson, Trinity United Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Mc for Bernat, Salvation Army Citadel; Mrs. M. McFarlane, Tabernacle United Church.

There were many varieties of goods for sale. Holiday Boutique had many miscellaneous articles for sale of unusual interest. Candy table convened by CGIT, had luscious assortments. A display of mixed nuts were sold by ATOS. The doll booth was charming with its Barbys, Denises, etc, with many clothes for lounging wear, party dresses and skating outfits to choose from. The bake table was a busy spot with a supply of goodies that vanished quickly.

Check rooms and nursery were supplied and looked after by the III C and CGIT.

A most successful "Holiday Boutique" was enjoyed through the co-operation of Eastminster United Church Women and the patronage of the public.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

QUESTION: A business associate of my husband has invited us to the wedding of his daughter. I have no idea of what to send as a wedding present, so I thought that perhaps the best solution would be to send the bride a cheque and let her get what she wants. Would it be correct to do this? — Mrs. G. K., Boston, Mass.

ANSWER: No. Cash and cheques are given only by members of the family or close friends. A household article — a tray, cigarette box, ash-tray, etc. — is more appropriately sent by guests who are comparative strangers.

QUESTION: I'm working on our Christmas card list and this year there are so many cards to send out that I've decided to have our names imprinted on them. In the past, I've always signed our cards by hand, so would you please refresh my memory? When names are imprinted, who comes first, the husband or the wife? — Mrs. V. R. S., Chicago, Ill.

ANSWER: When cards are signed by hand, the wife, who usually does this job, puts her husband's name first out of courtesy. But when cards are imprinted, the wife's name appears first — i.e., "Jane and John Jones."

QUESTION: When salad is served along with the main course, is it necessary to put a separate salad fork at each place? Some hostesses do this, but most people, including myself, end up eating the salad with the dinner fork anyway. When a salad fork is on the table, are you supposed to switch over to it every time you take a bite of salad? Would you please settle this confusion for me? — Mrs. J. A., Garden City, N. Y.

ANSWER: The salad may be eaten with the dinner fork when it's served with the main course. It's only necessary to include a salad fork when the salad is served as a separate course after the entrees.

Visitor Says Americans Know Pleasure But Not Joy

DEAR ANN LANDERS — For the past six months I have been a visitor in your wonderful country. Now that I am about to return to Austria I would like to tell you my impressions of America.

ANN LANDERS

Your country is indeed the most prosperous in the world. The spaciousness of America is overwhelming; the beauty, awesome. I love every inch of it.

But, Miss Landers, something is wrong with the people. They are friendly and helpful but they appear to be unhappy. In America there is much pleasure, but no joy. Americans seem always to surround themselves with so much noise. They even walk with radios in their hands.

Your people hurry a great deal. They are afraid of quiet — afraid to think. And as one listens to much of the social conversation it is apparent that they do not think. They repeat only what they heard on the radio or TV.

I had a wonderful visit. Your country is the most beautiful in the world. You have lofty mountains, great prairies, endless deserts, beautiful tropics and imposing cities. May God bless all Americans and may you find the true joy that mere pleasure cannot bring. — A THANKFUL GUEST.

* * *

DEAR GUEST — Thank you for some thoughtful observations. The distinction between pleasure and joy is a point worth making. Too many people don't know the difference. I, too, have long felt that the absence of quiet is a device to escape from one's thoughts. The inability to be alone is one of the most telling illnesses of our time.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have a problem but I'm not sure you can solve it because you cannot see. Enclosed is a picture that letter from the woman who has a parrot which imitates voices on the radio (especially mine) I've been getting letters asking, "Will the real Edward P. Morgan please stand up.' '

" I don't mean a cracker, Ann. I want help. The sponsors of my program are disturbed. They want to know if the parrot is a member of the Actors' Union. I am disturbed, too, because if she is, they might decide to replace me. The parrot probably would work cheaper and be more of a novelty.

An aunt of mine, idly looking for a possible legacy from the J. P. Morgan family, once traced our family tree. She found no connection with the famous financier but was directly related to descendants from Henry The Pirate. It is possible that Henry mistreated his parrot and this bird who imitates me has inherited the resentment. Do you have any solace handy? — EDWARD P. MORGAN.

Colorful Decor Highlights U. C. W. Christmas Carnival

STIRLING — Despite a disagreeable snow storm on Thursday afternoon over 325 people paid admission to St. Paul's Stirling U.C.W. Christmas carnival. The groups included several men from the village as well as a few teenagers.

The decorations were centred on a blue and silver and gold theme and were most attractive. The head convener was Mrs. Robert Patterson and the decorating was arranged by Mrs. Maurice Bell and her committee. The main hallway was centred with a silver artificial Christmas tree with blue lights. A matching tree was set up at the entrance to the tea room and was flanked with white pedestals containing silver and white poinsettias. The Sunday school hall was divided with a central canopy of white with blue crepe streamers and one half was used for the tea room and the other for the bazaar where the booths each featured blue streamers.

WELCOME AT DOOR

The guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. John L. Good, president of the U.C.W., Mrs. Clifford Lansing and Mrs. Clifford Lansing. The visitors representing the various churches in the village; also Springbrook, Salem, Mount Pleasant - Rawdon, Bethel, Wallmans, Carmel, Eggleton, Holloway Street United, Belleville, Marsh Hill and Frankford.

Mrs. D. Armstrong, church financial treasurer with Mrs. Percy Utman as assistant.

Mrs. Hazel West provided appropriate background music during the afternoon on the Hammond organ.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

In the tea room, the tea table was covered with a cloth of sand bouclé material with a white centre and border in gold lace. A matching goblet to represent a Mrs. Santa was used as a centrepiece and filled with gold and blue decorations. This was flanked with silver candelabra and blue candles.

Mrs. Don Williams convened the tea room and over 30 members from the five units carried out their various duties during the afternoon and served the large group of guests.

Mrs. James Hough, Mrs. Roy Duffin and Mrs. Earl Eggleton invited the guests to the tea room. Those who poured were Mrs. T. D. Dodds of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Joe Percival of the Salvation C.W.L.; Mrs. Murney Johnston, Salem. U.C.W.; Mrs. Robert Dunn, Mrs. Ross Tidzgar-Tabernacle; Mrs. Frank Harding, St. John's Anglican and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher of the Belleville circuit U.C.W.'s. The kitchen was convened by Mrs. David Duffin and a number of other ladies replenishing the plates.

SALES BOOTHS

The various booths displayed an abundance of articles for sale and these included: a "Candy Box and Treasure Chest" convened by Mrs. Harold Vandervoort; an "Apron Arcade" convened by Mrs. R. Crossman; a "Christmas Boutique" convened by Mrs. Blake Faulkner; a "Jewellery Booth" convened by Mrs. Robert Hatter; St. Paul's cook book display by Mrs. Grant Richardson which was a project of unit thr.; three food booths under the names "Aunt Martha's Patisserie" under the direction of Mrs. Nix Flindall for unit four; also "Aunt Dorothy's Delicatessen" and "Grandma's Cellar Cupboard," and the "Stitching and Knitting" booth convened by Mrs. Roy Bush. Approximately 20 ladies were in readiness to serve the large number of buyers throughout the afternoon.

The carnival was a decided success, and the ladies of St. Paul's were pleased with the large attendance of guests from other churches who assisted in the event.

The visitors expressed their appreciation for an excellent tea and bazaar.

VOTA VITA MISSION CIRCLE

The Vota Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held their November meeting in the church parlor with President Ruth Campbell presiding.

The singing of hymns was led by Diana Woolley and after a short business period Kay Hall took charge of the devotional with her theme being "God's Kind of Woman."

Guards From Picton Happy In Their Cypriot Outposts

By ALAN WALKER

KYRENIA, Cyprus (CP) — Grass is never greener on the other fellow's field as far as Canadian Guardsmen on Cyprus are concerned.

The proverb may be out of place on this parched island. What grass there is in the Canadian zone of the United Nations-controlled territory tends to be grey, but Canadian soldiers keeping peace in the remotest and loneliest spots on this island all agree they wouldn't want to move—except possibly back to wives and families in Canada.

No. 3 Company of the Canadian Guards, from Picton, Ont., holds the key Kyrenia area. Capt. Ted Miles, 32, of Edmonton, has his men strung out along the north side of the mountain range within sight of Turkey.

Maj. Dave Hanson, 38, of Windsor, Ont., commands No. 4 Company in the Trakhonas area and his soldiers are squeezed into the space of about a square mile.

CAMPOUT IS COOL

Capt. Miles faces isolated groups of Turkish- and Greek Cypriots firmly ensconced in their villages perched on the mountain terrain. Maj Hanson families living close to the famous Green Line which separates the two factions.

A reporter went the rounds with Capt. Miles and, after 20 minutes in a bone-rattling Land Rover over dusty roads little better than goat tracks, reached Pacquins Hill and found a cheerful Russell Taylor Jr. of Burin Bay Arm, Nfld. standing a pipe and listening to a radio playing Goodnight Irene in Greek.

"It gets a little lonely, but it's not bad," was Taylor's initial look at the view," Guardsman Taylor said as he pointed to Kyrenia Castle, hundreds of feet below, Snake Island and the deep blue Mediterranean Sea.

Platoon commanders 2nd Lieut. Barry McDonald, 21, of Beaumont, Alta., commands a platoon at the castle site. His men all live in one house and have to patrol the line between armed and edgy Turkish- and Greek-Cypriots who apparently fight most of their time digging illegal trenches, being caught and filling them in again.

Humor is the saving grace in this area. Since the cease-fire in August, both sides have words instead of hot lead. Maj. Hanson's company gets most of this.

"They turn the air blue with the most foul insults," McDonald said. "It's really an art for them." He also said his men were considerable and sympathized with "those poor guys strung out on the ridges."

Three Canadian camps is based at Onisha Farm in the Kyrenia foothills and one position is on a peak accessible by road. A helicopter delivers men and rations.

"We're here for six days and we hope it isn't stretched out too much," Cpl. Ernest Fenton, 36, of Bayville, Que., said atop his lonely peak, "but there's a great view of the island and we get fresh rations every two days."

Everybody here manages to find something good about his lot and nobody could be more pleased than the battalion's commander, Lt.-Col. William Mulherin, 42, born in Grand Falls, N.B.

"They get a bit bored sometimes, wherever they are, but on the whole they set up their own little homes and their morale is high," he said.

SHAH TO VISIT

OTTAWA (CP) — The Shah of Iran and Empress Farah will pay a state visit to Canada next May, Governor - General Vanier announced today. The 45-year-old Shah and his wife will be in Ottawa from May 19 to 22. They will visit other parts of Canada.

Rebels

Gbenye had threaten-d to set the whole city afire but apparently the swift arrival of the Belgian paratroopers and Congolese troops thwarted the plan.

"The operation is almost concluded," Spaak said. "There seems to be still some sporadic fighting in the city of Stanleyville, but my impression is that the military operation is about to be concluded."

KILL IN STREETS

Spaak said some white hostages were killed as they came out in the streets, "in spite of loudspeaker calls for them to stay where they were."

"I understand," he added, "that a large majority of the hostages are safe."

Spaak said U.S. planes bringing the paratroops were shot at by the rebels and some were damaged slightly.

American C-130s that ferried the paratroops to Stanleyville were bringing the European and American refugees to Leopoldville. The first two planes brought more than 100, including about 20 wounded.

One group of refugees said they were being marched to Stanleyville Airport by rebel soldiers and were in the sight of the Belgian paratroops as they flew into the hostages killing at least 15 including some women.

Sharp fighting was reported in the city as the Belgians quickly brought it under control.

The Congolese government announced that the 5th Congo Brigade headed by Maj. Michael Hoare, a South African, had "made a traditional entry" into the rebel capital.

FLOCK TO AIRPORT

The U.S. state department said that three hours after the paratroops made their dawn drop Stanleyville was in a panic flocking to Stanleyville airport. but 15 to 20 were known to have been killed.

Michael Hoyt, the U.S. consul in Stanleyville, was reported safe. He and four members of his staff had been under house arrest since August.

Altogether 1,000 paratroopers took part in the dramatic rescue mission ordered after the rebels threatened to kill more than 1,000 whites in the Stanleyville area. More than 30 Canadians were among the prisoners.

Belgian government sources in Brussels said the jump was made by Belgium's 1st Parachute Battalion reinforced by a commando company. They had been flown Sunday from Ascension Island to Kamina military base, in The Congo's Katanga province.

Five U.S. planes dropped about 220 men on Stanleyville airport about 6 a.m., and other planes landed the rest.

An American embassy spokesman said at least 10 U.S. C-130s were used to ferry the paratroopers.

PLANES CIRCLE

Radio Stanleyville reported about dawn that at least 12 American planes were circling the rebel capital. The broadcast called on the rebel tribesmen to "sharpen your knives, your machetes; tomorrow we are going to cut up all the white men."

These words were followed by about 20 minutes of dance music, then the radio went dead.

Tshombe said in a letter to U.S. Ambassador G. McMurtrie Godley that he had asked Belgium to drop the paratroopers because it is necessary to do everything possible "to prevent the rebels from carrying out their criminal design against . . . innocent civilians."

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak told a press conference in Brussels: "After the most atrocious tortures and measures which took place in the interior of The Congo . . . it was impossible for the Belgian government not to take its responsibilities."

Tshombe announced he would fly to Stanleyville — "the last bastion of rebellion"—Wednesday.

UN INFORMED

The U.S. state department said the United Nations had been informed of the operation.

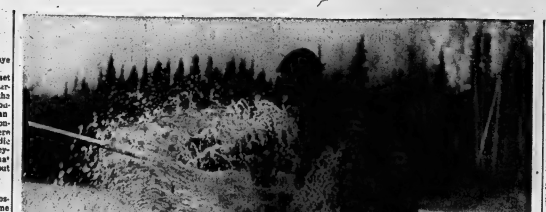
The Belgian paratroops were first flown last week from Belgium to Britain's Ascension Island in the South Atlantic, about 2,000 miles off Africa's west coast.

Their rescue operation was ordered after attempts to negotiate with the rebels for the release of Carlson and the other white hostages ended in failure.

U.S. Ambassador William Attwood met rebel Foreign Minister Thomas Kanza in Nairobi, Kenya, for two days. Kanza would agree to nothing unless The Congolese attack force halted its drive toward Stanleyville.

Meanwhile, the rebel radio in Stanleyville threatened to kill the hostages if the Congolese Army let white mercenaries made "the slightest attack" on the rebel centre.

Changes Made In Pope's Visit To Suit Hindus



From AP-Reuters

BOMBAY (CP) — Changes in the program for the visit to India of Pope Paul VI next month were announced Monday night, apparently to appease Hindu extremists.

Although the Indian government officially has declared the Pope welcome, his visit starting Dec. 2 for the International Eucharistic Congress in Bombay has been sharply criticized by some Hindu groups. Other groups, including Hindus, Moslems, Buddhists, Christians and Jains have said they would welcome him.

Valerian Cardinal Gracias, Archbishop of Bombay and host to the Congress, announced the Pope will not distribute gifts in cash or goods as had been planned. Instead, gifts to the poor will be channeled through the governor of Maharashtra State.

The cardinal also said that scheduled visits to Bombay's slums had been cancelled.

Oswald, 24, a truant son who once drew a knife on his mother and contemptuously refused to see "a head shrinker or a nut doctor," had the capacity, the opportunity, the means and the will to assassinate a president. And, as Chief Justice Earl Warren and his six investigative colleagues found, did so.

The question asked ever since —could it have been prevented?—was answered negatively by Secret Service Chief James J. Rowley.

His agents in Dallas performed "in an exemplary manner," said Rowley.

Ladies as a was with hindsights and might - have - beens, the testimony also was illuminated with scenes etched forever on memories.

WIDOW REMEMBERS

The widow of John F. Kennedy remembered: ". . . and just as I turned and looked at him, I could see a piece of his skull and I remember it was flesh colored. I remember thinking he just looked as if he had a slight headache . . . and then he sort of did this, put his hand to his forehead, and fell into my lap."

Secret Service Agent Clinton Hill, who leaped on the accelerating car as it sped off to Parkland Hospital, thought he knew why Mrs. Kennedy crawled out on the rear deck of the automobile — an episode she said she could not recall.

Hill said he thought she was "reaching for something and got off the rear tail of the car." He grabbed her, put her back in the seat. . . . the next day we found the portion of the president's head . . . it was found in the street."

Scouting Means Adventure

It means following a fur traders' route down the Crooked, Pack and Parsnip Rivers.

It's the way scouting has to be for Peter Russell, whose First Prince George Troop wouldn't have missed its 135-mile river run in October for the world.

Mr. Russell took 14 of his Adventurer Scouts — all between the ages of 14 and 16 — by bus to Davie Lake, about 45 miles north of here.

They embarked on three riverboats, narrow 12 - foot craft favored in the north. The Crooked River took them through Red Rocky Lake, Kerry Lake and McLeod's Lake to the Pack River.

At the Pack-Parsnip junction they shot the rapids in drenching sprays. Canoe and dinghy crews went out on their own and one of the riverboats, its throttle wide open, managed only two miles an hour against the current of the Parsnip.

It means hazards. A spare motor proved a wise measure when serious trouble developed in one of the boats. All three crews kept in touch with two-way radios.

Two of the boats ran out of gas on the Parsnip and the third had only a cupful left when guide Bert Lepitre managed to get to a highway, buy gas and rescue the tiny flotilla.

The boys shot 15 ducks, caught three trout and a 14-pound dolly varden, and as scout Terry Dixon put it, "We had a heck of a lot of fun."

Mr. Russell, who introduced berets as headgear among his scouts and stood his ground until they became accepted officially across Canada, says the three-day trip was an "adventure in the truest sense."

His plans for next year: A two-week trip to the arctic watershed.

Mr. Favreau said he would be in favor of a high court judge conducting an "in camera" inquiry. He promised to check on whether a RCMP report showed a third man was involved.

Mr. Nielsen said Mr. Rivard and three other men were arrested and charged with smuggling heroin into the United States and conspiring to smuggle 76 pounds of heroin into the United States from Mexico.

"In league" with these men were others, including two who have been reported to be members of the "notorious international crime cartel, the Mafia, and the Cosa Nostra of New York," he told the House.

Although satisfied the justice minister had no knowledge of the bribe attempt, Mr. Nielsen said Mr. Favreau shelved the case when he learned about it from the RCMP.

Mr. Favreau denied he had anything to hide and said he had

Improving Public Relations Through Home and School Association

By H. R. FRINK
(Part Two)

A second essential for a successful Home and School is a willingness on the part of each teacher and principal to meet parents at least half-way, and to create a social, rather than a professional atmosphere for the meeting so that acquaintance can develop into friendship and mutual understanding. In a survey reported in Public Relations Gold Mine a West Coast superintendent learned that "getting to know the teacher, personally and privately" was the best-liked feature of P.T.A. meetings for the parents. The same survey found that teachers liked best "the opportunity to meet parents and get acquainted." The conclusion reached was that "Parents and teachers are interested in each other as people first of all, and getting acquainted is a basis of good home-school communications."

CARRY FAIR SHARE

In any successful partnership both members must be ready to carry a fair share of the load. The staff must, therefore, be prepared to supply the "School" in "Home and School." When asked to serve on committees, a principal "be" teachers must accept if at all possible. There should be a staff representative on the program committee, ready to act as resource personnel. Occasionally the staff may be asked to provide a program for a meeting. This should be received, not as an imposition, but as an opportunity to interpret, in layman's language, some of the aims, methods, or philosophy of the school.

"Pedagogese" should be avoided like the plague on such occasions: no parent should go away from such a program puzzled or confused by educational jarron. The principal is automatically a member of the executive in each Home and School Association, and he should do his utmost to see that either he or the staff representative is present at every executive meeting. In this connection it is well to remember that a professional opinion expressed among a group of amateurs may carry undue weight; it is much better to let the members work out their problems in their own way, at whatever cost in time and patience. At the same time, however, it may be necessary to suggest tactfully that Board policy does not permit raffling in the school, or that a fireman's presence may be necessary for a certain function being planned.

OPEN CLASSROOMS

Another way in which a staff can demonstrate its interest in the work of Home and School is the practice, adopted in a number of schools, of opening each classroom to parents for the half-hour immediately before each regular meeting. No attempt to discuss the progress of individual children is made at these sessions, although each parent may search out his child's desk and examine his books. Instead, the parents use the half-hour to chat with the teacher and with each other on a social basis. An appointment book is prominently displayed so that either parents or teacher may arrange a private conference if the situation demands it. This "monthly open house" is invariably popular with parents and Association. In some schools the half-hour is the only attendance the association wishes; teachers are free to leave before the actual meeting gets under way.

SENSE OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

Among a number of suggestions for successful public relations made by the Executive Secretary of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, the one stressed most was that the school should "... let the Association help the school, (since) ... an association that performs a service in this manner feels a sense of accomplishment that cannot be gained in any other way." An example of this which took place in the current year was that of an association which was able to supply a full set of officials for a school field day, thereby leaving the staff free to supervise and coordinate activities. In another case an evening meeting for a group of parents with whom acceleration for their children was to be discussed was brightened by a "sidewalk cafe" set up in the auditorium by the social committee of the association. The parents were served tea and cookies while they waited their turns for individual conferences. Both the committee members and the parents left the school waiting ambassadors of good will for the school.

An association provided a number of parents to act as supervisors during a field trip for the graduating classes — a field trip which they had made possible through their fund-raising activities. The parents who did this returned with strongly favorable impressions of the learning situation provided by the trip. Many associations provide services which department regulations or Board by-laws prevent staffs from undertaking, services such as group accident insurance schemes for the pupils, or the provision of depots for UNICEF collections at Hallowe'en.

STUDY CONSTITUTION

An interesting suggestion made by the executive secretary was that principals and teachers might be encouraged to study the Constitution and Operations Manual (a copy of which she enclosed), that they would be aware of the rules by which the organization is governed. Many misunderstandings could be avoided in this way, since it would prevent staff from feeling that an association to do something forbidden by the constitution. A study of this kind, accompanied by a discussion of the opportunities which the Home and School provides, might well help to persuade the doubting teacher or principal that time spent prepays in full measure for the effort put into it.

MANY ADVANTAGES

That the Home and School, when actively supported, has many advantages for both education and parent is attested by many writers and by personal experience. Harral lists thirteen professional and five personal advantages for the teacher or principal, and ten for the parent, of which half are personal and half professional.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

Among the more important professional advantages for the teacher are, "a better understanding of the needs of children ... from an acquaintance with their parents and a knowledge of their environment", "a feeling of partnership with parents", and "the opportunity to work with receptive and constructive critics of school policy." For the principal, "a well-defined channel through which to exert a constructive influence in the community", a technique for explaining educational aims and methods to groups of parents", and "a means to bring community needs and interests to the attention of all school personnel" are probably the main professional assets of the program. For both teacher and principal, "the opportunity to meet the people of the community on a friendly social basis", "to establish himself as an important contributor to community welfare", and the chance "to broaden his horizons far beyond the limits of the classroom and the school" seem to be social gains well worth working for.

EXPRESS CONVICTIONS

For the parent, the two main "professional" gains would appear to be "an opportunity to learn from teachers educational methods which will be effective in home training" and "a voice in determining the kind of education his child shall have." Socially, he benefits from "an occasion to confer with teachers in the regular course of events without embarrassment," and from "an opportunity to become articulate regarding educational needs of children, and to express his convictions through group action."

The child, of course, gains most of all through this close liaison between home and school. While this gain is eventually very important for good public relations, the connection is somewhat outside the scope of this limited discussion.

LISTEN TO PARENTS

Too often "public relations" is regarded by teachers as a narrow, one-sided, "selling" technique, an approach that is sure to end in failure. The Home and School approach to the problem avoids this tendency, provided only that educators are willing to listen to parents. If the Association is given half a chance in the school, the teachers will find it difficult not to listen; and if they listen attentively, they will find it a richly rewarding experience.

BULLETIN FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

FEATHER COLOR

If we depend upon color alone, we can easily be fooled when a bird watching. For one thing, a great deal depends upon the light. Looking at the male purple finch when a bright light shines on his head we are almost startled by the vividness of the plumage; but when we see the same bird on a dull day it is hard to believe that we could have imagined that his feathers looked so brilliant. Another time the same purple finch might be quite close to us yet unseen because the sun and leaf shadows make a mottled pattern on the plumage which acts as a camouflage. Anybody owning a garden with red or orange flowers must know the male ruby - throated hummingbird that is always attracted most by these colors. Have you not noticed that in a poor light the ruby throat seems to be black? Frequently, indeed, not even a hint of green can be found in his iridescent coat.

LIGHT MAKES DIFFERENCE

Feathers have a covering of horny material which is sometimes thin and flat, but may be ridged. This horny material is occasionally tinted too. Consequently, the way light happens to fall on these various surfaces makes a great difference. Two persons examining a bird from opposite sides may really see feathers of different colors.

Surprising also is the fact that there is no olue pigment in a feather. If we take a blue feather from a bluebird and pound it we can find no trace of blue — it will be absolutely black. Blue feathers actually contain a yellowish brown coloring matter inside the horny case, and just beneath this case lies a layer of cones. Light falling on these odd shapes changes the color of the pigment to blue. With one exception, the same is true of green; but black, red, brown or yellow feathers really have these pigments.

Under certain conditions birds easily lose their bright colors. Some years ago it was discovered that when flamingoes living on the coast of Florida were captured and sent elsewhere they lost their bright pink coloring. But when supplied with the identical food to which they had been accustomed their natural color was restored.

One beautiful kind of African bird is the touraco, dressed in green with red wings. If a red quill is put in water the color will gradually leave it, but it becomes red again when dried.

Any dead bird loses the brightness of its plumage, so mounted birds in a museum never look quite like themselves.

Capital of the Latvian Soviet Socialist Republic, Riga is a place where high gabled houses are more common than the square apartment blocks that characterize most Soviet cities.

The apartment blocks are here but they're mainly on the outskirts. Downtown, with its combination of narrow twisting streets and spacious plazas, reminds one of Amsterdam or Copenhagen.

Only 10 navigable miles up the West Dvina River from the Gulf of Riga, this city of 650,000 gives the U.S.S.R. a second major port—after Leningrad—to the Baltic Sea.

It used to be a religious centre too, but that part of its existence has diminished since Soviet control was firmly established 20 years ago.

Formerly there were about 130 operating churches in Riga, mainly Lutheran, Roman Catholic and Orthodox. Now there are 25. The others have been locked up or converted to concert halls, museums and the like.

Nevertheless, the rising spires of Christian churches still are an eye-catching feature of the Riga scene. They may be mostly in darkness but their steeples still pierce the sky as though mocking the masters of the new order.

GERMAN SPOKEN

As a result of Latvia's incorporation into the U.S.S.R. the once - powerful German influence has been all but obliterated, though many inhabitants still speak German.

Another result for this stamping land with an area of 25,000 square miles and a population of 2,230,000 has been the forced collectivization of agriculture, completed between 1946 and 1955.

However, remnants of private enterprise can still be found in the cities, in such trades as dressmaking and shoemaking. Some doctors still carry on private practices.

Stiff deterrent taxes are levied on private operators. "They are not very popular," the foreign visitor is told, leaving one to wonder how they can stay in business despite the heavy taxes if this is so.

In recent years Riga has become an important fashion centre—some say it's the leader in the Soviet Union. It serves as the gateway for fashion trends from Paris, Switzerland in the efforts of Riga women to keep up with the latest styles.

RIGA'S HISTORY

Riga's history goes back more than 800 years to 1158 AD. Towers, castles and churches from the period between the 13th and 16th centuries can still be found in the city's old quarters.

RULED BY FOREIGNERS

Historically it has had a close association with other Baltic port cities in Russia, neighboring Estonia, Finland, Sweden, Poland and northeastern Germany.

Except for one brief period in its history this tiny land of industrious people, with strong ties to Lutheranism, has been under foreign domination.

First it was the Teutonic knights and prince-bishops of medieval Germany; then came the Poles, the Swedes and finally the Russians.

Latvia was under czarist control from 1795 to 1917. Following the Russian revolution, the Bolsheviks were unable to maintain Russia's grip on the country and on Nov. 18, 1918, an independent republic was proclaimed.

Independence came to an end Aug. 5, 1940, when Latvia was incorporated into the Soviet Union.

The official line is that the people were oppressed and "demanded" to be taken under the Soviet umbrella. But Western historians take issue with that interpretation, saying that Russia annexed Latvia, along with Estonia and Lithuania, under a secret protocol to the Nazi-Soviet non-aggression pact of 1939.

CALLED TO MOSCOW

On June 7, 1940, Foreign Minister Vilhelms Munters was summoned to Moscow where a treaty was signed giving the U.S.S.R. naval and air bases in Latvia and allowing it to fortify the Baltic coast.

Russia sent ultimatums to the three countries demanding the right of unlimited occupation. By June 17 all of Latvia was in the hands of Soviet troops. With Red Army soldiers watching, the people went to the polls July 14 to elect a parliament predestined to have a Communist majority. The Parliament then proceeded to "petition" the U.S.S.R. for union.

The German-occupied Latvia from 1941 to 1944 when the Red Army returned. The anniversary of its re-entry is observed each Oct. 13 but the enthusiasm of the local population is hardly overwhelming.

THE NEW ORDER — This scene from a park in centre of Riga provides striking illustration of changed priorities since Latvia became part of the Soviet Union. At edge of park are huge portraits of Communist party officials and other heroes of Soviet Latvia, set against a onetime Christian church now used as a concert hall and museum. (CP Photo)

SOVIET PROPAGANDA — Billboards are a constant reminder of Soviet presence in Riga, capital of the Latvian Soviet Socialist Republic. The sign shown says, in Russian: 'Glory to the Soviet Army — Liberators of Riga." The reference is to the city's recapture from the Germans Oct. 13, 1944. (CP Photo)

Adjourn Motion For Leave To Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — A motion for leave to appeal the conviction of Rev. Russel D. N. Horsburgh on five charges of contributing to juvenile deliquency was adjourned today in the Ontario supreme Court of Appeals until Thursday.

Mr. Horsburgh, convicted on five charges and acquitted on three, was sentenced two weeks ago to one year in jail on each of the convictions with the sentencs to run concurrently.

Mrs. Horsburgh's defence counsel, in asking Mr. Justice J. M. King for the adjournment, said that transcripts of Mr. Horsburgh's trial in Chatham last month had just been received and information needed for the motion would not be submitted to the court until later today.

BOXES STOLEN

TORONTO (CP) — Ninety Globe and Mail boxes in the Metropolitan Toronto area were stolen early Monday and several hundred copies of the daily newspaper were smeared with oil. Police recovered 35 of the stolen boxes after a search of laneways and vacant fields. They said oil was poured into newspaper boxes in downtown Toronto and the east end of the city.

Wild White-Fronted Geese Being Caught and Banded

KINDERSLEY, Sask. (CP)—Wild white-fronted geese—more prevalent in Saskatchewan than anywhere else in North America — are being caught and banded in a program that makes judicious use of nets, cannon and a Labrador retriever.

The Canadian Wildlife Service, in an effort to discover whether bag limits on the geese were too high, began the banding project in 1961 in the lake-dotted Kindersley country 120 miles southwest of Saskatoon.

About 50,000 white-fronts are shot in the area each year and immature birds are especially vulnerable to the hunter's aim.

Wildlife service biologist Alex Dzubin, leading this year's field parties, says banding can show the proportion of immature to mature birds shot as well as other data.

Normally about five young birds are shot to every two adults. A lower-than-normal ratio of young geese shot could indicate a poor nesting season. Bag limits could be correspondingly reduced the next season in order to ensure a continuing supply.

The birds are caught in 80-foot-long nets as they rest on the shores of Pea and Buffalo Coulee lakes, game preserves in Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act pasture areas near Kindersley and Colville.

FIRE CANNON

A flock of biologists near the nets would start off the geese, so one observer watches for birds with a spotting scope. When he sees them on radios his companions hidden 500 yards away.

Small cannon filled with smokeless powder are braced behind the net and, on the spotter's signal, are fired. The charge hits small weights attached to the edge of the net. The net spreads out over the geese and pulls them in.

The geese are later removed from the net and transferred to burlap bags or wire pens where they are sexed, measured, banded and released.

Biologists can pinpoint the date and place of banding when hunters return the bands. From this they deduce the timing and direction of the birds' seasonal migration and the distribution of the kill.

Last year's 2,700 white-fronts were banded and 240 bands returned by hunters that autumn. The proportion was enough to give the wildlife service an idea of the general flight path of the geese.

Biologists hope the banding program will become even more effective. A general drying trend on the Prairies since 1958 has led to an 80-per-cent drop in water areas. Both geese and hunters have concentrated on the remaining water, which means more concentrated shooting but also easier banding.

Possibility of About-Turn In Long-Term Canadian Nuclear Arms Policy Seen

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal authorities, including cabinet ministers, now are giving the most serious attention to the possibility of an about-turn in long-term Canadian nuclear weapons policy.

A policy switch to a continental nuclear role in the North Atlantic alliance might be undertaken, sources say, as one means of trying to prevent an outright break between France and the United States and to induce France to take a greater part in alliance strategy.

Informants emphasized that no definite new policy has yet taken form and that no decisions have been taken.

But even behind-the-scenes discussions were an indication of the seriousness with which the government regarded the split between the U.S. and France and the extent to which Canada might be prepared to go to heal the breach.

When the Liberal government took office in April, 1963, it said its adoption of nuclear warheads for the armed forces was simply the carrying out of commitments entered into by the previous Conservative administration.

Since then, government spokesmen, including Prime Minister Pearson, have indicated that Canada would like to withdraw from this nuclear role as soon as decently possible.

The most often proposed changes in the U.S.-proposed NATO seaborne nuclear force of some 25 merchant ships armed with 200 Polaris missiles, a proposal to which France has taken keen exception.

The thinking here is that if Britain proposes putting its entire independent nuclear strike force under NATO command, France might be persuaded to do the same if other alliance members were also willing to go along.

DISCUSS ACTION

Moreover, External Affairs Minister Martin has indicated that Canada wants to see Paris and Washington settle down to some serious talks and that this country wouldn't object to playing a mediation role.

Mr. Martin on Sept. 15 began what has turned out to be a series of statements on the need for greater sharing of nuclear control in NATO and closer cooperation between the civilian and military arms of the alliance.

In September, he criticized both the U.S. for its stand on the seaborne nuclear force and France for its continued insistence on maintaining an independent nuclear "force de frappe."

He said Monday at Windsor, Ont.:

"We would be particularly concerned if such a trend (fragmentation of NATO defence) were to affect the pre-eminent part which the U.S. has played and is bound to continue to play in ensuring our collective security.

"By the same token, we could not conceive of an effective alliance in which France was not participating in a way that was commensurate with her position in the world or in which there was an irretrievable cleavage between France and her NATO partners.

"We regard the contribution of France as essential to the alliance. . . .

RECOGNIZES CLAIMS

We acknowledge the claims of the European members of the alliance to a greater degree of participation in the nuclear arrangements of NATO.

"We still think that there should be no duplication of existing machinery of the alliance. . . .

We believe, above all, that we now must embark on a real dialogue between those holding different views as to the best way of providing for our collective security."

Prime Minister Wilson will be here Dec. 9 for talks with Mr. Pearson and later in the month Mr. Martin and Defence Minister Hellyer will attend the annual ministerial meeting of NATO in Paris.

It is believed that Mr. Pearson will have some suggestions for Mr. Wilson on NATO nuclear defence policy before the British position is made final.

The Canadian aim, sources say, is to try to formulate a policy which wouldn't isolate France but which wouldn't accept a unilateral independent approach to NATO nuclear strategy, either.

The rally is for ministers and laymen of those which includes forty-three United Churches from Trenton to Napanee and from Prince Edward County to No. 7 Highway. While a minimum of business will be conducted, the main item on the agenda will be an inspirational address, "The Church in Today's Affluent Society" by the former Moderator of the United Church, now retired, The Very Rev. James R. Mutchmor, M.A., B.D., D.D.

As secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service, Dr. Mutchmor had a close relationship with the National Council of Churches' Department of evangelism, church and economic life, and the church and international affairs. He was also a director of the Religion-Labor Foundation.

Dr. Mutchmor is recognized as a TV personality, appearing frequently on such programs as Inter Com, Front Page Challenge, Fighting Words, and not infrequently on the CBC news.

Dr. Mutchmor has organized preaching missions across Canada with distinguished American and Western European leaders, and was also responsible for the organization of Conferences on Evangelism in Ontario.

He has been a member of many delegations to the Canadian government, representing moral and social concerns.

In September, 1962, Dr. Mutchmor was elected Moderator of the General Council of the United Church of Canada.

3 Bushworkers Feared Drowned In North Lake

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Three bushworkers are believed to have drowned in a car which plunged off an ice-covered logging road into Paquette Lake 30 miles north of here Monday night.

The three are not identified.

The car owner, Eugene A. Dixon, 23, of suburban Tarentorus, swam to shore and was picked up by a passing logging truck. He telephoned provincial police from Searchmont, nine miles from the lake.

Sault Ste. Marie Search and Rescue skin divers and provincial police reached the scene Monday night but waited for day light to conduct a search.

The car was located in 27 feet of water and divers were trying to attach lines to it.

The men believed to be trapped were bushworkers employed at a lumber camp 40 miles north of here. Mr. Dixon, an Algoma Steel Corporation employee, was unable to identify them. He told police they were Indians.

Merchants Anticipate Million Draw From Grey Cup Festival

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto merchants are making wooden knees a split end from a bruised kidney back are rubbing palms in anticipation of a $1,000,000 spending play known as the Grey Cup Festival.

Organized by young advertising men and button-down executives on the Toronto Junior Board of Trade, the festival is a week of footarah and funny hats in which the Canadian professional football final becomes only is all but a sideshow.

Estimates of the total value to local business of the Grey Cup final vary. But a junior board of trader says a conservative guess gives hotels, restaurants, bars, taxis, stores and retail outlets of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario a total of $1,000,000 extra business in the week.

The organizers of the 1964 Grey Cup Festival, celebrating the clash between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and British Columbia Lions, have been at it since October, 1963, when advertising executive John Sinclair was appointed festival chairman.

The organization bore its first, slightly bruised fruit Monday when the first of a daily series of noon-hour "boop-la parades" — consisting of one float — roamed a midtown route, abbreviated from a scheduled tour through the heart of the downtown area.

Object of the activity is to advertise coming attractions, such as a pre-game public party Friday night, when Miss Grey Cup will be chosen from among candidates representing the nine Canadian Football League cities, and a victory dance after the game.

The game itself requires no advertising since none of the 33,651 tickets are on public sale. —The method of allocating the tickets is vague. One official said 75 per cent are sold through the four eastern clubs and the rest through the five western teams. Another said he believed the tickets are divided about equally among the nine CFL clubs.

But spokesman for the Junior Board of Trade estimated at least a million people would come to Toronto for the Grey Cup, even though many will get somewhere near the game in exhibition stadium.

In any case, the fashionable trend in Toronto now is to ignore the scramble for tickets (from $6 to $12 apiece) and the chilly discomfort of watching the game live and throw a stimulating party instead.

West Coast Paper Firms Cut Prices

VANCOUVER (CP) — West Coast competitors fell into line Monday with last week's surprise $10 - a - ton reduction by MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. in its price for newsprint.

And T. N. Beaupre, board chairman and chief executive officer of B.C. Forest Products Ltd., said his company would have to make the same cut—from $134 a ton to $124 a ton.

None of Eastern Canada's newsprint producers, and only one small producer in the U.S., had met the MB and PR move until Monday. But it has long been the practice in the industry to follow the lead in price adjustments.

Cut in Exports of Cheese, Loss of Industry Blamed On Liberal Govt. Policies

Reduced cheese exports in the Belleville area and the closing of Precision Castings were laid at the door of the Liberal Government by Lee Grills, former M.P. for the area, at a Conservative meeting held in Wallbridge last night.

Mr. Grills explained that during the tenure of the Conservative government an agricultural committee, of which he was a part, established a one cent a pound subsidy on exported cheese.

The Liberal government, he said, let this subsidy drop to .02 cents a pound, and without any protest from the Liberal representative from this area.

Precision Castings, an industry brought to Belleville under the Conservative government and based entirely on government contracts, was forced to close under the Liberals.

Mr. Grills stated that the Liberal representative had arranged a meeting between the company and the government to discuss contracts, but that he was at a Liberal leadership meeting in Toronto and was not available to intercede on behalf of the Belleville industry.

Commenting on the recent county council issue, Mr. Elmer Sandercock, provincial member for Hastings West, stated he believes the Council are close to the people and in his opinion after the coming session of the Legislature may be given an increase in responsibility.

A new executive was elected. Seats for the Sidney Township Progressive Conservative Association are now as follows: Jack Sargent, president; Mrs. Leslie Finkle, first vice-president; Ridley Wallbridge, second vice-president; Leslie Finkle, secretary-treasurer.

Gordon Asks For More Money To Finance Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon Monday asked Parliament for an additional $8,000,000 to finance the government's student loans plan up to June 30, 1965.

The request brings the total allocation for the first year of the plan to $48,000,000. Needy university students may obtain government - guaranteed bank loans of up to $1,000 a year for five years.

Mr. Gordon told the Commons that as of Nov. 13 a total of 29,013 students had received certificates from provincial authorities making them eligible for loans.

Mr. Gordon said students are using the plan to a greater extent than expected when it was first discussed last summer with provincial authorities.

The average loan for the academic year was about $680 for a total amount of some $19,900,000. The original lending authority had been based on an average loan of $500.

The demand for loans in Ontario was outrunning the allocation.

Women's Prison At Kingston To Be Retained

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Favreau announced in the Commons Monday that he is postponing for several years a decision on whether to proceed with the construction of a prison for women at Cornwall, Ont.

Mr. Favreau's predecessor, Lionel Chevrier, announced the project last January just before he left the cabinet to take up his new post as Canadian high commissioner in Britain.

Mr. Chevrier, a native of Cornwall and MP for Stormont for many years, drew criticism for his announcement from corrections groups and opposition parties.

Mr. Favreau said the existing women's prison at Kingston, Ont., will be retained. Convicted female drug addicts from the four western provinces would be detained and treated at a new institution now being built at Matsqui, B.C.

The minister said the opening of the Matsqui institution for both male and female drug addicts next September will reduce the pressure for space at the Kingston women's prison.

After studying the operation of the Mannesi institution, the government would decide whether to build a new women's prison in Eastern Canada or to detain and treat all female narcotics convicts in prisons completely female and addicts are detained.

Mr. Favreau spoke as the government resumed study of his departmental estimates.

'The Thunderbolt', Banned From Canadian Mails as 'Scurrilous', Is Defended

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — The American newspaper Thunderbolt, banned from Canadian mails as "scurrilous," was defended Monday by a Gooderham, Ont., man who said it was similar to the teachings of Christ.

"The Thunderbolt is a forceful manner is trying to bring the truth to the public," said John Ross Taylor. "Truth with Christ was a bombshell—they crucified him for it."

Mr. Taylor and David Stanley of Toronto appeared before a post office review board on behalf of the National States Rights Party of Birmingham, Ala., banned from using Canadian mails under an interim order by Postmaster - General Nicholson. The three man board, under Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Court of Appeal, is hearing evidence to decide whether the ban should become permanent or be lifted.

Mr. Taylor told the board that "communism is Jewish and has been right from its inception."

"The race-mixing campaign financed by Jewish sources," he said. "Every Communist during in America has been run by Jews."

SEES JEWISH CONTROL

He said most newspapers, magazines, television stations and publishing houses are owned, controlled or are under the "subtle dictatorship" of Jews. He said, "nobody understands for racial understanding more than I do."

Mr. Taylor was before the board for the entire afternoon. He wanted to prove, he said, that the writings in Thunderbolt were true and therefore not scurrilous. He quoted from a wide variety of pamphlets, publications and books, including the Bible, and said he would later refer to the "famous anti-Jewish and anti - Communist writings of Sir Winston Church ill."

About 40 pieces of literature were brought before the board for examination. The board had asked the Alabama organization to produce its literature as proof of its appeal.

Many of the titles: Segregation or Death, Jewish Ritual Murder, Marxism and Judaism and The Jew Conspiracy Live.

Because the interim order was issued on the grounds that the postmaster-general had considered the literature to be scurrilous, board lawyer Gordon Blair said one of the first important tasks was to establish the well-understood meaning of the word.

DISCUSSES MEANING

Professor George B. Johnston of Ottawa's Carleton University discussed the word at length with the board and said the generally-accepted meaning is abusive or insulting. While definitions varied somewhat between different authorities, he said, it seems to be the word that is common to them all."

Mr. Stanley questioned Mr. Johnston about a pin he had been wearing in his lapel representing the committee for no clear disarmament. Mr Stanley said an official of the committee was Rabbi Abraham Feldberg, the subject of his book, The Red Rabbi. He told the the board he was "trying to bring forth possible bias and prejudice on the part of this witness."

Mr. Taylor said the mail ban could be considered the thin edge of the wedge in turning Western nations into Communist nations. The order was "a flagrant denial of the freedom of the press"! It was also "the official persecution of the Christian religion."

"The banning of The Thunderbolt is the first step of banning the New Testament. It has already started in the United States where the Lord's Prayer is banned in schools."

HEARING IS CANADIAN ...

Mr. Justice Wells said this was a Canadian hearing.

But the international forces behind this hearing are using it as a test case," said Mr. Taylor.

"There are no international forces behind this at all." said the chairman "just a Canadian cabinet minister."

Mr. Taylor said he believed in the segregation of the races "because I believe in unity in diversity. . . I consider myself a one of the great friends of Jewish people and colored people."

The public never was told the other side of the story, he said, if a particular Toronto newspaper were to write Jewish articles it would be threatened with cancellation of advertising from chain stores.

At one point he referred to the mail ban as "impertinence." Other newspapers in Canada are Rodigue Bedard, associate deputy minister of justice, and Dr. Douglas McIlraith, lawyer with the revenue department.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONDAY, Nov. 23, 1964

The Commons considered 1964-65 spending estimates of $61,552,100 for the justice department.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) claimed Raymond Dedik, former executive assistant to the immigration minister, offered a Montreal lawyer a bribe.

Mr. Nielsen said $20,000 was offered to a lawyer acting for Dedik's brother on a bail application for a man charged with heroin smuggling.

Justice Minister Favreau said he and the lawyer had studied the case and decided there was not enough evidence for charges.

Privy Council President Mcllraith tabled supplementary spending estimates of 1964-65 including $70,000,000 in railway subsidies.

Elden Woolliams (PC—Bow River) said there is "high suspicion" that deposed Secretary International Salmon chief Hal Banks bought freedom from the government.

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe) asked for names of Liberals who received campaign contributions from Banks.

Mr. Favreau finally agreed to table a lawyer's letter giving opinion on possible charges against Banks for misuse of union funds.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Clarence Campbell, boss man of the National Hockey League told Ted Gambos of the Peterborough Examiner and this reporter at the recent OMHA convention in Toronto that expansion of the National Hockey League depended on the economics. Additional clubs, he said, would have to show they could earn a million dollars a year.

Despite the ballyhoo accompanying Toronto's Stafford Smythe's offer to build an $8,000,000 ice palace in Vancouver, providing the city gifts him with two blocks of real estate—it seems NHL expansion is as far away as ever.

In fact as of now it looks like the only expansion that will take place will be around the midriffs of veteran campaigners turned out to pensional pasture.

As one veteran hockey man told me, "Why should the moguls of the six-team circuit want to expand? They're like six birds sitting in gilded cages. The only expansion they seem to want is that of seating accommodation in their money-making puck igloos. The Maple Leafs have proven that."

The Leafian desire for additional seating capacity is understandable. Queen City fans stick to them through thick and thin like a burr to a horse blanket. Canadiens' fans are not far behind. Either or both clubs could be bantling for a cellar championship and the SRO sign would be out early in the week.

A Canadiens' spokesman said a few weeks ago that attendance at a Forum National League game fell off slightly, under a thousand, when the game was aired on television. The Habitant exchequer can stand that without going to the bank for a loan.

A voice speaking out of the western wilderness told a Toronto columnist the other day that Los Angeles and San Francisco are big league towns, but "we've never received any encouragement from the NHL in our hopes of getting big league hockey."

It was Bud Polle, former National Leaguer and current manager and coach of the San Francisco Seals, one of six clubs in the Western Hockey League.

Polle charged the National Hockey League with having the "Central Pro League wired for direct control—and a lock on most teams of the American League."

He told the Toronto writer that National League holdings in the west are confined to Toronto owning Victoria and the Rangers supervising Vancouver. Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles are said to be independent.

With the lack of National League interest in expansion, Polle believes the Western League is heading for hockey autonomy by developing its own players. He said San Francisco has moved into Edmonton's south side with a five-year contract to sponsor boys from 13 to 18 while Los Angeles is active grooming kids in Saskatoon.

It is claimed the NHL is avoiding expansion because of lack of suitable talent. Someone said once, I believe it was Campbell, that only one minor player in 10,000 makes the National Hockey League. With 150,000 minors playing across the nation, this means that some 15 a year are available for the Big Time. Figures belie this statement.

Meanwhile, Frank Boucher, former New York Rangers great, comes up with an astounding prediction in a United States-based publication, "International Hockey."

Boucher crystal-balls that by 1974 there will be two professional leagues, one on the west coast, the other the National League. The coast league will be comprised of at least six teams, the National will have expanded to eight.

He says a playoff for the Stanley Cup will take place each year between the two league champions; the playoff site will alternate.

The pros and amateurs will operate separately and apart with no binding agreements. A commissioner will settle all disputes and will have an independent voice similar to that of the late baseball czar, Judge Landis.

There will be a universal draft established by the pros. Sponsorship of amateur clubs will be abolished. Unless the pros abandon the negotiation lists, they will be outlawed by the courts.

Clarence Campbell will have retired as president of the NHL—with honors for the magnificent pension plan he established. Historians will regret that he had not been given complete authority by the governors to rule on problems good for hockey.

Sazio Has Problems? * * *

Cats Favored; Lions Roar Vengeance

* * * Lucky Dress Room?

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats face two problems in the Grey Cup classic here Saturday — British Columbia Lions and a theory that they have to be underdogs to really get going.

Despite the seven-point betting odds in their favor, the defending Grey Cup champions could fall victim to the Lions if that theory is sound.

Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio would probably feel a lot better if the Lions had shown more power and prowess two months ago when they drew to a 16-16 tie with the Tiats in a regular Canadian Football League interlocking game.

If they had beaten the Tiats then, Sazio might be convinced now that his charges were sufficiently worked up to strangle the Lions. They dumped B.C. 21-10 in Vancouver in last year's Grey Cup.

The theory has been proven time and again. In 1960, Toronto Argonauts held an 18-point lead after the first of a two-game, total-point series for he eastern conference champion ship. By the time the second game was over — including overtime — the Tiats had defeated the Argos 48-3 to win the series.

This season, Ottawa Rough Riders made the mistake of walking off the field after the first game of a total-point series with a 17-point bulge over Hamilton.

The Tiats won the second game 26-8 to take the series 39-38 and move into the Grey Cup game for the seventh time in eight years.

The underdog tag has become so much a motto of the Hamilton club that a sign in their dressing room reads: "When the going gets tough, the tough get going."

Hamilton's bone crushing tackle Angelo Mosca told after Saturday's game against the Rough Riders that Ottawa players had insulted Tiat players during the contest and that was it.

The Lions were to arrive here today by plane after defeating Calgary Stampeders 33-16 in the final game of a best-of-three series for the western conference championship Sunday.

The Lions have indicated they are roaring for vengeance.

"We're very happy Hamilton won in the East because we want another crack at them," B.C. quarterback Joe Kapp said in Vancouver.

"We don't have the injuries we had going into last year's Grey Cup game, so we're sure we have a much better shot at it this time."

The Lions will use the old Argonaut dressing rooms and tradition here is again in their favor. Toronto never lost a Grey Cup game while using that locker room.

Football fans across Canada will see Saturday's game on the two television networks — CTV and CBC.

The weather man says there is little likelihood of disrupting fog which halted the Grey Cup game here in 1962. The final quarter had to be played the following day.

Gordon Gee, meteorologist supervisor for the department of transport, said a warm front would be required to produce fog conditions such as those in 1962 but that might not happen again for 20 years.

"As it was, it was just a localized condition," he said. "The fog receded during the night before the game but a southeast wind freshened and brought it back for the game."

Patterson 8-5 Over Chuvalo

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson has been made an early 8-5 favorite over George Chuvalo of Toronto, although the contract for their 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden Jan. 29 hasn't been signed yet.

"We hope to get the contracts signed and approved within a week," Harry Markson, Garden director of boxing, said Monday.

Floyd Patterson

Although the World Boxing Association considered this a vital part of its tournament to determine a new heavyweight champion, it doesn't carry that official significance in New York.

The WBA stopped recognizing Cassius Clay as champion the moment he signed for the return bout with ex - champion Sonny Liston. The New York Athletic Commission still considers Clay the champion.

The WBA named Ernie Terrell, its No. 1 heavyweight, to meet second-ranking Cleveland Williams of Houston for the vacant title, with the winner to oppose the winner of the Patterson-Chuvalo scrap.

Patterson is ranked third and Chuvalo fourth. The WBA doesn't list either Clay or Liston in its top 10.

Criticized Officiating
Don Luzzi Fined $100

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Football League has fined Calgary tackle Don Luzzi $100 for publicly criticizing officiating after Sunday's western playoff at Vancouver.

Commissioner Syd Halter announced the fine against the 250-pound lineman. Br.ish Columbia defeated Calgary 33-14 in the game to advance to the Grey Cup against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

He objected to a penalty received after he hit Sonny Homer when he B.C. player was lying face-down atop a fumbled ball.

Bold taste! Brawny flavour! Today's Dow Kingsbeer gives you both – because it's made from a special ALL-MALT recipe.

Most lager beers are made with some malt. Plus some wheat, rice, or corn flakes. Not Dow Kingsbeer. It's a pure all-malt lager beer.

Dow Kingsbeer is brewed only from the finest Canadian malt. No cereals added. That's why Kingsbeer has a bold taste. That's why Kingsbeer has body.

But there's more to Kingsbeer than just taste!

There's flavour. A brawny flavour that comes from costlier, selected hops being added to Kingsbeer's special ALL-MALT mash.

And what else? Satisfaction! Deep satisfaction because Kingsbeer's brewmaster uses a specially developed true lager yeast. It acts on the ALL-MALT brew in a way that makes Kingsbeer deeply satisfying.

The final touch! Natural aging. It smooths and mellows the bold taste and brawny flavour of Dow Kingsbeer. The result! ALL-MALT Kingsbeer is easy-drinking. Try it and see.

Sawchuk Leafs 'Horatio'

—Unbeaten In Eight

MONTREAL (CP) — Stingy goal-tending and effective, if boisterous, defencemen were major factors in Toronto Maple Leafs' big three-win week in National Hockey League action, accomplished without the services of high-scoring Frank Mahovlich.

Goaltender Terry Sawchuk, acquired from Detroit Red Wings between seasons, was beaten only twice in the three games and has put together an undefeated string of eight games and a personal goals-against average of 1.38.

Official NHL statistics released today show Leafs within a point of league leadership and with one game in hand. Detroit Red Wings remained on top with 21 points after a so-so week in which they won one, tied one and lost two.

Chicago Black Hawks' two-and-one record lifted them to a third-place tie with 17 points. Also in third place are Montreal Canadiens who dropped both their games.

New York Rangers are fifth with 16 points following a win and tie in their two outings. Boston Bruins, beaten in both their games, remain in the cellar with nine points.

Toronto defenceman Carl Brewer picked up six penalties during the week to give him the lead in that department with 48 minutes, all on minor penalties.

LEADS VEZINA RACE

Despite Sawchuk's hot goal-tending, Detroit's Roger Crozier retained the lead in the close Vezina Trophy race with a goals-against average of 2.06.

Chicago's Bobby Hull has taken over the lead in the individual scoring race after scoring three goals and picking up an assist in the week's action. He has 30 points, made up of his league-leading 14 goals as well as six assists.

Right behind with 19 points is teammate Stan Mikita, last week's leader, with six goals and 13 assists, also best in the league.

Norm Ullman of Detroit scored four goals and an assist to move into third place from fourth with 18 points. He took the place of Montreal's Claude Provost, scoreless in the week's action, who wound up in fourth place with 14 points. Detroit's Gordie Howe picked up an assist and took over sole possession of fifth place.

Six players were tied for sixth place with 12 points. Among them is Toronto's Bob Pulford who provided the Leafs with needed punch by scoring four goals and an assist.

Teammates Mahovlich, idle during the week, and Andy Bathgate are also in sixth place. Other players with 12 points are New York's Camille Henry, Bobby Rousseau of Montreal and Bill Hay of Chicago.

Wanted Dual Job—

Dobbs Resigns As Stamps' Coach

Dobbs' announcement that tered a team party after Stampeder president George McMahon publicly announced the appointment of assistant coach Roger Leilew as general manager. He replaces Jim Finks, who left the Stampeders this season to join Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League.

A club director said Dobbs had asked for the dual job of coach and general manager and felt Lehew had been appointed over his head. The director, who asked not to be named, said Dobbs told him he would not work under the new arrangement.

PLAYERS WANT DOBBS

Several players gathered around Dobbs after he announced his decision to resign and asked him to reconsider.

"I'm not kidding, my mind is made up," he said.

Lehew was appointed general manager Monday afternoon and Dobbs was informed of the appointment then, the director said. Dobbs arrived at the club party late and talked with McMahon before announcing his resignation.

Dobbs said he was proud of his team's efforts this season but had made up his mind to resign. He was not available for further comment.

Dobbs joined Calgary as head coach in 1961 and piloted the team to three WFC finals. He was in the third year of a five-year contract.

His last coaching job was at Tulsa University.

National MVP To K. Boyer

BOSTON (AP) — Third baseman Ken Boyer, who sparked St. Louis Cardinals to the National League pennant and a victory in the World Series, was named today the National League's Most Valuable Player for 1964.

He was named first on 14 of the 20 ballots cast by the selection committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Boyer's selection gave third basemen a sweep of the MVP awards. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore Orioles was named the American League winner last week.

Ken Boyer

Boyer drew a total of 343 points, with ballots counted on the basis of 10 points for first place, nine for second, eight for third, etc. He drew 56 points more than runner-up Johnny Callison, the outfield star of Philadelphia Phillies, who had 187 points.

Boyer's teammate, first baseman Bill White, was third with 106½ points.

Police, Intell Win, Lose Tie Twice

Where was the scorekeeper?

The Ontario Intelligencer and the Police Department played an Interdepartmental Hockey League game last night.

Now the question is: What was the score?

The Intelligencer boys claim it was 7-6 with the printers on the long end, for their first victory of the year.

The Police lads say "no," it was a 6-6 tie.

An another report says a penalty box fan calls the count 5-5.

H-m-m-m, that adds up to a win and two ties for the Intellers, how can we kick about that?

Public Works regained possession of a share of first place by defeating Public Utilities 6-1. That left Works and Utilities with identical records of three wins and a loss.

Coleman Second

Tom Brown Western MVP

WINNIPEG (CP) — Linebacker Tom Brown today won the Western Football Conference Most Valuable Player award, up to now the private preserve of offensive backfield stars.

The 27-year-old British Columbia Lions lineman was selected for the 1964 Jeff Nicklin Memorial Award in a ballot by 36 western sports writers and broadcasters.

Brown, six feet and weighing 251 pounds was given 37 of a possible 78 points. Contenders received three points as a first choice, two for second and one for third.

Fullback Lovell Coleman of Calgary Stampeders, the conference rushing leader, was second with 29, followed by Edmonton end Tommy Joe Coffey with 27. Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster was fourth with 26.

B.C. quarterback Joe Kapp, the 1963 winner, was fifth this time with 19, followed by Winnipeg halfback Lee Lewis with six and Calgary linebacker Wayne Harris with three.

Edmonton linebacker Al Ecuyer and defensive back Bob Ptacek of Saskatchewan each got two points. Saskatchewan halfback Ed Buchanan, Winnipeg quarterback Ken Ploen and team-mate Bill Whisler, a defensive end, each got one.

Brown, who joined the Lions in 1961, was a 1960 All-American and outstanding college lineman for University of Minnesota and maintained his trophy - collecting habit in Canada.

He was voted the country's outstanding lineman last year, the first time a Lions' player had won a national award.

The most valuable player trophy honors Jeff Nicklin, a pre-war Winnipeg football star killed in action in the Second World War while serving with the Canadian Army.

Pitcher-Coach

Mets Get Warren Spahn

NEW YORK (AP) — Warren Spahn, the big leagues' top southpaw, joined the lowly New York Mets Monday. The 43-year-old pitcher was purchased from Milwaukee Braves.

Spahn also will serve as the pitching coach for the National League club. "But the greatest job in baseball is being a starting pitcher and that's what I expect to be next year," he told a press conference.

Spahn, who won 236 games during a 20-year career with the Braves, posted a 6-13 record in 1963. He had only four complete games in 17 starts.

"I wasn't pitching enough last season," he said. "I have to pitch regularly to be effective."

The purchase price was not disclosed. However, it was estimated to be about $25,000.

"I am sound physically," Spahn said, "and I'd like nothing better than to make the comeback of the year as a pitcher next season. You don't go out of baseball by age to old age in one year."

Spahn holds numerous other major and National League records. Among them are most 30-victory seasons, 13; most strikeouts by a left-hander, 2,492; most years leading in games won, eight; and most years leading league in complete games, nine.

Junior 'A' Teams Set Precedent

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Niagara Falls Flyers and Oshawa Generals will establish a precedent Dec. 5 when they meet in a scheduled Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series game at Boston Gardens.

The game will mark the first time in OHA history that a regular season junior game will be played outside of Canada.

The Flyers and Generals, both affiliates of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, were originally scheduled to play in Oshawa where it was hoped a new arena would be ready in time. However, the opening date of the arena had to be set back at least two weeks.

With the Generals looking for a new site for the game, Weston Adams, Bruins' president and chairman of the board asked that the contest be played in Boston and the OHA agreed.

Tall Tales Night At Fish and Game

Tonight is "tall-and-other-tales" night at the regular meeting of the Belleville District Fish and Game Club.

Doughty deer hunters will be asked to relate their hunting experiences, true, or garnished.

The "now it can be told" session is an annual feature of the club's agenda——and some good yarns generally are aired.

Also officials of the Lands and Forests Tweed headquarters will give their version of the annual hunt. This report never lacks for interest.

Club officials urged hunters and anglers to get their entries in for the annual competition. It says here that one entry is in for a deer weighing twelve pounds nine ounces.

That sounds more like a "dear" entry submitted by a brand new poppa.

There will be hunting and fishing films, door prizes and two main gifts—binoculars and a transistor radio.

Ottawa To Keep Clair

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Frank Clair indicated Monday night that he wants to stay with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference for the next few years.

Clair said on a radio broadcast that he talked about a new contract with Rider president Barry O'Brien earlier Monday and a second meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday.

"I'm sure the club will come up with a reasonable contract," Clair said.

There have been reports that Clair is being sought by Toronto Argonauts, but Clair said he hasn't talked with Toronto officials about coaching the club.

Clair signed a five-year contract with Ottawa after Riders won the Grey Cup in 1960. The contract expires at the end of next season.

Right Hook To Eye Woman Slugs Referee

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP) — An irate female fan punched a referee in the eye here Monday night after a Western Ontario Junior B hockey game, won by Windsor Spitfires 2-1 over Wallaceburg Hornets.

Referee Frank Unlac of Chatham had just left the ice after spotting a free-for-all among players at the end of the game when he was approached by a woman, who hit him in the eye with a right hook.

Witnesses said Unlac either shoved her or hit her and the woman was pushed back a step. She came at Unlac again but several other fans hustled Unlac into his dressing room.

Police said Monday night that no charges had been laid either by Unlac or the woman involved.

TRY ATTACK

As Unlac was being escorted to the dressing room, another group of young male fans tried to attack him, but he made it to safety before they caught him.

At one point, about 300 persons were wedged into a corridor about eight feet wide leading under the stands.

In the third period, Unlac handed out four major penalties for fighting and six minors for high-sticking.

Wallaceburg police broke up the fights and quickly cleared the arena after the scuffle between Unlac and the woman.

Gordie Howe's Hockey

By GORDIE HOWE

Is a slap shot a dangerous shot to players generally because it isn't well controlled?

That question was asked me recently after Doug Barkley hit his Detroit teammate, Pit Martin, with a slap shot in a game. Pit had to have eight stitches in his ear.

My answer was "No." I'd say the backhand shot is the most dangerous. When you take a backhand shot, you always follow through high. That brings your stick up around your opponent's face if he's coming in to check you.

In Barkley's case, Pit was wheeling on Doug's left hand side. The puck came at Doug. He swung fast and gave it a little more wrist action than usual.

He didn't follow through low with his stick to keep the puck low. Doug is using a stick with a curved blade that has become popular lately. The added wrist action and the curved blade made the puck sail high.

Three days after Martin was injured by Barkley's shot, Toronto's Carl Brewer caught Pit over the left eye with his stick on a backhand shot. It took 40 stitches to sew up the gash, proving the danger of the backhand shot.

The slap shot has its good points. You can tee the puck up and be able to get it away at several angles. You can even pass from this position by having the puck stationary.

A slap shot generally is a high shot. If you work on it, you can be very accurate with it.

For instance, in practice I'll place a puck six inches to a foot in front of the goal line, to one side of the net. That gives me an opening of only three or four inches to try to hit.

Another exercise with the slap shot is to get out on the point, at blue line. I have a teammate standing in front of the net. He puts out his stick and I try to hit the blade. He'll vary its position from ice level to waist high. I wouldn't recommend this practice for any except skilled players.

Handsome Canadian Singer, Edmund Hockridge, Making Good in London Music Halls

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — Edmund Hockridge leaned slightly out of the deep chintz chair and knocked lightly on the polished wooden coffee table, a little gesture intended to ensure that nothing would interfere with his present good fortune.

"I've got more work than I can handle, and I love it," he said as he slumped back contentedly into a semi-reclining sprawl, a broad grin on his face.

"It's a great life."

And indeed it seems to be just that for the handsome Canadian baritone who has had a remarkable string of successes on both sides of the Atlantic ever since his voice broke and he gave up the piano for singing.

Just now he is preparing for a star spot in a BBC television tribute to Sir Winston Churchill to be broadcast Nov. 29, the eve of his 90th birthday, with Hockridge singing Oh, What a Beautiful Morning from Oklahoma! and selections from The Merry Widow.

After that he's off to Manchester to start rehearsing for 13-week run in The Sleeping Beauty, one of the Christmas pantomimes that are a strictly British institution and as much a part of the English festivities up and down the country as roast turkey.

FAMILY FOLLOWS HIM

In between engagements he lives in London in a massive, high-ceilinged house with his attractive red-haired wife Jackie, their six-week-old son, a big silver-grey poodle and a collie.

When he's appearing out of town, they all go along with him. In fact, they are as inseparable he tends to talk of "we" rather than "I" in discussing his career.

"When we are appearing at one of the summer resorts we often take along our racing catamaran. We sail and swim all day and a few songs at night—what a life!"

It all started for Vancouver-born Hockridge when John Charles Thomas of the Metropolitan Opera Company heard him, at age 7, and encouraged him to take up singing professionally. While here in the RCAF during the war he began singing on the BBC's armed services network with the bands of fellow-Canadian Bob Farnon, Glenn Miller and others.

On discharge he joined the BBC but CBC officials heard him and offered a one-year contract "at more money than I ever expected to earn." The contract for the radio show Edmund Hockridge Sings stretched to four years and he made radio opera and song with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. In 1949 he was voted the most popular male singer in Canada.

CHOSE LONDON

But Ted felt a need for stage experience and that meant New York or London—and he chose the latter.

Although his voice became well known from once he came to Canada, it was in Britain, after seven years on the London stage, plus TV, cabaret and pantomime, that he became a celebrity far better known than he ever was at home.

"The British are the most loyal audience in the world," says Ted. "If they like you, they never forget you."

Hockridge, now 40 and looking at least 10 years younger, neither smokes nor drinks, does daily exercises and fills in his spare time at painting, sketching and photography.

He figures his first-really big break came as the result of a whim. Returning to Britain in 1949, he decided to kill time aboard ship learning the score of Carousel, the hit Broadway musical.

A few weeks after he arrived he heard the lead role of Jerome Whyte was suddenly open and went along for a try-out.

"There were dozens of guys there—Englishmen, Americans, Australians, fat ones, thin ones, bald ones, old ones and young ones." What they wanted was a six-foot singer of reasonable appearance.

GOT THE JOB

Ted, six-foot-two with dark good looks and the added bonus of already knowing the score, was a cinch for the job.

He sang 1,300 performances in three years, in London and then the major cities of Britain. He also married his leading lady, Jackie Jefferson whose Canadian father settled in Britain after the First World War and who through his Boston father claimed kinship with the third American president.

In the next four years came lead roles in Guys and Dolls, Can - Can and The Pajama Game. His first long-play record, A Canadian in London, came out seven years ago, followed by 10 others and about 50 singles, four of which got to the top of the hit parade in the days before rock 'n' roll and the Beatles.

Ted has a 21-year-old son by his first marriage, which ended in divorce. His wife also remarried and the families are good friends—"we all got together recently for my son's birthday celebration."

As for the future, he and Jackie would like to spend more time in Canada and would like most of all to go into another musical—when the right one comes along.

"Until it does, we're happy to go on as we are."

Loot Race Closest On Record

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus's narrow victory over Arnold Palmer in the 1964 Professional Golfers Association money race was the closest race since it started keeping records, the PGA said Monday.

The $61.13 difference beat the previous closest race when Ben Hogan topped Lloyd Mangrum by $622.03 in 1946, the PGA said. Official records date back to 1947.

Nicklaus won $113,284.50 by playing in 24 tournaments. Palmer collected $113,203.37 for playing in 24.

The final top money winners: Nicklaus $113,285.50; A. Palmer 113,203.37; B. Casper 90,130.37; T. Lema 74,130.37; B. Nichols 74,012.26; K. Venturi 62,465.56; C. Player 61,460.56; M. Rudolph 52,368.69; J. Rodriguez 49,338.85; M. Souchak 39,559.10.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER

There are cases where a taxpayer has died in the taxation year and his employers have continued to pay his salary to the widow for a certain period. The problem created here is on whose return is this continuing salary reported.

The deceased taxpayer's return, which must be filed within six months after his death, should only show his earnings while he was alive. The salary paid to the widow is her income, but the taxing of this is covered by a special section of the Income Tax Act.

The widow is not taxable on any amount of her deceased husband, continuing salary until the totals for the year exceeds $10,000. If she has no other income it would not be necessary for her to file a return if the amount was under $10,000 unless requested by the Income Tax Department.

In a case where the payments totalled $12,000, and were received in two different years the exemption is not $10,000 for each year. In the final year the widow would have to report $2,000 as income.

If a widow was paid a lump sum as a death benefit this is taxed in the same manner as a continuing salary as explained above. If the lump sum was in excess of $10,000, then the excess, if more than the widow's personal exemptions is taxable in the year it was paid based on her husband's tax paid over the preceding three years. Watch for a following article in this paper covering tax procedure or lump sum payments.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and about 25 cents in coin for each question you wish answered.

QUESTION: My husband died suddenly. His employers had no pension plan. They paid me his salary for six months amounting to $1,800. I was told this is tax free. Is it?

ANSWER: Yes. It is not taxable unless it exceeds $10,000.

QUESTION: My son is 24 and worked 2½ years for his employer. On his death they gave me $1,000. Is this taxable?

ANSWER: No.

Gael's Young Named Top Collegian

Young, a 21-year-old arts student from Hamilton, has been Queen's most explosive backfielder in the last three seasons and was a major factor in Gaels undefeated record this year.

IN THE FOOTLIGHTS — The glow of the footlights reflect on the face of 20-year-old Stephanie Finch as she readies for a performance of the Royal Winnipeg ballet on the stage at Ottawa's Capitol Theatre. Ballet Dancer Comes Home to Make Career After Study in England

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian performers haven't enough faith in their own talent, says a young ballet dancer who came home to make her career after studying in England.

Stephanie Finch, 20-year-old native of Kelowna, B.C., has been a member of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's corps de ballet for the past two years. Before that she spent a year in London studying at the Arts Educational School and the Audrey de Vos School of Ballet.

"From meeting Canadian artists abroad I found that people here have a great deal of talent. But they haven't enough faith in their own country. Then they often don't want to come back."

Miss Finch, described as "star material" by J. S. Sawchyo, general manager of the Winnipeg ballet, one day does want to come back.

"I got very lonely in Britain and I found the schools too confining. The British dance environment is very traditional one. I found I had to do either strict classical work or modern dance. I wanted both, the way I can in Canada."

Now a rising member of the Royal Winnipeg's corps de ballet young and talented dancers, Miss Finch talked about her career before a performance here.

WINNIPEG WAS GOAL

She said she would rather dance in Canada than in any other country.

"Being from the West, I'd always had my heart set on the Royal Winnipeg. It's everything I want in a ballet company. Our director, Arnold Spohr, is terrific and every body in the company is so friendly."

Stephanie, a tiny, slender girl with big dark eyes and long black hair which she keeps wound up in a chignon, first studied ballet at the age of four in Kelowna.

"I was so bad that mother finally took me out of the class."

Later, when she was in Grade 4, she became interested in dancing, stimulated by a friend taking lessons.

Her first teacher was Mary Pratten of Kelowna. She then studied under such well-known Canadian teachers as Gwenneth Lloyd and Betty Farrally.

Each summer Stephanie went to the Banff School of Fine Arts for more training, and it was there that she first worked with choreographer Brian MacDonald, who has created two of the works on the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's fall program.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Finch, in 1962 offered her the choice of beginning a university course or studying in England. She chose England.

Though she found the experience useful, she still has a few doubts about passing up her education.

TOO CONFINING

"In this profession you haven't much time to continue your education formally. You have to learn from the people you meet and the places you see. I think, too, that it's a mistake to confine yourself too much to the members of the company. I like to meet people on the outside, too."

Rather serious in conversation off stage, Miss Finch sparkles in the glow of the footlights in such demanding ballets as Aimee Vous Bach and the high-spirited Les Whoops de Doo.

One of her discoveries since joining the Royal Winnipeg Ballet in the summer of 1963 has been the enthusiasm Canadian audiences have for ballet. The company's tours have had this last summer in both small and large towns have been marvellous. They're so receptive to ballet—and interest in the smaller centres seems to be building up.

Movies Shown to Occupy Droning Hours in Flight

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It all started because a theatre chain operator became bored on long air flights from the East Coast to Hollywood.

David Flexer operated movie houses in and near Memphis, Tenn., and during his many trips to see the Hollywood product he mused on how a plane cabin resembled a projection room. Why not show movies to occupy the droning hours in flight?

That was in 1957. Flexer spent four years and $1,000,000 to devise a method of showing movies on aircraft. The system had to be lightweight, compact, automatic and meet the approval of the Federal Aviation Agency. The result was inflight Motion Pictures, which began service on TWA flights to Europe in 1961.

With inflight you see a movie much as in a theatre. The stewardess hangs a screen at the head of the aisle—one for first class, one for tourist. The cabin is darkened and the movie begins to unreel from a projection booth near the ceiling. Each passenger is equipped with earphones for the sound. The sound is the least affective part of the system; I found it difficult to catch the British accents in Murder Ahoy. But inflight says it is installing new earphones that will give a better, stereophonic sound.

The success of inflight gave rise to other systems. American Airlines has devised Astrovision, which gives the passenger the option of watching a movie on an individual nine-inch television-type screen or using earphones to listen to classical or pop music on stereo. Continental Airlines uses a similar system.

As added gimmicks, American can use its screen to give passengers a panorama of the ground below via a camera in the plane's nose—or to pick up commercial telecasts.

Most Impressive Program This Year Was 'The Louvre'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The time of the year has come when some television publications are sending out ballots so that television writers and columnists may vote for their choices of the year's "best" in various program categories.

I have looked back over my television calendar, noting programs I have watched since Jan. 1, and I find there were appallingly few memorable moments among all those hours.

Once again, however, I would pick The Defenders as the best series. It has its ups and downs, but usually it has a recognizable point of view and it is invariably a professional job. Most impressive single program of the last 10 months has been, I think, The Louvre last week.

Dick Van Dyke and Danny Kaye share my vote for "best television performer," although The Danny Kaye Show must share my top honors in the variety category with Hollywood Palace.

BONANZA 'INTERESTING'

Bonanza, the perennial frontrunning horse opera, probably is the most interesting western week in and week out.

Lucille Ball still has no television peer in her special area of comedy while Bob Hope remains king in his.

Robert Vaughn of The Man from U.N.C.L.E. and Jim Nabors of Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C. are the two brightest new male series stars, while Elizabeth Montgomery of Bewitched must take the blue ribbon in the distaff comedy division.

That's for me, far and away the most interesting daytime program: Walter Cronkite the easiest newscaster to listen to.

While I'm picking, I should add that among all of this season's new programs — by and large a mediocre assortment—my favorite by far is The Rogues.

Recommended tonight:

That Was The Week That Was, NBC, 9:30-10 EST—a typical comedy review of the last seven days or so; telephone hour, NBC, 10-11 — musical hour with Robert Young, host, and Earl Wrightman among the soloists.

Canada Survey

Fares for Public Transit Vary Widely, So Does Service

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Variety is the word for local public transit in Canada.

Fares vary widely. So does type of service. You can ride Canada's last surviving tramcars in Toronto, or its only subway. Elsewhere, it's buses — mostly new but in some places up to 20 years old.

You can travel 19 miles for less than a cent a mile in Winnipeg, or three miles for more than four cents a mile in Halifax.

In 22 major centres looked at by The Canadian Press in a Cross-Canada survey, there is an array of eight fare systems ranging from 10 to 18 cents. Mostly they are in assorted fractions such as 14 2-7 cents (seven for $1).

Most popular toll is 12½ cents. Six communities have this eight-for-$1 rate.

Last stronghold of the 10-cent fare is Medicine Hat, Alta., where the despised dime—long only a fond memory to riders almost everywhere — remains in doing yeoman service since 1901. It buys a seven-mile ride on the city's 4 1/2 miles of bus routes. Windsor customers travel for 18 cents (five for 90 cents). The longest ride for a single fare there is about 10 miles.

WOULD BE FREE

A move is afoot in British Columbia to raise Vancouver and Victoria to the top of the scale. The provincial government's B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, which owns the transit systems, has given notice of a 20-cent fare (five tokens for $1). Single fares would be 25 cents.

Vancouver since 1958 has had a basic 15-cent fare. But Victoria's has been 12½ since then. Vancouver is divided into 3 fare zones and Victoria into three. The current system calls for varying additional fares when riders travel from one zone to another. Under the proposed plan, Vancouver would have three zones with a 15-cent additional charge for travelling from zone to zone. Victoria would be a single zone.

B.C. Hydro, which took over the service as part of its absorption of privately - owned B.C. Electric Company, announced last spring that it needed improvement to the appearance of the church yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Barton, Danny, Sharon, Craig and David of Brampton were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Roy Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Anderson Wayne and David were Sunday guests of her mother, Mrs. Ward Menzies in Hawkestone and enjoyed a venison dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gray Sr., Jimmie, Brent and Sharon spent Saturday at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick spent a day last week in Oshawa with her daughter Mrs. Wally Jack and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones called on his mother and sister Mrs. G. W. Jones and Mrs. Thelma Tulloch in Stirling, recently. Other members of the family visiting at the same time were Mrs. Helen Mastin of Scarborough, Bob Jones, Toronto, and Mrs. Ed. Palmer of Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pethrick's family of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Roly Jackson and family of Springbrook visited their parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pethrick, recently.

OTHER FARES STABLE

Elsewhere, fares appear stable. The only change was in Toronto where the subway-tramway-bus setup has had fares bouncing around from a penny a recent years until they settled down to 18 2/3 cents last June. Six other communities' fares have remained unchanged as far back as 1957.

Halifax and Winnipeg have had their current fares since then. Only a penny separates the 12½ cents at Saint John, N.B., 15 at Montreal and 11 1-9 (nine for 1) at Kingston, Ont.

Montreal's subway is due for completion in 1967, but authorities have not decided on a call for higher charges.

Medicine Hat has had its one-to-one fare in effect since 1961. Before that the happy Hat riders could go seven miles for 5¢ or 10¢.

Halifax and its 18-cent tariff for the same time it gets for Winnipeger 19 miles and a nickel a zone extra for each of four zones into the suburbs.

FARE DOUBLES

Saskatoon's rate—14 2-7—has doubled in five increases since 1945 and the city council has tried to call a halt by subsidizing the system up to $300,000. When the deficit hits that figure, a new increase will be considered. It is expected to be $175,000 for 1964.

Edmonton has found the bulk of its deficits are caused by necessary expansion of service to outlying areas and city council is talking of making it up through taxes. The Edmonton adult fare is 14 2-7 cents. The city has two rarities: Monthly passes at $10 and free rides for old age pensioners.

Fredericton has an oddity, too. All its equipment is just one year old — some rolling stock in other parts runs to 20 years. The New Brunswick capital was without public transportation except taxis for several months in 4 after service started up with new stock. The fare matches neighboring Saint John's 12½ cents.

Rylstone

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Anderson and boys were recent guests of their cousins Mr. and Mrs. Glen Eastwood and Linda at Greenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Irwin and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McKeown and family called on Mr and Mrs. Bill Thomson and Andrew, Twalfth Line, recently.

A gothic style bulletin board had been erected by Rylstone United Church. It was constructed by Robert Spencer and the lettering was done by his sister Mrs. Clarence Thomson. The addition added a splendid improvement to the appearance of the church yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Barton, Danny, Sharon, Craig and David of Brampton were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Roy Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Anderson Wayne and David were Sunday guests of her mother, Mrs. Ward Menzies in Hawkestone and enjoyed a venison dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gray Sr., Jimmie, Brent and Sharon spent Saturday at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick spent a day last week in Oshawa with her daughter Mrs. Wally Jack and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones called on his mother and sister Mrs. G. W. Jones and Mrs. Thelma Tulloch in Stirling, recently. Other members of the family visiting at the same time were Mrs. Helen Mastin of Scarborough, Bob Jones, Toronto, and Mrs. Ed. Palmer of Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pethrick's family of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Roly Jackson and family of Springbrook visited their parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pethrick, recently.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort—and actually seems to bring relief to the injured, irritated tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Many said relief was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured and easily accessible growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

Successful Living

Continued Education Helps Us to Get Out of a Rut

— DEAR DORIS — We have been married for two years and have a son who is nine months old. Bob, due to lack of education, has for several years worked on farms as a hired man and will be for the rest of his life, as that is the only work he knows.

Our problem is with in-laws. Etc. Etc. — JANIE.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR JANIE — I've answered the part about in-laws privately. Now your first paragraph bothers me. If Bob wants to remain a hired man, o.k. But if he'd like more education, and a wider look at life, he can have it.

Even the in-law problem will reduce in size and importance when the two of you lift your sights above the basic issues of three meals a day into the more rarified and exciting atmosphere of science, or psychology, or literature. Take your pick of umpteen topics to tackle in your spare time.

Nowadays the Adult Educationists prefer to call it "continuous education" — and insist that we should all go for it. So we should.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I finally received your letter last week. As time went on and you did not reply I thought the column was just a phoney but now have proof that it is genuine and you are real.

Thank you for your kindness and keep up the good work. — ANXIOUS MOTHER.

* * *

DEAR MOTHER — I'm real all right, and so is the pile of letters which await my attention, whenever I dare dash away for a visit to other parts of Canada. This is why I ask those who write to allow three or four weeks for a reply.

Glad to be helpful.

* * *

Confidential to ALMOST GIVING UP — This is no time to give up. Go out with Paul. You are not engaged to Carl, but free to go out with whomever you wish. Keep it this way.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am only five feet tall, while my fiance is six foot three. I feel like a child beside him. Maybe I'm too self conscious, because my fiance doesn't seem to care that I'm so small.

Anyway, are there any exercises at all that would help me grow one or two more inches? I'm on my first year of university, so it doesn't look as if I'll grow any taller, unless I can somehow help nature along. — SHORTY.

* * *

DEAR SHORTY — Perhaps you can't add a cubit to your stature by taking thought, but some good healthy exercise can help your development, and you may still grow a little. Choose dresses and hair styles which give the illusion of height. Then concentrate on growing a well-rounded, tall-enough personality!

* * *

Confidential to MRS. B. — If you pulled out it might jar him, as you suggest. He may think you won't desert your meal ticket. Seek guidance from The Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, 24 Harbord Street, Toronto 5, Ont.

How to Keep Warm in Winter: Spend a Lot of Time Outdoors

OTTAWA (CP)—It is almost impossible, the Defence Research Board noted drily, to escape some exposure to cold during a Canadian winter.

But experiments conducted by the board's medical laboratories in Toronto show that the more often you go outdoors during the winter the better able you are to stand the cold.

Previous experiments, the board says, have shown that muscle tensing — beating the arms, wiggling the toes—is an ineffective way of increasing heat production.

In the latest tests, 14 RCAF volunteers clad only in swimming trunks were put in a room in which the temperature was set at 30 degrees. The group ranged in age from 20 to 40 but five were winter outdoors types and the others preferred it by the fire.

"It is those with a history of outdoor activity who show the immediate increase in oxygen consumption coupled with a marked resistance to shivering," says the report on the tests.

"The subjects of (this) group as a result of outdoor exposure during the winter months have developed a marked seasonal cold-acclimatization."

Three-Fifths of Pompei, Once Buried by Volcano, Now on View for Tourists

By IRVING C. WHYNOT

Outside, a bustling town of 25,000 goes about its business. Traffic in the streets is heavy but in the square people stroll without fear of accident. Vehicles are not allowed in the square.

The room housing the bath is pleasingly warm. Warm air circulates through the walls and floor, the latest in central heating.

Piping hot and icy cold water flows through lead pipes and can be turned on and off with a simple twist of the faucet.

Piece by piece, year by year this ancient city buried by a mighty eruption of the volcano Vesuvius in 79 AD is being uncovered and put on view.

Three-fifths of the city that once covered a fertile hillside of four square miles now have been dug out from under 25 feet of volcanic rubble. The painstaking work to unearth the remainder continues under state supervision.

Vesuvius has been relatively quiet in recent years and while most grade - school students know of the destruction of Pompei, with an estimated loss of 2,000 lives, few realize that a much heavier toll resulted in a 1631 eruption. The toll then was 18,000.

STREETS LIGHTED

At night now the streets of Pompei are lighted and tourists by the hundreds roam the streets, giving the illusion of life in a dead city. An estimated 900,000 visitors walked the streets of Pompei last year on pavement 20 centuries old. They crossed the street on stepping stones placed there then so pedestrians could avoid the water holes—and also to slow down the wild chariot drivers.

Pompei reborn ranks with Italy's priceless art treasures and the ruins of ancient Rome as top attractions for the millions of tourists—150,000 Canadians among them—who flock to the country each year.

Because such attractions are year-round affairs, more and more of the visitors are coming in the off-season, avoiding the crowds during the peak mid-July to late August crush and taking advantage of lower transportation and accommodation cost. Canadian Pacific Air lines, for instance, operates a direct Montreal-to-Rome service and offers reduced rates in the off-season.

BASQUE NUMBERS

Some 1,000,000 Basques live in southwest France and northcentral Spain, a remote people whose origins are unknown.

POMPEI TODAY — Pompei, buried by a mighty eruption of the volcano Vesuvius in 79 A.D., is one of Italy's tourist attractions. Three-fifths of the city has been dug out from under the 25 feet of volcanic rubble. Pompei reborn ranks with Italy's priceless art treasures and the ruins of ancient Rome as top attractions for visitors who flock to the country each year. Let's climb the fence

Give a boy a fence—he'll climb it. Knowing what's on the other side isn't enough.
He's got to be there!
So why be timid about a barrier,
a fence, a boundary, a border.
If he can't conquer them physically, it's no problem at all to let his imagination soar and carry him over them all.

Soon enough, he'll find out
it takes more than imagination to cross some of the boundaries in the adult world.
It takes a lot of hard work.
The kind of hard work now being put into making the world aware of Canadian goods.

The kind of hard work being put into making Canadian businessmen aware of the opportunities available for Canadian goods on the world market.
Canada needs an expanded export trade. But, like with our fence-climbing kids, you have to want to be on the other side before you can get there.

Expanded export trade helps industry grow... helps provide better jobs... a higher standard of living and helps make real the splendid dreams of all children living in Ontario—the "Province of Opportunity."

EQUITY IN YOUR HOME CAN MEAN CASH IN YOUR HAND

That investment you have in your home is an asset in more ways than one. You qualify for the Associates' Home Owner's Loan Plan. Under this plan, you may borrow from $2,000 to $20,000 on the equity you've built up. The interest rate is reasonable. There are no hidden charges or obscure clauses. You completely repay the loan in equal monthly installments over a period of up to ten years. There are no "balance" or "balloon" payments. Interest is computed monthly on the unpaid balance. This means that each payment you make reduces the amount of interest you pay.

There are 101 reasons why you might need cash—financing a university education, buying a second car, remodeling your home. Keep the Associates' Home Owner's Loan Plan in mind. The Associates is one of Canada's largest financing firms with branch offices in principal cities across the country.

Search For 200 Whites Missing In North Congo

Report 13 Canadians Amongst Those Sought

From Reuters-AP

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Belgian paratroopers and Congolese soldiers searched today for some 200 white persons including some 13 Canadians still missing in the northern Congo and believed to be held by the rebels.

Government forces including the Belgian-battled last-ditch rebel resistance in Stanleyville, scene of a bloody white massacre Tuesday that took at least 25 lives including Canadian missionary Rev. Hector McMillan, 46, of Awenmore, Ont. But the McMillan family of seven escaped although a son was reported injured. Another Canadian family of seven also made it to safety.

Hope strengthened today that most of the 32 Canadians reported in the strife-torn Stanleyville area of The Congo and escaped the massacre staged by Congolese rebels.

One Canadian, Rev. Hector McMillan, 49, of Avonmore, Ont., a father of six boys and a member of the Unevangelized Fields Mission, was slain by rebel guns on the streets of Stanleyville as Belgian paratroopers liberated the rebel capital Tuesday.

A spokesman for the UFM in Toronto said Mr. McMillan's death had been confirmed by both the mission's offices in London and the U.S. state department.

According to the same sources, the spokesman said, Mr. McMillan's wife, Ione, 51, and her six sons are safe in Leopoldville. They were flown there from Stanleyville after the liberation. One of the boys, not identified, was reported to have been slightly wounded.

Eleven other Canadians, including the other six children, said to have been in the area were reported safe. Four of these were apparently flown to Stanleyville in the flight carrying Mrs. McMillan and her sons.

They were Miss Grace Olive Bjerkseth, 50, of Three Hills, Alta.; Miss Viola Walker, 59, of Vancouver; Jean and Eric Trethewa Southard, 44, and her son, Larry, 4, of Fort Williams, Ont.

The other seven were in one Mennonite family — Dr. Melvin Loewen, 38, his 41-year-old wife Elfrieda and their five children, of Steinbach, Man. The external affairs department in Ottawa said the Loewens were found safe and removed from Stanleyville.

Eleven of those reported safe are members of the Unevangelized Fields Mission. Reports of their escape came through the UFM in Toronto from the group's North American headquarters in Philadelphia. The UFM is an inter - denominational faith mission.

The fate of 13 other Canadians including seven nuns of Catholic nuns who are members of the teaching order of Les Filles de la Sagesse (Daughters of wisdom), could not be determined because of fragmentary reports from The Congo.

Rev. George Thomas of Toronto, Canadian secretary of the UFM, said that although he had no exact whereabouts of four members of his mission group—Rev. and Mrs. Chesley Burk of Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. David Grant of Saint John, N.B.—was told by cables they were "presumed to have escaped the massacre.

Nothing has been heard of the seven nuns. Mother Cyril, superior of the order's convent in Toronto, said today she had not heard from the nuns for some months and that any word on them likely would come from the order's house in Ottawa or the external affairs department. Also unreported were Miss Muriel Harman, 64, of Victoria, B.C. and Mrs. Hulda Schroeder Brown, a native of Wadhein, Iowa.

The violence died down today as the Belgian and British diplomats today and strongly protested the dispatch of Belgian paratroopers to The Congo. Diplomatic sources said the Russians termed the joint U.S.-Belgian operation "a travesty."

The Moscow sources said the Russians rejected the Western view that the parachute troop landings were forced by fears that white hostages were threatened with slaughter by Congolese rebels. The sources added that the Russians regarded the landings as intervention.

The Russian protest came after both the Soviet Union and China had denounced the seizure of Stanleyville, stronghold of the Communist-backed Congolese rebels.

In Africa and among neutralist nations, there also was sharp criticism.

The United Arab Republic called for an emergency meeting of the Cairo, ministers of the Organization of African Unity to discuss what a Cairo spokesman called the "continued foreign intervention and use of force in The Congo."

Kenya's Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta, who had tried to free the hostages through talks with the rebels, intimated that he believed the United States and Belgium were responsible for the hostages' deaths because they pressed ahead with the attack.

From Peking, reputed backer of the Congolese rebels, came a denunciation of the operation as a "flagrant aggression . . . to suppress the surging armed struggle of the Congolese people." The official New China news agency added:

"A key figure among the hostages . . . was the U.S. spy Paul Carlson, caught and sentenced to death recently by the Congolese patriotic forces."

Dr. Carlson, a U.S. medical missionary, from Calif., was reported slain by the rebels in a massacre just before U.S.-airborne Belgian paratroopers freed the city.

Moscow said the hostage issue was a pretext to camouflage "criminal actions against the rebels "by the imperialists and their puppets."

Humanitarian Mission

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United States told the United Nations Security Council Tuesday that it supported the operation to rescue rebel-held hostages in The Congo only as a humanitarian mission.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson said the Belgian paratroop force dropped on Stanleyville early Tuesday will be withdrawn "upon completion of its mission."

Stevenson said the operation had been undertaken only after all efforts to negotiate release of the more than 1,000 hostages had failed.

The soldiers went about their grim task with the knowledge that their swift down drop Tuesday resulted in more than 1,000 hostages being freed, including 18 Canadians.

More than 900 refugees have arrived here from the former rebel capital and another 300, 400 awaited evacuation at Stanleyville airport.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

Scattered fighting continued in Stanleyville, which fell Tuesday to Congolese troops and white mercenaries after the paratroopers landed to rescue the hostages threatened with death.

Russia, China Denounce Attack on Stanleyville

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Soviet foreign ministry in Moscow called in United States, Belgian and British diplomats today and strongly protested the dispatch of Belgian paratroopers to The Congo. Diplomatic sources said the Russians termed the joint U.S.-Belgian operation "a travesty."

The Moscow sources said the Russians rejected the Western view that the parachute troop landings were forced by fears that white hostages were threatened with slaughter by Congolese rebels. The sources added that the Russians regarded the landings as intervention.

The Russian protest came after both the Soviet Union and China had denounced the seizure of Stanleyville, stronghold of the Communist-backed Congolese rebels.

In Africa and among neutralist nations, there also was sharp criticism.

The United Arab Republic called for an emergency meeting of the Cairo, ministers of the Organization of African Unity to discuss what a Cairo spokesman called the "continued foreign intervention and use of force in The Congo."

2,000 Saigon Students Riot Demanding Premier Resign

SAIGON (AP) — About 2,000 students rioted in Saigon today demanding the ouster of Premier Tran Van Huong of South Viet Nam. They were dispersed by paratroopers with bayonets and tear gas.

Troops moved to end the civil tumult and get on with the war against Communist guerrillas. U.S. officials reported that American aid may be curtailed unless the disorders end, reliable sources said.

It was the fourth straight day of demonstrations. Students are telling the South Vietnamese that "the patience of the American people is wearing out," one informant said.

At least 100 persons 80 of them police and troops, were injured in the melee around the headquarters of the politically powerful National Buddhist Organization. A fragmentation grenade wounded several paratroopers.

Premier Huong's predecessor, Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, was brought down by riots in August. But the rioting today exceeded the latest in its violence.

The Buddhist hierarchy also declared open political war on Huong's government and demanded immediate release of Buddhist leaders arrested previously. Huong showed no sign of giving in.

Buddhist and Catholic opposition to the government began building up as soon as Huong took office three weeks ago because he did not include their representatives in his government of technicians and because he called for the church factions to get out of politics. South Viet Nam's interim legislative assembly, scheduled a meeting Thursday. It was considered likely that it might remove Huong in hopes another premier can find more enough support to end the political chaos

Spending Programs Approved

By ALEX MORIN

OTTAWA (CP) — Although speeches in the House of Commons were largely audible for the din of charges made there Tuesday, MPs authorized the spending of almost $250,000,000.

By sitting through most of their dinner break and working half an hour longer than adjournment time, they passed estimates for the CBC, the Board of Broadcast Governors, the National Gallery, the Indian affairs branch, the trade and commerce department and the finance department.

While the spending was being approved, MPs formed most of their attention on the CBC.

Douglas Fisher, deputy leader of the NDP, had a few good words for the corporation but roasted its executives.

Liberal MP Inquired About Bail For Man Held in Narcotics Case

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — A parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson resigned and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker promised more revelations Tuesday as the Commons reeled for a second day over charges a former cabinet aide offered a bribe in an international narcotics case.

An ashen-faced Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal Dollard, rose at the House opening to say he asked Mr. Pearson to relieve him of his duties until a judicial inquiry ordered by the government clears up his role in the case.

The statement by Mr. Rouleau, not mentioned before in the allegations by Conservative MP Erik Nielsen, was only the first of many shocks in the Commons.

Mr. Nielsen has charged that Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay, offered a $20,000 bribe to a Montreal lawyer to drop opposition to a bail application by Lucien Rivard, wanted by U.S authorities for smuggling heroin into the U.S.

ORDER INQUIRY

Before the daily question period ended:

—Justice Minister Favreau announced the government has ordered a judicial inquiry to look into his own conduct in the case and to decide whether any charges should now be laid.

—New Democratic Leader Douglas suggested a possible link with bail-jumping Hal Banks, the deposed Seafarers International Union boss. Labor Minister MacEachen agreed to search files for any voucher to Raymond Denis from Banks for about $1,500.

—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker unsuccessfully demanded a return to the justice department estimates to enable Mr. Nielsen to make more revelations.

—Prime Minister Pearson said he was told about the case only Sunday and Mr. Rouleau talked to him for the first time Tuesday morning.

The crisis atmosphere generated by Mr. Nielsen's charges prompted the prime minister to postpone for several hours a trip to Western Canada. He is also understood to have personally ordered cabinet ministers to maintain stricter control over their office assistants.

TRIES PRESSURE

In his charges Monday, Mr. Nielsen also said that Guy Lord, former special assistant to Mr. Favreau tried to pressure the Montreal lawyer, Pierre Lamontagne and said the Mafia had reached its tentacles into two cabinet ministers' offices.

Mr. Lord, who Mr. Nielsen says was an "innocent dupe," now is studying at Oxford Uni-

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TUESDAY, Nov. 24, 1964

The sitting opened with an announcement by Guy Rouleau of his resignation as parliamentary secretary to the prime minister.

The move was made to allow an inquiry into his connection with an alleged bribe linked with a Montreal narcotics case, he said.

Justice Minister Favreau announced a judicial inquiry would be made because of charges in the Commons of bribery and coercion in the case.

Opposition spokesmen demanded the inquiry cover every aspect of the case involving two former executive assistants.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said his party has more revelations in connection with the justice department.

T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, asked for a check into a possible connection between the narcotics case and the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada.

Labor Minister MacEachen said he would check.

Catch Second Of 7 Fugitives

PAYETTE, Idaho (AP) — A second escapee from the Washington State Penitentiary was caught in Payette about 1:00 a.m. today, Police Capt. Dan Walter identified him as Richard Eugene Lowe, 26.

Captured Tuesday night as he abandoned a stolen car in Payette was Harold Thomas, 38, who was serving a life sentence for murder. Three others, including Lowe, fled from the car on foot.

Walter said every exit to the city was covered as the search continued for the other two.

The four were part of a gang of seven who tunnelled out of the penitentiary at Walla Walla Sunday night.

Capt. Walter said a resident saw a man trying to enter a pickup truck parked behind a grocery store. He said a patrol car reached the scene and found Lowe in the truck.

Masonry Under Fire At Inquiry

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — A post office review board studying the validity of a mail ban on an American racist newspaper heard a suggestion Tuesday that Communist influences are behind the Masonic order.

John Ross Taylor, 51, of Good erham, Ont., who had told the three-man board that Jewish finances are behind communism, said "the combat behind free Masonry is allied to communism."

Rouleau Explains

OTTAWA (CP) — Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal Dollard, said Tuesday night he resigned as Prime Minister Pearson's parliamentary secretary so that neither Mr. Pearson nor his position as prime minister "may be in any way brought into question" in a judicial inquiry.

Mr. Rouleau, chairman of the Liberal caucus of MPs, announced his resignation as parliamentary secretary in the Commons Tuesday shortly before a government decision was announced to hold a judicial inquiry into opposition charges of attempted bribery by a former executive assistant to Citizenship Minister Rene Tremblay.

Mr. Rouleau gave his account, in a statement issued outside the House, of his connection with the case.

At his brother's request, he asked the justice department to look into the possibility of obtaining bail for Lucien Rivard, charged with conspiracy to defraud in the U.S. and held pending extradition proceedings in Montreal.

He informed Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne of the step he had taken. Mr. Lamontagne was acting for the U.S government but Mr. Rouleau said he had been informed Mr. Lamontagne was acting as a Crown prosecutor.

ACTED FOR U.S.

Mr. Rouleau said Mr. Lamontagne explained he was acting for the U.S. government, not the Canadian justice department, and outlined the nature of the charges against Rivard and the reasons bail was denied.

After the justice department received similar information, Mr. Rouleau said "at that point

Wilson Faces Backbench Revolt To Win Old Age Pension Boost

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson's embattled government today faced the twin threat of financial crisis and a backbench revolt among its own Labor supporters.

Despite a flight from the pound on international money markets, about 40 labor legislators decided to press Wilson for quicker action to boost old age pensions.

The government already has promised a pensions increase for next March and at the weekend was believed ready to bring it closer.

But a private meeting of Labor MPs was told Tuesday night that in Britain's present urgent situation no earlier increase would be contemplated.

Several Labor MPs left the meeting bitterly angry, some charging that the needs of old people were being sacrificed to the demands of "the gnomes of Zurich," meaning international bankers.

Others charged that direct sabotage by international financiers lay behind the pound's present plight. Forty to 50 signed a petition urging Wilson to meet a delegation to press the pensioners' case for earlier payment.

"Stanleyville - What a Nightmare!" Is Cry

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — A Belgian engineer, shivering in tropical shorts and shirt, landed today on the first plane load of 163 rescued Congo hostages to save an eye-witness account of Tuesday's Stanleyville massacre.

"Stanleyville — what a nightmare!" engineer Max Debuisson said as he stepped from the plane with his wife Katie and four-year-old daughter Monica.

Many Red Cross workers and airport hostesses wept as the bereaved and bedraggled refugees landed.

Debuisson said he and his family were in rebel hands for three months, subjected daily to threats of massacre and even cannibalism. They were sworn at and humiliated.

"The last three days were the worst," he said. "Before that I was able to live in my house, but then we were rounded up and taken to a hotel, some 300 of us.

"Yesterday morning, just before dawn, the rebels came for us and herded us downstairs into the courtyard. We had heard airplanes overhead and prayed that this was deliverance, but at the same time I was terrified for (my wife) Katie and little Monnie (Monica because I feared we would all be butchered.

"A colonel of the rebels said he was marching us out to the plane to hand us over to the Belgians. That was the first time we learned it was the Belgians and our countries who had come to our aid.

"They marched us down the street but 50 yards later ordered us all to sit down. Then they withdrew a short way, turned round and opened up with sub-machine-guns.

"It was butchery."

I buried myself on top of Monnie, and Katie was by my side. I could feel my fingers trying to dig into the concrete as the bullets crashed over us I heard screams as people went down.

"Then the firing stopped, and I heard one of the rebels say in his own lingo 'Now we'll turn them over and finish off the ones left alive.'

"I glanced slightly up as they walked toward us and prayed for a miracle," the engineer went on.

Alex Beaudries' 250-Pound Buck Wins Fish and Game Hunt Award

A handsome buck that tipped the scales at four ounces shy of 250 pounds won the Belleville Fish and Game Club top deer award of $25.

It was shot by Alex Beaudrie of Foxboro, while hunting in the Renfrew county. The award was presented at the last 1964 meeting of the club at Club Canaro last night.

The two runners-up were big deer. One shot by Laurie Perry weighed 203 pounds while Mr. Roper brought down a 227 pounder.

Prior to making the presentation President Bill Priddle announced the club had had a fine year. He welcomed "new faces" many of whom were ladies and junior hunters.

He said the club's annual "Ladies Night" banquet was scheduled for January 19th at Club Canara where a "world trip aboard a jumbo planes" in pictures will be featured.

Stories of the hunt were related by members.

Buster Chumley said his party shot three deer in 45 minutes and then — later he got as another. "A midist camp" oe said "reduced the number of hunters hunting.

Ken Motley, hunting for 18 years, said the second week he brought his party eight deer and a bear. "One of the hunters met three moose, said "good morning" and walked on."

Bill Bittle of the Tweed headquarters, Lands and Forests Department, told the large meet ing that while hunting was spotty in certain areas, generally it was a success.

"The kill this year was 28 per cent — last month's shot was slightly over 18 percent."

"Some 20,000 hunters who invaded the northlands shot between 5 - 6,000 deer" he said. "This would leave some 10 - 12 - 14,000 deer."

FAWN CROP GOOD

The fawn crop was very good, Mr. Bittle pointed out. "It amounted to 30 percent, which points to good hunting for the future."

Hunting in certain areas was poor because hunters sought the deer in their winter quarters, he said. In places where tte deer were on the summer ranges because of the mild warm weather there were good kills.

"Next year, if there is rain, snow and severe weather, the hunting may not be as good as it was this season."

"But" he quipped, "hunters do not go north just for hunting alone. They like the social side and some go just to get away from home and the workaday life. They prefer the trouble of the day — and enjoy themselves."

He told the story of one of his officers who discovered a lost hound. The dog was cold, wet and forlorn, so the officer gave it some hot coffee. The dog japed on him licking his face to show appreciation. Then the officer left a dampness on his shirt.

"I guess" said Mr. Bittle "the hot coffee must have thawed its pipes."

HOW TO TELL AGE

The department official explained to members how to tell the age of a deer by teeth study In the past hunters were the judged age by the antlers.

Mr. Bittle used the jaws and antlers of deer in demonstrating his points. He said fish and game clubs were setting up groups for this particular study. He felt being able to accurately ascertain the age of a dear shot would add something to the hunt.

Copies of instructions along this line were available from the department, he said.

Another interesting item for Mr. Bittle said that it was permissable to shoot an elk under a deer license. In recent years elk have came across elk but refrained from shooting them because they thought it was a deer.

He said officers of his department had examined 64 bears so far this season.

"The kill was large," he said "but does not indicate an increase in the bear population. The mild weather kept the bears from hibernating. Some of those examined were full of oak nuts."

Arrangements for the 1964 Santa Claus parade to be held here on December 5th are nearing completion. Members of the committee met at No. 2 Fire Hall last evening for their regular weekly meeting.

Treasurer for the committee, George Rutledge, said the committee will hold their last meeting next Tuesday night.

Mr. Rutledge said to date there are approximately 25 floats entered in the parade which will include and seeing groups of majorettes.

Everyone is urged to attend the December 1st meeting which will put the finishing touches on the parade agenda.

Mr. Rutledge is to move off from the upper bridge on North Front street at 10 a.m. Cards will be circulated along the parade route about 9 a.m.

The committee also reported their tag day as being very successful, over $1,200 was collected by the taggers.

Change Speaker For Canadian Club Meeting

Due to the present crisis in the Belgian Congo the speaker originally scheduled to speak at this Friday's Canadian Club meeting, His Excellency Baron Guy Delafresse de la Chevalerie will be unable to attend. Fortunately Dr. J. J. Green, M.B.E., director of research of Litton Systems (Canada) Limited, the scheduled speaker for January is advancing his date to fulfill the engagement. The Belgian ambassador hopes to be able to come to Belleville in January.

Dr. Green, who was born in Portsmouth, England, attended London University as a student of the Imperial College of Science and Technology—Royal College of Science. He graduated in 1941 in physics in 1928 and in 1929 he received his diploma of membership of the Institute of Physics. In the following year his Ph.D. degree in aeronautical engineering.

After his appointment from the RCAF in 1945 he was appointed chief research scientific engineer with the Air Transport Board and served as technical adviser to the board until 1949 when he joined the Defence Research Board as deputy director of physics and scientific adviser to the Chief of the Air Staff, RCAF. Ten years later he accepted the position of Chief Superintendent of the Canadian Armament Research and Development Establishment and resigned from government service a few months ago to accept his present appointment in industry.

Litton Systems (Canada) Limited is engaged in the design, development and production of sophisticated and complex guidance and navigation systems and associated equipment. With this background knowledge Dr. Green has chosen to speak on "Men on the Moon—and What Next!"

Supervisor Visiting With Congregation

Ronald Gavaga, circuit supervisor of the 15 nearby congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses, arrived in Belleville Monday to spend a week with the Belleville Eastview congregation.

Mr. Gavaga, recently from a circuit in Nova Scotia, graduated a class of 26 persons Tuesday night at Kingdom Hall, 89 Yeomans Street, outlined a program of meetings and special ministerial activity for each day.

"At this time when materialism is crowding in to drive every one out to keep up with the Jones'," Mr. Gavaga said, "we as Christian ministers of Jehovah God must meet the challenge by maintaining our spirituality."

Wednesday through Sunday some time will be devoted to field missionary service each day. The visiting minister and his wife Valerie, will join ministers from the local congregation in making calls on residents of the area as a part of the regular door to door ministry and training program of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Highlight of the week comes Sunday when Gavaga gives a public talk, "Do All Religions Lead to Eternal Life?"

Mr. Ballantine produced the $35,000 film Mr. Pearson which was withheld by the corporation last summer amid charges of government interference.

State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne said the government likely will introduce new broadcasting legislation next year after it receives recommendations from a special committee headed by Mr. Fowler of Montreal. Also under consideration was establishment of a permanent committee of Parliament to study broadcasting and all other cultural affairs.

Earlier, Mr. Fisher attacked the National Film Board for abandoning its role as an educational medium in favor of producing arty films.

He said film councils in smaller communities were being neglected with the board distributing the bulk of its work put through CBC television and movie houses.

Citizenship Minister Rene Tremblay said during debate of the estimates that discussions and consultations will be held with Indians to determine which Indian bands receive provincial education, welfare and community development.

Ottawa's financial services would not be imposed on any band.

Keith Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) said the branch should provide collateral for Indian farmers who want to borrow money from the government. Farm land in reserves could not be used for loan collateral because this put the Indians at a disadvantage.

The Commons also passed, without debate, a supplementary estimate of $19,700,000 to finance recently - announced increases in veterans pensions and allowances.

Two Prisoners Given Another Term for Escape

KINGSTON (CP)—Two prisoners from Collins Bay Institution, including one who was Canada's most wanted criminal several months ago, were sentenced Tuesday to an additional year each in prison.

Burt Le Roy Archesky and Marcel Aveline, who sawed their way out of the maximum security prison April 19, it didn't mean much. Both are serving life sentences.

Archesky, who was named Canada's most wanted criminal after his escape, was returned to Montreal Aug. 26. Aveline was also caught in Montreal, but after only three weeks of freedom.

The men were given the additional sentences for unlawfully seizing Vernon Dawson, a farmer from Phillipsville, Que., and forcing him at knifepoint to drive them to Ottawa. Each was also given a one-year consecutive sentence for theft and unlawfully escaping custody.

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

Aveline said he was paroled in Winnipeg several months ago in November when there were no jobs available.He said he lost one passport job and that his parole was delayed.

After trying for 30 days to get a job, he left for St. Lambert, Que., where he got a job and reported to the parole board. His parole was revoked because he had left the Winnipeg area.

"We are the board has the power to crush us and destroy us," Aveline said. "We're not dangerous. The board has powerful thing but it shouldn't be used to crush people."

SEED JUDGING RESULTS AT THE ROYAL WINTER FAIR

As a matter of interest to local farmers as well as urbanites, we are printing here the results of local entries in the Royal Winter Fair Seed and Grain Show.

This is a world-wide competition including a large number of entries from the U.S.A., some from Europe and the keenest of all from Great Britain.

The success of these locally grown and locally prepared samples is an indication that the Quinte District is a prime producer of high quality seeds. It is also, we might add, a tribute to the processed expabilities of Bishop Seeds Ltd., who are joint exhibitors with the growers.

In most cases show samples are selected by Bishops from the finished product in the normal course of harvest accumulation. After contacting the grower-exhibitor in the matter his sample, these lots are taken in hand by mill foreman Ross Wier for processing with several specialized separating machines to remove impurities and eliminate all small or imperfect seeds. Each sample is finally hand-picked to bring it as near to a state of perfection as possible.

Over the part few years Bishops have taken a keen interest in Royal Winter Fair competition and have entered numerous successes including world championships in Birdsfoot Trefoil and also in Alfalfa seed. This year's list of placings follows:

BIRDSFOOT TREFOIL

Col. Campbell, Bath, Ont., First in Trefoils and Reserve Champion in small seeded Legumes.

D. MacDonald, Wolfe Island: Second in Trefoils.

ALFALFA

H. Hagerman, Stirling: First in Alfalfas.

Reg. Barber, R. R. 7, Belleville: Second in Alfalfas.

RED CLOVER

H. Gordine, Deseronville; Second in Cots.

paratroop sergeant were killed during the night in the Stanleyville area. Much of skirmishing took place near the airport where the foreigners awaited evacuation to Leopoldville.

Ten Britons and a number of Canadians were believed to be still in rebel hands in Stanleyville, according to a correspondent of the East African Standard who flew from Nairobi, Kenya, to Stanleyville today.

Well - informed sources here said it appeared as it would take about three more days to clear up resistance by the rebels.

Four American planes flying refugees out of Stanleyville this morning were all fired on by rebels but none was hurt enough hit to stop its flight to Leopoldville.

REBELS KILLED

Several rebels were killed near the airport during the night and morning.

Congolese troops were reported to be shelling the left bank of the Congo River across from Stanleyville where it was believed many of the rebels have fled.

Refugees from Stanleyville arriving in Leopoldville were hiding in every possible place, including private homes.

None of the rebel leaders had been captured yet and a military observer in Leopoldville said it looked as though they escaped "although they may be fighting with one of those small bands on the outskirts of the city."

An American embassy official said: "We found some more dead bodies" in Stanleyville today, bringing the estimated number of whites killed by rebels since they to 25, with 38 wounded now in hospitals in Leopoldville.

BELIEVED BELGIANS

It was believed the dead found by the patrols were Belgians.

At least 19 persons were killed when rebels opened fire on refugees in front of the Patrice Lumumba Mouument in Stanleyville.

McMillan, according to a U.S. embassy spokesman, was cut down in Lumumba square, his wife and six sons, who were held hostage with him, were rescued.

Two Americans were killed in the massacre.

American missionary Paul Carlson, twice spared by the rebels from execution, was shot to death when the rebels opened fire on hostages.

Christian Mission Society worker Miss Phyllis Rine of Culver City, Calif., also died in the massacre.

Some 37 evacuees were in hospital in Leopoldville, 11 of them in critical conditions.

One evacuee said the rebels carried out thousands of executions during their occupation of Stanleyville.

"Every day, any time of the day, some Congolese was being dragged to the Lumumba Mouument in the city centre and executed" he said.

"They were tied, hands behind their backs and backed to death with machetes."

Some 50 rebels were reported slain Tuesday in the dawn move by the paratroopers on Stanleyville airport that put the rebel capital in the hands of Premier Moise Tshombe's central government.

A white mercenary-led Congolese strike force linked up with Belgian paratroopers soon after the drop from U.S. Air Force C-130 transport operating out of Kamina airbase in Katanga province.

Six Sets Of Quads At Party

The Coles — Patricia, Frances, Edna and Marie, 14.

The Goods—Bridget, Elizabeth, Frances and Jennifer, 16.

How did they feel about being quads?

"I don't enjoy it one bit," said Marie Coles. "It's not like being an ordinary child. People always stare at you and get your name mixed up."

Said Elizabeth Good:

"I suppose you gain a bit by being a small celebrity."

Some of the quads' mothers were present at the party. An exceptional mom was Mrs. Barbara Cummings, 30. In addition to the quads, she has two sets of twins—Heather and Dora, 7, and Carol and Grace, 4.

Panel Agrees Alcoholism 'Major Menace of Our Times'

TRENTON — Can alcoholism be cured?

A discussion panel, comprised of two local doctors and two ministers, at Bethel Temple last night, thinks it can be (in most cases), but that the cure involves superhuman patience on the part of the alcoholic's family and friends, a realization by the victim himself that he is an alcoholic and needs help and sometimes, the intervention of Divine will.

The panel, Drs. W. A. L. McDonald, and E. W. Dow, and the Reverends R. A. Bombay, district superintendent of Pentecostal Assemblies in Canada and L. M. Hornby of the Campbellford Pentecostal Church, defined "alcoholism" as "a person who is disabled because of a dependence on alcohol and can't carry on his normal routine." "or a man who has lost control." "a man who 'drinks to get drunk, refuses to escape worry, a sly man or woman, a man who spends the price of a bottle of liquor on food or clothing for his family, a man or woman who leaves work through drink, a person who drinks a morning "eye-opener" or a person who drinks alone."

Rev. Ronald Reid of Bethel Temple, described alcoholism as "the major menace of our times," and panel members agreed to this.

Dr. Dow suggested that liquor bottles should be labelled "Poison" and contain health warnings, similar to those on cigarette packets sold in the USA after July 1 of next year.

Dr. McDonald tried to draw a laugh from the capacity audience by saying ministers "are ministers can only discuss this problem from the book — the Bible — and then discuss it from experience."

Dr. Dow informed the reverend gentlemen that alcohol he wanted was "observation."

FIGURES UNRELIABLE

To the statement "alcoholism in Canada was growing 40 per cent faster than the growth of population," Dr. McDonald said this statistic was highly unreliable, and stated that one out of every 16 persons who use alcohol, become alcoholics (and all were potential alcoholics), as being more reliable.

Dr. McDonald said drinking problems went back as far as accounts of Herodatus, the Greek father of historians.

Is alcoholism a spiritual, a mental or physical problem?

Dr. Dow minister thought it was primarily a spiritual problem. However, Dr. Dow thought it was a combination of all three, to begin with, then, it becomes a physical problem as the cells of the body become soaked in alcohol.

Environment plays a major role in creating alcoholism. A man is much more liable to become an alcoholic if he has a nagging wife, a home kept like a pig sty, badly cooked meals, never on time.

However, Dr. McDonald said that hereditary factors were becoming more and more recognized. Where there are weaknesses and certain traits in the father and mother, the child, even if brought up by foster parents, is liable to inherit these failings.

Mr. Bombay said what was needed was a spiritual conversion. God has the power to reform alcoholics. Arguments sometimes won't reach them — but prayer will.

Dr. Dow said that first the man or woman must reach the stage where they admit they have a problem. They must reach "rock bottom", and realize their drinking is interfering with their work, their family life and their health.

This insight having been acquired the alcoholic must then seek help. A "drying out" period must be experienced, then medical aid used to restore the patient's physical well-being. The alcoholic must then change his or her pattern of living and recognize there is something more in life than alcohol.

Can the confirmed alcoholic help himself? No, he can't do the job alone, or at least, hardly ever. He needs outside help from family and friends, as well as divine assistance. Others must make the alcoholic feel he is really needed and that they are concerned about him. A former alcoholic can do much good as he knows what the sufferer is going through. All panel members spoke highly of the Alcoholics Anonymous organization.

Should the government exercise greater control over the liquor trade, which is a source of revenue? But, said the panel members, the revenue doesn't begin to pay for the cost of setting up special agencies to cure alcoholics.

Yes, agreed the panel members. Dr. McDonald said education should begin with the young, as has cancer-cigarette links. Churches have a role in this problem. What is the duty of good Christians to take a personal interest in persons suffering from alcoholism.

Milk Bottle Money Costly For Two Youths

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Trenton Tuesday, Arthur McCauley, 19, and Gordon Keith Sherry, 19, both of the Trenton area, pleaded guilty to the theft of 32 cents from a milk bottle at the home of Stanley Mountenay, 55 Dundas St. West, on Oct. 15th. The court was told "the boys split the money between them." They were fined $25 and ordered to pay costs of $3.26 apiece, which included restitution, by Magistrate T. Y. Wills. As both are already on suspended sentences for other offences, the magistrate warned them that any other episodes, no matter how trivial, would result in "being sent away."

Arnold Hamilton, 17 and Richard Boberg, 16, pleaded guilty to breaking windows in the Breadner Senior School and were placed on a year's suspended sentence. Hamilton will pay $135.62 plus $5 court costs, and Boberg $24.81 plus $5. Hamilton admitted breaking a number of windows with a BB gun. Boberg broke one window only.

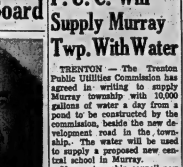
P. U. C. Will Supply Murray Twp. With Water

TRENTON — The Trenton Public Utilities Commission has agreed in writing to supply Murray township with 10,000 gallons of water a day from a pond to be constructed by the commission, beside the new development road in the township. The water will be used to supply a proposed new central school in Murray.

Murray township council now has their lawyer, Robert Cassley, drawing up an agreement to be endorsed by the town council of Trenton. The township is faced with the choice of piping chlorinated water back from a town source or taking the water from the pond as is and investing in chlorinating equipment itself.

If the town pipes back the treated water, prevailing town rates will be charged, but if the township pays for chlorinating the water, the local PUC will make no charge to the township.



CHARGE IS LAID

A charge of careless driving was laid against Lloyd Gillespie man, following an accident on County Road No. 30, in Murray township, just south of the village of Wooler, Monday night. Driver of a car which went out of control and truck a tree was John Wellington Thompson of R.R. 1, Belleville. He was treated in Trenton Memorial Hospital for lacerations to his chin and lower lip. A passenger, Percy Bedford, 42, also of R.R. 1, Belleville, was treated for lacerations to his chin and nose.

Disproving Its Point

"Toronto is the mecca of the professional controversialist, the fellow with the perpetual chip on his shoulder, and as a result all the bellycaching normally spread across a vast nation has been concentrated in Toronto, a sort of Babylon of bind."

That sentence, not without its controversial aspects comes from—Orillia.

It is part of an editorial in the Packet and Times, which is much too outspoken to have any chance of proving its point—that Toronto is the only place in Canada one can find crusaders belligerently espousing a cause and that the rest of the country is as calm as a millpond, undisturbed by even a stray breeze of dissension.

Having said that, there appears little reason to continue with this editorial. It was started with the intention of defending Toronto's controversialists, of denying that "as the result of all this caterwauling, Canada's national media presents a distorted image of the nation" and of contending that the rest of the country, too, is interested in many of the same issues which concern "the Bertons, the Sinclairs, the Cohens and the Kaizes" and other members of "the chorus of complaint." But when the Packet and Times can prove, by its assault on controversy, that controversy's spirit is as much alive in modern Mariposa as it was when Stephen Leacock wrote his sunset sketches of the doings of its disputative inhabitants, there seems to be no need to labor the point.

The Packet and Times editorial is so well written and so vigorously phrased that it is impossible to believe that Orillia, at least, "gets most of its kicks from Elsie the Cow's brick-of-the-month."

Pierre Berton ought to invite J. B. Lamb, editor and publisher of the Packet and Times, to be his guest on CFTO-TV.

He Gets New Job

Alexi Adzhubei, Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law, has been given a new job.

Fired as chief editor of the Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia after his father-in-law was replaced as Soviet leader, Adzhubei now has a position with a monthly pictorial magazine, Soviet Union.

We hope events prove that Adzhubei lost his Izvestia job for political reasons, and not because he was incompetent. Soviet Union, at least in its English edition, is an admirable magazine, rivalled only by "Ireland Today" and "Welcome" amongst the publications which foreign governments distribute free to newspaper offices.

It would be too bad if Adzhubei ruined it—and ended almost monthly reminders that most Russians live in surroundings very much like those familiar to Canadians and enjoy the same recreations as Canadians did, thirty or forty years ago—fishing from rowboats on broad rivers, skating on lakes, tramping through the snow-covered bush.

C'est Si Bon!

Remember the days when English Canadians were all set to help French Canadians find themselves, but complained that they could not determine French Canada's viewpoint? Well, times have changed.

Quebec Municipal Affairs Minister, Pierre Laporte, complained to the Quebec legislature's committee on the constitution last week that he cannot determine the English Canadian view point.

The change suggests an ideal solution to Canadian unity problems. Let us round up all those politicians who speak English and cannot find a spokesman for the French-speaking viewpoint, and the ones who speak French and cannot find a spokesman for the English speaking viewpoint.

Then we can lock them all up in one room —and leave them there.

Suspicions amongst thoughts are like bats among birds, they ever fly by twilight. Certainly they are to be repressed, or at least well guarded, for they cloud the mind: they lesse (lose) friends; and they check (interfere) with business, whereby business cannot go on currently and constantly. They dispose Kings to tyranny, husbands to jealousy, wise men to irresolution and melancholy. They are defects not in the heart but in the brain . . . There is nothing makes a man suspect much, more than to know little; and therefore men should remedy suspicion by procuring to know more.—Francis Bacon.

Strictly Personal
Great Aspect Of Eye Is Flexibility

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The most beautiful and awesome aspect of the human eye is its ability to change focus for objects at different distances and different angles. But the mind's eye, alas, does not always possess this same flexibility.

When I hear the reactionaries today talking about "Soviet Communism," I am reminded of the way the liberals talked about it in the 1930s and 1940s. Both suffer from the same optical rigidity in the mind.

Millions of liberals in those days were beguiled by Marxist doctrine and dogma. Such slogans as "humanity" and "justice" and "peace" and "equality" blinded them to the obvious fact that Russia had become a terroristic state that totalitarianism of the left was just as wicked as totalitarianism of the right.

They even refused to believe the evidence of the Moscow trials in 1936, when they clung blindly to the faith in "proletarian democracy," whatever that may mean. When, in 1939, in a magazine article I attacked the liberals for being the willing dupes of Communist propaganda, I was bitterly castigated as a "bourgeois jackal" and "an agent of British imperialism."

Today, we find the same unwillingness to confront reality on the part of the American right. They are still fighting the "Soviet Communism" of 20 years ago, and ignoring all that has happened since.

But the fact is that Russia has changed enormously in the last two decades. It is becoming a "conservative" state, a "have" power rather than a "have-not" power. The Chinese leftist accuse Russians of having forsaken Marxism, and to a large extent they are right. The Russians are finding out that their doctrinaire positions of the past do not work.

Moreover, as every experienced diplomat knows by now, the "Communist conspiracy" has broken into fragments. Nationalism is proving stronger than the "third internationals," exists only on paper. Disagreements among the Communist bloc are greater than those among the Western powers. It is now folly to exploit these disagreements, to work with those elements that can help us rehabilitate the ruptured world.

Of course, the Russians do not see this as clearly as we do; there is seen as a threat by every other great power. But this is an ancient story. What has this to do with "Communism" or "free enterprise." It is the result of force operating in the vacuum of social and political vacuum. The ideology is merely a rationale for the national interest.

To be blindly and uniformly "anti-Communist" is not a position, but a sentiment. With such a sentiment, there can be no "foreign policy" at all except withdrawal from world commitment and eventual war. The failure to discriminate, to change, to refocus the mind's vision, from year to year, is a disease afflicting both the left and the right.

Union Missed A Good Bet

Vancouver Province

We congratulate the B.C. division of the International Woodworkers of America on its successful entry into the sphere of capitalism. It has its $3 million finde fund invested in various dividend-edged stocks and bonds.

What used to be simply a bite put on IWA members for money to fight the employers' battles has now become, in effect, an exclusive investment club.

While fund directors are showing tidy returns by putting the money into trust companies, credit unions and government agencies, they could have done better by investing in their own forest industry.

After making the point in wage negotiations that the forest industry is capable of making handsome profits, it is surprising that the union ignored the opportunity to share in those profits.

It's All Just Good Clean Practical Joking

To Your Good Health
Nervous System May Cause Prolonged Hotflashes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I wrote to you before and you never answered, but I will try again. Why should a woman of 41 still have hot flashes? Medicine and shots don't seem to stop them. Could this be something serious? I have consulted several doctors. — Mrs. M. C.

I regret that you feel slighted, but please keep this in mind: I can't answer every letter. I do try to answer every question that I feel qualified to answer, because similar questions often come from many people.

I've written about the very question you ask. So don't watch for your own initials; watch for the topic you asked about.

Persistent hot flashes are not too unusual. Women certainly shouldn't expect them to continue indefinitely past the menopause, or "change of life" interval. Yet sometimes they do.

Some women with oversensitive nervous systems are more prone to prolonged flashes than others. It is the way they are made, and overcoming the problem entirely can be difficult.

Some women focus their attention on the flashes when others have the knack of disregarding them.

In still other cases, the flashes well past menopause have nothing to do with the "change of life", but can be traced to a disorder of the thyroid gland. That is, a subtle overactivity of the thyroid is not uncommon in people past 60, yet can account for problems which too often are passed off as being caused by age or menopause. It is, therefore, sometimes well worth while to take a close look at the level of thyroid activity.

The condition you mention is not as a rule serious (unless there are other symptoms). It occurs often enough so I mention it in my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." The booklet is available to any reader, not in return for 30 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope. Send requests to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 156, Dundee, Ill.

Now, Mrs. M. C., I can't say "See your doctor," because you say you have been to several. I would, however, suggest this: Instead of giving several of them a brief attempt at making you more comfortable, select one in whom you have confidence, and let him explore several possibilities. The thyroid is one likely avenue of approach, and can be treated effectively if that is the source of the trouble. In other cases, mild sedation is adequate. In the occasional, in fact rather rare, case, vascular disorders are involved. It is not often, in cases like yours, that the correct answer can be determined on the first attempt, unless you (and your physician) happen to be lucky.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the cardiogram the only test in finding damage to the heart? — S.M.P.

No. The electrocardiogram gives an accurate account of irregular rhythm if present. It also can tell which coronary artery (anterior or posterior) is not providing enough circulation to the heart muscle. If a coronary attack has occurred, it will tell whether any of the muscle has been affected.

But the stethoscope remains a very important instrument, to detect murmurs (which may indicate valve damage) and certain types of congenital heart disease. X-rays detect heart enlargement and sometimes other conditions. Special tests, involving catheterization are used in ascertaining the precise nature and extent of some kinds of heart damage.

Is Criticism 'Unethical?'

Edmonton Journal

The Toronto Board of Education seems to have had the shock of its life. After a bout of public criticism, the trustees hired a public relations firm to . . . "report on the present methods of giving information to the public and consequently to the taxpayer. They will be quite free to report on the activities of the board as they see them."

The cost was $6,000. The report landed on trustees' desks six weeks before the civic election. To their dismay, it forthrightly accused them of arrogance, extravagance and lacking common sense in dealing with the public.

For Trustee Richard Davison charged that the board's consultant had been "methodically preparing a report its "client" was bound to dislike."

Having regard to the trustees' own open-end instructions, the complaint won't wash. Nonetheless, how prevalent is this view?

It is a common thing for municipal councils to hire "consultants" on all manner of matters these days.

Do consultants — who are paid with public money — scrupulously call their shots as they see them, believing they owe allegiance to public at large? Or do some indeed consider it "unethical" to disturb the people who happened to appoint them?

Equally important, when people in public office ask for "independent advice," just how independent do most of them expect it to be?

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 25, 1944 . . .

A strong force of British troops reached Pittsburgh to discover that the French evacuating armies had already destroyed supplies and burned buildings of the frontier post, last left for Canada, 206 years ago today—in 1758. The abandonment of Pittsburgh gave British control of the western sections of the settled areas of the American colonies.

1922 — Benito Mussolini was granted dictatorial powers in Italy.

First World War

Fifty years ago today — in 1914 — Serbs routed Austrians near the Kolubara River, taking 500 prisoners; Russians crushed the German army in southeastern Poland, capturing thousands of prisoners and much military equipment; the Germans were pushed back in Belgium near Langemarck and Zonnebeke.

Housing and The Elderly

Montreal Gazette

It is more than ironic — it is tragic — that a country such as Canada, which has given so much government aid to housing should have left its old people the most poorly housed of all. The fact has been underlined once more in the brief presented to the Senate Committee on the problems of the aged in Canada by the Welfare Minister of Nova Scotia, Mr. James Harding.

It is not only that the accommodation is very inadequate for the elderly that many require nursing care. There is a very little adequate housing for old people who are able to look after themselves, and would like to do so, but can find nowhere to live at a price they can afford. As things are now, too many old people are paying half their incomes for housing, and are often getting poor housing for their money. And they do not have enough money left to meet their other needs.

The interesting point about what Nova Scotia's Welfare Minister says is that it is not unlike the same as what has been said in other briefs presented to this investigating body of the Senate. In June, for example a joint brief along similar lines was presented by the Montreal Council of Social Agencies, the Federation of Catholic Charities and the Federation of Jewish Community Services of Montreal. These three organizations, serving the welfare needs of the English-speaking population of this area, stressed the importance of bringing adequate housing within the financial means of the elderly.

The brief of the Montreal organizations like that from Nova Scotia, pointed out that much could be done with the existing laws, if these laws were sufficiently amended. The trouble is that as the laws now stand they are not only not helpful to the aged; they work against their interests. Take, for example, the great need for special housing erected for the aged by nonprofit organizations and subsidized - dividend organizations. But housing of this kind cannot pay the high interest rates on loans from the Government's Central Mortgage and Housing.

The existing laws work against the interests of the elderly in another way. The regulations of the National Housing Act actually discourage hostel-type houses for the elderly. They require a 30 percent investment of completely self-contained units if any hostel project is to be approved for a loan by the Canadian Mortgage and Housing.

This means that service clubs and other organizations that might be able to open new homes for elderly people find that the projects very difficult, as the restrictive terms of the CMHA loans do not apply.

The Nova Scotia brief, among its various suggestions, recommends that more greater help be provided people who wish to extend their accommodation to provide space for elderly relatives, and that the federal sales tax on building materials on old peoples' accommodation be eliminated.

Even if all these various means of accommodating housing for the aged were adopted, the needs would still be great. But since the housing needs of the aged are so pressing, it seems strange that the aged should have to seek housing under regulations that are not meant for them, and that seem to shut them out. It may only be hoped that the similarity of the briefs being presented to the Senate investigating committee by those closely connected with the welfare of the aged will result in changes in legislation that will correct the present tendency to forget those who often need shelter most and can afford it least.

Calgary Albertan

There is a point where straight talk and bravery approach on folly and Harry Hays reached this point recently when he said that his department will send monthly letters to every farmer in Canada and invite any farmer with a problem to write to him personally. If only one per cent of the 681,000 farmers in Canada reply to this invitation, in one month he will have promised to reply to 6,810 letters. This works out to better than 160 letters a day.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 23th, 1934

Behind a veil of wartime secrecy lies the story of how the output of the power development at Shipshaw, Que. — Canada's greatest — compares with that of Boulder Dam — greatest in the United States.

Officials of the Aluminum Company of Canada, owners of the Shipshaw development built last year in the picturesque Saguenay River Valley of Northern Quebec, say the prospect's peak hourly output at 1,346,000 horsepower. For security reasons, United States authorities declined to give the exact peak output figure for Boulder Dam but said it was more than 1,000,000 horsepower.

Doubts Fairs Need Gaming

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture took the easy way out when it tabled a resolution asking an investigation of gambling at fall fairs.

The subject was sweet under the roof when delegate said that without midways and games of chance there would have difficulty in getting enough money to operate.

This is another case of suggesting that the means — in this case money from tawdry shows and concessions — justifies the end, which is the holding of numerous small fairs.

Canadian agriculture has a long and honorable history. It is a way of life which many fine citizens have followed and which has been handed down several generations in many families.

It is difficult to believe that a showpiece for as basic a business as farming can only survive through the operation of gambling booths and cheap sideshows.

The attitude of the OFA, it is only fair to add, is no more inconstant than the laws governing gambling which permit the gullible to be fleeced in the name of agricultural fairs but forbid people to purchase sweepstakes tickets for a hospital charity.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices edged higher as the trading pace slowed on the stock market today.

Interest in speculative mining issues waned although a handful of stocks made small gains in active dealings. McWatters advanced 17 cents to $1.35. Mine Ore seven to 13 cents, Urban Quebec 2¼ to 32 cents and Yale 1½ to 17 cents. Jaye, a heavy trade Monday and Tuesday, fell four to 31 cents in profit taking.

Industrials put on an unimpressive rally after taking a hefty loss Tuesday. Price Brothers gained 1-to 43, Interprovincial Pipe Line ¾ to 94¼ and Bank of Nova Scotia ¼ to 78. Rothmans and Algoma Steel had losses of ½ to 21¼ and 69¼.

In base metals lnco tacked on ¼ to 80¼.

On index, industrials were up .59 to 165.32, golds .66 to 154.22, western oils .32 to 96.86 and the exchange index .10 to 154.53. Base metals fell .04 to 71.88. Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,896,000 shares compared with 2,978,000 shares traded at the same time Tuesday.

Industrials were above their lows for the day after Tuesday's decline.

The increase in the Canadian, U.S. and British bank rates was seen as a key factor in the decline in industrial prices.

In the industrial list, Interprovincial Pipe Line fell 2¼ to 93¼, Price Brothers 1¼ to 43, Bank of Nova Scotia 1 to 77½, Moore Corp. 1¼ to 60½, MacMillan Powell 1¼ to 31¼ and Algoma Steel ¼ to 70.

Abitibi gained ¼ to 13¾ and Great Lakes Paper ¼ to 25¼.

Quebec Manitou was ahead six to 54 cents after opening at 90 cents. McWatter was down 26 cents to $1.38. These companies are involved in a dispute over ownership of certain claims in the Timmins area.

Jaye climbed 9½ to 35 cents. All three of these issues traded more than 1,000,000 shares, contributing more than one-third of the market's total volume of 9,538,000 shares.

On index, industrials fell 2.07 to 163.23, base metals .73 to 71.92 and the exchange index 1.89 to 154.63.

Rouleau

I completely dissociated myself from the matter."

Some time later, he said, he complained to an RCMP request and supplied the RCMP with similar information. No further question was asked him by the RCMP.

"At no time did I ever receive or transmit any offer of money, nor was any such offer ever brought to my knowledge.

"May I repeat that in my capacity as member of Parliament, I am frequently called upon to make representations on behalf of persons who claim to be the victims of unfair treatment."

Mr. Rouleau said he regrets his name was mentioned in connection with a matter on which he had no details and from which he withdrew as soon as the information was supplied by the authorities.

"I also regret that my intervention might have caused embarrassment to the prime minister or the minister of justice."

He said he is pleased the government has called for a judicial inquiry and will provide it any clarification required.

"I am positive that the inquiry will enable me to establish beyond any doubt that I acted in good faith and in a manner that is entirely in accord with the integrity which must rule the conduct of any member of Parliament."

Mr. Rouleau's statement did not identify his brother by name but merely described him as the chairman of the Mille-Iles school board. An associate said the brother's name is Raymond.

Farming Is Nothing New To Ontario Dairy Princess

Named Ontario Dairy Princess during the CNE, Miss Crawford has taken leave of absence from her Niagara Falls teaching position and until next September will be busy plugging the Ontario dairy business.

She has just returned from a three weeks' visit to the United Kingdom and today and Thursday is in Belleville attending the British Empire Dairy Show.

This morning she did a radio broadcast and this afternoon will be at the dairy show on Front street helping to hand out cheese samples to visitors.

50 MILKERS ON FARM

The Crawford dairy farm just four miles outside Niagara Falls carried 80 head of cattle (mostly Holstein) with 50 milkers whose production tops to the fluid milk market in Niagara Falls.

A grade seven teacher at the Princess Margaret School in Niagara Falls, Miss Crawford says she has so far enjoyed her role as Dairy Princess.

"I had a lovely time in the United Kingdom and am on the go almost every week" she says. This year was the second try for the Dairy Princess honor. "I didn't make it last year," she said.

Defence Policy Chief Concern

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Production Minister Drury seemingly delivered a knockout blow Tuesday to the hopes of the Canadian aircraft industry of procuring a contract to build the U.S. McDonnell F-4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber.

He told the Commons defence committee that the level of activity in the aircraft industry is and should be dictated by defence policy rather than defence policy being dictated by the aspirations of the industry.

"Which rules today?" asked Harold Winch (NDP — Vancouver East).

"Defence policy," Mr. Drury replied.

The defence department is known to favor the U.S. North-rop F-5 Freedom Fighter whose unit price is less than one-third that of the Phantom.

Mr. Drury said — and repeated at least three times — that defence expenditures are determined by defence needs and not by any need for a stimulant to the economy.

"The rise or fall in defence expenditures is not governed by economic necessity but by the state of international relations," he said.

Mr. Drury said there are always pressures from the aircraft industry to have defence requirements based on economic instead of military grounds.

Wm. O'Dwyer, Ex-Mayor of New York, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — William O'Dwyer, an Irish immigrant boy who rose from the docks to become one of New York's most controversial mayors, died in hospital Tuesday of a long-standing heart ailment. He was 77.

The last mayor of Irish heritage to occupy city hall, he served from 1945 to 1950—the city's 100th mayor. But he left under a cloud resulting from one of the biggest police scandals in recent history.

At about the same time, O'Dwyer was castigated by the Senate committee headed by the late senator Estes Kefauver, (Dem., Tenn.) as a friend of gamblers who winked at corruption in his official family.

O'Dwyer, who had gained a political reputation as prosecutor of Murder, Inc., the old murder-for-hire mob, never was charged with any criminal wrong-doing.

From city hall, O'Dwyer went to Mexico City as president Harry S. Truman's ambassador to Mexico. He served until 1952.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

QUESTION: We bought an years to complete restoring and old house and it's taken us two decorating it. During that period, most everyone we know has been here for dinners, parties, visits, etc. Now that the house is finally finished, though, we'd like to give an old-fashioned housewarming. Do you think this would seem a little ridiculous, since practically everyone who will be invited has already been here? My husband says this doesn't matter since they've never seen the house in its present, completely finished, state. What do you think? — Mrs. E. M., Hartford, Conn.

ANSWER: A housewarming is given when a house is finished. Since your home has now reached that pleasant state, there is no reason why you shouldn't have a housewarming and let friends who have visited in the meantime see how everything finally turned out.

QUESTION: At a party, is the hostess supposed to keep passing around trays of canapé and the like, or is it all right to put them down on a table and let guests help themselves. Some friends say this is inhospitable, and that the hostess should continue to pass.— Mrs. R. S., Canton, Ohio.

ANSWER: The hostess may pass trays around when she first brings them out, then leave them on a table for guests to help themselves. At a crowded party, a snack table is more convenient than inching a tray through the mob. When there are fewer guests, a tray may be passed at intervals, but left on the cocktail table or a sideboard in the meantime.

Women's Study Guild Discusses Fluoridation

A film on "Pure Water" led into a discussion on fluoridation at the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Study Guild on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Cochrane, Montgomery Blvd. The worship service, taken by Mrs. A. D. Archibald, dealt with man's dependence on God and nature and thus prepared the members for a better understanding and appreciation of this excellent film, showing how water pollution can be avoided.

Mrs. Pennington, program leader, conducted an informed discussion of the pros and cons of fluoridation of water, a vital topic in our city at this time.

MEMBERS BRING GIFTS

Gifts to the Mental Health Association for patients in the hospital at Cobourg had been brought by members and two letters were read from the Tuntas child, sponsored by the Guild, through the Save the Children Fund.

Mrs. Trill and Mrs. Archibald, as hostesses, served refreshments while the impromptu discussions continued.

Susanna's Family Fare

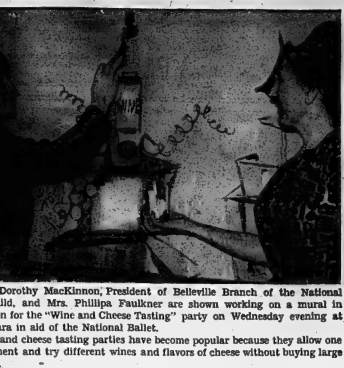
ANYONE FOR CHESS?

Dear Susanna: I claim that chess is a game for adults or perhaps gifted children, but my husband insists it can be played well by any average child as young as 7 or 8. Susanna, do you have any evidence either way? — Mrs. William Bailey

You have touched on a subject near and dear to the heart of "Pat" Montgomery — wonderful, patient and understanding school principal and honorary president of the local Public School Chess Association.

In 1939 he started to teach chess as a regular school subject and now about 10,000 youngsters compete each year for the honor of representing their school in the annual chess tournament. And I'm afraid your husband is right. Some of Mr. Montgomery's best players do come from grades 3 and 4.

For readers who wish to stimulate their families' interest in chess this Christmas, Mr. Montgomery has provided explicit instructions on The Making of a Chess Set and an exciting, comprehensive list called How to Play Winning Chess.



You may have either or both by dropping me a line. Who knows, perhaps you'll be the instigator of your own chess association. And of course any hints or suggestions for the column would be gratefully received. Well, it's your move! — SUSANNA

IRONING DOILIES

Dear Susanna: When ironing crocheted doilies which have been washed and starched, shape them to the original size, cover with a piece of brown paper and iron with a hot iron.

There is no danger of scorching, and the iron isn't poking into those open spaces. Beautiful results every time!

(If you have any hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

Mrs. Dorothy MacKinnon, President of Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild, and Mrs. Phillipa Faulkner are shown working on a mural in preperation for the "Wine and Cheese Tasting" party on Wednesday evening at Club Canara in aid of the National Ballet.

Wine and cheese tasting parties have become popular because they allow one to experiment and try different wines and flavors of cheese without buying large quantities.

An "educational" wine and cheese tasting party and discotheque involves planning, entertaining, tasting, comparing, and exploring. It also involves making up one's mind and changing it several times. It is fun and entertaining for hosts and guests alike.

Speaking Personally

LIGHTING UP

Last year on the CJBQ "Why Not Call" radio program, a suggestion was made to offer prizes for the best Christmas decorations of homes in the city. At that time we hoped they wouldn't. Now we regret to note in a news account in this paper that the Belleville Horticultural Society is planning to offer awards this year, and again we disagree with this idea.

This puts the whole idea of decorating in the wrong perspective. Sometimes whole streets in Belleville are so beautifully decorated that it must mean the neighbors have co-operated. But co-operation and competition are quite different things. And with competition the emphasis shifts in the wrong direction.

We are all in favor of Christmas decorations. There are too few times when the city can sparkle. Let it be as gay as possible during the holiday season. It lifts the spirits of even the most cynical Scrooge, and brightens the dark days of the winter solstice.

Some of the results of decorating in other years have been original and striking. But they were done without expecting any reward, for the satisfaction and joy of it.

It also seems manifestly unfair for people to compete who have different levels of incomes. Lighting is expensive and the more affluent ones could certainly put on a better show than those with less money to spend.

It encourages the "status thing" which is deplorable at any time, but especially at Christmas, when good will should be practised if it is ever going to be. In fact, we fail to see what good would be accomplished by offering awards.

A DOG'S LIFE

The melancholy days are come for Killie, the Scotch terrier.

All the cottages along the bay shore are closed and the summer visitors have left. In many cases docks don't have to be pulled in because they are high and dry on the shore.

And what a strange shore it is. Every day the water withdraws from it a little more. New islands spring up where none was before. Favorite trees and bushes take on a new perspective.

The rocky shoal that once hid treacherously under water, shearing pins off outboard motors, now stands exposed in brazen defiance.

Killie watches the duck hunters leave in their boats with decoys and guns, and watches again as they come in with the strangely still birds, their feathers ruffled and bloody. A wave of regret passes over him for these birds that were so beautiful in flight and will fly no more.

Killie is thinking of abdicating his place as guardian of the shore. As he limped home the other day after tangling with a big dog with his ear chewed and blood dripping from his mouth, looking like a fighter that the referee had just counted ten over, his thoughts were evident.

"I'm getting too old for this kind of thing. I don't know what the younger generation is coming to. They won't stand for discipline any more. Bullies, that's what they are. Well let them take care of things now.

"I've kept dangerous animals away for years, such as cats, skunks, and turtles. Now it's their turn."

Killie cried a bit with self-pity as he was being washed off and sympathized with, but the next day he was growling fiercely at anything that moved outside the window, as long as he was on the inside.

Fancy Footwear And Stockings In Showings

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—Paris has a new look—from the knees down.

Low-heeled shoes with high-rise vamps, worn with patterned and textured stockings, spotlight feet and legs as dramatically as in the days when women first shortened their skirts in the early 1920s.

Parisians have discovered the pleasant fact that last year's coat, suit, or dress, acquires a new lease of life if worn with updated accessories. A bouffant hairstyle or a bulky "dowager's hat" does more to outmode a woman today than any vintage outfit which she may possess. On the positive side of the fashion ledger, a selective choice of new shoes and stockings pays big dividends.

Paris features fancy stockings for every hour of the day. The recent trend towards classic, pale - toned, seamless stockings disappeared with the summer sun.

Even if a woman disdains fancy weaves and textures for everyday wear, she chooses color to accent her legs. New shades are warm and tawny in the brown and taupe family.

LANKY LOOK

The "Long - Legged Look," dramatized by short, kneecap-length, flared skirts, is intensified by monochromatic effects of shoes and hosiery in the same color range. Brown stockings merge with brown shoes. Hosiery with a blue or grey cast lends the optical illusion of an unbroken line when worn with black shoes.

The next step is more dramatic, with lace hosiery matched in the same pattern to lace evening clothes. Lanvin shows black fishnet stockings with formal clothes. These stockings are woven with a diamond patterned clock running up the outside of the ankles.

PERSONALS

At the recent "Open House" to mark the occasion of the 40th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sandercock the ladies who graciously received the guests in the tea room were Mrs. John Parrott and Mrs. Harry Rollins, and Mrs. E. Thomson and Mrs. Percy Ray who also were in charge of the guest book during the afternoon and evening.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERRIE, MOTHER OF 5

Tempest in a teapot—fortunately that's all most toddler tantrums amount to. Most toddlers have an occasional temper storm because the very business of growing up is bound to bring frustrations. Tantrums may also result if a child is overtired or overstimulated.

*

To fight anger with anger, hardly ever works. Good ways to calm an overwrought child who's not old enough to reason with:

* Try to distract him tactfully. A quick hug 'n' kiss often smooths away the sore spot.

* If he's failed at something, try to show him the way and be quick to praise new attempts.

*

Mealtime tantrums almost never happen when you spark your toddler's menus with something extra-special. Like Gerber Junior Meat Dinners . . . famous for savoury flavour interest. That's because they have 3 times as much meat (and therefore more protein) as our regular vegetable and meat combinations. Add to this extra meat, the goodness of selected garden vegetables and you get the tastiest dishes that ever perked up a palate. Strained versions for pre-toddler tykes. 8 varieties.

*

Nutrition bulletin from Gerber. Every mother knows that excessive cooking sometimes reduces the nutritive values of food. Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits are cooked in just a few seconds to retain high degree of natural food values. Flash-cooking does a lot for baby's eating pleasure, too. Because it helps preserve the true-to-nature colours and flavours so appealing to little ones. Gerber Fruits, (and other foods) come in Wide-Top jars with re-closable Twist-Pop caps for safe refrigeration of unused portions. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

What to Do in Case of Accidents

The last lecture in the fall series of Nursing Education was held at Belleville General Hospital Education Hall, Monday evening of last week. The topic, "Practical First Aid and Resuscitation" was well presented by William James, branch secretary of the oldest welfare organization in the world, the St. John Ambulance Association.

The fine attendance was welcomed by Mrs. Joan McDonnell, president of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry. The guest speaker and the projectionist, Sergeant Major E. J. Reed, were introduced by Mrs. J. Glen.

LACK KNOWLEDGE

Mr. James stressed the importance of first aid in getting the patient to the hospital alive, meanwhile preventing further injuries. Many accident victims have died in spite of kind efforts of people lacking sufficient knowledge.

After defining first aid as "assistance rendered at the scene of an accident until medical help arrives," Mr. James proceeded to say, "Immediately determine the type of injury. Remove him from danger, such as fire, or otherwise remove danger from him. Giving first aid requires clear thinking from the attendants."It is important to learn to administer aid with a minimal number of items as may be worn or found at the roadside in a car.

GOLDEN RULE

If not breathing, the Golden Rule of first aid is to give artificial respiration as long as possible, sometmes 6 to 8 hours. 'Mouth to mouth' resuscitation is the favored method at present. Everybody should know how to give artificial respiration. Time is essential, there is no time to run for help! Only four minutes are available to restore breathing before brain damage begins. Therefore it is of utmost importance to cause him to breath, even though consciousness may not yet be regained.

After breathing has been established, severe bleeding and shock are the next concern. A pad such as a handkerchief, and a pressure bandage made from lady's hose, man's tie, belt, etc. will help to check the flow of blood.

KEEP PATIENT WARM

The difference between nerve shock and established shock was explained. If the patient is cold, keep him warm with car blankets, rugs or coats. A warm drink will act as a stimulant providing he is able to swallow.

It is important to know when not to move a patient, as in the case of back injury when paralysis of the legs is present. For immobilizing other fractures, splints can be made from magazines strapped with a tie, belt or scarf. The body can also be used as a splint, strapping the arm to the body, one leg to another, or over another as in case of a fractured knee-cap.

READ BRACELET

The procedure of aiding a patient in a diabetic coma, or suffering from a heart attack was then discussed. If the patient is wearing a 'medical-alert' bracelet, read it.

An instructive film on artificial respiration using the "mouth to mouth" method was shown.

A DEATH EACH MONTH

Mr. James stated that in Belleville there is an average of one death a month due to accidental poisonings. The greatest incidence is from age one to six years, with highest toll between two to three years. Most accidents seem to occur in the kitchen and bedroom. The commonest cause of all poisonings is aspirin tablets. Detergents, medicines, cosmetics left within reach are dangerous. Paint mixes, cleaning fluids and such items as found in the garage present further hazard.

In case of a child having taken a poison, the speaker stated: "(1) call medical aid immediately; (3) make the child vomit unless a petroleum product or a corrosive was taken; (3) if petroleum was taken, neutralize it slowly with milk to prevent nausea; (4) keep calm; (5) bring sample of poison along with the patient when going to the doctor. It is important not to make the patient vomit if unconscious or in a convulsion."

Mr. James displayed the contents of the St. Johns Ambulance first aid kit which included various bandages and splints.

He emphasized that when burns are present, adhering clothing should not be removed as it will peel skin off with it. "Bandage over the cloth with a dry dressing. Small burns on children and puncture wounds easily become infected, so precautions must be taken."

Following the interesting question period, Mrs. K. Linscott thanked the speaker for the enlightening lecture. The Student Nurses Council served refreshments.

This fall series of Nursing Education was sponsored by the Belleville Community Nursing Registry.

Party Dessert For Holidays

By MARY MOORE

If you have a pedestal cake dish this beautiful party dessert will be a smash hit served on it at one of your holiday parties. Even if you do not have a pedestal cake dish it is a thing of beauty and tastes wonderfully. It will serve 10 to 12. Clip this now for future use nearer Christmas time.

WEDNESDAY (Guests)

Dinner Menu

Homestead Meat Pie (see Monday); Creamed Mushrooms (see Tuesday, Nov. 17); Spinach, Shredded Cauliflower and Tomato-Wedge Salad; Roquefort Dressing; Peppermint Parfait; Lebanese Cookies (see Tuesday); Coffee.

RICE CREAM MOULD WITH RED FRUIT:

2 tablespoons (envelopes) plain gelatine, 2¾ cups milk, 6 oz. (two 3-oz. packages) white cream cheese (room temperature), 4 eggs, yolks and whites separated, ½ cup sugar, 2 cups cooked rice, 2 teaspoons vanilla, two 15-oz. packages fresh frozen raspberries, 2 tablespoons arrowroot flour or cornstarch, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup water (or 2 tablespoons water and 2 tablespoons Cointreau), ¼ teaspoon salt.

To make the cream mould soak the gelatine in ¾ cup of the milk in the measuring cup for 5 minutes. Into beater bowl put cheese, egg yolks, ⅓ cup of the sugar and beat until well blended. Add remaining 2 cups milk and soaked gelatine liquid. Cook in heavy saucepan, stirring constantly until mixture coats back of spoon like a soft custard. It is hot but not boiling. Beat egg whites until foamy, gradually adding remaining ¼ cup sugar as you beat whites until stiff. Add cooked rice and vanilla to cooked custard then fold in beaten whites carefully. Turn into 8" spring form pan or mould of equivalent volume — it must be an 8-cup mould or larger. Chill until well set. Unmould on pedestal cake plate or other fancy dessert dish.

Raspberry Sauce: Thaw and drain well through sieve the 2 boxes of raspberries. To the juice add the ¼ cup water (or 2 tablespoons water if Cointreau is going to be used). Mix well together the arrowroot or cornstarch, sugar and salt and stir into the cold juice. Cook, stirring, until thick and clear. Select about 25 of the plumpest raspberries to arrange in border around base of mould. Reserve. Add remaining drained raspberries (and "ointeau if used). Cool. Spoon a little of the thickest part over centre of turned-out mould. Arrange reserved raspberries in border around base of mould. Pour remaining sauce into cut glass serving dish to serve over each portion.

Cranberry Sauce (alternative): One cup sugar, 1 cup water, 2 cups fresh cranberries. Cook sugar with water for 5 minutes. Add cranberries; cover and simmer for 10 minutes without stirring. Cool without removing lid. This is a less expensive sauce than the raspberry above.

'Fighting Words' Panel Is Staged

Adverse weather conditions prevented the Honorable Maurice Sauve, M.P., Minister of Forestry Women's Club of Belleville and District on "Some Aspects of the English-French Situation in Canada," at their November meeting.

A "Fighting Words" panel replaced the guest speaker. It was comprised of Mrs. F. H. Bellsted, Mrs. B. R. Collins, Mrs. J. H. Forrester and Mrs. A. S. Lewis, with Mrs. John Ormsby acting as moderator. The quotations used were submitted by members prior to the meeting. Discussion from the floor was invited after the panel had expressed their views on each topic. Introductions were made by Mrs. G. E. Boyce and the participating panel members were thanked by Mrs. J. E. Nellies.

CONSIDER PROJECTS

During the business section of the meeting the Centenary committee offered various projects for the consideration of the membership. The form the participation will take will be discussed more thoroughly at the general meeting, in February. The committee chairman asked that written suggestions be forwarded to her January 21st.

The December meeting of the club will be a Christmas dinner at the Hotel Quinte on the evening of December third, convened by Mrs. R. W. Cass and Mrs. L. D. Read.

SPRAY KILLS BIRDS

Hunting Widow Praises Ann for Her Advice

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The letter from the "Widow of The Hunt" was interesting.

For 17 years I've been married to one of those hunting nuts. I know now I can do nothing to change things, because Gilbert has made it clear that hunting comes ahead of his wife, his children, his dying mother, his job, and his religion.

I had plenty of evidence of what I was getting into before we were married but I was too dumb to recognize it. Gilbert's idea of a date was to take me down to the city dump and shoot rats. This is how he kept his shooting eye sharp.

I think your advice was good, Ann. You told Widow of The Hunt "that which cannot be cured must be endured." You are SO right — ANOTHER WIDOW.

* * *

DEAR WIDOW — Thanks for writing. I heard from hundreds of other hunt widows who were furious because I didn't order their husbands to stay home. Now really, girls — if your husbands won't stay home for YOU, they surely won't stay home for me.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a perfectionist. Everything has to be just so or I am uncomfortable.

I am a high school junior and make good grades, but I waste a great deal of time on petty details. For example, I can never cross out a word. I must erase it, even if it is in ink. This goes for lists I write to myself to remind me of things. Nobody sees these lists but me. Last year's notebooks are still piled on my desk because I want to add a few things.

I also expect perfection from my friends. If a boy's hair isn't just so I mentally cross him off my list. If a person says "He don't" I can't stand it.

Why am I like this? What can I do about it? I know it's not normal but how abnormal it is? — FUSSBUDGET.

DEAR BUDGET — I don't know how abnormal it is because I don't know what else you are doing — or leaving undone — as a result of your compulsive drive for perfection. You get satisfactions from these small and "nutty" demands which you should be getting elsewhere.

All of us have some odd quirks no matter how well concealed. When the quirks take over and keep us from functioning on a day-to-day basis, then professional help is needed.

* * *

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New York state tried out the secret ballot in an election in 1852, but discarded it the following year because "it insulted the manliness and independence of the laboring man."

Successful Living

Well Educated Family Is a Very Untidy One

DEAR DORIS — How does one go about telling a friend that the reason no one wants to be bothered with them is because they are very untidy about themselves and keep a filthy home?

I have known these people since they came to Canada. They have mentioned that their neighbors won't socialize with them after she's had them in. They are very well educated people but their home and children are a disgrace to the entire neighborhood, and the children are very undisciplined. I come from the same country they do so I can't say they don't know any better.

DORIS CLARK

If they visit us, the children drive us wild, and when we go there I find myself holding my breath as I eat the lunch they serve. — NEW TOO.

DEAR NEW TOO — Well educated? Then is it ivory tower untidiness that's got them? Or has morale been hopelessly lowered by what they've been through in the past? Could it be they couldn't care less how they look or act?

Since you do care about them try praising what you can. When they begin believing you love them, they may unload a little more, and give you a chance to do some helpful hinting.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am a boy almost 13 years old. Recently I found that I had feelings for a certain girl named Debby. Whenever I'd see her I'd say "There she is," or something like like. The guys called me "crazy."

I really love her (if I know what love means.) She is cute, and so five other boys my age have the same ideas.

What can I do to: (a) Prove to Debby that I really love her? (b) Get rid of the other guys that she likes better than me? (c) Get myself to admit my love without my friends calling me crazy? (d) Get myself to admit my love without Debby thinking I'm crazy? — A LITTLE BOY LOST IN LOVE.

DEAR LITTLE BOY — A, B, C, and D — Wait a few years.

versity in Britain.

He said Bivard was "in league" with two members of the Mafia crime syndicate.

Mr. Nielsen asked the prime minister to broaden the inquiry's terms of reference to determine whether the Mafia has infiltrated "other" offices of government.

Rivard was arrested at U.S. request in Montreal June 19 with three other men and charged with smuggling heroin into the U.S. and with conspiracy to import heroin into the U.S. from Mexico.

An extradition order was issued but the men are still in jail pending further legal arguments.

SHOUT 'WHITEWASH'

The Opposition shouted "whitewash" when Mr. Favreau said the commission would inquire whether he acted correctly in deciding there was insufficient evidence to prosecute Denis.

The commission will also inquire into whether there is further evidence to justify prosecution of Denis, now with a private law firm in Montreal.

The Opposition wanted a clause included into the terms of reference to permit an investigation of the whole affair.

The government was peppered with questions from all parts of the Opposition benches in a continuous din for much of the question period, until Mr. Douglas mentioned Hal C. Banks.

The House fell silent when he asked for a search of unpublished documents of the T. C. Norris royal commission into maritime unions to determine whether there was a voucher signed by Banks in favor of a Raymond Denis.

MAKE CHARGE

For several months Conservatives have charged that Banks was allowed to slip into the U.S. while out on bail to escape imprisonment on his conviction of conspiracy in an assault case.

Mr. Denis, 31, was special assistant to former justice minister Favreau, now Canadian high commissioner to Britain. Later he switched to Mr. Tremblay's office.

Mr. Nielsen has said Denis was fired. Under questioning Mr. Tremblay said he had accepted Denis' resignation and that he thought he wanted to go into another field of activity.

Mr. Tremblay said he had not felt it his duty to inform the prime minister.

At his courtroom beat, Mr. Diefenbaker said announcement of the inquiry demanded by the opposition showed Opposition parties are the "detergents of democracies."

WANTS ALL FACTS

Outside the Commons Mr. Diefenbaker said the Opposition is not going to approve the just like estimates until it gets all the facts.

Under an all-party agreement made last week, an order of the Commons was passed that all estimates are to be approved by the end of this week.

The review board, headed by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Court of Appeal, is hearing an appeal by the organization before deciding whether the interim ban should become permanent or be lifted.

HASN'T BEEN TOUCHED

The first reference to the Masonic order came from Mr. Taylor when he said he regretted the Thunderbolt "has not touched the free Masonic question." He referred to former prime minister Diefenbaker, now opposition leader, being a 33rd-degree Mason.

"No leader of government should be in the higher ranks of that organization," he said.

"Why?" asked Mr. Justice Wells.

There is evidence, said Mr. Taylor, although it wasn't available to him at the moment. He referred to a cardinal in Chile who had written that the loyalties of a Mason go to the order before going to his country. He said the French revolution, which he termed the forerunner of the Communist revolution, came out of the Masonic order

First Parade In 12 Years On Saturday

PICTON (Staff) — Picton will have its first Santa Claus parade in twelve years this Saturday. Beginning at one o'clock the parade, sponsored by the town's retail merchants, will leave the fair grounds, parade up the Main Street and Santa will leave the parade at the armouries will comprise the distributing treats for the children. Special theatre tickets will also be given out to the children for a Saturday afternoon performance.

According to Vic Lord, retail merchants' chairman for the parade, bands, 25 floats and marchettes will comprise the parade. Horses and riders will also be featured. Special thanks are due to Belleville fire department and Chief Gerald Vance for donating the Santa Claus float. Retail merchants, according to Mr. Lord, are this year 100 per cent behind the parade. Parades were discontinued about 1952 because of lack of support of the merchants, this year it has been revived and obviously successful.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected to witness this year's parade. The parade this year will "kick off" a shop early campaign promoted by the retail merchants. Special draws will be conducted by many of the merchants and the draw for cash prizes will be held Saturday night at the Regent Theatre. In the past years Santa has usually arrived by helicopter, but this year the children of Picton and the surrounding communities are looking forward with great expectations to Saturday's parade.

The Rural Scene

PICTON (Staff) — Guernsey breeders are reminded of their annual meeting and banquet which will be held at the Tope Motor Hotel, on Tuesday, Dec. 1st, at 12.30 p.m. This is always an interesting meeting and breeders of Guernsey cattle are urged to attend.

APPLE GROWERS MEET

The annual meeting of the Northumberland and Durham Apple Growers' Association will be held on Dec. 8th in Newcastle. Now, while the organization is known as the N. & D. Apple Growers' Association all growers in this area are invited to attend. In fact many growers from Prince Edward and Hastings Counties attend this meeting.

While the speakers have not all agreed formally it is possible to give an insight of what will be on the program.

Dr. John Archibald, along with Dr. Bob Cline will be speaking on the nutrition of the apple orchard.

A report will be heard from Dr. John Brown, secretary of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association on the apple promotion program. It is also hoped that a report will be made on marketing of apples overseas.

A growers panel consisting of men who have handled apples in bulk bins should provide a great deal of information to all in attendance. Bulk bins are on their way into the apple industry—they are here to stay so let's be ready for this change.

The program starts at 10.00 a.m. and concludes at 4.00 p.m. on December 8th, in Newcastle —why not plan to attend?

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS

Years ago many fire extinguishers were sold on our Ontario farms, that were of the glass bulb type, or the pump type, filled with carbon-tetrachloride. Hal Wright, Safety Specialist, with the Ontario Department of Agriculture advises that the glass bulbs are practically ineffective now and many of the carbon-jet extinguishers have lost the contents through leakage and evaporation. Carbon-test is also highly dangerous to the operator, when used in a closed building; so for safety's sake, replace these types with a dry chemical extinguisher for inside use.

Worker Breaks Heel Bone in Fall

PICTON (Staff) — 24-year-old Maurice J. Finnegan of Oshawa, Ont., an employee of Dominion Bridge Co. who is presently working at Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. in Picton fell twenty feet from a steel scaffolding on Tuesday. The ground beneath the scaffolding was rough with cement and rocks. Finnegan, who arrived on the job only three days ago, managed successfully to land on his feet and avoided possible greater injuries. He suffered only a broken bone in one heel. He was attended by Dr. E. Taylor of Picton and was rushed to Prince Edward Memorial Hospital by Bond's ambulance. He will be kept at the hospital under observation for a short time.

Irish Regiment Won't Disappear Says Hellyer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Irish Regiment won't disappear completely from the Canadian military establishment, Irving W. Hellyer told the Commons Tuesday.

He said in reply to question from Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) that a Sudbury, Ont., infantry battalion—the 2nd Battalion, the Irish Regiment of Canada, Sudbury—and Vancouver members of the Irish Regiment being disbanded in the militia reorganization.

Mr. Hellyer said he hopes it will meet general approval since the protests had been made to him on the basis that the traditions of the Irish Regiment shouldn't entirely disappear.

BUILT IN HEATER — Self heating cheese vat with big wooden milk stirring rake, built more than a century old, are demonstrated by Jack Bain, Toronto, Director of Milk Products, Ontario Department of Agriculture. Old time milk vat found stored in Mennonite barn in Western Ontario, is part of display at British Empire Dairy Show this week, marking centennial of cheese industry. Mrs. Orval Ray, Tweed, is the interested spectator.

Centennial of Cheesemaking Industry in Ont. Marked By Exhibit at Dairy Show

Cheesemaking as it was 100 years ago is recalled this week at the British Empire Dairy Show in Belleville as old time cheese vats, hoops and presses make up an exhibit marking the centennial of the cheesemaking industry in Ontario.

The history of cheesemaking in the Bay of Quinte district is closely associated with the Whitton family, ancestors of Ottawa Mayor Charlotte Whitton, whose great grandparents lived in the Seymour-Rawdon Township area.

The Whittons are credited with making the first cheese in Hastings County and their basement cheese producing plant was the forerunner of what was eventually to be known as the Brae factory.

HAD TO STOKE FIRE

The cheese making equipment on display at the British Empire Dairy Show this week has possibly a few improvements over that used by the Whittons but some of it is at least 100 years old and a far cry from the completely automatic equipment in use today.

For instance there is an old-time cheese vat that incorporated its own fire box for heating the milk.

The cheesemaker stoked his fire at the front of the vat and then stood by with pails of cold water in an effort to maintain a somewhat even temperature.

The milk was stirred by huge wooden rakes; the curd was milled by hand and then pressed into cheese form by hand presses which accommodated but one cheese at a time.

CREATED MUCH INTEREST

The exhibit on display in Belleville this week has created much interest at previous showings this year at the Central Fair in Ottawa; at the Western Cheese Show; at the International Plowing Match and more recently at the Royal Winter Fair.

By way of adding interest to the origin of cheesemaking in Ontario, Mayor Whitton earlier this year took the time to gather her family history together.

CAME IN 1840

She reports that the first cheesemakers in the Bay of Quinte district, the James and Elizabeth Whitton came to Canada from Yorkshire in 1840, planning to locate in Quebec near Sorel.

But after they arrived they found the property which they thought they had bought had been fraudently sold by a man who did not own it.

This left them rather severely stranded, and they moved on to Upper Canada, settling at Glenburnie near Kingston where they were able to make a contract to operate an inn.

About 1940, they moved on to Seymour Township in Northumberland County ,and there rented a farm from a Mr. Andrew Waiser, and shortly afterwards moved to a farm in Rawdon Township. There they erected a large three-storey house with the usual very heavy underground basement and kitchen, characterizing the big farm homes of Yorkshire. There they also constructed a room for a cheese vat.

FIRST MADE IN 1850

Mrs. Whitton had come from Ealing Hall in Wensleydale in Yorkshire, and was thoroughly familiar with the making of the Wensleydale cheese as it is known today. A Miss Badgley, came out also from the Old Country to work with Mrs. Whitton. It was in this cheese vat, about 1850 that the first cheese was made in Northumberland County.

This cheese was made largely for family use, and as the family, in the end, consisted of eight boys and seven girls, there was a fairly good cheese market right within the house. However, the pioneering to the recipe of Wensleydale and Mrs. Whitton produced a product which achieved a wide reputation among the grwing settlement in Northumberland and Hastings County.

The cheese made at the Whitton home, which was called "Kinloch Hollar", soon became so widely known that, largely on the suggestion of Mrs. Whitton herself, a small company was formed, aiming at producing the cheese on a business basis. Mr. Whitton, Mr. William Hume and Mr. James Cherry organized a small joint stock company. They named their small plant the "Brae Cheese Factory". Its aim was to serve the farmers of the area by gathering the milk and having a co-operative cheese undertaking.

Mrs. Whitton was the directing genius of the process. By this time, her family, in one part, was grown up, while the younger children were still preschool.

Mrs. Whitton took her oldest son, young James Whitton, and taught him the making of the cheese. The progressive three farmers, associated with her in organizing this joint stock company, brought in an expert United States cheese maker, who was skilled in the production of high grade cheese.

GAVE UP POSITION

But after less than six weeks he gave up the position, and the young James Whitton to carry on alone. This was a risk that could have broken the whole undertaking, because the farmers had been induced to go in on this good effort and, where it to be a failure, they would themselves abandon the making of cheese.

Mrs. Whitton undertook to school this young son of hers who, however, was about 24 years of age, in the manufacturing of this cheese, along with another young man from the area.

In the spring of 1868, when the whole venture was at stake these two boys were working through one of the heavy late spring storms, at the running of the cheese and it appeared the whole cheese process might go way was wrong, late in the evening of its manufacturing.

My great-grandmother was sent for and, in spite off a very bad storm, drove across; more than a mile, to work in the cheese factory, through the night, and save this large and such important batch of cheese. She succeeded in saving the venture and the factory as a project but, from the cold contracted, developed pneumonia, from which she never recovered, through a late cold spring and summer, and died on August 5, 1868, at the age of 47, having really given her life to save this venture.

In 1874, a wider group formed another joint stock company, and a cheese factory was put up at Wellman's Corners in Hastings County.

START TO GATHER MILK

As had been done for the Brae Cheese factory, a wagon was engaged to gather the milk, but for the Wellman's Corners factory, some of the milk was hauled a distance of ten miles. Consequently, the venture was not extremely profitable, for the highest revenue received in any one year averaged about $15 for each cow maintained. So, the factory was closed, but in 1879 it was re-opened, under "young" James Whitton, who had managed the first Brae Cheese factory, under instructions from his mother, and he became manager of the Wellman's Corners factory which, however, was named the "Plum Grove" factory. For 31 years he was in charge of this cheese factory, which was the progenitor, in the "Plum Grove" cheese, of the "Black Diamond" cheese of today.

He was later named Dairy Instructor at the Department of Agriculture of Canada, in which he served for several years, until his death in 1919. Thus the first cheese factory in Northumberland was one of the first in Ontario: this was the Brae factory, which Miss Charlotte Whitton's great-grandmother was instrumental in establishing. The first factory in this great cheese country, in Hastings County at Wellman's Corners, was founded by the same interests and my great grandfather James Whitton's interest. It was brought into full production and success by James Whitton, Junior, Miss Whitton's great uncle. At the time of her death, due to her effort to save the cheese experiment, Miss Whitton's grandmother, who was in her 47th year, left a large family, some of the older ones of whom were married and the youngest of whom, Ellen Whitton Clancey was barely two years old.

Prime Minister Was Not Told Of Bribery Case

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Even your best friends won't tell you.

Two cabinet ministers and Prime Minister Pearson's parliamentary secretary told the Commons Tuesday that they waited until this week to inform their chief of a months-old case which exploded into political controversy Monday.

The first was Guy Rouleau, who, in resigning as Mr. Pearson's parliamentary secretary Tuesday, said he hadn't told Mr. Pearson until that morning of his connection with RCMP investigations of charges that a $20,000 bribe was offered a Montreal lawyer by a former executive assistant to Citizenship Minister Tremblay.

Justice Minister Favreau, who decided there wasn't enough evidence from the RCMP to lay charges, said he hadn't informed Mr. Pearson until Monday that Mr. Rouleau figured in the investigation.

Mr. Tremblay followed by telling the House he knew of the circumstances when his executive assistant resigned last month but didn't think to tell his chief.

FIRST HEARD SUNDAY

Mr. Pearson himself told the House that Mr. Favreau first advised him of the case Sunday, on the eve of the Commons debate on the 1964-65 spending estimates of the justice department.

"I would think any prime minister would take a very low view of an RCMP report, lying on the desk of his minister of justice, involving his own parliamentary secretary, not being transmitted to him," commented Mr. Douglas in the House.

And outside the Commons, Mr. Diefenbaker said the statements about how recently Mr. Pearson was informed indicated he had cabinet colleagues who concealed the facts from him.

Their point seemed to be that where there's dynamite lying around it's a familiar thing to give warning not to strike matches.

Respiratory Trouble Takes Life of Quint

PARIS (Reuters) — Jean-Luc Sambor, youngest of quintuplets born Monday to Mrs. Monique Sambor, died of respiratory failure, the health ministry announced today.

The health ministry announcement said there was "no change" in the condition of the other four children — two boys and two girls.

The health ministry sa'd Jean Luc had been suffering from respiratory troubles since his suddenly worsened Tuesday night Three hours later a hemorrhage of the lungs developed and he died.

The surviving babies were in incubators at the pediatric centre of the Paris faculty of medicine. Doctors there said Tuesday their condition would remain precarious for at least 10 or 12 days.

Dr. Francois Alison, assistant head of the centre, said the condition of two others, Monique and Thierry, was giving rise to "considerable concern."

The quintuplets were born 2½ months premature, to 27-year old Mrs. Monique Sambor, wife of a postman. They were baptized immediately.

They weighed between two pounds, 1½ ounces and two pounds, 12 ounces. The dead baby was so fragile he never was weighed. His temperature never had been stable.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

The British Columbia Lions have three targets to shoot at come Mardi Gras Day in Toronto next Saturday. There's the Grey Cup; that $1,200 per capita bonus and an aging case of champagne.

The case of "bubbly," the gift of general manager Herb Capozzi, was placed in the Lions dressing room prior to the Grey Cup classic in Vancouver a year ago.

But come optimistic Leo, his faith unshaken in the western champions, had placed a note to it. It read: "Not to be opened until November 28, 1964."

I don't know if champagne has the time-honored "turkey" characteristic of improving with age but if I were the Lions-I would not take any chances.

Traditionally, champagne is dressing-roomed for quaffing by the victors from the sacred innards of the Grey Cup—or used as a dandruff deterrent on the noggin of the coach, manager, or any other member of the brass who is extolling victory whoops.

But to be allowed to sit alone in its cased glory to await another victory carousal—one that may never come—seems to me to be a waste of the blue-blood grape juice.

Or are the Lions reserving it to drink to the long, slow recovery of Tiger-Cat Angelo Mosca, the poor misguided 275-pound plunger whose bone-crushing tactics are often mistaken for deliberate intent to injure or maim any of the opposition who strays in his path.

Halfway through the second quarter Willie Fleming, the one-man gang of the Lions, took a delayed pitchout from Joe Kapp. He was pursued and tackled at the mid-field stripe by Coppedoli and came down a yard inside the field when Mosca came out of nowhere at top speed and hurtled into the Lion speedster.

Fleming was taken to the dressing room half conscious where it was discovered he had a concussion. He was through for the game. And the Lions lost their greatest offensive threat with his going.

One story said: "The Tiger-Cats blended equal measures of seasoned wisdom and blackjack violence and drank it out of the Grey Cup. They clubbed, they played with rough, almost brutal zeal. They swarmed after B.C. ball carriers in gangs and went for the knockout with every tackle."

But Commissioner Sidney Halter said it looked like a borderline case. Referee Ray Boucher said "both Mosca and Fleming were moving when the former hit the Lion. Both officials close to the play said there was no need for a penalty."

Mosca's habit of getting into controversial scenes have got him in trouble before—despite his television statements tha he does not deliberately play rough.

Lions, like elephants have long memories. And Mr. Mosca will be closely watched in Toronto on Saturday. Nor will Angelo change his muscle-bruising tactics. Lions or no Lions. I can't see him in an Andracies role picking football splinters from Lions' paws, at least not before he has driven home the spikes himself.

Mosca has played good hard-hitting football all season without resort to his evident definition of "deliberate rough play." He'll be there Saturday, big, bolsterous and bumping with the gusi-like his target and little regard for any upstart Lion who gets in his way.

Fists, Sticks Fly

Brawls Mar Jr. A Tilts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fists and sticks flew in all directions Tuesday night but after the smoke cleared only three points separated the top three clubs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race.

Niagara Falls Flyers retained second place with 23 points, two behind idle Toronto Marlboros, by crushing visiting Kitchener Rangers 8-1. Oshawa Generals stayed one point back of Flyers with a 5-0 victory over Peterborough Petes.

In other action Montreal Junior Canadiens climbed into a tie for sixth and last place with Hamilton Red Wings as they edged St. Catharines Black Hawks 3-2 for their first win in their last five starts.

Brawls punctuated all three games and in the Montreal contest, Guy Dufour of the Junior Canadiens shattered his stick across the back of Brian McDonald of St. Catharines. Both were given game misconducts for deliberately attempting to injure each other.

In Bowmanville, Reference Leo Maschio handed out a total of 72 minutes in penalties, 39 of them to Peterborough. A first period brawl in Niagara Falls was responsible for most of the 56 minutes in penalties doled out in that match.

PLAYERS TO TORONTO

WASHINGTON (AP) —Washington Senators of the American League Tuesday assigned seven players to Toronto Maple Leafs, their International League farm team. They are pitchers Jack Jenkins, Alan Koch and Don Rudolph, catcher Don Leppert, outfielders Fred Valentine and Ken Hunt and infielder Dick Phillips. Jim McKenzie, 18-year-old pitcher recently signed as a free agent, was assigned to Geneva of the New York - Pennsylvania League.

Not Getting Fair Share ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Far Cry From NFL

Players Cup Split Too Small - Neumann

By IAN MacLAINE

HAMILTON (CP)—Pete Neumann, Hamilton Tiger-Cats all-star defensive end, says football players in the annual Grey Cup classic are not getting their fair share a gate receipts.

Neumann said in an interview Tuesday that those responsible for the allotment of the receipts from the Grey Cup game should reassess the program of distribution.

"My personal feeling," said Neumann, "is that the Grey Cup money should be split more generously among the teams that are involved, similar to the split National Football League teams get in a championship game."

He said he has been told winning team members on championship clubs that played in Green Bay, Wis., received approximately $3,500 a man.

The amount is a far cry from the $1,200 members of the winning team in Saturday's game between Ticats and B.C. Lions are expected to receive following the Grey Cup game at Toronto.

He used Green Bay as a comparison since that stadium seats about 40,000—not much more than Vancouver's Empire Stadium or the Exhibition Stadium in Toronto where this year's fall classic is being played.

But should there be a change of heart by those who earmark the distribution of Grey Cup income, Neumann won't be around to share in the rewards.

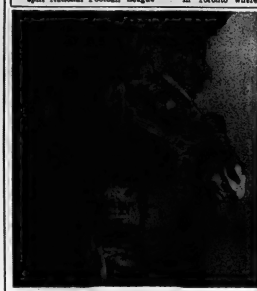
"The only reason I played this year was to honor a two-year contract," he said.

"It's just too difficult to get into, and then stay in shape," said the 33-year-old veteran, who joined the Ticats in 1951 directly out of St. Catharines Collegiate.

Where can the league improved during his stint in pro football, which includes eight Grey Cup games?

"In the quality of players . . . we're not only getting a much better brand of United States college player today than we were 10 years ago, we're also getting a better calibre of player out by National Football League teams."

Guard Gene Gossage and defensive back Garney Henley were two team-mates he felt would benefit any NFL team.



WEBSTER NEXT

As a defensive end, Neumann has faced many of the finest players ever to play in Canada. But Alex Webster, former Montreal Alouette star now performing with New York Giants stands out as the greatest, with Lovell Coleman of Calgary Stampeders, this year's outstanding Canadian football player, running a close second.

"They're different types of players . . . Webster hit the hardest, was a tremendous blocker and one of the finest pass receivers in the country.

"Coleman is a strong runner who can dipsy-doodle and has exceptional speed."

Neumann forecast another Tiger - Cat win Saturday. The team, he feels, is equal to the 1963 championship club and positively improved defensively with the acquisition of Dick Cohee and Dave Viti.

Northern Dancer

Racing Body Names . . .

Dancer Top 3-Year-Old

NEW YORK (AP) — Northern Dancer, made his bid early and then made it stand up as he won the three-year-old title in the vote of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations' board of selectors.

In the opinion of the 31 racing secretaries, announced Tuesday, the Dancer's early season triumphs earned him the decision over such rivals as Quadrangle and Roman Brother, Brother.

The little son of Nearctic out of Native Dancer's daughter, Natalma, was sidelined with a bowed tendon in July and will go to stud at E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm near Toronto in 1965.

The three-year-old title is the first TRA award to go out of the United States. Northern Dancer, along with other TRA winners, will be honored at the organization's annual dinner here. Dec. 3.

FINISHED THIRD

Northern Dancer was bumped and finished third in a six-furlong allowance race which opened the campaign in Florida in February. From there on he proved unbeatable until he wound up third back of Quadrangle and Roman Brother in trying to win the Belmont Stakes and wrap up the Triple Crown.

The Dancer returned home to Woodbine in Canada for the Queen's Plate. After an easy victory in the Canadian classic for three-year-olds he returned to Belmont Park to prepare for Saratoga.

He pulled up lame after a workout and, while he responded to treatment, Taylor announced the colt was through with racing.

Before losing in the Belmont, Northern Dancer put together victories in the Flamingo, Florida Derby, Keeneland's Blue Grass, Kentucky Derby and Preakness. He wound up with earnings of $490,171 for the year after banking only $90,635 as a two-year-old.

Waited Eight Years

Habs Happy; Harris Hitting Hard

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Harris waited eight years in the minors for his chance to play in the National Hockey League. And when the first opportunity came, he turned it down.

Such disdain for even an NHL trial usually amounts to hockey suicide. But the 28-year-old defenceman, now a regular with Montreal Canadiens, doesn't rank hockey as the most important thing in his life.

His family comes first.

When Harris, playing for Cleveland of the American League, got the call a year ago his wife was just leaving a Cleveland hospital with their third child. He thought it was needed more at home than in a Canadiens uniform.

He felt that if he was good enough he'd get another chance to make the NHL. That chance came two months later when he filled in admirably during four trial games. The Habs didn't hesitate to invite him to training camp and Harris won a regular berth as the fifth defenceman.

RECORD WON JOB

His record as the outstanding defenceman in the AHL earned him the job, because he didn't exactly overpower his way to candidates. But coach Toe Blake is happy with his steadily-improving performance and the rest of the league has taken quick notice of the rugged body-checks thrown by the 175-pounder.

No NHL games were played Tuesday night, but Toronto Maple Leafs can take first place from Detroit tonight when they visit New York Rangers in the only game scheduled. The second-place Leafs are one point behind Detroit with a game in hand.

The Canadiens, meanwhile, announced that centre Henri Richard has recovered from his season-long groin injury and will return to action Thursday.

Boston Bruins disclosed that winger Murray Balfour, obtained in an off-season trade from Chicago, has been sent to Hershey Bears of the AHL on loan. Balfour has only two assists in 13 games with the Bruins.

Young Star Loses Leg In Accident

HAMILTON (CP) — Rainer Schneider, a 20-year-old high school football star who once tried out fr the eastern conference Hamilton Tiger-Cats, lost his right leg Tuesday night when his motorcycle slid under the wheels of a slow - moving freight train at a level crossing here.

Schneider was trapped under the train for more than 30 minutes after his leg was severed below the knee. He was in serious condition.

A halfback, Schneider was voted all-star player for Westdale High School and two years ago tried out unsuccessfully with the Tiger-Cats.

Wings Send Pronovost To Hornets

PITTSBURGH (CP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League announced Tuesday that Andre Pronovost is being sent to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, a Detroit farm club.

Pronovost is an eight - year veteran of the NHL.

Brings Top Price Of $4,000

The veteran pacer, consigned by Elgin and Ted Armstrong of Brampton, was purchased by Ernie Brown of Oshawa, acting as agent for Harold McKinley, driver-trainer of Armbro Adanac for the Armstrongs.

D. W. McIntosh of Oakville sold Potomac Lass for $1,600, Capetown Boy for $1,300 and Hoot Win for $1,400.

Lions Seek Flaws In Cats' Defense

Respect For Faloney

By DENNIS ORCHARD

TORONTO (CP) — British Columbia Lions think they can find some flaws in the Hamilton Tiger-Cat offence directed by quarterback Bernie Faloney when the teams tangle for the Canadian football championship Saturday for the second straight year.

The Lions offer a pass defence smarter and more confident for this Grey Cup game than for the last one, in which Faloney and his receivers picked their way to the big plays for a 21-10 victory over Lions.

Dave Skrien, the Lions' head coach, said Tuesday night his defensive team is stronger in eight of 12 positions for the rematch.

The B.C. team arrived here by air Tuesday and held its first brief workout in the afternoon at Varsity Stadium, former happy hunting grounds for Toronto Argonauts before the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium was built.

Today's workout will be open to view, but Skrien plans to keep spectators out for the final practices Thursday and Friday in preparation for Saturday's game. Kickoff time is 1 p.m. EST.

FINISH FIRST

The Lions finished first in the western conference this year, allowing only 11.5 points a game and only 18 touchdowns over the 16-game schedule, including 10 touchdown passes.

They maintained the record in a three-game final against Calgary, allowing 12.6 points a game and only two touchdowns.

Skrien has five western conference all-stars in his defensive lineup. Two of them are Neal Beaumont and Bill Munsey, members of the defensive secondary that Faloney manhandled last year.

Another is linebacker Tom Brown, top lineman in the Canadian Football League for 1963 and 1964, who Skrien says is "better than last year, when he was great."

Skrien is more confident of stopping Hamilton's off-tackle and outside running game with the improvement of such men as Dick Fouts, a repeat all-star end, and corner linebacker Paul Seale, a Canadian sophomore who played with a shoulder injury in the 1963 Grey Cup.

The B.C. coach also says that the Cats, in turn, are "far stronger" than they were in 1963.

"This is the most balanced offence we'll see this year.

"Faloney is a real professional. You blitz somebody and if he's got a short receiver there he'll hit him."

But Skrien's favorite comparison between Grey Cup 1963 and Grey Cup 1964 has nothing to do with experience, improved play or new personnel. It has to do with luck.

Last year he had seven men limping or out of action. This year his only concern is flanker Sonny Homber's torn rib cartilage, and Homer will be a definite starter with the help of a shot of pain-killer.

"Lifters" Compete Here Saturday

Weightlifting climbs back into the sport spotlight here on Saturday when the Ontario senior championships will be held.

The championships, sponsored by the Apollo Barbell Club, of this city, is scheduled for the Quinte Secondary School gym at 2:00 in the afternoon and again at 7:00 in the evening.

No admission will be charged and Apollo Club members are hoping that the public will take advantage of the meet to see the province's top lifters in competition.

Members of the host club, led by Canadian Olympic representative John Lewis, and Peter Morris, will be participating.

Competitors will be present from Sudbury, Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston and Peterborough.

In addition, a special competition will be held for junior members of the Apollo Club. Coach Ken Carr-Braint says 14 boys, ranging in age from 13 to 18, will lift in the competition.

The Tracks

Noel, brother of Ron, leading jockey in Canada last year, got his first winner of the day in the second race when he guided Split the Loot to a $4.80 victory and completed a $142.80 daily double with Meteoric.

Champion Seeks Coach Job

Dobbs Bitter Over Lehew Appointment

CALGARY (CP) — Roger Lehew, appointed general manager of Calgary Stamp-eders in the Western Football Conference Monday in a move that led to the resignation of head coach Bobby Dobbs, said Tuesday the Stampeders haven't had time to think about a replacement for Dobbs

Lehew, who worked under Dobbs as offensive assistant, said in an interview:

"I would have liked him to stay and would have liked to work with him but it was his decision. I'm very disappointed."

Lehew, who is to attend the Canadian Football League's general managers meeting in Toronto, said selection of a replacement for defensive assistant Jess Thompson, who also resigned, will be made by the Stampeders' new head coach.

WILLIAMS REMAINS

Dobbs, who became Calgary's head coach in 1961 after holding posts at Tulsa and West Point, said he was "bitter" about the Lehew appointment.

He had led the Stampeders to playoff finishes in all his four seasons with Calgary, winning 44 games, more than any other team in Canada. But the Stampeders, who lost the WFC championship to British Columbia Lions Saturday, are the only WFC team that has failed to reach the Grey Cup final since 1950.

Dobbs said he liked Lehew and that Lehew is a good coach but that "I just can't turn around and work for a man that has worked for me for nine years."

Lehew, who said he will utilize the advice of acting General Manager Pat Mahoney until he settles into his new job said he asked for the post "as soon as it became open."

A club director said that Dobbs had asked for the dual job of coach and general manager and felt that Lehew had been appointed over his head.

Dobbs was in the third year of a five-year contract.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jim Champion, defensive coach of British Columbia Lions, said Tuesday he is "very interested" in the head coach's job with Calgary Stampeders.

Champion told reporters at Vancouver International Airport he spoke with Stampeders after the Calgary club accepted the resignation of head coach Bobby Dobbs Monday night. Dobbs quit after assistant coach Roger Lehew was named general manager.

Jelineks Retire For Fifth Time

TORONTO (CP) — Otto and Maria Jelinek, who have retired from figure skating on four separate occasions, have decided to hang up their skates for good at the end of this season.

The Jelineks have not been doing much talking "because nobody will believe us. This is our fifth retirement."

However, Otto said this is it. He plans to spend all his time with his brother in their sporting goods business. He made the announcement at a press conference.

Maria says she is going to study languages — French and English—in Munich.

Not even money would change their minds, Jelinek said.

Otto and Maria, a brother-sister team from Bronte, Ont., were born in Czechoslovakia and escaped with their family to come to Canada. They thrilled the sports world in 1962, returning to Prague as Canadian citizens to win the world pairs figure skating championship.

BID FAILS

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Boehm, the Canadian masters champion from Regina, failed to make the semi-finals of the annual $52,000 World's Invitational Bowling Tournament. With only 80 of the 160 men moving into the semi-finals, Boehm finished in 146th place with 3,749 pins, an average of 188 a game. A score of 3,959 was required to make the semi-finals.

3 Players Fined After Bar Brawl

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fines were imposed Tuesday on three Tulsa Oilers' hockey players following a chair - smashing post-game brawl in a downtown Winnipeg cocktail bar Monday night. Two players assaulted a patron.

Johnston was fined $75 for assault, $50 for causing wilful damage and ordered to pay $40 to replace four chairs.

Quinn was fined $75 for assault and Smith $50 for being disorderly. All three pleaded guilty and were ordered to pay court costs.

Four Unanimous

11 Gaels On All-Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Queen's University Golden Gaels from Kingston, unbeaten in league play for two years, dominated all-star voting for the second successive year on the Quebec-Ontario Athletic Association all-star football team announced today.

The Gaels, who also retained the Yates Cup in a post-season challenge game with McMaster University, Ontario intercollegiate champs, placed 11 men on the team—six on offence and five on defence.

The unanimous selection of four Queen's players—halfback Jim Young and Helno Lilles and end Pete Thompson to the offensive unit and defensive end Larry Ferguson — highlighted the 1964 voting.

The teams were picked for The Canadian Press by football writers, sportscasters and coaches in the four league cities —London, Toronto, Kingston and Montreal. The voting was weighted to give equal balloting strength to each city.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs, last-place finishers in the four-team league, placed seven men on the all-star team, including three on offence. McGill University Redmen of Montreal and University of Toronto Blues had four players each named to the 25-man squad.

The extra man was created through a tie for the second defensive end position where Ian Hogan of Toronto and Dick Feidler of McGill polled 16 votes each. There were 48 votes cast for each position.

Magic Millie Wins At Garden City

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Gina Gines, a four-year-old mare from A. G. Thompson's Ottawa farms, won Tuesday's Garden City Raceway feature, a mile pace for $1,200, in 2:06 1-5.

Missile Dares placed second and High Patch third.

It was Gina's fifth win in 25 starts this season. Her $600 share of the purse hiked her 1964 earnings to $5,255

Magic Millie, a four-year-old chestnut mare belonging to Irvin Ness of Belleville, was half a length up on Maud's Boy at the wire in the sixth for a $131 quinella in the mile race.

After Missing Five

Sutherin Takes 'Course'

HAMILTON (CP)—Don Sutherin started place kicking in the eighth grade and now, after five seasons with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, the Eastern Football Conference's leading point-getter this season finds himself taking a full-fledged refresher course.

". . . I'll start learning all over again," the 23 year-old Sutherin said in an interview Tuesday night.

Sutherin won the EFC scoring championship easily with 94 points strictly on his ability to kick converts and field goals but in the second game of a two-game total-point series for the EFC championship against Ottawa Rough Riders last Saturday he missed five placements.

The Ticats made it to Saturday's Grey Cup against British Columbia Lions anyway taking the series 39-38 against Ottawa, but Sutherin is hoping his abilities will be improved during the week.

Sutherin revealed the meticulous attention paid to each 6-foot tall and the perfect co-operation needed between centre Chet Mikasa, quarterback Bernie Faloney and the kicker during the 1.5 seconds it takes to snap the ball and send it toward the opposing goal.

USES MARKER

"Bernie always takes a little piece of tape to set the ball down on a spot picked out—something like a tee in golf," Sutherin said.

"He gives the signal to Chet so count, just a hand signal—and I watch the ball come back. Then I put my head down as I have already taken my sighting and I kick the ball trying to hit it about one-half inch below the centre."

The Frug Is a Dance Craze, Juliet Prowse Can't Do It

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It may come as a surprise to many and a comfort to some, but Juliet Prowse can not do the frug.

The frug is a dance craze, lineal descendant of the twist. Along with entertainment spots called "discotheques," where the customers amuse themselves by dancing to recorded music.

"It is a very strange thing," said Miss Prowse, who has risen to fame and fortune by virtue of her fancy footwork, "I can do the masked potato and the Watusi, but the frug—no.

Miss Prowse says she suffers from the same old problem of Hollywod type - casting that dogs stars of westerns and comedies.

"They say, 'Oh, she's just a dancer' when I'm up for a part," she explained. "That's why I'm excited about a television pilot — for a comedy series — I've just made. I play a movie star who is married to an air force man and we live in a quonset hut. I don't do any dancing at all."

She is visible on television tonight in one of those kooky cameo roles in ABC's Burke's Law, and again on Friday in a special variety show, NBC Follies of 1965, with Steve Lawrence.

"I really like playing in night clubs," she said, "I like that contact with the audience, and you don't get bored doing the exact same thing every night."

Recommended tonight: CBS news special report, 7:30-8 — Examining the ecumenical council dialogues between liberal and conservative churchmen; The Danny Kaye Show, CBS, 10-11—with Gwen Verdon.

SEEKS RETAIN TITLE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A star-studded field of 150 golfers will tee off Thursday in the four-day Mexican Open over the tough Club de Golf Mexico course. Al Balding of Toronto is seeking to retain the crown he won last year with a record nine-under-par 279 over another and easier layout. Also entered is Canadian PGA champion George Knudson of Toronto.

OPENS THURSDAY

WHAT IS "FAIL SAFE"?

"Fail Safe" is the point of no return, where no man can stop a war plane committed to drop a nuclear bomb. Leading up to this point are a considerable number of checks and double checks, mechanical and human, all designed to prevent accidental disaster.

"Fail Safe" is the name of a book by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, a best-selling novel translated into ten languages, about just such an accidental disaster and the several hours in which all of life hangs in dangerous balance while the President makes an awesome decision.

"Fail Safe" is the Max E. Youngstein-Sidney Lumet production based on the novel, now a Columbia Pictures release at the Park Theatre Thursday. The shattering suspense drama stars Henry Fonda as the President, Dan O'Herlihy, Walter Matthau, Frank Overton, Edward Binns, and Larry Hagman and introduces Fritz Weaver. Walter Bernstein penned the screenplay.

On the same program a riotous comedy in color "The Iron Maiden," starring Michael Craig, Anne Helm, Alan Hale, and Cecil Parker. One complete show starts at 7:15 p.m.

Heston Back in California To Make Another Epic Film

By SOE THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charlton Heston, who likes it here, is making his first all-California movie since The Big Country seven years ago.

He would like to spend more time in the land of his adoption, but producers don't like him as a 20th century man.

"All the good modern parts go to Jack Lemmon and Cary Grant," he laments.

"That leaves Heston with pictures like The Ten Commandments, Ben-Hur, El Cid and The Agony and the Ecstasy.

He's not seeking sympathy. He has established a near-monopoly on costume epics. He has probably done more than anyone else to overcome prejudice to such films, as expressed in the words of a theatre chain boss: "Don't give me any of those pictures where they write with feathers"

GOOD THING GOING

Heston himself admits he has a good thing going.

"When you see Jack Lemmon at the beginning of a picture walking down the halls of a big office building, you immediately believe in him as the junior executive of a corporation," he said. "And when people see me on horseback in chain-mail, they seem to believe that I belong there.

"Some actors are obviously contemporary types and they can't pull it off. When you're wearing chain-mail, you'd damn well better convince the audience that you wear chain-mail underwear, too."

Right now he's back in the 11th century, the era of El Cid. This time he's playing a Norman warrior in The War Lord

Cost of The War Lord: $5,000,000.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Tourist Association will launch a concerted campaign next year to persuade Canadians to clean up their country for the 1967 centennial. N. Murray Brown, association president, told the annual meeting of the federal - provincial tourist conference that "we need a crusade for cleanliness in Canada."

AT THE BELLE — Elvis Presley and Ann-Margret test a sports car driven to victory by Presley in a thrilling race in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new musical romance, "Viva Las Vegas". Highlighted by a flock of songs and lavish production numbers, the lilting picture was filmed in Panavision and Metrocolor on location in the world-famous playground. Cesare Danova, William Demarest and Nicky Blair have co-starring roles in "Viva Las Vegas" opening Today at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Trousers Tucked in Boots Latest Fashion for Evening

By MARGARET NESS

LONDON (CP) — Trousers tucked into boots for evening wear are the latest fashion for men here.

Yo longer can male fashions be called stodgy.

Even the city bowler hat has become fashion - conscious. It has a higher crown and narrower brim, part of the new trend, especially as interpreted by Hardy Amies, to make men look taller.

Amies is one of the best known of the London haute couture designers and has created clothes for the Queen. About four years ago he started designing for men, too.

He's in the forefront of the revolution in men's clothes and his credo is to make men look more elegant by giving them height, or at least the illusion of height.

Amies is in his 50s so his views on male fashions can hardly be dismissed as the result of youthful exuberance.

He advocates the higher-but toned look in suits, a slightly waisted effect and narrow trousers.

He even designs for height in his line of shoes, emphasizing the higher Cuban heel.

COATS SHORTER

He also believes in the short overcoat which, combined with narrow trousers, contribute to the illusion.

At his own salon on Savile Row, Amies' stock for men is confined to accessories, such as ties and scarves, the sort of gifts his women customers buy for their men.

His entire collection for men is on display at the men's shop in The Woodlands on Knightsbridge near Sloane Street. James Clifton, who presides there, says an increasing number of Canadians and Americans are buying Amies four-button higher - jacketed suits and the knee-length coats.

Some are even buying colored shirts and contrasting colored ties and Clifton reports that pale pink is popular.

"Of course, pink must be worn with the right suit colors. With grey, it shows up as practically white."

While pale pink may be a bit more than some men can take, they may find it easier to add just to the dark green shirts with gold ties and the beige shirts with rust-colored ties.

They will need courage, however, to try the shirts with contrasting-colored collar and cuffs —white with blue, pink, beige or pale green. These are conservative by Mod standards—they go in for more spectacular color combinations.

The slim line also is favored at Huntsman and Sons, a custom men's tailor on Savile Row. This firm is also turning out the one-button suit.

E. C. Parker, a specialist at Huntsman, says he doesn't think the Mods have influenced the changed thinking of the older Englishman.

"They are too extreme and are not consistent," he declares, adding that he believes it is the beat groups who are responsible notably such Liverpool singing groups as the Beatles and Bachelors.

They try new ideas and some prove to have fashion significance, Parker says. They are responsible for the close-fitting suit jacket with its ratner tight look which has caught on in a somewhat more moderate cut.

And he admits that a few of the extreme Mod ideas, such as the collarless jacket, have been incorporated into leisure wear.

The bowler is still the hat for the city man in London. A. J. White, hatters since 1840, agrees that soft hats are more for country wear in England and that the bowler is not likely to be ousted.

MEN'S FASHION REVOLUTION — Hardy Amies, one of the best known of the London haute couture designers, is in the forefront of the revolution in men's clothes and his credo is to make men look more elegant by giving them height, or at least the illusion of height. The short overcoat (left) of Donegal Tweed worn with narrow trousers and the four-button higher-jacketed suits contribute says Amie to the illusion of height. (CP Photo)

Cabinet Must Make Decision On Fate of Two

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet within the next few days must make decisions on the fate of two men sentenced to be hanged for capital murder.

The Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday rejected a second appeal by Leslie Lawrence Harris, 22-year-old convicted killer of a policeman at St. Laurent, Que., near Montreal, and a appeal by Lawrence Herman Hasse of Kelowna, B.C., sentenced to death for the murder of a 9-year - old girl was dismissed Nov. 18.

Marcotte, found guilty of capital murder in the machine-gun slaying of Const. Claude Mathieu in the $143,000 so-called Santa Claus bank-holdup in St. Laurent in December, 1962, is scheduled to be hanged Dec. 4. He also was charged but not tried for the non-capital theft of Const. Denis Brabant in the same holdup, in which one bandit wore a Santa Claus suit.

Hasse, scheduled to be hanged Tuesday, Dec. 1, was convicted at Kamloops, B.C., March 6 of capital murder in the stabbing death of Donna Margaret Ring and of non-capital theft of money from her twin sister, Dianna Sharon.

Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux, in the judgment rejecting Marcotte's appeal, said all members of the court are of the opinion that the appeal and request for a new trial should be dismissed.

Solicitor-General MacNaught said Tuesday that the cabinet will take a second look at the Marcotte case and make a further announcement on whether the execution will take place or whether clemency or death sentence will be commited to life imprisonment.

Peking Convinced U.S. Will Attack North Viet Nam, Fighting Spread to China

HONG KONG (AP)—Peking appears to fear that the United States in supporting the anti-guerrilla war in South Viet Nam will attack Communist North Viet Nam and fighting will spread to China.

And so Peking is using the possible U.S. threat to build up its home-front militia forces.

Peking reintroduced a drive to build up its militia several weeks ago. The drive had been introduced twice before when Communist China feared attack from Formosa, backed by the Chinese Nationalists.

Peking originally claimed a target of 200,000,000 men and women for its mass militia forces. This claim, originally made in 1958, has been sharply reduced since and there is no present estimate of Peking's militia strength.

The latest build-up was announced at a meeting in Peking last week. Party leaders and Tse-tung, president Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai and other top Chinese Communist officials attended the meeting.

Mao told the meeting that the U.S. and other "imperialists" were pushing Communist China to war.

"They are doing this in such a way that we must deal with them seriously," he said. We require, in addition to mighty regular armed forces, the tremendous number of militia divisions.

"Thus, when the imperialists invade China, they will find difficulty in moving a single step."

Western observers here believe Mao's reference to "imperialists" invading China indicates Peking's concern that an attack on North Viet Nam could spread to China.

They believe Peking is convinced that the U.S. will carry the war from South Viet Nam into the north. This uneasiness was apparent even before the U.S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam, Maxwell D. Taylor, said Sunday that U.S. air raids on Communist bases and supply lines in North Viet Nam and Laos could contribute to victory over the guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Madoc
MISSION RALLY

MADOC — Interested members of several churches in and around Madoc including the pastor and young people of the Centenary United Church, attended a Mission to Lepers rally held in St. John the Baptist Anglican Church.

Rev. James H. Thompson welcomed everyone and spoke briefly of his own personal interest in leprosy having visited a colony while serving in the East in the Army.

He then introduced the Canadian secretary, Rev. G. H. Kitchen, who addressed the congregation. He spoke firstly of the ministry of healing the commission of the Lord to all conditions of men and what the Mission to Lepers was doing in various parts of the world.

Mr. King requested for prayer partners and for the young people to save used stamps. The motto of the Mission, "Bishop Out Leprosy" and the aim of nearly $1,200 has been made this year alone in the selling of stamps and the sale of cards which will bring medical relief to 24 victims.

A colored motion film entitled, "The Five B's, Rescue, Rehabilitation, Restore, Reunite and Resettlement" illustrated all aspects of work in India, Africa, Hong Kong and Korea.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

The annual St. John the Baptist Guild Christmas bazaar and tea was well supported by many friends and parishioners.

The Parish Hall was appropriately decorated with red and green streamers, wreaths and a colored lighted Christmas tree. The centre table was decorated with a basket of carnations and white snapdragons and colored pine cones.

Mrs. Dewey Donaldson, president, welcomed the many visitors. Pouring tea was Mrs. Thomas Thompson while serving the tables for four, was Mrs. Daisy Vinocombe and Mrs. Ann Smith. Tea room arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Alice Maynard. Convenors at the apron and needlework table were Mrs. Joseph Biglow and Mrs. William Akey; Mrs. William Coleman at the home bake table and Mrs. Charles Warren at the white elephant and candy table.

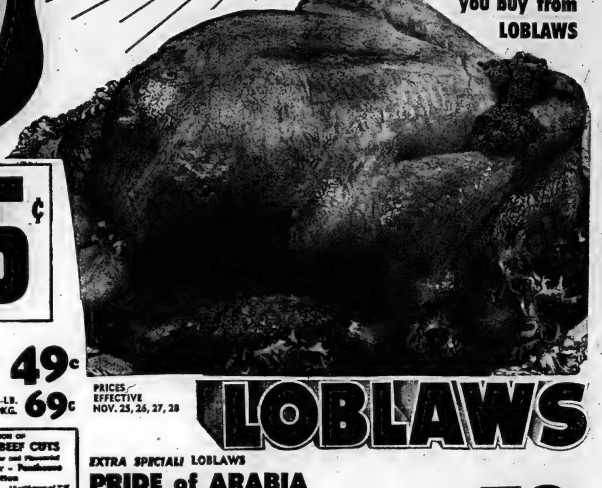
TEST TREE CRUSHER

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP) — Members of the Canadian Army stationed here are testing a Texas - manufactured tree-crushing machine at 800 acres of forest. The 100 - ton iron machine, which resembles a trojan battering ram and operates like a giant rolling iron, has been pressed into service to clear scrub forest here rather than burning, cutting or spraying.

Football Fans For Grey Cup Game Arrive

TORONTO (CP) — The first infiltration of Toronto by festivity - minded football fans began Tuesday in the vanguard of an invasion expected to be at least 25,000 strong by Grey Cup game time Saturday.

Hotels, their reservation lists pre-booked weeks ago, were filled, reported a few arrivals four days in advance of the big game between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and British Columbia Lions.



Among early arrivals were the B.C. Lions and Miss Grey Cup contestants.

Today, the organized excitement begins in earnest as nine pretty cheerleaders representing the Canadian Football League cities join a "kick-off" parade to city hall, where Mayor Philip Givens will officially proclaim Grey Cup week.

Latvia's Population Heavily Penetrated by Russians in Twenty Years of Control

By JOHN BEST

RIGA (CP)—In the 20 years since Soviet control was re-established toward the end of the Second World War, Latvia's population has been heavily penetrated by Russians.

Officially, 30 per cent of the people of this Baltic republic are said to be Russian. In fact, the proportion is much higher, probably between 50 and 70 per cent of the 2,230,000 population.

Regardless of statistics, it's a certainty that the people in control are Russians, said a Western diplomat.

It's also evident from the remarks of some Latvians that there is a feeling of resentment over the situation.

All Latvian school children have to learn Russian as well as their own tongue. "But it also works the other way," as official guide insisted. "Russians living here have to learn Latvian.

Public signs in this capital city are generally in both languages but there are instances where only Russian is used. Many billboards on the way to Riga's main airport are entirely in Russian and announcements on the public address system at the terminal are often exclusively in Russian.

As a general rule, it appears that when only one language is used officially in public that language is Russian.

RESORTS BUSY

Resort areas on the Baltic, 10 miles from here, multiply 10 to 20 times in population during the summer and a high proportion of the visitors are Russians.

Thirty years ago 77 per cent of Latvia's population consisted of indigenous Letts. The Latvian language is Lettish, an Aryan tongue with Latin characters as opposed to the Cyrillic letters used in Russian.

A considerable number of Russians here are scientific and technical specialists sent to carry out an industrialization program that has been going on since Latvia, along with the neighboring Baltic states of Estonia and Lithuania, were reincorporated into the Soviet Union two decades ago.

Soviet officials say the republic was formerly an "agrarian appendage" of world capital ism. Traditionally its principal exports were timber and butter. Manufacturing was confined to small consumer goods. Latvia now produces a wide variety of manufactured goods ranging from motorcycles and diesel engines to hula hoops.

Every second automatic telephone station built in the U.S.S.R. comes from Riga, every ninth electrical bulb, every seventh radio, every sixth washing machine, every fourth tram and electric train car.

MANY DEPORTED

During Stalin's time there were periodic reports of mass deportations of Latvians to distant parts of the Soviet Union, but most of the deportees have since returned.

Other Latvians fled the country in 1940 or when the Red Army returned in 1944, settling in Scandinavia, West Germany and North America.

These days the Russian presence in Riga seems especially pervasive as the city observes the 20th anniversary of its wresting from the Nazi.

"Long live and bloom the Latvian Soviet Socialist Republic in the brotherly family of the peoples of the U.S.S.R."

"Glory to the Soviet Army that Liberated Riga from the Fascists Oct. 13, 1944."

On the weekend before Oct. 13 so much army brass was on hand to assist in the celebrations that it appeared the entire Soviet high command had taken up residence in the cheeriess Hotel Riga.

Parades, children's competitions and bicycle races were held. Big crowds were in the streets but they weren't notice ably enthusiastic about the observance. Mostly, they seemed to be out for the fresh air and sunshine.

They looked rather apathetic and, in many cases, resigned.

The Blacksmith Shop

The village smithy stands no more,
And gone the shoes the horses wore,
And all is change, more's the pity,
To new accoutrements from the city.

Cars and gas-pumps, neon lights,
Stream-lined planning the heart delights,
Curves and angles, structural steel,
Longings for the past anneal.

Still stands the smithy at the crossroads,
But soon departed lotality,
To make way for bigger loads
And faster trips from sea to sea.

A noble landmark from those years,
The horse and buggy days, just done,
An interim-age, before the gears,
Of modern automobiles won.

LINER CUTS TANKER IN TWO

Mishap Occurs In Heavy Fog Off New Jersey

16 Dead, Four Missing 23 Rescued in Darkness

By CHARLES WEST

NEW YORK (AP)—The 24,500-ton Israeli luxury liner Shalom, bound for a U.S. Thanksgiving holiday cruise of the Caribbean with 1,076 persons aboard, sliced a tanker in two in heavy fog off New Jersey early today.

U.S. Coast Guard and hospital reports showed at least 16 dead and four missing, all crew members of the Norwegian tanker Stolt Dagali of Oslo.

A massive pre-dawn sea and air search rescued the tanker's other 23 men.

The Shalom, her bow opened and shipping water, was reported to be in no danger of sinking. No one was hurt aboard the liner.

ABANDON TANKER

Thirty-three of the 43-man crew were forced to abandon the sinking stern section of the tanker. The Grace Line cruise ship Santa Paula and a navy helicopter rescued the other 10 from the listing bow.

The shock of the tragedy could be seen in the face of the survivors.

At a New Jersey hospital, one seaman arrived wearing a life jacket and shirt, but no trousers. He apparently had been asleep when the ships collided.

"We've got him strapped to the bed because he is still fighting," Dr. Walter Kaye, a hospital spokesman said.

PICKED OUT OF WATER

Surface ships picked some seamen from the water and coast guard and navy helicopters lifted others in slings and shuttled them to New Jersey hospitals.

The first two seamen reached the Point Pleasant Beach, N.J., hospital soon after dawn.

"They were blue with cold," said Associated Press reporter Christopher Minister. "They were staring into space."

One was pronounced dead within minutes.

About the same time, four more seamen were arriving via helicopter at the base hospital at Lakehurst, N.J., naval air station.

They appeared to be in pretty good shape but they were suffering from exposure," a hospital said.

616 PASSENGERS ABOARD

The Shalom, whose name is Hebrew for "peace" and meaning "friendship," said shortly before last midnight she was steaming after a round of bon voyage parties. Aboard were 616 passengers booked for a 12-day sea vacation in the West Indies and 460 ZIM lines personnel to serve and entertain them.

The Stolt Dagali was steaming northward along the Atlantic coast, from Philadelphia to Newark, N.J., her tanks laden with oil, solvents and fats.

Commanding the Shalom, the pride of the Israeli-owned ZIM lines and only seven months in service after her maiden voyage to New York, was Capt. Abner Freundenberg.

Capt. Christian Benidickesen was master of the 12,723-ton tanker and commander of an all-Norwegian crew of 42.

The vessels collided shortly after 2 a.m.

The news was flashed to shore

Shadow Cabinet Named

Congo Rebels Murder 17 Whites By Systematically Beating Them

From Reuters-AP

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Seventeen whites including an American missionary were systematically beaten to death in the last two days in the northern Congolese city of Paulis, evacuees arriving here said today.

This brought the number of known white hostages dead in The Congo during the last four days to 45. Thirty-one of them were killed in Stanleyville when rebels opened fire minutes before Belgian paratroops arrived Tuesday.

Unofficial reports from the scene of fighting at Paulis said more than 50 whites were killed in savage rebel reprisals. If this is true, the death toll of foreigners since the rescue operation began is more than 81.

U.S. embassy officials here identified the dead American as Rev. Joseph Tucker of the Protestant Mission Assembly of God. He was from Springfield, Mo.

Rebels Flee With Hostages

(From Reuters-AP)

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — The U.S. embassy here said today that Congolese rebels were reported to have taken 110 white hostages with them when they fled the town of Paulis after beating 17 whites, including an American missionary, to death Tuesday and Wednesday.

The embassy spokesman said the rebels also massacred the Congolese population as they fled.

Mr. Tucker's wife and three children still were in Paulis and may be brought out later today. They were reported well.

RESCUED BY PARATROOPS

The evacuees, who were rescued when Belgian paratroopers dropped on Paulis today, said that a group of 41 hostages were taken out and beaten to death systematically Tuesday.

It was the same day that Belgian troops carried in American planes attacked the rebel stronghold of Stanleyville and liberated more than 1,000 white hostages there.

Wednesday, another seven were beaten to death in the Paulis area, 100 miles north of Stanleyville.

The remainder were told they would be killed, but they were saved by the paratroopers landing this morning.

FLEE TO PAULIS

The evacuees who told of the savage killings were part of 200 whites and five nuns who fled to Paulis when Stanleyville was taken over by rebels.

They left Paulis by road, and one white civilian was killed.

At least five, and possibly as many as 30 hostages, were reported wounded.

Seven Americans were believed to have been among the hostages held in the town, 226 air miles north of Stanleyville.

In Brussels, the Belgian foreign ministry said "more than 200 foreigners had been isolated (at Paulis) and were the object of the same treatment and the same threats as those at Stanleyville."

Other hostages at Stanleyville were beaten, insulted, and threatened with death.)

They returned dead from Tuesday's massacre of hostages in Stanleyville stood at 31 authorities reported.

Favreau Asked To Explain

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MP Erik Nielsen, whose charge of bribery in high places has shaken the capital, Wednesday demanded to know what connection a man charged with capital murder in Montreal has with the affair.

Mr. Nielsen told the Commons that "there are others" involved and said Justice Minister Favreau knows this because it is contained in an RCMP report on the bribery allegations.

"I believe the minister knows full well that a certain Mr. Gignac has been arrested in Montreal on a charge of capital murder and I give the minister this opportunity to explain to the committee, if he will, what connection Mr. Gignac has with this whole affair."

He did not elaborate on the connection.

The Yukon MP added that "these remarks should not be taken as carrying any inference at all."

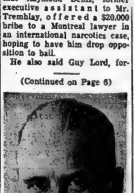
He made appeals to the embattled Justice minister to "make a clean breast" of the whole matter.

And he said the RCMP report contains a reference that Immigration Minister Tremblay was in his office at the time the bribe was offered.

DENIED KNOWLEDGE

Mr. Tremblay denied any knowledge of the bribe.

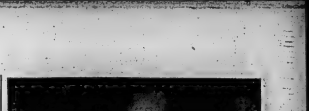
Mr. Nielsen emphasized he was not "imputing" anything against Mr. Tremblay.



He also wanted an explanation of any part played by Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Dollard who resigned Tuesday as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Nielsen's speech, which contained little new information aside from the "certain Mr. Gignac" reference, was overshadowed by a lengthy wrangle over the judicial inquiry into the charges that the government has established.

Monday, Mr. Nielsen charged that Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Mr. Tremblay, offered a $20,000 bribe to a Montreal lawyer in an international narcotics case, hoping to have him drop opposition to bail.



He also said Guy Lord, for-

13 Nominated For Aldermen In Quiet Meeting

Public School Trustees Acclaimed in All Wards

It was so calm in city hall last night you could have heard a ballot fall. Only a sprinkling of interested citizens mixed with candidates and their sponsors at the 1964 municipal nomination night.

Absence of a possible mayoralty challenge for the first time in civic history was believed the reason for the almost lackluster response when city clerk Adam Stalker called for nominations last night.

A total of 13 names was entered in the aldermanic stakes for seven vacancies. Public school trustees were acclaimed in all seven wards, while only four wards seem assured of election contests for separate school trusteeships.

However, final electoral postures cannot be drawn on the slate until after 9 p.m. tonight when qualifications are officially closed.

These were last night's nominations, with nominators of aldermanic candidates in brackets:

Sterling Stages Big Rally

By GEOFFREY WHITEHEAD

LONDON (Reuters) — The pound sterling made a sharp rally here today after a $3,000,000,000 overnight rescue plan by 11 countries finally removed fears that it might be devalued.

The price soared to a peak of $2.79 3-32 (U.S.) on the London foreign exchange, but later settled back to a shade under $2.79, still a big boost over Wednesday.

Shares on the stock exchange followed sterling—first showing a big jump, and then cutting back to more-moderate gains.

But by mid-day one market index was showing a lead of 3½ points on the day's trading.

Political observers said a clear indication from government quarters today that no "credit squeeze" on the domestic economy is expected may remove further fears from businessmen.

Treasury chief James Callaghan was believed to have reviewed the impact of the 11-power aid plan at a full cabinet meeting this morning.

The boost to the pound—under heavy selling pressure during the last few days—meant that speculators who have been selling on the assumption that Britain would be forced into devaluation have burned their fingers.

One dealer said conditions were "quite hectic," with all man (L. Searcy, Frank Murray). sharp moves in favor of the pound.

Gold share prices—which rose Wednesday in face of uncertainty over the pound—showed losers ranging to five shillings today.

PARIS SALES STOP

Trade of sterling was halted in Paris this morning following the massive support measures, French bankers reported.

French foreign exchange dealers said business was limited as the market was "shaken" by the sudden international monetary solidarity.

Centennial Planners Start Fanning Out Across Country

TORONTO (CP) — Federal centennial planners will start fanning out across Canada next month for a series of meetings with provincial government leaders and local authorities to put new life into plans for 1967, the 100th anniversary of confederation.

Their main purpose is to start joining the provinces and municipalities down to specific times and places for the big celebrations now just 25 months away to celebrate the federal union of the provinces.

One of the main problems the centennial commission has come face-to-face with is: when do the centennial celebrations start? They start Jan. 1, 1967, and run to Dec. 31, 1967. If they spill over the calendar year, this side or beyond, that's all to the good, in the opinion of the centennial commission.

Commission officials, headed by commissioner John Fisher, will visit all 10 provincial capitals during the period from mid-December to late February.

One of the main purposes of the tour is to discuss a schedule for the Confederation train and eight truck-trailer caravans visiting 800 communities.

The officials will also discuss the centennial commission's youth travel program, which will sponsor the movement of 3,000 young Canadians from one part of Canada to another next year, and the practical problems of organizing a performing arts festival to tour the country in 1967.

Maurice Lamontagne, secretary of state and federal minister in charge of centennial planning, said Wednesday after a meeting of the federal-provincial centennial committee that Ottawa and five other communities—St. John's; Nfld., Quebec, Winnipeg, Regina and Saskatoon—will have new theatres ready for such a festival.

The 60-member national conference on the centennial, including representatives of the provinces and the federal government, and 40 delegates at large, was to conclude its semi-annual meeting today with discussions on how a wider range of public interest groups can be brought into the centenary. Included are church, university and labor bodies.

"They Have Their Martyr - - Now All Hell Could Break Loose"

Saigon Buddhists Display Body Of 15-Year-Old Boy Slain in Riots

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam's ruling military security council met in emergency session today to consider measures against fresh waves of anti-government rioting that resulted in Saigon being placed under martial law.

It was the first meeting of the council since street demonstrations began Sunday, threatening to topple the fledgling civilian government.

Authorities feared the killing of a 15-year-old boy, first known victim of the rioting, would touch off new and wider demonstrations. More than 100 have been injured.

As the youth's body was put on display in Buddhist headquarters, a Western observer commented: "They have their martyr; now all hell could break loose."

Buddhist leaders met at the national pagoda and a spokesman said a demonstration probably would be staged Monday.

Under the provisional constitution the council has broad powers, including authority to replace Premier Tran Van Huong.

Premier Huong imposed martial law Wednesday night after rioting described as possibly the year's worst. Even after the law went into effect a crowd of youths clashed with police and a grenade blast injured seven policemen.

Paratroopers again used tear gas Wednesday to disperse angry mobs of Buddhists and students, charging through pools of flaming oil at one point.

The demonstrators charge that the new government has retained technicians from the regime of the late Ngo Dinh Diem, which was toppled last November by Buddhist opposition.

Central Ontario Made 76.5 PC Premium Quality Cheese During Past Year

Ontario cheesemakers did a commendable job in bettering cheese grades this year and Central Ontario makers as a group had the best record in improving quality.

For the first ten months of this year Central Ontario makers made 76.5 per cent premium quality cheese as compared with 72.9 per cent last year.

The above figures were given by J. F. Robinson, chief cheese instructor, from Kemptville, as he addressed the opening session of the 37th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association.

Mr. Robinson said the higher scores achieved by cheesemakers in this district was a "remarkable improvement" and said that in his opinion the 3.6 cent differential for premium cheese was mainly responsible.

He said the differential paid for premium cheese meant that makers could not afford to take a chance on the possibility of making another cheese and need no hesitation in rejecting inferior quality milk.

WELCOME EXTENDED

Other speakers at the Cheese makers' convention yesterday included Robert H. Gillan, supervisor of dairy production and marketing for the Federal Department of Agriculture; A. Douglas Auchterlonie, MP, for Prince Edward-Lennox, and R. J. Quinn, district supervisor for the department of agriculture.

Association president Harold Elliott of Perkenna, welcomed members and visitors to the session, while civic welcomes were also extended by Hastings county Warden Thomas Burnside and by Belleville Mayor Jack Ellis. Rev. C. W. Cokeman, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association, pronounced the invocation.

SELF-SUPPORTING

Mr. Alkenbrack said the dairy industry had made a great contribution toward the building of Canada and said the cheese was the only self supporting branch of the dairy industry in Canada.

At the same time, however, he said that cheese was not receiving its fair share of total government subsidies paid on dairy products. From 1958 to 1964 cheese had received only 1% per cent of the $195,000,000 paid to all branches of the dairy industry.

The cheesemakers' convention, being held in conjunction with the British Empire Dairy Show, will continue today with W. H. Bain, director of milk products division, Ontario Department of Agriculture, and Hector C. Arnold, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board, scheduled among other speakers.

Yesterday the British Empire Dairy Show and its cheesemaker sponsors came in for high compliments from speakers.

The convention will wind up tonight with the annual cheesemakers' banquet and dance to be held at Club Canara.

Kingston Youth Fined $50 For Speeding

An appointment with a lawyer brought a 19-year-old Kingston youth before Magistrate T. V. Hall — on speeding charges.

John Kenneth Guy was fined a maximum of $50 and costs for driving Highway 401 at 100 miles an hour.

OPP Constable Howard Adamson said he observed the accused's car from Glen Miller at speeds ranging up to 110 miles. He said he was attempting to apprehend Guy, who pleaded not guilty, said he was on his way from Oshawa to Kingston to keep an appointment with a lawyer.

OBC Begins New Venture

Ontario Business College has launched a new venture outside the field of Commercial Education, in its Saturday morning classes in French conversation. Since Canada is a bilingual country, it is surely desirable that we become capable of communicating with our French speaking neighbors if we are to understand their views and conduct business with them. The aim of the course is to lay a foundation for complete mastery of modern Canadian French. Let's Be Bilingual.

NORTH POLE HAS SHIFTED — Canadian scientists have once again caught up with the wandering north magnetic pole.

The pole has moved about 20 miles north and about four miles east of the 1962 fixed position. The position of the pole was first recorded in 1831 off Boothia Peninsula.

The pole's new position will be used in magnetic charts of Canada for accurate navigation.

Scientists say the pole wanders because of variation in the magnetic field within the core of the earth. (CP Newsmap)

MRS. THOMAS D. RUSTON

Following an illness of five months, Mrs. Lillianetta (Lilly) Ruston of 120 Dundas Street East, wife of the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday, day. She was born in England, 93 years ago and had the distinction of the late Mr. and Mrs. John William Hewitt and had resided in this province for the past 55 years.

The commission has authorized the preparation of preliminary plans, but approval from the various provincial and municipal authorities will be necessary before tenders can be called.

Mr. E. H. Burnham, utilities commission manager, said the new service centre would replace the old gas works property in Foster Ward.

The original plan was to build the new service centre on the present gas works property, but necessary additional property was not available, so it was decided to build on a new location.

The new building will provide accommodation for the utilities' 22 vehicles and also serve as a materials centre for specialized water distribution and electrical metering equipment.

At the present time maintenance and repair of electric meters is contracted out to a private firm in Belleville but the Utilities Commission expects eventually to do its own servicing when it has the necessary facilities.

The Belleville Public Utilities Commission is planning a new garage and service centre for the Sidney - College Street district, to provide accommodation for its fleet of trucks and from which to service meters, transformers and other equipment.

IN MEMORIAM

MARRIAGE — In loving memory of a dear father, grandfather and brother, Richard Barrigar, who passed away November 27th, 1962.

Peace, God forgives a silent tear,
Time heals the heart but not the years.
Sadly missed by other children and grandchildren.
But he will do we just stand by.
For when the time came, we suffered too.
For you never deserved what you went through,
God took your hand and we had to part.
He left us our pain, but broke our hearts.
Although we smile and seem carefree,
Nobody values you Dad, more than we.
—Always remembered by daughter Irene and Harold, son-in-law Gordon and grandchildren.

LITTLE — In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Ethel Little, who passed away November 26, 1957.
And while she rests in peaceful sleep,
Her memory I shall ever keep.
Ever remembered by daughter Grace.

MARRIAGE — In loving memory of Thomas Barker Hallam who passed away November 26, 1960.

You were one of the best.
Ever remembered by daughter Lola, grandchildren Margo Holoway, Lola Bennett and Thomas Beasley.

Send Mau Mau To Fight Yanks Kenyans Urge

From AP-Reuters

NAIROBI (CP)—Hundreds of Negroes demanding armed African intervention in The Congo "even if it meant starting a third world war" today stoned and burned cars outside the building housing the U.S. Embassy and other legations in the Kenyan capital.

The demonstrators marched on the U.S. and Belgian embassies carrying placards reading "send Mau Mau to fight (Premier Moise) Tshombe" and "expel all Americans and Belgians from Kenya." The Mau Maus were the anti-white terrorists who operated in the days when Britain ruled Kenya.

Cars belonging to the Swedish ambassador and Indian high commissioner were damaged.

Kenya police led by British officers dispersed the crowd of about 200 shouting women and students.

Watch It!

"Competition is the life of trade," according to the old saying.

And members of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association now holding their annual convention at the Hotel Quinte found today they were having just that—and from a quarter possibly least expected.

Yesterday when the cheesemakers' convention opened to discuss Ontario-made cheddar the hotel marquee said "Welcome to Central Ontario Cheesemakers."

Today the message was slightly different.

"Check our Selection of Imported Cheese at the Delicatessen," said the marquee sign. Hotel employees changed the sign at noon!

Gross Capital Debt of Ontario Up $78 Million

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's gross capital debt rose by $78,589,347 to $2,057,963,807 in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1961, the government's abridged financial report showed Wednesday.

However, the government had a surplus of ordinary revenue over expenditures amounting to $854,469 compared with $378,647 during the previous fiscal year.

Revenues from taxation—gasoline tax, sales tax, and Ontario's share of federal income tax among others — rose to $836,040,573 from $778,002,628 during the previous fiscal year.

Other sources of provincial revenue brought the net ordinary revenue for the year to $1,079,153,079 — an increase of about $75,000,000 over the 1962-63 fiscal year.

Some of these added sources of revenue were motor vehicle licences, prices of which were increased last year, and liquor prices, which also went up.

The LCBO earned $97,000,000 compared with $87,000,000 the previous year. Motor vehicle licences and other permits brought in $83,500,000, up about $14,000,000 from 1962-63.

Spending rose in all but four government departments. The largest spender was the department of education — $381,000,000 compared with $348,000,000 the previous year.

The ordinary account of the province does not include revenues from fixed government assets or expenditures on capital construction projects.

Cheesemakers Call Off Meet, All Working

This morning's session of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association at the Hotel Quinte was called off.

The convention got underway Wednesday afternoon and was scheduled to have both morning and afternoon sessions today before the wind-up tonight with the annual cheesemakers' banquet.

The two speakers scheduled for morning talks were on hand early but after almost an hour's wait the session was called off because there were only a few makers on hand to listen to the addresses.

The reason——cheese factories are still operating on a every day basis and today is the day that the makers had to work.

Power Project Started North Of Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Work on a $30,000,000 Hydro - Quebec power project near Angliers, Que., 200 miles northwest of Montreal, has started, says a Hydro spokesman.

Tenders have been called for the power station, two earth dykes and a 175-ton capacity powerhouse travelling crane for the powerhouse.

Some 150 men now are working at the site, on the Upper Ottawa River between Angliers and Notre Dame des Quinze, cutting diversions.

The project calls for a dam with a built-in powerhouse with four generating units of 50,000 horsepower each.

The draw will be 770 feet long with an 88-foot head.

A spokesman for Hydro said Wednesday the dam will "increase the power available to the Northwest Quebec district."

The Canterbury Belles of Trenton Anglican Church held a "Christmas, 100 Years Ago" tea on Wednesday. Mrs. A. J. C. Ward, Mrs. B. Blamire and Mrs. Frances Wright were in charge of the sewing table.

Pension Hike Not Responsible At This Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said Wednesday that a 525 increase in the monthly old age security payment to $100 as proposed by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce would not be responsible at this time.

She told the parliamentary committee studying the Canada Pension Plan that a chamber proposal would double the cost of the old age security program "at a time when so many are advocating tax cuts."

She said the $10 pension increase approved a year ago cost $116,000,000 a year. She estimated that the old age security program will cost a total of $900,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

A $100 flat-rate pension payable at age 65 instead of 75 would double the cost to about $1,800,000,000.

Member Freed On Fraud Counts

QUEBEC (CP)—Gerald Martineau, 62-year-old Quebec City businessman, today was acquitted on a charge of defrauding the Quebec government of $34,600. The charge had been placed following a royal commission into purchasing practices under the former Union Nationale administration.

Mr. Martineau, a member of the legislative council, Quebec's upper house, and former treasurer of the Union Nationale party, had been charged on 11 counts of fraud.

The judgment was made by Judge Albert Dumontier of Session Court.

The fraud counts involved unearned commissions which the Crown said had been made on paint sales to the government by the Sico Paint Company.

Can Transmit Power to U. S. By Maritimes

By DAVE BUTLER

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood appears to have received a boost in his long - standing prediction that New York subways one day will run on Labrador-produced electricity.

The premier proposes to transmit the energy produced at Hamilton Falls through the Maritimes to New England by a system of towers and submarine cables.

An English consulting firm told him Wednesday in New York that the project was feasible from the engineering, economic and financial standpoints."

The verdict from the London firm of Preece, Cardew and Rider made it "one of the happiest days of my life" and "one of the greatest days in Newfoundland history," the premier said, adding the project probably would get under-way next spring.

The statements by the consulting firm and the premier appeared to have ruled out earlier possibilities that Quebec might take part in the project.

Was this Attack Necessary?

Postmortems are sometimes useful.

But the business of second-guessing the experts, the men who have had responsibility, seldom is.

We are not sure into which category would fall a questioning of the tactics used to take the rebel stronghold of Stanleyville, in the Congo.

Still, useful or not, questions are going to be asked.

Was it wise to seize this city by force, and particularly by this type of force used, Belgian paratroopers and U.S. planes?

The Belgians are well-hated, and for the best of reasons, in the Congo. Almost anybody can understand how hatred can be generated for those who kill without giving the victim a chance of fighting for his life, as do airmen when they are matched against men with machetes.

Any fool ought to have known that, if Belgian paratroopers and U.S. planes attacked Stanleyville, some of the hostages would die.

At the United Nations Security Council on Tuesday, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson circulated a letter stating the U.S. sent planes to Stanleyville because the Congo rebels were "attempting to bargain with the lives of hostages there for political and military purposes"

They were, and this conduct was reprehensible.

The U.S. reacted in a vigorous, honorable fashion.

But it is easy to be vigorous and honorable when somebody else has to pay the price.

We wonder how the hostages felt about it?

Still, all the valid arguments are not on the side of those who regard the attack on the rebel stronghold as idiotic.

It may well be that, if the attack had not been made, all the hostages, numbering some 1,600, would have been massacred, and that the prompt action saved the lives of 1,550 at the price of fifty who perished.

It is easy to be critical, much more difficult to be burdened with the duty of decisions, and doubly so when it is the lives of others which are at stake.

And yet, in the final analysis, why did they have to use Belgians, of all people, in this attack? Was there really nobody whom the rebels might trust who could have been persuaded to come forward and seek the release of these hostages from their barbarous captors?

That question will haunt, should haunt, those responsible for affairs in the Congo for some time.

There will be those, too, who will suspect that Moise Tshombe is not completely unhappy about the outcome. Nothing in his record suggests that he will sincerely deplore a situation which provides him with an adequate excuse to deal as harshly as he wishes with his foes and rivals for control of the Congo.

And, with 50 foreigners brutally massacred, nobody is going to feel much sympathy for any rebel whom Tshombe wants out of the way.

After the Beatles

The latest British music survey indicates groups such as the Beatles, Bottles, Boopies, and Bippies are losing favor with the teenage set.

After years of cranking out sound that often resembled the wail of a man who had sat on a tack and was trying to keep the noise in, it had to come. The question is what will replace them.

In direct contrast to the slim-hipped, mopped-hair group known as the Beatles, may we suggest a group of elephant-sized performers, completely bald, who hold peanut-shed guitars with one string and plunk out a sound similar to Beethoven's piano music. They could be billed as "The Stompers."

Of course, an extra-large, reinforced stage would be needed, but the musical sound the planks would make as they ripped apart and sent nails pinging off the ceiling would, no doubt, send the audience into a happy, hysterical frenzy.

Ridiculous as this suggestion seems, it may prove a prediction in this world where no one ever knows what comes next.

Some things I have said of which I am not altogether confident. But that we shall be better and braver and less helpless if we think that we ought to enquire, than we should have been if we indulged in the idle fancy that there was no knowing and no use in seeking to know what we do not know—that is a theme upon which I am ready to fight, in word and deed, to the utmost of my power.—Socrates.

Reader Suggests Stapes Operation Worth a Gamble

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: A recent column included a letter from a reader who was concerned over having a stapes operation.

Two years ago I was faced with a similar decision. The thought of ear surgery frightened me, and I was four months pregnant. My obstetrician felt it was all right to go ahead.

The plan was to remove the stapes bone and replace it with wire. I went to the hospital the night before. Drops were put in my ear and a dressing placed over it.

Next morning I was given an injection to make me relax. When taken to the operating room I was a bit weary but fully aware of what was going on.

The doctor and nurse explained the why and wherefore of each thing they did. As the doctor chipped the stapes bone the sensation was about like having a radiator pounding. There was a clock and from time to time I would open my eyes to see it. The doctor said the operation would take one to two hours. It took an hour and 45 minutes. At no time was I uncomfortable.

As soon as the wire was connected up, it was as though a speaker had been turned on, voices coming in full and clear.

I went home the next day (it was 100 miles to my home) and the only after-effect was dizziness, which wore off in about a week. I resumed my work at home in a matter of days, and went back to the hospital in two weeks to have the packing removed. This, too, was painless.

Now I hear beautifully and this is the word for it—the first time since I was born I hear the wind and the voices of children playing outside.

For a constitutionally happy ending, I had a fine seven-pound daughter, my fifth child.

I urge this person not to hesitate to have the operation. The chances could be no more one in ten that it might not be successful. It's worth the gamble. — Mrs. M.

Modern ear surgery is, indeed, wonderful.

I caution readers not to expect that all hearing defects can be corrected by surgery, but an otologist (ear specialist) can tell whether definite limits which cases cannot be benefited and which ones probably will.

Perhaps Mrs. M.'s, your description of your experience in the hospital will do more than anything I can say to take nervousness and fear out of the operation for others.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it normal for emphysema-necessary sufferers to have sleep interrupted by shortness of breath and chest distress. The condition usually subsides minutes after arising and taking a nitroglycerin tablet. I am 70 and need my sleep. — R. T. G.

Shortness of breath from emphysema usually occurs while you are active and thus overtaxing your lung capacity. Hence I would suspect some other source at night. The coronary (heart) trouble is a logical possibility.

Nitroglycerin (and the specialized medications you mentioned) are excellent. Your doctor may want to alter the time at which you take them, day or night, to ward off this shortness of breath.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 18 and had my first period last year. I have not had another since. I am terribly worried, but I have not told my mother. Does this mean when I marry I can never have children? — P. P. P.

It is not uncommon for young girls to have one period, then a lapse before periods resume. I do think, however, it's you should tell your mother. Your weight, a lack of thyroid, or some other factor may need attention. This present condition will in no way affect your ability to have children.

Crummy Limits

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

It is surprising the number of bright towns through which a person can drive on a pleasant Sunday only to find there are a few eating places open where one would pause even for a cup of coffee. A town will give visitors a warm welcome and a generous goodbye at its portals, but not be able to provide an eating spot with clean table cloth and a menu that is not yellow with age.

Strictly Personal
Professional Prejudices Of Readers

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Today's column is made up of contributions sent in by readers, expressing their own "professional" prejudices.

From a nurse: "Doctors are the most dreaded and disliked of hospital patients — not merely because they think they know more than the staff, but also because they are suspicious and cynical toward their treatment, and actually exhibit more fear than lay patients do."

From a teacher: "Too many school superintendents, especially in small town and rural areas are recruited from the ranks of high school instructors, and they teachers, who are the most limited in their educational viewpoint, and who resent the intellectual contest of school program."

From a lawyer: "Many clients will lie outrageously to their lawyers, and then expect the lawyers to do a good job for them; they fail to see that lying to your own counsel is like trying to run a race with an anchor tied to your legs."

From a marriage consultant: "Men are much more candid than women in discussing personal affairs; if readers see of what Marguerite of Navarre wrote nearly 300 years ago 'Women suffer greater embarrassment at confessing to a love affair than at engaging in one.'"

From a psychiatrist: "I wish people would think less of 'sin' and more of 'sin,' that is, less of individual acts that they are ashamed of, and more of their overall attitude toward other people and toward life in general; too often, their preoccupation with trivial acts of wrongdoing enables them to ignore the claims of justice and charity in the social order."

From a psychiatrist: "In a recent column, you spoke about the 'charming' man. I do suggest that charm is not a quality that resides within a person (like regularity of personality), but is a process taking place between one person and another; we call a person 'charming' when he or she makes us feel more attractive to ourselves, and not merely when that other person is attractive."

From a mathematician: "It always irks me to hear the phrase, 'It's only theoretical,' as if theory were unimportant in fact, and if something is theoretically true it must be so in fact as well, or theory is bad."

From a judge: "Why don't citizens rush to help someone in trouble? Why do they stand by, or hurry on, when women are attacked or men beaten? Not cowardice, but something worse — the desire not to get involved, not to have to take time out from pleasure or profit, not to care at all."

Ottawa Offbeat
Paul Martin Gets Along Swimmingly Each Morning

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — For all his smooth urbanity in the Commons, his disarming air of easy relaxation, and that special we're-all-friends-together charm of his, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin is a holy rip-roaring terror with his staff.

He goes like the wind himself, working a hard seven-day week and keeps key personnel hopping on the same breathless schedule.

One of the few Cabinet Ministers who lists his home number in the phone book, he is available, when in the Capital, to anybody who cares to call. And all kinds of people do, finding themselves, often to their astonishment, engaged in a lengthy conversation as the Honorable, the Secretary of State for External Affairs sounds them out as to how they feel about Foreign Policy, the performance of Parliament, the record of the Government, and anything else in the broad spectrum of Martin interest.

Having always available himself, he expects his own staff to remain on tap, and has been known to get them out of bed by phone in the middle of the night with an order for a memorandum to be on his desk in the morning.

Since this political whirlwind in human form took over in the once leisurely External Affairs Department, the dust still has not had time to settle.

NEVER A MOMENT

At such times of stress, his staff likes to ease some of the strain by making sure the Honorable Paul gets the daily swim so essential to his physical well-being and amiable state of mind.

The trick is to get his day off to the best possible start at the earliest possible moment.

Obviously, the pre-breakfast swim routinely has become the answer.

Get the boss into the pool and out of our hair early so we can have time to put the day organized, as the saying goes.

And the ploy hangs a tale.

And as is the custom, the staff laid on the Martin swim early. Real early. Like maybe 6 a.m.

There was a small complication, though.

The posh place where they had the Honorable Paul bedded down was old-worldly elegant. Too old-worldly.

It was the place to stay, and U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and other VIPs were staying there, but lacked a pool.

But the day was not lost — not yet — for a couple of miles across the city, there was one.

And so it was duly arranged that Mr. Martin could plunge in for his daily eye-opener.

Down through the lobby, along a side exit — amma, clip-clopped the Secretary of State for External Affairs in a pair of well-worn bedroom slippers, just an ancient and threadbare dressing gown thrown over his swim trunks, and popped with energetic joy into a waiting limousine.

GOOD SWIM

The chauffeur whisked him across the city, deposited him poolside and wheeled away with instructions to return in an hour.

And last, as the Honorable Paul was to discover as the limousine whispered back down the street, the pool hadn't opened for the day.

And there was the Honorable, the Secretary of State for External Affairs in slippers, swim trunks, and an old dressing gown, out on the public street, three miles from his hotel, without so much as his room key, let alone wallet, for identification.

Desperately he padded around the place, knocking on doors and rapping on windows, silently praying that some early patrolling policeman wouldn't stop him and run him in as some kind of a nudist nut.

Then, a seemingly life-long 20 minutes later, with Mr. Martin all the while shuffling around and pretending in an innocent "Who, me?" fashion that all was as usual, somebody showed up with a key to the pool.

Good swim, reported the Honorable Paul to the wondering attendants when he climbed out, nice pool you have here.

Then back he went, when the limousine returned, to the hotel, and dripping wet, splashed through the lobby and the staring VIPs, up to his rooms to dress and address himself to the day refreshed.

His staff swears the story's true, and amiably do they frown at the mere mention of it.

Sure, it could be a real, tough, hard-driving go to work for the Honorable Paul — but it shapes up like a lot of fun, too.

Strange Case Of Gasoline

Winnipeg Tribune

Gasoline is a volatile liquid. It has a fleeting, energetic existence. It propels machines and cars and is no more. But to governments it is no elusive commodity. It's a favorite as a source of revenue, and in many countries it is taxed to what appears to be its limit.

This is strange, in itself because oil is in great supply in the world. In the production end, the problem is overabundance. Quotas, tariffs, restrictions and capped wells are employed to restrain the flow to commercial markets.

The first 200,000 Chinese Communist troops poured across the Yalu River into battle to help their Red Korean neighbors. This new threat prolonged the Korean War a further three years. The UN commander, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was denied permission to carry bombing and military attacks across the Yalu.

BANK RATE INCREASED — Canada's bank rate has been increased to 4¼ per cent after being at four per cent since August, 1963.

The increase followed rises in the bank rates of United States and United Kingdom. Louis Raminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada said the bank wanted "to eliminate uncertainty in Canadian financial markets following changes in the U.S. and U.K. bank rates."

The bank rate sets the interest for loans from the Bank of Canada to chartered banks and others.

Special Picture Panel Display To Be Exhibited

A special picture panel display along with illuminated colored slides, will be shown at Hastings county fairs next year by way of publicity for the Moira River Conservation Authority.

The idea of the picture panel display was approved this week by the Authority education extension advisory board with direction being given for preparation of the display.

The display will include a large map outlining the watershed area, together with black and white pictures on reforestation conservation areas and other Authority activities.

It is expected the display will be shown at Belleville, Madoc and Tweed fairs, as well as at other fairs on the fringe of the Authority watershed.

Just Chance Dr. Carlson Among Slain

By DAVID REID

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Two Belgians today said American medical missionary Dr. Paul Carlson, under sentence of death by Congolese rebels, died by a "stupid accident" in Tuesday's Stanleyville massacre.

Engineer Max Debuisson and planter Gleb Makaroff both praised Carlson's courage and devotion to duty. They said all the refugees knew and liked him.

Makaroff said Dr. Carlson's morale, in the face of a death sentence was magnificent.

"Everybody knew him," Debuisson agreed. "He was giving medical attention to those who needed it till the last moment. He was in our group and died on that square yesterday morning.

"By God, that man was brave. He knew he was under sentence of death, but he never thought of himself for a moment, always for other people who needed him.

"After all their threats to him, he died by pure accident. They did not even know who they were shooting at. They just sprayed the ground and went on firing."

Makaroff, 45, said he had been in prison with Carlson, American consul Claude Hoy of Chicago, and other U.S. citizens for 40 days and then was moved with them to the Hotel Victoria in Stanleyville.

"They started shooting us down like hares. I fell down on my face and pretended I was dead. When I looked up Dr. Carlson lay dead. His death was a stupid accident."

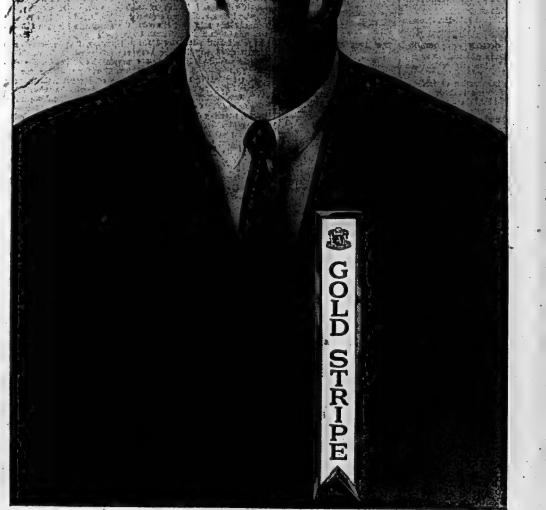
Prize Winning Cheese Sold At Dairy Show



Belleville and district cheese lovers appreciate the opportunity of being able to purchase prize winning cheese from the British Empire Dairy Show.

The Central Ontario Cheesemakers Association some years ago started cutting prime cheese for sale to dairy show visitors and their decision is paying off, in mounting cheese sales.

Prize winning cheese, in all three "new," "medium" and "old" varieties, are taken from the shelves and cut to purchasers' requirements.

And many cheese lovers buy not only cut cheese, but also put in orders for entire block or stilton cheese.

Yesterday Miss Elizabeth Crawford, 1964 Ontario Dairy Princess, was on hand to assist in greeting dairy show visitors and serving cheese and crackers.

Favreau

mer special assistant to the justice minister tried to influence the lawyer, Pierre Lamontagne.

Mr. Lamontagne is acting for the U.S. government in trying to have Lucien Rheard, charged with smuggling heroin into the U.S., extradited from Canada.

MAFIA INVOLVED

Mr. Nixon says two of Rivard's associates are members of the notorious Mafia and charged that the international crime syndicate has reached tentacles into the federal government.

He rapped Mr. Favreau for deciding against laying charges favorable to sunny weather was conducive to a large attendance. against legal experts, and the Opposition scored the minister for not telling the prime minister about the matter until Sunday.

The Commons was in an uproar throughout the afternoon over Opposition accusations that the government is trying to cover up.

External Affairs Minister Martin, acting for Mr. Pearson who is in Toronto for Canada, announced that Quebec Superior Court Justice Frederick Dorion has been appointed a one-man commission to look into the allegations.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the inquiry terms of reference are too narrow to permit any real revelations being investigated.

He said the government is trying to prevent any further revelations by shoving through the order to commit establishing the commission in order to argue that further discussion in the Commons is out of order.

HEAT COOLED

NDP Leader Douglas set off a lengthy wrangle by trying to adjourn the regular House business to discuss the terms of reference. The heat lessened momentarily when the government agreed to bring the justice department spending estimates back for discussion. Forestry estimates had been scheduled.

Govern ment members accused Mr. Nielsen of smears, inuendo and insinuations and "McCarthyism and extremism", when he launched his second speech on the issue that he triggered Monday.

Mr. Nielsen said Mr. Favreau has "shunned" questions to answer and should not allow the judicial inquiry to go further until he has made further explanations to the House. The justice minister had not denied any of the information so far.

Mr. Favreau replied:

"I said that the assessment of the evidences did not justify a prosecution in the circumstances, and for the rest I am not going to either confirm or deny whatever the member for Yukon may say because I am not going to be responsible for, and guilty of, smear and innuendo."

Mr. Favreau's voice cracked several times. He was backed by Mr. Richard Bennett Mitchell Pickersgill and Labor Minister Mackasey.

He defended his former special assistant, now studying at Oxford, as "a man who had never accused Mr. Lord of this, and still maintained he was an innocent dupe."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Favreau's "own deceitfulness caused him to make statements that are not well based."

Mr. Douglas said he wanted to know the date when Mr. Lamontagne is alleged to have been offered the bribe and when he reported it to the RCMP.

Continued Opposition hammering at the justice department has shunted aside consideration of other departmental spending for 1966-67 and may force some problems for the Commons.

Agreement was reached among party leaders last week that all spending programs for 1966-67 would be cleared up by the end of this week.

So far estimates for 16 departments have been passed. But eight departments await consideration, although some have been given partial study.

C-136 Formula for Legislator's Nightmare

The Canada Pension Plan is one of the largest and most complex pieces of legislation ever placed before Parliament. The measure, now before a committee, is explored in this story by a Canadian Press reporter.

By DON BANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canada Pension Plan is a maze of mathematics, a legislator's nightmare.

Few here can recall such a long and highly complex piece of legislation. It ranks with the Criminal Code and the Income Tax Act.

The pensions bill, C-136, is a half-pound package in four long parts comprising altogether 125 sections and nearly 800 clauses.

Yet dollar amounts are scarcely mentioned among 16 basic provisions.

Instead, the whole scheme is a play of percentages so complicated and inter related that they would stagger even the shrewdest bookie.

The bill has been sent to a joint Commons-Senate committee for detailed scrutiny before expert witnesses. But even at this stage one point is clear.

The pension plan, with few except perhaps a divine prophet with access to an electronic computer, to calculate what he will pay into the plan and what he will get out of it. The formulas of contributions and benefits are so bound up in economic guesswork as to defy any precise meaningfulness.

Consider, for example, the case of a working man now 30 years old, who will be contributing to the plan for when it goes in 1966 and will retire at age 65 in the year 1999.

LOADED WITH UNKNOWNS

He will make the contributions and benefits he would have to know, for every one of his 33 contributing years, the level of consumer prices, including everything from grocery bills to bus fares; his salary for every month; future levels of unemployment, general income and other factors.

In addition, he would have to assume that no future Parliament would ever change the contribution and benefit rates. And, of course, the government already has said that the contribution rate likely will have to be raised after 1985 or 1990.

The rates already have been widely published. Here they are in brief:

The contribution rate in the bill is 3.6 per cent of pensionable earnings. The contributions are shared equally by employees and employers at 1.8 per cent apiece. A self - employed person pays the full 3.6 per cent.

How do you calculate pensionable earnings? It is the difference between an upper and a lower income limits specified in the bill.

The upper limit starts at $5,000 for 1966 and 1967. For the next eight years it will rise in line with average industrial wage, with a moving eight-year average of contributors' earnings.

The lower limit is 12 percent of that ceiling. Thus at the start, the lower limit, or exemption, is $600, leaving $4,400 as the maximum on which any one can contribute.

SPREAD CAN WIDEN

But there is a hitch.

That lower limit can only rise by 4 per cent. If 12 per cent of the upper limit is not a full multiple of $100, the lower limit remains at the next lower $100 unit.

This means that the upper limit can move up to $5,200 without moving the lower limit.

Thus the spread has widened to $3,800. The employee's contribution rate is the same 1.8 per cent. But now it works out to $68.40 a year instead of the starting level of $79.20.

The retirement benefit at age 65 is basically 25 per cent of average monthly earnings up to the income ceiling.

But if a person has contributed for more than 10 years, he is allowed a deduction of 10 per cent of his contributing months. Naturally, the lower 10 per cent would be stripped off to boost the average.

In addition, everyone can deduct one month for every month he goes on working after age 65. Thus there is a real incentive to stay on the job unless ill means a substantial pay cut.

But that's not the end of the calculations. Next step is for the pension wizards, or their computers, to adjust the monthly average for each contributing year according to price increases between that year and the year of retirement.

Suppose the end result is $500. That's retirement pension therefore is $125 a month.

FINANCED BY TAXES

Atop this will be the flat-rate monthly Old Age Security payment. This now is $75 payable at age 70. Bill C-136 now makes it payable at $81 month, y starting at age 65, rising by 40 cents for every month that a person waits beyond age 65 before claiming it.

Although this payment now becomes part of the Canada Pension Plan, it is not related in any way to contributions. It is financed by general revenue; one can claim it, regardless of whether he has ever worked and paid taxes.

But this payment, too, is adjusted for price increases between 1967 and the time it is claimed. For example, if you claim the full $75 at age 70 in 1980 and prices by then have increased 10 per cent, you would get an extra $7.50 for a total of $82.50.

Or, if under the same circumstances you claim the $81 at age 65, the price increases will have boosted it by 10 per cent or $8.10 to produce a total payment of $56.10 a month.

The complexities deepen in calculating benefits payable to survivors and contributors who become disabled, unable to work.

Another important feature is the 10-year transition period.

Contributions begin in 1966. But benefits, aside from the Old Age Security payments, do not start until 1977 and even then are payable only for those who are at least 68, and at 10 per cent of the full benefit.

Each year after 1968 the pension-claiming age comes down by one year, and the level of the benefit goes up 10 percentage points. Thus by 1970 a person aged 67 can claim 30 per cent pension and the full 100-per-cent level will be reached in 1999.

There is yet another "adjustment."

Once a person between 65 and 70 starts drawing the contributory pension, he will be allowed to earn in wages or salaries only 1.3 per cent of that year's maximum pensionable, the starting limit of $5,000 that would be $75 a month.

For example, if a person in this way draws over $75 monthly, his pension will be reduced by 50 cents a dollar. If he earnings go over $125 monthly, the pension is reduced by $25—half the difference between $75 and $125.

However, these amounts also are expressed in the bill as proportions of the income ceiling. Thus, in higher income ceiling goes, the more a pensioner will be allowed to earn before having his pension reduced.

Here are some of the other details of the scheme:

It is compulsory for almost all income-earners to contribute.

That can be narrowed down to all the self-employed and all employers and their employees, over 18, including company officers, everywhere in Canada except in a province operating a plan that pays "comparable" retirement pensions and survivors' benefits.

—Members of the armed forces and the RCMP would have their own early-retirement pension plans.

—Any self-employed person who makes less than 1 1-3 times the annual level of exempt earnings, the future is always 12 per cent of maximum annual pensionable earnings. That maximum starts at $5,000 in the basic exemption is $600 and 1 1-3 times that is $800.

—Provincial governments employees, unless their provinces enter an Ottawa agreement to bring them under the federal plan.

—Those who are paid less than $250 annually, or work less than 25 days a year for one employer in farming, logging, trapping, fishing, trapping or hunting.

—Those with jobs "of a casual nature otherwise than for the purpose of the employer's trade or business."

—Employees of foreign governments or international organizations.

—Those working in Canada for a foreign employer whose country has a reciprocal agreement with Canada for exempting such employees.

—Any woman employed by her husband, or vice-versa.

—Members of a religious order who have taken vows of perpetual poverty and have their remuneration paid into their order.

—Exchange teachers from other countries.

—Any others who may be exempted by order-in-council.

ONLY QUEBEC

Excluded from coverage will be any province that says, before the 30th day after the federal plan gets Royal assent, that it will have a comparable plan operating by 1968.

So far only Quebec has decided to have its own scheme.

However, any other provinces would be able to set up its own plan, providing it pays compatible benefits, within four years after the federal plan gets Royal assent.

In that case, the province would have to take over all responsibility for the benefits its residents already had "bought" paying into the federal plan.

Technically, federal civil servants would be under the federal plan. But in practice those working in Quebec will be included in the Quebec plan. The bill provides for such agreements.

What happens to existing private pension plans? An estimated 2,000,000 Canadians — roughly one-third of the non-farm labor force—now are contributing to them in many cases jointly with employers.

The federal legislation is necessarily silent on this score. Supervision of these plans is a constitutional responsibility of the provinces, which recently have been aiming at uniformity.

Thus it will be up to employees and employers to decide, when they are forced to contribute to the federal plan, whether to revise existing private pension plans.

The following white paper suggested these choices:

—Leave the private plan alone; pay into both, draw benefits from both.

—Keep the private plan contribution rate is relatively high, reduce it by the amount of increase under the federal plan, then adjust the private-plan benefits accordingly.

—Adopt a different private-plan benefit formula to reduce adjustments for earnings above and below the Canada Pension Plan ceiling.

—Change the private plans formula and offer a different benefit at, say, age 60. Then reduce that benefit when the Canada Pension Plan benefit begins.

Whatever happens, this much is certain:

The federal plan does not remove anyone's right to bargain collectively for by contributions to a private plan. The money paid into these plans will still be taxed by the Canada Pension Plan.

What are the chances of this plan incurring delay? Most will have to be met from tax revenues.

There is definitely a chance that this could happen. But the bill has attacked heavily against it.

The plan creates a $4,900,000,000 estimated reserve by 1976, during the first 10 years when full benefits are not yet being paid.

Most of that money will be invested in provincial and federal bonds, drawing interest. The reserve itself will decline in later years but there will be investment income flowing into the fund for many years.

This investment income will keep the plan solvent for several years after 1985, when the government has said the contributions at the 3.6-per-cent rate will no longer be enough to pay all benefits.

Hence the predictions that the rate will have to be increased in the late 1980s or 1990s.

As a safeguard, the legislation specifically forbids moving any general government revenues, including tax money, into the pension fund.

In addition, the legislation creates an elaborate actuarial apparatus to find any potential shortfall in the pension fund should be spotted years before it occurs. It is this:

Every five years, the chief actuary in the finance department must forecast the status of the pension plan for each of the 10 years following, as well as for every fifth year for 30 years ahead

If either the government or an opposition MP introduces any amendment to the legislation, the chief actuary is required by law to give his opinion immediately on how the amendment would affect his most recent estimates.

If his forecasts indicate a shortfall in the pension fund, he is required to estimate the contribution rate that would be needed to cover the benefits and leave the fund in balance.

Every year, the government must report on the status of the fund at year-end—what was paid in, paid out, and administrative costs.

In addition, the bill calls for government appointment of a 16-member advisory committee representative of employees, employers, self - employed persons and the public to review "as it deems appropriate" the operation of the act, the state of the fund, and "the adequacy of coverage and benefits."

It won't be easy for any government in future to change the act.

While it is a long-standing constitutional principle that one Parliament cannot bind another, the current Parliament will be asked to write these provisions into the act:

Any future change in the act's provisions on the general level of benefits and contributions cannot take effect until the first day of the third year after Parliament gets notice of the intention to move an amendment.

Even more important is the actual veto power of the provinces.

As soon as the Commons gets any notice of amendment, it must be sent to the provinces.

Any such intended amendment affecting contributions or benefits, administration of the fund or the work of the advisory committee must be approved by two-thirds of the provinces with two-thirds of the population. This is also calculated on June 1 of this year.

The effect of this is that, on the basis of population estimates at June 1 this year, Ontario would have a veto with 34.3 per cent of the population. Quebec with 28.8 per cent could block any amendment with Ontario. The two Western provinces and any two Atlantic provinces except P.E.I.

The legislation is specific on how the money in the fund is to be managed. It contains 16 provisions.

The fund must always have a three-month cash cushion. That is, the minister must determine every month must estimate how much money is needed to pay benefits in the next three months. That much money must be kept in cash. After that amount is deducted from the remaining balance of the fund, the rest is available for buying federal and provincial bonds. The interest is earned on these is paid back into the fund.

Provincial direct or guaranteed bonds have priority. They can be bought, however, only in the amounts necessary to meet pension contributions made by people in that province Thus Quebec is the first province actually excluded. It will save its own plan, its own fund.

PROVINCE'S BONDS FIRST

With Quebec out, Ontario is left with about 48 per cent of the remaining Canadian population. Since Ontario incomes are probably higher than the average of the nine remaining provinces, its contributions may be over half the total. That would mean Ontario would have first call on more than 50 per cent of the reserve in the federal fund, providing it enters the plan.

In any event, the procedure is this: The federal government must strike an amount available for buying the securities of provincial governments in each month end. If no provincial bonds or are offered within 10 days, the fund invests the money in federal bonds.

The minister can cash the federal bonds whenever he pleases, no matter how long to maturity. He can redeem any of the provincial securities on six months' notice.

The interest rate will be fixed by the minister in line with the average yield on federal securities. For example, the provinces would be asked to borrow for 10 years at an interest rate that would be equal to the yield on federal outstanding bonds with about 10 years to maturity.

There are dozens of other important provisions in the bill.

MUST BE PAID

Many of them deal with the revenue department contribution-collection system, basically the system that now collects the Canada Pension Plan contributions. Several clauses deal with the requirement that every contributor must have a Social Insurance Number card.

Specifying that number, each contributor can demand once a year to see his earnings record.

There are penalty provisions on keeping records, confidentially as with tax information. While ministerial powers are included in the bill, along with elaborate provisions for appeals all the way up to the Supreme Court of Canada.

There is no way of knowing how long the pensions bill will remain before the joint parliamentary committee. But it certainly won't be a quick process.

While the principle of the bill debated on second reading was approved 182 to 9 in the Commons, many MPs indicated objections to many of its provisions. Amendments in committee seem certain.

In any event, the procedure is this: The federal government must strike an amount available for buying the securities of provincial governments in each month end. If no provincial bonds or are offered within 10 days, the fund invests the money in federal bonds.

The minister can cash the federal bonds whenever he pleases, no matter how long to maturity. He can redeem any of the provincial securities on six months' notice.

The interest rate will be fixed by the minister in line with the average yield on federal securities. For example, the provinces would be asked to borrow for 10 years at an interest rate that would be equal to the yield on federal outstanding bonds with about 10 years to maturity.

There are dozens of other important provisions in the bill.

MUST BE PAID

Many of them deal with the revenue department contribution-collection system, basically the system that now collects the Canada Pension Plan contributions. Several clauses deal with the requirement that every contributor must have a Social Insurance Number card.

Specifying that number, each contributor can demand once a year to see his earnings record.

There are penalty provisions on keeping records, confidentially as with tax information. While ministerial powers are included in the bill, along with elaborate provisions for appeals all the way up to the Supreme Court of Canada.

There is no way of knowing how long the pensions bill will remain before the joint parliamentary committee. But it certainly won't be a quick process.

While the principle of the bill debated on second reading was approved 182 to 9 in the Commons, many MPs indicated objections to many of its provisions. Amendments in committee seem certain.

Parliament At A Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Commons returned to study of spending estimates of the Justice Department.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) asked the government to make a clean breast of its knowledge of charges of bribery linked to a narcotics case.

He suggested there is a connection between the narcotics case and a charge of murder brought against "a certain Mr. Gignac" in Montreal.

Acting Prime Minister Paul Martin announced Mr. Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec Superior Court will head an inquiry into the matter.

New Democratic Leader Douglas said the government was trying to use the inquiry as a muzzle to prevent debate on the charges.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Justice Minister Favreau lied to the Commons when he rejected the original charges made by Mr. Nielsen.

THURSDAY, Nov. 26

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to continue debate on the justice department estimates. The Senate meets at 3 p.m.

Exhibit of Paintings Highlights St. Joseph's C.W.L. Bazaar

A splendid exhibit of paintings by local artist Phillips Faulkner highlighted the plat-form in St. Joseph's Parish Hall when through the co-operation of the members of the parish a successful tea and bazaar was held yesterday afternoon.

The event was sponsored by the Catholic Women's League under the fine convenership of Mrs. D. V. Duminie and Mrs. E. Clarke who also warmly greeted the guests at the door along with League president, Mrs. C. Murphy and Mrs. G. Faulkner.

Using the League colors of blue, white and gold the decor in the hall was most attractive with each of the windows bearing a gold dusted snowflake with golden or Christmas motifs at strategic points. The sales booths were decorated accordingly with blue and white streamers and highlighted with a Christmas motif. The focal point of interest was the tea table at the far end of the hall covered with dainty lace cloth and centred with an eye-catching arrangement of gold sprayed white baby mums and large poms. Tall golden spiral candles rising from lacey collared silver candelabra and the silver tea services completed the setting. The guest tables covered with white cloths were centred with a dainty golden centrepiece mounted with a "solitaire spiral candle.

FINE PAINTINGS

The many patrons viewed the fine showing of paintings by Phillips Faulkner and these included oil paintings, water colors and etchings with a number of local scenes as well as several Mexican scenes; also a lithograph, a portrait of a little girl and a number of abstract paintings. Two of these which were displayed on the piano were chosen by the Hallmark Greeting Card Company for their Christmas card selection. Another which drew many favorable comments was one entitled "Where the Earth Meets the Sky".

Conveners of the tea room were Mrs. B. Banksy, Mrs. C. Nichols and Mrs. B. P. Selene, while the hostesses who invited the ladies into the tea room were Mrs. Paul Mercier and Mrs. J. A. Keeley. Pouring tea throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Fred Maund, Mrs. W. T. Meagher, Mrs. W. J. Duminie and Mrs. M. J. O'Callaghan.

Leading a colorful accent to the event was the Christmas table with a grand array of Christmas novelties including candles, centrepieces, Yule logs and a number of hat boxes made by the members. The apron table was also a riot of color with many lovely aprons displayed which are so appropriate for gift giving. The knitting table as well as the sewing table had a large assortment of wearing apparel for the younger set with blouses and jumper sets, baby knit sets, mittens and scarves and a number of other items. Here also was a display of lamp shades in many pastel shades. The religious articles table had its usual fine display of prayer books, the Saints, crucifixes, rosaries and other items. The parcel post was well supplied with its many parcels in all shapes and sizes. The homebaking table with an abundant supply of delicacies was well patronized with sometimes lines of three and four deep.

Ladies in charge of the various sales tables were: bake table' Mrs. H. Carr-Brain and Mrs. M. McGee, assisted by Mrs. V. Muldoon and Mrs. J. LaBelle; Christmas table, Mrs. J. Anton, Mrs. J. Belanger and Mrs. L. Briand; parcel post, Mrs. J. Hanley and Mrs. G. Duguerre; knitting, Mrs. G. Filion, Mrs. M. Barlow and Mrs. H. O'Neill; sewing, Mrs. W. Reid, Mrs. P. Clancy, assisted by Mrs. M. Chartrand, Mrs. W. Duminie Sr., Mrs. B. Beehler and Mrs. S. Saunders; religious articles, Mrs. J. Fanting and Miss M. Randal and the apron table, Mrs. J. Marta, Mrs. L. McCarthy, Mrs. E. Anderson and Mrs. M. Meagher.

OTHERS ASSISTING

A number of other ladies in the league assisted in the serving and replenishing of the refreshments. In charge of ticket sales for the afternoon was Mrs. G. Bell, assisted by Mrs. R. Ledue.

Tickets for the various draws were in charge of Mrs. J. Ellard, assisted by Mrs. W. Kelly and Mr. J. Bibby with the winners of these as follows: door prize was number 487466; and other draw winners were: Miss Linda Chartrand, Mrs. P. Beary, Father McAvoy and two prizes won by Mrs. W. Reid.

The convener of the bazaar, Mrs. Duminie, felt that all members of the parish had worked doubly hard for this event in tribute to the memory of the late Father J. J. Buckley who died recently as the result of a car accident.

Susanna's Family Fare

THE DREAMER

Dear Susanna: I would like to make some candles for Christmas this year, but find that the method of tossing food coloring red and green crayons into the melted wax for color does not work too well — the shades are not deep enough to be really festive. Do hope you can tell me how to doctor up these pale hues. — Joy McIntosh

Of course, if you have old red or green candles, these would be ideal to melt down. But if you are using white paraffin wax, you will be happy to know that you can buy what is known as a color bud — local department stores usually carry them. You just shave off as much coloring as you wish for each batch. True, rich color ensues.

Homemade decorator candles have come in really big this year, and no one can deny that nothing is so romantic as dimming the lights and dining or relaxing by candlelight. The gleam you see in father's eye might even be an amorous one, although he's most likely dreaming and scheming about the new curling broom or sport shirt he's going to buy with the reduction in this month's hydro bill!

. . . and don't be upset if you are confused about making your first candle. You're most welcome to the few pages of elementary instructions I have. They will help you get started, and who knows, you may have a small bit or suggestion you might like to send to me when you are writing! — SUSANNA LINT HIVY

Dear Susanna: To lend your carpet sweeper a real assist with the job of picking up lint from rugs, try dampening the roller brush slightly with water just before you start. — Freda Simmons.

Rough Riders' Majorette Heading for Last Game

OTTAWA (CP) — Annabelle Boucher, high - stepping head majorette of the Ottawa Rough Riders baton-twirling corps for nine years, will hand up her baton for good after the Grey Cup parade in Toronto Nov. 28.

The attractive 22 - year - old brunette is retiring from the football field to devote full time to her job as a dental nurse.

"It's been a lot of fun but I feel I'm getting a little old for twirling."

A member of the majorette corps since she was 14, Annabelle now is the oldest member of the group, its leader for the last seven years.

She has also been a baton-twirling instructor at Marjorie Bishop's School for six years but now that she is working full time she finds it difficult to get to classes and to practice sessions with the majorette corps. It practices twice a week and also on Saturday if there is a Canadian Football League game in Ottawa.

The corps has grown from 12 members to its present 36 girls since Annabelle joined in 1955. Miss Bishop is the group's choreographer but has always welcomed Miss Boucher's assistance.

Annabelle says she won't stop being a Rough Rider fan. And while it will seem strange not to be out on the field, another member of the family will still be there. Her father, Ray Boucher, is a veteran football referee.

St. Andrew's Bazaar Features Unusual Decorating Effects

Dark blues and greens were the colors used for a most unusual decorative scheme at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Wednesday afternoon when the Women's Guild held their annual bazaar and tea.

The table centre was composed of three long-stemmed green goblets of varying lengths holding floating lighted candles. A flower arrangement was made up of marvex lilacs, blue petunias, pale blue 'mums, a flower called "Candle of Our Lord", and green ferns. Pouring tea from the silver services at the two tea tables were Mrs. G. A. Freeman, Mrs. R. Strachan, Mrs. R. Mott, Mrs. G. Shaw, Mrs. C. Argue, Mrs. H. Scott, Mrs. N. Hutchinson, Mrs. J. Allin, Mrs. J. Darvell, Mrs. J. Craig, Mrs. E. Hall and Mrs. J. Bigg.

All the posts in the tearoom glittered with metallic dark blue and green snowflakes, and these were repeated across the back wall of the room and across the front of the platform.

SUBDUED RICHNESS

Two seven-branched candelabra holding blue and green candles glowed at each side of the platform and flanked a painted Christmas tree. Across the back of the hall were giant candles again in dark blue and green shades, and the windows were covered with paper drapes in the same shades. Three metallic spinners in bird cage design were hung at the front of the room.

The small tables around the room were centred with poly candle holders in glittering blue and green each with bachelor button bouquets tied with blue ribbons. The whole room had a subdued richness and sparkle that was most attractive. Those responsible for the unique decorations were Mrs. T. Anger, Mrs. R. Sine, Mrs. R. Strachan and Mrs. W. McCreary.

The bazaar was officially opened by Rev. W. H. V. Walker, assistant minister of the church in Mr. Allin's absence and a warm welcome from the president of the Guild, Mrs. G. Durno, and Mrs. A. L. Sutherland, wife of the minister of St. Andrew's.

BOOTHS WELL PATRONIZED

The various booths were well patronized by a fine crowd, and many unusual items as well as the tried and true articles that proved in demand other years, found ready customers.

The Harmony group with convener Mrs. J. Robertson and co-convener Mrs. H. Williamson had a wide variety of home baking to tempt appetites, and if their needs could not be met there, the Friendship group was right next, convened by Mrs. S. L. Morison with delicatessan food ready for the table. To add the sweet touch the Happy Hour group made candy with Mrs. W. Mantle and Mrs. W. J. Mills conveying.

Aprons were in charge of the Loyal group with Mrs. H. Arnott convener and Mrs. H. Yorke and Mrs. G. Bunting co-conveners. The cotton her was looked after by the Sunshine Group, Mrs. Allan McCreary, and co-convened by Mrs. Lois Watson and co-convener Mrs. Kay Wilson; and the children's work was convened by Mrs. Allan McCreary, and co-convener Mrs. Mable Kempston of the Welcome group.

Mrs. N. Williamson and Mrs. R. White assisted by other members of the Guild arranged the attractive plates for the tea room; and Mrs. J. Browning and Mrs. D. Kane convened the kitchen arrangements.

The nursery was supervised by Mrs. J. Allin with the assistance of Mrs. Holler, Mrs. McKay and Beverley Scott.

Looking after the sale of tickets at the door were Mrs. McConnell, Miss L. Burnside and Mrs. H. Elvidge, treasurer of the guild.

Mrs. Hugh G. McKay was general convener for this successful bazaar, assisted by convener Mrs. R. Strachan, and all the members of the Guild whose accomplishments went into its achievement.

Home and School News

MADOC — The second Home and School Association meeting was held in the public school Monday evening. Mr. Ron Smith, chairman, welcomed everyone and called upon the secretary, Mrs. Lance McNab to read the last minutes. Mrs. Douglas Pogue gave the treasurer's report which also was accepted.

Miss Conner, grade one teacher, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Eve Moore, the local librarian. Mrs. Moore began her topic by explaining membership fees and grants. Yearly the village gave $400, the county $150, Provincial approximately $300 and the local Kiwanis and Woman's Institute $50 each. Along with subscriptions, fines and a tag day, the yearly budget ran around $1,500.

She remarked that although the village was responsible for the upkeep of the outside of the library, all other expenses, such as heat, hydro, librarian and assistant salaries were paid from the budget.

Membership for children and students between seventeen years was still 50 cents a year with adults $1.50.

Membership roll for children in the village and area was now standing in the 300 mark, but it was declared that the adult interest was needed as only 83 were subscriber members. It was hoped with the new centennial project to build an additional room so that in the future there would be a room each for children and adults, thus creating more interest in reading.

Mrs. Moore explained the centennial project and of its financial support by the government and the local canvass, which would have to close by March 1.

She concluded her interesting talk with a description of the many books available for all ages and of the reading material for slow readers.

Mrs. Brett expressed on behalf of all present, her appreciation and said how fortunate Madoc was in having a competent and helpful librarian.

Mr. J. Murphy, principal, then called the attendance, Miss Conner for the next month will hold the banner.

Membership fees were then called for. The meeting was adjourned, followed by a time of conversation with the teachers.

Liquid Embroidery Demonstrated at FWTAO Meet

The November meeting of Federated Women Teachers Association Ontario was held at the Mildred J. Corke, School, Albury, with Mrs. Norma Huffman as hostess. Mrs. Marjorie Faulkner, the president called the meeting to order. Mrs. Faulkner welcomed the guests to the meeting.

The February conference on education is to be held in the Westbury Hotel the weekend of the 20th. Mrs. Wait and Mrs. Halvorsen will be delegates at that time.

Mrs. Gladys McFaul gave an interesting report of the F.W.T.A.O. annual meeting held in the Royal Yorke Hotel in Toronto in August. Miss Mary Huff had recently attended the Ontario Association Curriculum Development conference in Toronto at which time the topic had been, "Education and Change".

One of the excellent speakers was Dr. Richard Foster of California, an eminent education-list. Miss Huff mentioned the excellent group discussions, both Friday evening and Saturday. At the conference banquet on Saturday evening the speaker was Rev. Richard Jones, executive secretary, Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

On December 3rd the annual Christmas pot-luck supper will be held at Consecon. Each teacher is asked to take two articles of food and a 50-cent gift to exchange.

Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Bates from Toronto demonstrated Artex Paints—liquid embroidery. Mrs. Hoffman welcomed these ladies; also a number of visitors from the various school sections and the Women's Institute who had been asked to join with members.

Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Hope explained the use of the Artex paints and demonstrated many beautiful finished articles.

Each person was given a small piece of stamped work to paint and take home. Catalogues were sold listing the various paints, designs and some materials which may be ordered.

An appetizing lunch was served by the hostess and her committee.

Mrs. Douglas Redner thanked the hostess Mrs. Huffman; also Mrs. Langman, a board member for assisting Mrs. Huffman.

Many Women and Teen-agers Fight Move to Ban Bikinis

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Australian mothers' groups are demanding a ban on bikinis—especially the new abbreviated ones — on Melbourne beaches during the approaching Australian summer.

But teen-age girls and, in some cases, adult women are fighting the move.

Mrs. C. A. Hamilton, secretary of the Federation of Catholic Mothers' Clubs in Victoria state, said recently: "We want the ban imposed to protect the morals of our youth."

Her 18,000-member group has petitioned 19 county councils to ban the bikini from all of Melbourne's bayside beaches.

Mrs. Hamilton said the federation has become seriously concerned at recent advertisements offering for sale "even more abbreviated bikinis."

"We believe there is absolutely nothing—or just a mere covering—to the tops of these bikinis," she added.

Mrs. Hamilton has gained support from the National Council of Women of Victoria. Mrs. C. M. C. Frost, president of the council, said that some of the "very brief bikinis" were definitely "unsavory."

"We blame our boys for a lot", Mrs. Frost added. "But in some cases it is the girls who should get the blame."

One of the girls at suburban St. Kilda Beach, nurse Eunice Petch, 25, said: "Why be dowdy when you have the figure for what's fashionable?"

Two suburban East Melbourne sisters, Mary and Margaret Burge, aged 20 and 16, respectively, said they won't stop wearing bikinis.

Mary, a university art student, said: "I refuse to believe that morals degenerate at the sight of a girl in a brief bathing costume."

Margaret, still in high school, added: "I shall continue to wear a bikini. If my mother does not object to it, that's all right with me."

Another teen-ager, Barbara Gerrard, 15, said: "The only thing wrong with bikinis is in people's minds. . ."

But one's mother, Mrs. Evan Gerrard, added: "I entirely approve of my daughter wearing a bikini. I'm going to get one for myself.

QUEEN'S CADDY SOLD

KING'S LYNN, England (CP) — A 300-yearold tortoiseshell tea caddy owned by Queen Mother Elizabeth fetched £19 at a sale of antiques at this Norfolk centre. The sale raised £900 towards the £50,000 needed for restoration of the town's medieval Thoresby College.

Ann Landers

Home Movies Are Usually Boring for Outsiders

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband told me last night that from now on he flatly refuses to look at any more home movies. He said the next time this thing is visited on him he is walking out of the house — no matter whose it is. Frankly, after last night I can't blame him.

ANN LANDERS

We were invited to what we thought was a dinner party. When we arrived, the host was serving cocktails. Promptly at 7:30 p.m. (no food in sight — not even a cracker) the host hauled out the projection equipment. Twenty of us were literally trapped in the basement for three solid hours looking at home movies.

The movies were of their kids, their trips, parades and what have you. It went back to 1936 and even took in his career in the Army. The equipment went on the bum several times and the film tore. Some of the men got dead drunk in self-defence. I was so hungry my head was breaking. My husband was practically frothing at the mouth.

How can people protect themselves against this sort of thing? Please advise. — PARALYZED EYEBALLS.

DEAR EYEBALLS — Some home movies are great entertainment — for those who are interested. A host and hostess who plan such an evening should inform the guests in advance. Guests who are not forewarned should use their heads and sit in the back of the room — near a door.

If you leave (quietly) phone the hostess the next day and say, "We don't care for home movies." I doubt that you'll be invited for a second showing.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have not mentioned this to my folks yet because they both have pretty hot tempers and I don't know how they'll take it. I am a boy, 18, who has been going with a girl who is 16. This girl has been nagging me to get married but I am too young to take on the responsibilities of marriage and I have told her so a dozen times.

Last night we had another big argument over this and I was doing just fine until her father and brother got into the act. They said I no longer have a choice, on account of her condition (if you know what I mean.)

Will you please tell me the score?—RATHER CONCERNED.

DEAR RATHER — I know precisely what you mean. And this is a fine time to be asking the score.

No one can force you to marry the girl if you do not want to. In fact I am opposed to marriages under such conditions unless both parties want very much to get married.

You are obliged to pay the girl's medical bills and support the child if she decided she wants to keep the child. You are, of course, financially responsible for the child until he is of legal age.

If your father will not (or cannot) help you meet this obligation you may have to quit school and go to work. This is a stunning price to pay for foolishness. (Are you listening, students?)

AOTS Men's Club Holds Ladies' Night

WELLINGTON—On Thursday evening, Wellington A.O.T.S. held their annual Ladies Night in Bloomfield United Church Hall. President Ken Lane called the meeting to order. Around 80 men and women sat down to a delicious turkey supper served by the Bloomfield ladies.

Sam Yount, Doug McBorie and Andrew Allison were appointed sergeants-at-arms and collected a considerable amount in fines.

Lewis Wight proposed a toast to the ladies and Mrs. Harry Pierson responded. Everett Lavender thanked the Bloomfield ladies for a tasty meal.

Keith Rubbard led in an enjoyable sing-song, after which Frank Brimley gave an inspiring devotional.

President Ken Lane introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Gerald Boyce, a history teacher from Moira Secondary School, Belleville. As president of Hastings County Historical Society, Mr. Boyce showed slides on the early history of Belleville and vicinity.

Keith Rubbard read the report of the nominating committee as follows: president, Lewis Wight; vice-president, William Johnston; secretary, Bruce Elliott; treasurer, Clifford Young; program, Charlie Tobias; membership, Clifford Morris; projects, Arnold Foster; publicity, Doug McBorie; boys and youths, Don Pettingell.

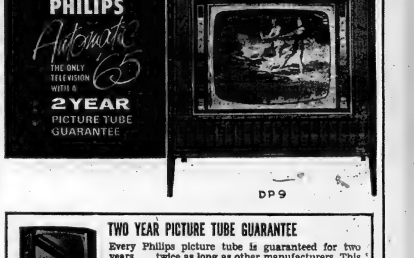
Squadronettes Hear Reports of Recent Meets

A meeting of the Bay of Quinte Squadronettes was held recently at the home of Mrs. H. B. McCulloch, Massanga Road.

Commander June Reid, conducted the meeting and guided the group through a brisk discussion on plans for the coming year.

Mrs. McCulloch gave an interesting report on two meetings she attended recently, one in Toronto in October and one in Elmira, New York, which took place earlier this month. She also displayed a number of items of interest to boating people, in particular a cook book containing many recipes for on board cooking.

In summing up the business of the meeting Commander Reid noted that although methods of approach may change the fundamental aims of the Squadronettes in teaching and practicing safe boating remains the same.



"When I said I was a bill collector, madam—I had something else in mind."

U.C.W. Meeting

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown United Church Women held their yearly missionary meeting on Sunday evening at the church with a fine attendance. Guests were present from Stockdale, Frankford and N. Trenton.

Mr. David Ling of N. Borneo and Mr. Al McDowell were guest speakers. The quartet from Queensboro charge also contributed to the program.

Mr. Ling told of the churches in N. Borneo where one minister has four or five charges. Mr. Ling has been in Canada only a year but speaks the English language fluently.

Mr. Al McDowell, a psychology student of Waterloo University is at Queen's University taking business administration. Both of these students were brought by the Johnstown pastor Brien Thrasher from Queen's where the three attend.

Mr. McDowell sold books on the work which the United Church is doing in Kingston Penitentiary, compiled by a group of the inmates and Protestant chaplain, with permission of the warden, called "A year in the life of the Chapel at the top of the stairs". The Chapel is at the top of the stairs and of past years it was a drab place, but now it has a new look following decoration by the inmates. Once every two weeks Mr. Thrasher goes down with the Theological College choir and joins the penitentiary choir for the service. A Christmas party is being arranged for them this year the first to be allowed in this institution.

They have a good library with a number of books donated.

Home and School News

BAYSIDE H. AND S.

Bayside Home and School Association met in the Bayside school on Thursday, Nov. 19.

Mrs. James Palmer introduced Rev. James Smith of Hobart, Tasmania. Mr. Smith came to Canada to attend the Anglican Congress that was held in Toronto. He is staying in Belleville for some time as a minister at Christ Church.

The speaker described the geography of Australia with the use of maps, and gave a short history as well. He compared Tasmania with Prince Edward Island—the former is the larger island, but they both have the rich red soil. A great part of Australia is waste land with most of the population confined to the larger cities. The temperature is much warmer than ours and snow is seldom seen except on the mountain tops.

TAUGHT BY RADIO

School children in remote areas are taught by radio. Australia is the largest wool producing country in the world. Mr. Smith illustrated his talk with the use of colored slides which he had taken himself in Australia and Tasmania. Mrs. W. Cassidy thanked the speaker.

Mrs. H. Hennessy, president of the association, took charge of the meeting. She informed those present that Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Cassidy are the new program conveners. George Miller was presented with a gift by the president on behalf of the members. Mr. Miller was president for three years, and a member of the executive for two years as well. He thanked the members for the gift.

NEW SCHOOL

The new school, north of the present Bayside school, will be officially opened on November 28th. The public will be invited to attend.

Mrs. Hennessy urged the members to attend the meeting at Wallbridge on November 27, for the purpose of nominating trustees of the new district school board.

Everyone was asked to think of future projects and a suggestion box will be provided. Mrs. Robson's room won the room prize for the most parents in attendance.

Aging Man Takes Out Frustrations on Wife

DEAR DORIS — I am 69 and in good enough health to accept jobs at practical nursing from time to time. Unfortunately I married late in life and ill-advisedly.

My husband is now 78 and still vigorous. The problem is he never seems to get tired enough for sleep. He keeps me awake arguing and then denying what I have already told him — that his memory is failing terribly. Then he calls me a liar, which I find very hard to bear.

I've tried taking no notice and pretend to be asleep, when I receive a big, unkind poke. He is oversexed too. What can I do? — MOST DISTRESSED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DISTRESSED — His anger and insults reflect his frustrations. He simply cannot accept what he vaguely suspects: that he is slipping. He is really angry against life itself, but takes it out on you.

Your doctor can help. Can help your husband to relax, and you to bear him. Practical measures, like separate rooms, should not be overlooked!

Prime Minister Wilson Gives Decisive Boost To Women in Govt.

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson should get a vote of gratitude from the fair sex of Britain. Barely in the 36 hours since British women got the vote on equal terms with men has a government given such a decisive boost to female brains.

After decades of being thought vaguely repellent by the British male, women eggheads may be coming into their own.

Not only has Wilson appointed an unprecedented seven women to office in his administration—including a cabinet minister, three other ministers and the first-ever woman whip—but the wives of many of his top men present an astonishing array of talent in their own right.

Britain has never been a fertile ground for women intellectuals, unlike France or the United States. Apart from a brief burst of female talent in the 1900s—when the suffragettes only drew attention to the movement for women's rights—the arts and politics of this tight little island have been dominated by men.

British women today offer no famed and brilliant figure like France's Simone de Beauvoir or America's Mary McCarthy, except possibly novelist and philosophy don Iris Murdoch. Significantly, perhaps, she is tipped as a member of Labor's future Establishment.

WELCOMES CHANGES

Cabinet minister Barbara Castle, the dynamic, 53-year-old redhead who heads the new department for overseas development, says Wilson believes women have been under-represented in politics. She welcomes the change.

"I do think a woman in office probably needs more nervous energy and drive than a man, because it's still a conscious act of emancipation for a man to include a woman in his government."

Mrs. Castle, who is married to a journalist but who has no children, is only the fourth woman to hold cabinet rank in Britain. The first was Margaret Bondfield, minister of labor in the 1929 socialist government led by Ramsay MacDonald. Ellen Wilkinson was parliamentary minister in the post-war Attlee administration. Wilson also has a woman in this post, Mary Saret Herbison, but not in the cabinet.

The only woman to figure in a Conservative cabinet was Florence Horsburgh, health minister in the 1951 Churchill government.

Could it be that socialism provides a better seedbed for feminine brains than a Tory regime?

Alice Bacon, Wilson's minister of state at the home office, says Labor selection committees look with favor on women as parliamentary candidates. On the other hand there's a widespread feeling that Tory committees tend to prefer men.

Women have also been traditionally influential in shaping socialist ideas. Beatrice Webb of the early Fabian Society is matched today by Shirley Williams, a former member of the society and Labor's chief backroom girl. Mrs. Williams, daughter of Prof. George Catlin of McGill University and left-wing novelist Vera Brittain, now graces the government benches as member for Hitchin, Hertfordshire, after a spectacular upset victory in the Oct. 15 election.

CONTRAST STRIKING

The new ministerial wives contrast strikingly with the aristocratic women who behind the former Tory leaders. Mary Wilson, the prime minister's wife, is something of an exception in being a retiring homebody. Many of the others lead successful careers in local government, journalism or freelance writing. One is a dentist; another a well-known commercial artist; two more collaborated last year on a West End musical.

Almost all are politically minded, though not aggressive feminists.

Oxford - educated Elizabeth Longford, wife of the lord privy seal, Lord Longford, and mother of eight, recently published a highly praised biography of Queen Victoria and now is working on the Duke of Wellington.

Caroline Wedgwood Benn, wife of the postmaster-general, is a novelist and Susan Barnes, married to the junior economics minister, Anthony Crosland, a top byline writer on The Sun. Both were educated at Anna Ic's elite Vassar College.

Crosland minister Anthony Sampson, writing as "Pendennis" in the weekly Observer, asks: "Do people who become Labor legislators just naturally choose intelligent wives? Or is it the intelligent wives who make them ministers?"

He suggests Labor wives get a better intellectual break from their husbands than Tory wives because without clubs, nannies or cooks, socialists "just have to talk to their wives—they're too homebound to avoid them."

Women's Institutes

CHATTERTON W.I.

The historical meeting of Chatterton W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Gardner with a good attendance.

The president opened the meeting in the usual manner, followed in the business part of meeting was a letter offering the groups a fund raising project in selling spoons which was voted down; a letter from the Dept. of Agriculture offering books and pamphlets free of charge to anyone wishing to obtain such; a request for accepts for adopted child.

Mrs. Gerald Irvine arranged the program which included a parade of costumes of earlier years. Among this display was a wedding dress of Royal blue velvet with a high neck inset, tiers of white, stenciled to hold shape and fully lined; also a costume of gay color with a frill skirt set with hoops and button-up boots with bonnet to match dress. Other articles were nightgown, capes, lace blouse, aprons, hats and other.

To add to the era of costumes, a few articles were on display: charcoal iron dated around 1806; a mourning ring of gold with plated hair surrounded by pearls. This dated around 1800; an ink bottle, Staffordshire printed in 1853; a pair of spoons believed to be 300 years old. These were of pewter which had been poured into clay moulds; last writings of Dr. Chase which included all the recipes and remedies for human and animal ailments; dolls, pictures, etc.

Pictures were taken of the costumed ladies and display of articles. Following the singing of some old favorites, Nicky Gardner sang several numbers and Mrs. MacIsaac gave a reading.

Mrs. Irving gave a reading on canning and preserving in 1899. With today's housewife having all of today's labor saving devices and food proof recipes it is a far cry from the old days of 1899.

In 1899 they cooked on black iron cook stoves which needed constant refueling. During the morning season it was a rather warm task.

Today's housewife has it comparatively easy when she can go to the corner store for a pkg. of jam or tin of peaches, etc.

Several contests were enjoyed and the meeting closed.

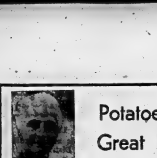
Refreshments consisting of bean soup, warm rolls, tea and cookies were served.

IVANHOE W.I.

The October meeting was "Family Night" with a pot luck supper and short program later. The November meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Mae Ferguson Huntingdon with 22 ladies present. President, Mrs. Vinnicombe welcomed everyone. Correspondence dealt with, and a small donation given to the Girls' Club.

The convener of the meeting, Mrs. E. Tuinman based her topic on Health and gave a paper on "Floridation". After the closing exercises the hostess and assistants served lunch and coffee.

Club Activities



IVANHOE SUPPER CLUB

At the recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. Harry Behan, discussion took place regarding what the members would take to Achievement Day which is to be held at the Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc on December 5th.

It was requested that all record books should be handed in, along with recipe files with names on each one.

Group work at the meeting was a dish suitable for dinner, which each girl brought, and the proper setting of the table.

Home assignment was to finish record sheets and books.

Potatoes Have Great Potential

By MARY MOORE

Potatoes are in good supply and economical. I have an idea that will 1) help you keep your budget on an even keel during Christmas season 2) save you time season 2) Christmas rush is on and 3) supply a delectable vegetable for family and guests. This idea is to bake and make and freeze stuffed potatoes. I did this and last night took 4 direct from freezer, put them in oven at 400 deg. Fahr. for ½ hour and they were lovely. After 20 minutes' baking I sprinkled two with grated cheese for variety's sake and they were good.

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES:

Scrub 4 large potatoes of uniform size until thoroughly clean. Prick well with fork. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for one hour or until very tender. (They must be tender or they will not bake up perfectly smooth.) Cut in halves crosswise if potatoes are very large. If potatoes are medium large cut a wide slice from top of each. Scoop out centres into heater bowl, being careful not to break skins. Beat until smooth, adding gradually ½ cup hot milk in which you have melted 2 tablespoons butter. Add 1 teaspoon salt and continue beating until velvet smooth. If desired a little sour cream may be added at this stage. Refill shells.

NOTE:

1) If these stuffed potatoes are to be used for the current meal reheat in oven at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. If desired sprinkle with grated cheese during last few minutes. 2) If to be frozen, double these amounts if desired and wrap carefully in foil and freeze hard separately in freezer, then store in freezer bags in freezer for future use (see above).

EMEM'S POTATO SOUP (to serve 6):

Potato Soup is often called Hot or Cold Vichyssoise and Parmentier. This method could be called either and featured as a first course at a great meal. Our mother made it for us when we were sick. As a little girl when I had "quinsy" and she brought potato soup to me in bed I knew I was being lovingly coddled.

4 medium potatoes, 2 cups boiling water, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 slices side bacon, chopped, ½ Spanish onion, chopped, 4 chicken bouillon cubes, 1 cup 10% cream, 1½ cups whole milk.

Wash, pare, quarter and boil the potatoes in the boiling water in which the salt has been added, until very tender. Place strainer over bowl and push potatoes through it, including cooking water. While potatoes cook, gently saute together in large frying pan the bacon and onion until both are limp and cooked but not brown — about 8 to 7 minutes. Add bouillon cubes, pureed potatoes and their liquid and mix well and heat through being sure bouillon cubes dissolve. Add cream and milk and heat through to just below boiling point. If desired serve sprinkled with a little finely chopped parsley.

Use a large, fluffy powder puff to dust flour on a pastry board.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

FIRST VISIT TO AN ART GALLERY

"CULTURE" SHOULDN'T BE FLAUNTED

As an example of unintentional poor taste, take the "culture" bit. It can get to be a bit too much for the comfort of others.

I say "unintentional" because this doesn't refer to the notorious type known as the intellectual snobs. His eagerness to prove his cultural superiority over lesser mortals often proves more bonesome than awesome.

On the other hand, a bit of knowledge, or culture, in some case, can get you into difficulty with friends who either are not ready for your advanced tastes or whose interests run in a different direction — and not necessarily down hill.

While you may not be the kind of person who flaunts his knowledge, often it just seems to come out that way.

Let's say you're a record collector. Perhaps you add an album a week to your collection. As you glibly describe the the Beethoven, Brahms and Sibelius records on your shelf, have you ever thought that the other person might not even own a record-player?

Shakespeare is one of your major interests, and you can quote line after line from his plays. You have just seen a revival of "Hamlet." Now you are eager to talk about the acting and the beauty of the production with a friend who has also seen the film, but, the moment you press the issue, she has to admit she didn't get a thing out of it and didn't understand the whole thing, really.

BE CONSIDERATE

Be considerate, and know where to stop.

A famous symphony orchestra is giving a concert in your area and you enthusiastically go about forming a group for one of the concerts. But the person on the other end of the phone digs the Beatles or "Music To See a Football Game By" and has no intention of digging any further.

There are people — normal, fun-loving, intelligent people — who wouldn't be caught dead, or even sleeping, at a poetry reading, an art exhibition or a dance recital.

They're intelligent enough to confess that these exotic activities may represent the best in culture and art, but, try as they might, they can't develop a strong appreciation. So they do other things that give them pleasure.

Your efforts to make them join in your pursuits, or your lofty conversation on subjects beyond their interests, may unfortunately give them a feeling of intellectual insufficiency.

A person of real culture never does that.

Ward 2—George Whalen; Ward 3—Ernest John Reed, Paul E. Fleming; Ward 4—Wm. John Flynn, Paul G. Wahl; Ward 5—R. J. Locy, James M. Tobin; Ward 6—M. J. Collins, J. A. Wells; Ward 7—James Culligan.

When nominations closed at 8.30 p.m., eight of the proposed aldermanic challengers had qualified—six of them incumbents.

TWO NEW CHALLENGERS

Soden and McKinney emerged as the first challengers against David, Deacon, Harrison, Brown, Allin and Murray.

The seventh alderman who had not signified his intentions last night was George Wishart.

Mr. McKinney is a city realtor. Mr. Soden, a public accountant in business life, is an active personality in local sports organizations.

Public Utilities Commissioner Harry Rollins also qualified for another election bid which, if successful, would give him 15 years' service on the commission. Mr. Smith, the only man to place his name against the veteran's, did not qualify last night.

Unless there are last minute withdrawals before tonight's deadline, separate school trustee slips will be contested in wards 1, 3, 4 and 6.

The display of public disinterest in the nominations was underscored by the public trusteeships. Five minutes from the 8.30 p.m. closing, no names had even been put forward for wards 1 and 6. A last minute bustle about the council chamber and the adjacent hallway sent the more publicly-spirited in search of willing personalities to fill the vacancies. Otherwise, a new nomination meeting was necessary.

SHARP CONTRAST

Finally, with less than two minutes left, the names of George Rutledge and former alderman W. T. Elliott were chalked up for wards 1 and 6 respectively.

This was in sharp contrast to last year when 20 men and women were nominated for council, four for mayor and seven for Public Utilities.

Last night's slate was even without any apparent "nonsense nominations," which raised a ruckus between city clerk Stalker and Utilities Commissioner Rollins.

Mr. Stalker's dogged stand seems to have ended what was almost a cherished Belleville tradition—having one's name posted on the nomination slate for publicity purposes only.

Last night's last line-up was a testimonial to Mr. Stalker's success in enforcing the official rules. There were few — if any—who did not seriously consider seeking public office, before posting their nominations.

By noon today Mr. Carruthers was the only other nominee to have qualified for the aldermanic contest.

2nd Sidney

2ND OF SIDNEY — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Holland and boys spent the weekend at Detroit with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrow.

Mr. William Field arrived home from France on Tuesday after two months stay there.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers and Mr. Howard Meyers of Trenton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dunn at Colborne.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jeffery, Sharon and Mr. Dennis Monroe visited their friend, Mr. Ernest Andrews in Oshawa Hospital on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank White, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis were noon guests of their old neighbor Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smrz of Bramalea recently.

A 50th wedding anniversary was celebrated on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Clement of Belleville at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clement. There were 25 guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reid spent the weekend at Toronto with his brother and her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reid.

Mrs. Clifford Dunn and Mrs. Alva Meyers were callers of Mrs. Harry Coutts at Brighton on Sunday afternoon at the rest home.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clement of Kingston were weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clement Sr.

The Bay of Quinte Institute sponsored a card party on Friday evening at Harder's School. There were six tables of euchre. Those winning prizes were ladies high, Mrs. Ritchie Ketchenson; ladies low, Mrs. John Reid; men's high, Frank White; low, John Reid; lone hand, Clayton Curtis. The conveners of this party were Mrs. Morris Sickle and Mrs. Harold Dickens.

radio stations at 2:23 a.m. EST, apparently by the 20-ton Shalom. About the same time, coast guard radio operations heard this international distress signal: S O S. They believed it came from the tanker.

Later, the radio operator of the Soft Dagali sent this message:

"Collided with liner in dense fog . . . ship cut in two. Do not know what happened to other part. Ten persons on fore part. Thirty-three persons on after part. Need immediate assistance."

Lifeboats from the Shalom picked up five survivors from the tanker. The liner, her bow extensively damaged, turned back to New York.

The first person brought to shore was a woman patient from the Shalom, reported to be suffering from extensive internal bleeding. The Shalom, which has doctors aboard, did not say whether she became ill or was injured in the collision.

Provincial Police Probing Series of Break-ins in Area

PICTON (Staff) — The latest in a series of break-ins in the Picton area took place some time Tuesday night in the De-Groff store in Bloomfield. Prowlers entered the building through a window in a back shed of the store. Missing are numerous articles, cigarettes, cigars, chocolate, gum, a watch, cigarette lighters and strangely enough a pair of women's black slippers.

A truck belonging to Murney Howe of Bloomfield was noticed missing early Wednesday and found by Provincial Police abandoned on Ridge Road. It is not known whether or not the theft of the truck is connected with the break-in or not. Over last weekend there was a break in at the Elks' Hall where goods valued at $8.98 were taken. Entry was made here by breaking a glass in the door. St. Gregory's Hall was entered last week as well. Though the hall was ransacked apparently in search of money, nothing was taken. Entry was gained through a rear window where a heavy iron mesh had been removed.

Douglas Carter reported that his boathouse had been entered and that two sleeping bags and a radar light were taken. Value of the articles was estimated at $62.75. Provincial police have also been investigating a break in at Merle Pearsall's cottage on Gleeson's Road. A window was smashed and some small appliances including a vacuum cleaner and a toaster were missing. Last week Mason's department store in Napanee was entered and merchandise valued at about $5,000 was taken. Entrance was gained through a rear basement door. The thieves seemed to know exactly what they wanted. Loot included men's fine pants, cardigans and jackets and only certain sizes were removed from racks. It is believed that the thieves may have been the same as those who recently broke into Lipson's store in Picton and stole a quantity of women's coats. Walker Thompson of Thompson's Wholesale in Trenton last week also reported theft of goods valued at between seven and nine thousand dollars from a building on Carrying Place Road. Items included appliances and radios. A hole was seen through the roof to gain entry into the warehouse.

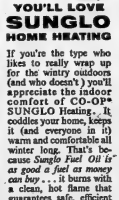
Jail Terms Handed Out In Police Court



PICTON (Staff) — 18-year-old John Lewis of R. R. 6 Picton was fined $25 and costs of $20 in Magistrate's court on Wednesday morning. Lewis, who pleaded not guilty of a careless driving charge, was defended by William Lane. Lewis was charged on August 28 when he pulled across the highway in front of an oncoming vehicle driven by Capt. Francis S. Dowe of Cobourg. The Lewis car, a 1960 Singer, crashed into the left side of the 1963 Acadian driven by Dowe at the entrance to the Picton drive-in theatre. Mrs. Dowe, who was a passenger along with their two children, was badly injured in the accident.

Hubert A. Cross, age 36, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a charge of joy-riding when he took a truck belonging to Louie Rondeau on the 7th of Picton on November 17. He had a previous long record but in view of the behavior in court, the latest Magistrate T. Y. Wills said that obviously an attempt had been made to better himself. Cross was sentenced to one month in common jail.

William Hudgins, charged with theft of a 40 p.m. outboard motor from Rest Haven Home in Picton, was again remanded for sentence for a period of one week, while Magistrate acquaints himself with the accused's past record and other facts pertaining to the case. Hudgins earlier pleaded guilty to the charge.

Ernest J. Parks was charged with littering, pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs. Alan Hyatt charged with driving while intoxicated, speeding and having was sentenced to 14 days in the common jail. David Marshall also charged with driving while intoxicated was sentenced to one month in common jail in view of previous offences.

Windbreaks Needed

Protecting Quinte's Fields

By E. P. EDSON
Dept. of Lands and Forests
Tweed District

The land on the shores of Lake Ontario has been settled for over 150 years, and while it never could compare in fertility with the rich, deep soils of the Niagara Peninsula and of the Prairies it has yielded good crops to generations of farmers.

To protect their fields many farmers of the Quinte area started planting windbreaks or shelterbelts similar to those established in years past in Niagara Peninsula where a majority of farms are today protected against severe winds with rows of trees or small woodlots on the windward side.

If anything, the farmland on the Bay of Quinte needs such protection even more than the deeper soils elsewhere. The reason: strong winds and dry summers. On relatively shallow land this combination is dangerous. Note: The Soil Survey of Prince Edward County states "Over a fifty year period it was computed that the drought frequency of Prince Edward County would be 34, making it the most drought susceptive area in Southern Ontario."

MANY BENEFITS

What are the benefits of well established windbreaks?

1. They reduce the velocity of wind, thus preventing excessive loss of humidity, blowing out of newly seeded grain fields, rubbing of branches and consequent downgrading of fruit in orchards. Also the land work much more willingly when wind velocity is low, and they are a most important agent in the pollination of fruits and certain legumes. We quote the Picton Gazette of July 24, 1964: "It is felt that the strong winds earlier in the season will result in a decreased yield in many patches. These come at blossom time and resulted in considerable injury. Plant growth may be good but it is the blossoms which contribute the fruit."

2. Windbreaks increase soil temperature at the critical period in the spring. Where tomatoes are planted, windbreaks create favorable conditions for early planting thus giving a far surer chance to get produce on the market while prices are most favorable.

3. By holding snow on the fields a better accumulation of moisture in the ground is achieved.

4. Windbreaks prevent not only snow but also soil from blowing. On sandy soil this blowing can become fatal, but also on relatively heavy soil it is noticeable over the years. Even if one-tenth of an inch is blown away each year this makes three inches in 3 years, and three inches on some of our fields is plenty. A wind of 30 miles per hour has four times the capacity of a ten miles per hour wind to pick up soil.

CUT WINTERKILL

5. Windbreaks prevent temperatures from dropping too quickly, and thus they often save crops from winterkill. A farmer near Adolphustown reported 90 per cent of his Hudson wheat winterkilled on an open field, while from the windbreak protected field he got 90 to 95 bushels per acre.

On well protected fields frost pockets are not so frequent as in open fields.

6. Where water courses and wells are well protected by trees they do not freeze so easily as in the open. Where barns are protected the temperatures inside are considerably higher than in windswept farm buildings. Similarly, well protected buildings need considerably less fuel to maintain satisfactory temperatures and experiments have shown that the saving in fuel may be anywhere from 35 to 50 percent.

The establishment of windbreaks is not a difficult matter. Nor is it costly. Those who are interested can write or phone the Department of Lands and Forests at Napanee or Tweed, and they will obtain detailed information. Where necessary a field visit can be arranged. The soil can be examined and promising tree species recommended. Planting methods can be discussed so as to reduce the mortality of planted trees as much as possible.

B and B Commission Will Issue Bulky Report on Canada's Cultural Fabric

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, well removed from the public eye for the last five months, is expected to be buzzing on the scene early next year with a bulky report on Canada's cultural fabric.

The 10 commissioners meet here Dec. 14 to 16 to work on the final draft of their interim report, which they hope to submit to the government in January or February—in both English and French of course.

The report will distill and analyse a mountain of facts, figures, proposals and views that the commission has gathered since it was appointed in July, 1963. The inquiry has assumed such proportions that the final report is not expected until 1967.

The interim report will not contain recommendations, but may draw some conclusions on English - French relations and the problems of all cultural minorities, from Indians to immigrants.

A commission spokesman said Wednesday that the commissioners have not reached a final decision whether to submit a formal report to the government in 1965.

ESCAPE GLARE

There have been some suggestions that the commission might transmit some of its findings to the government on a confidential basis, staying out of the glare of publicity until the final report is handed down.

Political sources say, however, that Prime Minister Pearson is anxious to get an early and public report from the commission. He said in the Commons Oct. 19 that the government hoped to receive an interim report "in a few weeks."

While the preparation of the report continues, commissioners are holding a series of private meetings in Montreal and Toronto with groups that have remained silent so far in the English-French "dialogue."

Tentative plans are being made for public hearings in all 10 provinces starting shortly after the interim report is disposed of.

Already 230 briefs have poured in from organizations and individuals who want to appear at the hearings. Commission officials expect to receive another 85 to 90 briefs in the next few weeks.

The commission's full-time research staff has grown to more than 30 and many university professors have been assigned to other research studies on a contract basis.

Research director Michael Oliver toured Europe for 10 day last month, assigning contract research projects to agencies in France, Belgium and Switzerland. These will be comparative studies of bilingual practices in the public service and language instruction in schools.

The commission research department earlier gathered considerable published material on bilingual practices in continental Europe, Wales and other areas. Close to 50 research projects are under way in Canada.

The inquiry has cost a total of about $800,000 so far and expenses are expected to go up substantially when the public hearings are held next year. The commission now has a staff of about 95, including administrators and clerical assistants.

The commissioners, who have visited Indian reserves and toured the eastern Arctic to study Eskimo problems, plan to visit military bases and government offices in various parts of the country over the next two months.

Agony of Congo Tragedy Is That It Was Expected

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One of the many agonizing aspects of the new Congo tragedy is that there is nothing really surprising about it.

The Congo, unhappy republic in the heart of Africa, has been riding the back of one crocodile or another—or several—since it received independence from Belgium four years ago.

The United Nations kept the country from flying apart for four years but at least three rebellions were in progress when the UN contingent pulled out last June.

There were many warnings of worse chaos to come although, of course, no one could say that "white" hostages, including missionaries, were fated to be sacrificed in the Stanleyville strife.

Some observers now are calling for establishment of a new UN contingent to police Congo despite the financial troubles of the world body and the refusal of such countries as the Soviet Union and France to pay their share of peace-keeping costs.

RESCUE OPERATION

The Manchester Guardian says the Belgian - American rescue operation, using a British island for staging, was necessary but was also a confession of failure in international co-operation.

"The rescue would almost certainly have been undertaken by UN troops had they still been in the Congo and would have passed off without any of the international outcry that will be heard about the Belgians," says the Guardian.

A keen disappointment in some quarters has been the failure of the Organization of African Unity — embracing all independent countries of the continent — to reconcile Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe and rebel "premier" Christophe Gbenye.

The OAU started off well by helping to bring peace in a north-Africa border quarrel between Algeria and Morocco. But, torn by dissension among its own members, it has been unable to do much about the far more serious black-Africa situation in the Congo.

The result is that outside powers are being drawn back to the Congo in a more serious way than, for instance, the case in which Britain had to return to newly independent Tanganyika and Kenya earlier this year to put down mutinies.

The harsh reaction of Prime Minister Jomo Kenyetta of Kenya to the Stanleyville operation demonstrates how suspicious some OAU leaders are of neo-colonialism in Ghana, as one example, describes Tshombe as the willing tool of the former imperialist power.

Other OAU countries, such as Nigeria, wanted to back Tshombe in the name of keeping communism, particularly of the Chinese brand, out of Africa. In view of divisions between its members, the OAU was unable to help.

Tshombe will indeed be a wonder-worker if he manages to save his neck and that of his outnumbered, uneducated imperviously Congolese to real sovereignty and peace with hostilities of his neighbors and the clash of world ideologies.

Nude Body Of Unknown Woman Found

LONDON (AP) — The nude body of a unknown woman dead about six months has been found and linked to the mystery of a series of murdered nudes that has baffled Scotland Yard.

Scotland Yard's murder squad immediately tied the latest killing with five other unsolved murders during the last 12 months. All the victims were found stripped and beaten.

The latest discovery came Wednesday when a civil defence officer taking a lunchtime stroll took an idle kick at a garbage can lid on a waste lot.

Beneath it he saw the decomposing head of a woman. The rest of the body was hidden by rubble.

Police surgeons put her age at between 30 and 36.

All five other victims were found in the same West London region.

Scotland Yard officials investigating the murders have made literally thousands of interviews during the last few months.

But despite this intensive sleuthing detectives say they are left where they started—with two theories.

One is that a maniac picks up the girls and drives them off to their death.

The other, regarded as the more probable by most Scotland Yard men, is that a ruthless gang living off the earnings of West End prostitutes is using murder as its discipline.

The five previous victims all had convictions for prostitution.

Woman Named Transport Head In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Mrs. Claire Kirkland - Casgrain, former minister without portfolio, has become the first woman in Quebec history to head a government department.

She was sworn in Wednesday as transport and communications minister.

She also directs Quebec's fleet of eight aircraft.

She talked after the swearing in ceremony about the need for greater driver education to cut down accident rates, expected to reach record levels this year, and also promised close attention to a reported 17-per-cent increase in Quebec driver insurance rates.

"But don't expect a revolution right away," the best looking of Quebec's 18 cabinet members laughed.

Mrs. Kirkland - Casgrain, elected by a landslide in Montreal-Jeanne Cartier, in the 1962 general election, indicated she will continue her campaign to modernize legislation affecting Quebec women.

That has been her key cabinet role so far as a minister without portfolio.

She takes over transport from Gerard Cournoyer, 52, sworn in as tourism, fish and game minister to replace retiring Lionel Bertrand.

Mr. Bertrand, who resigned his Terrebonne seat, was sworn in as a member of Quebec's 26-seat upper house, the Legislative Council, to fill a vacancy left by the death of Francis Connory member for Mille-Iles.

No date for elections in either Terrebonne or St. Maurice, left vacant earlier this month by appointments — General Rene Hamel's retirement from politics, were announced. The two are the only vacancies in the 96-seat legislature.

The new branch will bring together two divisions that formerly operated under separate direction. Director will be D. M. Ripley of Ottawa.

Sales rose 14.2 per cent in the Atlantic provinces, 8.4 per cent in Ontario, 4.6 per cent in Saskatchewan, 4.9 per cent in Alberta and 8.2 in British Columbia. They dropped two per cent in Quebec and 0.1 per cent in Manitoba.

Tale of Senseless Murder, Weeks of Terror Unfolds As Hostages Reach Safety

Convicts End Sit-Down Strike, Release Foremen

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — Convicts working in a mountain coal mine ended an 18-hour sit-down strike early today and released three mine foremen held as hostages after winning agreement from Tennessee state prison officials to hear their grievances.

The hostages had been held captive underground by 134 prisoners for the 18-hour period of the sit-down and were released unharmed. The prisoners are used to work a coal mine near the Brushy Mountain State Prison.

The convicts won a hearing on their complaints about mail censorship and were promised there would be no punishment for the demonstrating convicts. State Corrections Commissioner Harry Avery said the grievance hearings would start today at the prison, built in the Cumberland Mountains of East Tennessee.

More than 600 other prisoners remained quietly in their cells throughout the sit-down.

Guy Lord Hotly Denies Trying To 'Pressure' Montreal Lawyer

LONDON (CP) — Guy Lord, former assistant to the Canadian justice minister, hotly denied today he ever tried to pressure a Montreal lawyer regarding bail for a narcotics suspect.

"I never put any pressure on Mr. Lucien Rivard," he said in a telephone conversation from Nuffield College, Oxford, where he is studying under a Canada Council scholarship.

And Dr. D. N. Chester, warden of Nuffield, telephoned The Canadian Press to challenge "rumors" that Lord's decision to come to the British college was "rather a last-minute decision."

"This is completely untrue," said Chester.

"I have a letter dated Dec. 12, 1963, from Mr. Lord asking for admission to this college," he added.

Chester said that all this happened long before the present investigation began in Canada.

Chester called The Canadian Press about an hour after Lord, replying to questions, specifically denied he ever told Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne that he might get less government business unless he dropped opposition to bail for the narcotics suspect, Lucien Rivard.

Lord said he did speak to Lamontagne, who was acting for the U.S. government in the narcotics case, "just to get facts and inform the ministers" but never to exert pressure.

A dispatch from Mexico City, Lord said he served first under Lionel Chevrier, then justice minister before his appointment as high commissioner to Britain. Later Lord became an assistant to Guy Favreau, the present minister.

Favreau has announced in the House of Commons in Ottawa a judicial inquiry into an allegation of attempted bribery and pressure in connection with the narcotics case.

Some of the old Congo hands, last to come and last to leave, left their families home.

Gbenye, setting up his republic with himself as president, then clamped down his quarantine, denying all permission to leave. Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak disclosed that he tried to persuade the Gbenye government to return 30 Belgian children who had gone to visit their parents during summer vacation. The answer was that they were regarded as "hostages."

Four weeks ago, as Congolese troops prepared for the final drive on Stanleyville, Gbenye ordered many families confined to their homes.

"At first," said Rene Brgard of Brussels, "the rebels guarded the houses of Belgians in Stanleyville. We were ordered to remain regularly to the rebels' chiefs to make sure we were still there. Then, probably as regular troops progressed toward Stanleyville, we were ordered from our houses into hotels. . . ."

Refugees at one hotel were daily terrorized by the rebels' fear the rebels would push their submachine guns in the faces of the refugees and say: "Your brothers have just bombed Paula. We are going to kill you today."

Last Saturday, 120 men were ordered into small trucks and taken outside the city. A rebel leader told the driver of one truck: "Faster. If there is an accident it is of no importance. Kill them."

The hostages were informed they were to be thrown in a river. Instead they were all driven into a small native hut on the top of the other. They were driven back to Stanleyville at midnight.

The rebels had planned in advance what they would do when the showdown came.

The first planes with Belgian soldiers circled over the village at 6 a.m. This was the signal.

The rebel guards on the hotels waited until the paratroops began to float down.

Rene Brgard and his family who were at a hotel, said:

"As the paratroopers dropped on Stanleyville, Simbas armed with rifles and submachine guns pushed us out of the hotel and said they were taking us to the airport. As we were marched on the road, rebels started readying their weapons. Some of our group ran for protection toward houses.

"Rebels started firing at random. I had thrown my wife on the ground and myself there, too. Almost at once paratroopers appeared the rebels started running away."

Another refugee said:

"At about 7 a.m. they made us leave the hotel. They lined us up by trees and made us march about 200 yards from the hotel. Then they made us sit on the ground. Then a rebel said: 'Voila, your brothers have taken the airport. They are arriving. We will shoot you when we see the first paratrooper.'

"Then an armored car arrived with a paratrooper and they opened fire. They ran to machinegun us. A man fell dead in front of me."

Ask Ambulance Fees Covered By Insurance

CORNWALL (CP)—The Ontario Ambulance Operators Association said Wednesday the Ontario Hospital Services Commission must make its insurance rates to cover fees for all ambulance services.

The association also recommended at its annual convention here that the standards for ambulance equipment and training for ambulance personnel be raised. Both recommendations will be submitted to the attorney-general's committee on ambulance services in two weeks.

Murray MacBeth of Oakville, past-president of the association, estimated the 72 ambulance operators in the association lost $55,000 in 1963 on unpaid bills.

At present, Mr. MacBeth said, the OHSC pays for ambulance services only when it is to transport a patient from one hospital to another for treatment and back again.

MONTY 'SATISFACTORY'

LONDON (CP) — Hospital officials said Wednesday night the condition of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery continues "quite satisfactory" following an operation Monday, but it is not known when he will return home. Montgomery, who entered hospital Nov. 16, underwent a prostatectomy, removal of all or part of the prostate gland.

Judge Dorion Well-Equipped To Handle Exacting Duty

QUEBEC (CP) — Frederic Dorion, 66, is well equipped to judge Progressive Conservative accusations against two Tuberculosis executive assistants. He sat in the House of Commons for six years as an independent.

He was appointed a Quebec Superior Court justice in 1957 by the Progressive Conservative government of John Diefenbaker, but his appointment as chief justice of the court's Eastern Division came through the Liberal government of Lester Pearson in April, 1963.

"The main thing is to be objective," he said, silver-haired chief justice said of the inquiry during an interview Tuesday.

Earlier, he had accepted the task of heading the investigation into charges of attempted bribery and pressure against two former executive assistants to federal cabinet ministers.

The assistants in the cases point up the reasons for his reputation for integrity.

In 1939 he interrupted law studies at Laval University to join the Royal Air Force. He was in London undergoing flight air combat training when armistice came.

A First World War volunteer, he fought the Liberal government's conscription policy in the second world war. Like many Quebecers, he felt the Mackenzie King government had broken a promise in Quebec by upholding a conscription plebiscite in 1942.

Shortly after the plebiscite, he campaigned in Charlevoix-Saguenay riding as an independent and sat in the Commons until 1945.

It was the Liberal policy on conscription he was at odds with, "but I had to vote against the Conservatives many times," the chief justice recalls.

He worked as a Conservative organizer from 1935, with interruptions, until the party was successful in Quebec in 1957. An experienced civil lawyer, he was in line then for the Superior Court appointment.

Does he look upon the inquiry as a tough assignment?

"They're all hard," the robust, amiable justice said in his panelled office at Quebec City's Palais de Justice.

He pointed out his framed First World War commission signed by George V. It was presented to the Queen when she was here"—and just as proudly spoke of the family history.

"The first Dorion settled in Charlesbourg (a suburb) in 1688. All the Dorions in Canada spring from this family."

Neol was elected a Conservative-in 1958, became secretary of state in the Diefenbaker government, lost his seat in 1962, and again is practising as a top criminal lawyer.

Mr. Justice Dorion thinks political experience helps a judge to understand human nature better and he defends the present Canadian system of appointing justices for this reason.

In France, he says, judges are trained for the job like lawyers, and not appointed. He says a French expert recently complained: "Our judges are formed in "hot houses."

"The experience one gets in politics helps a judge understand people. We have so many things before us, and so many kinds of people."

Farm Leaders Meet With Prime Minister

LLOYDMIN ISTER, Sask. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday he believed Canadians would use "moderation and common sense" to sweep aside extremists who want to divide the nation.

He concluded a two-day visit to Saskatchewan — his first since the April, 1963, federal election — with an address to 450 persons at a Lloydminster Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Mr. Pearson said "small business week" would be proclaimed in the first week of February.

He said small businesses perform an important social function in providing an outlet for individual enterprise.

Before he spoke to the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Pearson addressed throngs of school children and fielded questions from farm leaders Wednesday. He stopped his journey from Saskatoon to Lloyminster to speak to 1,000 high school students at North Battleford.

In an 10-minute address to school children, he urged children to take pride in the country because Canada offers advantages many other nations are unable to provide. The children were given a holiday on the completion of the visit to Lloydminster by a Canadian premier.

In Saskatoon, where he spoke Wednesday with farm leaders at a public meeting, Mr. Pearson said the federal government would ensure that abandonment of uneconomic railway lines did not lead to an increase in costs for farmers transporting products to markets.

Labor Minister Denies Cheques Are Available

OTTAWA (CP)—Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) defended in the Commons Wednesday to know what has become of cheques which were said to have been made out by Hal Banks in favor of some Montreal Liberal MPs.

He maintained that there is a working paper in the labor department which says the cancelled cheques were sent to the Maritime trustees who now administer the funds of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.).

Labor Minister MacEachen said there are no such cheques in the files of the labor department and that the trustees have advised that there are none in theirs.

Mr. Woolliams noted that Prime Minister Pearson had said Sunday that such cheques to be evidence" that some Liberal MPs in Montreal accepted contributions from the SIU or its members.

He asked to whom the cheques had been paid and for what purpose.

Mr. MacEachen said he has no knowledge of any contributions by the SIU to any MP.

Member Makes Charge in Talk At Queen's

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A Liberal member of Parliament charged Wednesday that the main objective of Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker is to discredit French-speaking Canadians.

Auguste Choquette, member for Lotbiniere, told a student group at Queen's University that Mr. Diefenbaker has organized a secret information service to seek out vulnerable spots in Quebec's political and political figures and ruin their prestige.

"It is therefore urgent that the conservatives choose themselves a leader who is more open to Canadian realities," he said.

The member for Lotbiniere said the present government is he government of all Canadians and protector of the rights of the French-speaking minority, whose greatest danger was the danger of being assimilated.

750 More Beds In Psychiatric Wards Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Dymond of Ontario said Wednesday night that 750 more beds will be added to mental patients in the psychiatric wards of Ontario general hospitals by the end of 1965.

Speaking to a meeting at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, Dr. Dymond said that only 500 beds in this classification now are available.

However, he said, "the increase of beds in psychiatric wards will be matched by a large decrease in the number of beds in mental institutions."

Yukon Member Is Dief's Sharpest Spear-Thrower

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Erik Nielsen once was called John Diefenbaker's sharpest spear-thrower. And like his Progressive Conservative chief he practised his spear-throwing art in the law courts before entering the Commons in a 1957 byelection.

The 40-year-old Regina-born lawyer, member for Yukon, is one of the most colorful opposition members and perhaps one of the most feared by the Liberals. Once on the scent of governmental actions which he considers misconduct he is like a terrier worrying his prey.

A lank, jut-jawed son of Danish-English parentage, Nielsen was born at Regina and educated at Dalhousie University's law school. As a wartime bomber pilot he developed a political interest by joining the Conservative Club of London.

He took his law degree while on leave without pay from the forces and after the war settled in Whitehorse. His practice was in the corporation field and, as a Crown attorney, in criminal cases. His father was an RCMP officer for 30 years.

FLIES OWN PLANE

To cover the vast northern areas he flew his own plane, equipped with floats, skis or wheels. He still uses it campaigning over his far - flung northern constituency.

His first attempt at running for the Commons ended in defeat in 1957 but the election was controverted and in the subsequent byelection he was sent to Ottawa.

Through most of the days of the Progressive Conservative administration he gained relatively little public attention. But after his party's 1963 defeat, he blossomed in opposition as a hard-hitting, persistent critic.

He tackled Prime Minister Pearson over the TV film Mr. Pearson, which the opposition claimed was "refused pub" showing for political reasons. He teamed with colleagues to pursue successive justice ministers over the case of deposed union boss Hal C. Banks, implying a political tie-up when Banks disappeared after conviction on conspiracy charges in the Commons, he lays down his points as in a courtroom, hardly ever appearing ruffled by charges of "smear" from the ranks of opponents. His air of deliberation and certainty that he is right enrages government backbenchers.

Mr. Nielsen, whose brother Leslie is an American screen and television actor, is married and has three sons.

Students Question Practice Of Buying Teacher Present

By JACK HUTTON

Are we being carried away by an annual phenomenon — Christmas in the classroom?

This question emerged from our mailbag this week in the form of a letter from a worried 16-year-old reader who says any hint of his identity would make him a social outcast at his school.

But his letter interested me enough that I'm printing it anyway. And I'd like to hear whether you think his complaint is true anywhere else.

He writes:

"It's that time of year again, Jack, and I wonder whether you would like to perform a real service by looking at the practice of a class exchanging presents. Also ask a few students what they think of giving the teacher a present.

"The reason I bring this up is that Christmas has skyrocketed right out of control in our classroom. I'm in Grade 11, and it seemed a good idea to get involved in the holiday spirit two years ago.

"Now we're wondering what happened to us. A few students, the ones with all the money, are talking about a $50 present for our teacher. How ridiculous can you get? But we'll probably buy it.

STARTED IN GRADE 9

"It all started in Grade 9, when someone suggested we should buy a Christmas present for our teacher. She was a wonderful lady who was teaching her last year before retirement and was highly respected by us all.

"Three students were elected by the rest of us to find a present. It seemed a bit much when they came back asking for $1.50 from each of us, but they had found a beautiful hand mirror. I'm sure she didn't expect anything, but sensed I m e during November a few of the girls said her feelings would be hurt if we did nothing.

"We bought her a speaker, after the buying committee found out she was putting together a hi-fidelity set. T h a t cost each of us $2. But I'm coming to the worst part.

"Someone — everyone claims someone else thought of this idea — suggested that we all exchange small presents. Just little presents. It seemed like a good gag.

"Then two fellows decided this was how they'd present their gifts to their girl friends. And first thing we knew we were all making checking noises as one girl unveiled a necklace that must have set back her boyfriend $20 if it cost a cent.

"The other girl opened her present and found a bottle of perfume that everyone k n e w must have come from the bargain end of a dime store counter. No one was surprised when she and her flame stopped going out soon after Christmas.

"Now the classroom organizers are at it again. How will it look, they're asking, if we don't give a present to our teacher, after doing it for two years?

"And the class is split on exchanging presents. You c a n guess I'm one of those opposing anything like this, but most of the girls are for it. It looks like some will bring presents and the rest of us will look like cheapskates.

"I'm writing this just in case any of your readers are considering stepping on the merry-go-round. I have just one word of advice. Don't."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Four years ago she didn't know a fish hook from a ship's anchor. Today she boasts an angling record that would make Izz Walton himself envious.

Ingrid With Trout

Tall, blonde, German-born Ingrid Shean of 315 Farley Avenue, "lives fishing." She hunts, swims, dives, watches pro wrestling as a sideline. Deer hunter hubby, Charles Shean, will vouch for that.

Ingrid came from her home near Potsdam, Germany, seven years ago. Her mother, Mrs. Martha Steinmer, 66, lives with her. She, too, is an ardent angler.

In 1960 they watched a small boy pull a fish from a district river. They were fascinated and decided to try the sport.

Ingrid bought a "five-dollar outfit" and her first cast in the Salmon River, near Shannonville, was struck by a four-pound pike. Her tackle box and rod equipment today is worth $250.

The angling virus shot swiftly into her blood stream. Within the last three years she has fished the waters of Manitoba, Gowganda, Algonquin Park and innumerable eastern lakes and streams.

She set a remarkable record last year when she became the first woman in 16 years to fly alone from Kenora into the God's Lake district in Manitoba.

An Indian guide her sole companion, the 29-year-old angler-hunteress hauled in 36 pike from God's Lake, ranging between nine and 18½ pounds. Before the day ended she had boated seven lake trout, the biggest a 26-pounder.

"I never saw fishing like it," she says. "I had to quit because my arms and wrists were sore from boating the fish."

The next day she fished God's River and hauled in 28 speckled trout, the largest weighing 4 pounds 8 ounces, the second 4 pounds 6 ounces.

Legal take-away catches up there are two speckles a day, pike no limit. She brought home the two trout and lake trout fillets. The pike and other fish were given to the guide for food for his huskies dog team.

In 1963 she wandered through the Gowganda moose country ("I saw twenty-three fine moose"), to her fishing grounds and topped an 11-string of lake trout with a 17-pounder.

She has never captured the fighting muskie, but once hauled in a 37-pounder for a friend.

Hunting-wise, she prefers the small game. She tried deer hunting once. "I came across a young doe. It was so pretty. I will never forget the look in its eyes. I just couldn't pull the trigger."

But woe-betide any rabbit, pheasant, partridge that gets in her gunsights. Ingrid is a crack shot in this field with a special yen for the bunnies.

You rabbit gourmets can have your hares jugged, stewed or made into pie. Ingrid prefers hers wrapped in bacon and roasted. But for her nothing tastes better than a thick, succulent, well-seasoned venison steak.

She seldom misses a wrestling watch at Memorial Arena but unlike a lot of fans of her sex, watches the bouts with no outward emotion.

She is an excellent swimmer and recently took up diving. "Not the scuba stuff," she says. "I just put on the glass mask and enjoy myself in the water.

Her love of hunting and fishing drew her to the Belleville Fish and Game Club. She became a member a year ago—and thereby hangs another record.

She has never missed a meeting—and never missed bringing home a door prize. She won a handsome $75 rod and reel the first night she attended a meeting—and has won something at every subsequent club get-together. Tuesday night she capped this by bringing home two awards.

Ingrid likes the great outdoors. "I really fell in love with the bush country," she says. "Most Canadians do not know what they have under their noses in their forests, lakes and streams."

She is going back to Germany for a visit on Dec. 5th and will return to Canada on January 18th.

"That will be just in time for the Fish and Game Club annual banquet," she says. "Who knows? I might win a prize."

RIDES THREE WINNERS

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—John Longden rode three straight winners at Bay Meadows Wednesday as the 57-year old jockey boosted his record winning total to 5,914. Longden won the second race with Next Summer at $8.80, the third with Pocketful of Rye at $9.60 and the fourth with Under the Sun at $8.80. Pocketful of Rye was bred by Johnny and is owned and trained by his 20-year-old son Eric.

Hot Rangers Scramble Sawchuk Egg

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

They finally got to Terry Sawchuk, although it took them nine games to do it.

Sawchuk has been the scourge and the scrooge of the National Hockey League so far this season. In his first eight games for Toronto Maple Leafs he allowed a mere total of 11 goals.

Toronto, meanwhile, climbed to within one point of first place on a three-game winning streak that saw Sawchuk give up two goals in 180 minutes.

But the skein ended Wednesday night when New York Rangers bombed the 33-year-old netminder with 38 shots for a 6-3 victory over Toronto in the only NHL game played. The triumph moved the Rangers into third place.

The first five teams are bunched near the top with only four points separating them. There will be more jockeying for position tonight as the schedule sends all six clubs into action.

Montreal plays the league-leading Red Wings at Detroit while Toronto travels to Chicago to meet the Black Hawks. The third contest sends New York against Boston.

Two goal performances by Donnie Marshall and Phil Goyette, plus 44-save goaltending by Jacques Plante, paced the Rangers to a one-sided victory before 15,925 Madison Square Garden fans.

Goyette opened the scoring in the first period but George Armstrong tied it for the Leafs early in the second. Then goals by Marshall and Earl Ingarfield within 13 seconds put New York in the lead for good.

Jim Pappin narrowed the count to 3-2 while Larry Cahan of New York was penalized but ex-Leaf Bob Nevin gave the Rangers a two-goal margin late in the period.

The Rangers romped away with markers by Marshall, while killing a Toronto power play, and Goyette, while Toronto was shorthanded, early in the finale. Allan Stanley got his first of the season for Toronto well after the issue was decided.

Although suffering his first loss in a Toronto uniform, Sawchuk was nevertheless brilliant on several occasions and stopped both Marshall and Nevin on breakaways. Plante's best efforts were two saves on Bob Pulford when the game was still tied 1-1.

TERRY SAWCHUK

Toronto was also making news back home as club physician Dr. Hugh Smythe took time out to explain how Frank Mahovlich got a hospital bed when so many others have to wait.

"He was definitely an emergency case when he was admitted," he said. Mahovlich was sidelined two weeks ago by an ailment that has been kept secret by the Leafs and he isn't expected back for a month.

"Without discussing the diagnosis," Smythe added, "I can say there'll be no embarrassment to Mr. Mahovlich or myself when the nature of it is known."

Pall Over Grey Cup Week

Weather, Western Fans Lacking

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Junior Board of Trade is trying hard to make Grey Cup week a national smash, but a dearth of Western fans and threatening weather are conspiring against the effort.

Downtown Toronto bars, reliable barometers of unusual activity in the city, were subdued Wednesday night. A steady drizzle created puddles on the streets and on the tarpaulins protecting Exhibition Stadium field for Saturday's East - W st football final between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and British Columbia Lions.

The Junior Board of Trade, organizing the parades, public parties and pennant - waving known as the Grey Cup festival, held its third parade in as many days Wednesday when a couple of bands escorted contestants for the Miss Grey Cup title to city hall at lunchtime.

The nine girls, representing the Canadian Football League cities, rode downtown streets in open convertibles just before drizzle and a heavy mist rolled across the stadium and city from Lake Ontario.

AREA GREASY

Stadium groundkeeper Don McIntyre says only a downpour at game time — 1 p.m. EST Saturday — could spoil the field, although a 40-by-15-yard grassless oblong near centrefield seemed greasy Wednesday afternoon. Tarpaulins were rolled out to cover most of the field and will stay there until Saturday morning.

Word from the West on travelling plans indicates many fans from the five Western Football Conference cities are staying at home to watch Saturday's contests on television — both CBC and CTV are screening the game on their national networks.

Although Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg were allotted roughly 6,500 of the 27,555 Grey Cup tickets available, only about 3,000 are expected to turn up in Toronto from the Western cities Friday and Saturday.

B.C. Lions had about 2,400 tickets and the other four Western clubs had 1,000 to 1,100 each. Travel reports indicate fans heading East toil nowhere near the number of tickets available, even though Vancouver, Regina and Winnipeg report their ticket allocations were oversubscribed.

Fifty cheerleaders and 60 fans left Vancouver in three special cars on the Canadian National Railways Superintendent Tuesday, but Canadian Pacific Railway and the airlines planned no special measures for passengers from the Pacific coast. A total of 4,300 people are booked for Toronto by air and rail this week from Vancouver and perhaps half are headed for the Grey Cup.

Dobbs Quit On Impulse

CALGARY (CP) — Bobby Dobbs, who resigned Monday night as head coach of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference, said Wednesday he was not informed until 20 minutes before a team party that club directors had decided to install his former assistant, Rogers Lehew as Stampeders' general manager.

Dobbs, who led the Stampeders to three WFC finals after taking over in 1961, told a press conference at his McMahon Stadium office that his surprise announcement at the team year-end party was "definitely an impulse."

"I had not talked to any member of the executive until 20 minutes before it happened and I had no intention of leaving the club," Dobbs said.

Earlier reports on the resignation of the Tulsa University grad were that the club's board of directors had appointed Lehew Monday afternoon and informed Dobbs of their decision then.

Defensive assistant Jess Thompson also announced his resignation Monday night. He said he was stepping down for health reasons.

The Big Seven

Toronto remained in fourth place although Frank Mahovlich earned an assist to climb into a tie with Gordie Howe for sixth place.

Henry's two points gave him a total of 14, equal to the output of Montreal's Claude Provost.

Tiger-Cats Our Football Yankees?

Tops Since 1950

By IAN MacLAINE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats are to Canadian football what New York Yankees are to baseball.

It's the dream of every youngster to some day play with a perennial champion and the Ti-cats have been just that since 1950—the modern era of professional football in Canada.

Hamilton teams have dominated professional football in Eastern Canada since that time, putting together an enviable string of victories that includes the national championship in three of the seven years the Ti-cats have been the Eastern representatives in the Grey Cup.

The Ticats will be trying for their fourth cup Saturday when the meet British Columbia Lions in the annual fall classic in Toronto.

But because of the present Canadian college draft setup, Ticats have been limited in the number of Canadian boys they've had the rights to negotiate with in past years.

"We've been victimized over the years as far as the Canadian colleges are concerned because by the time you have the ninth or 10th pick, there's just nobody left", Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio said in an interview Wednesday.

The college draft in Canada is similar to that of the United States except that Canadian youngsters playing in U.S. colleges remain the property of the Canadian pro teams who hold the territorial rights in the player's hometown. The clubs on the lower rungs of the standings get the first choice.

"Not too many Canadian college graduates lean towards professional football . . . we're therefore limited because of the number of colleges here and the number of players who are good enough to play pro football," said Sazio.

He said a suggestion that all Canadian college players, regardless of whether or not they play in U.S. colleges, be included in a wholesale draft has a lot of merit.

Probably the most prominent college performer the Ticats have picked up in recent years is standby quarterback Frank Cosentino, a graduate of the University of Western Ontario.

However, while Canadian universities have not provided a source of player material to the Hamilton club, Sazio's pre-season rookie camps have uncovered several players of outstanding ability.

Joe Pikula from Brantford and Bob Krouse of Hamilton have been a definite asset to the Ticats since they were discovered at the 1963 camp, and Sazio says Mike Duffy, a 21-year-old halfback and punter who is a product of the Hamilton high school system, could develop into a top Canadian prospect.

Another player picked up because he came within Hamilton's territorial rights was Gene Coppetalli from Sudbury, who developed into one of the top defensive players in United States colleges while at Villanova University.

RELEASE INFIELDER

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets released infielder Amado Samuel outright to their Buffalo farm club, the Bisons, of the International League Wednesday. Samuel's departure makes room for Warren Spahn, acquired Monday from Milwaukee Braves as a pitcher coach. Samuel split his time between New York and Buffalo last season.

Long Passes A Specialty

Burton Top Target For Lions' Kapp Gun

By DENNIS ORCHARD

TORONTO (CP) — British Columbia Lions will send a medical phenomenon into the Grey Cup Saturday.

He is Mack Burton, the first professional football player to come back successfully from an acute rupture of the achilles tendon.

Burton is only fractionally slower than in 1962 when he emerged from San Jose State College to make a sensational debut with the Lions in the Western Football Conference.

Burton's injury sidelined him just after the start of the 1962 season and left him riding the bench most of 1963. He had made the club as a flanker but found himself a reserve end.

In last year's Grey Cup against Hamilton Tiger - Cats, who he will meet again Saturday, Burton caught three passes for 33 yards, and his fourth-quarter touchdown was too late to make any difference as Ticats won 21-10.

This season, as a full - time end, Burton was a receiver sought by quarterback Joe Kapp when he needed someone to take a long pass. Burton's record for the year was 30 receptions and 536 yards, seventh highest in the WFC.

Burton promises to have special value in Lions' plans for beating the Ticat pass defence. Even if he is well covered by a fast man such as Garney Henley, Burton will have a distinct advantage in catching the ball.

He was jumping six-foot four-inches as a teen - age high jumper and 26-foot as a broad jumper in college. He says when his timing is on he can usually out-jump any defender.

Head coach Dave Skrien says this is "better than any other phase of his play."

"When he came to us, all he could do was run pass patterns and catch the ball," Skrien said Wednesday.

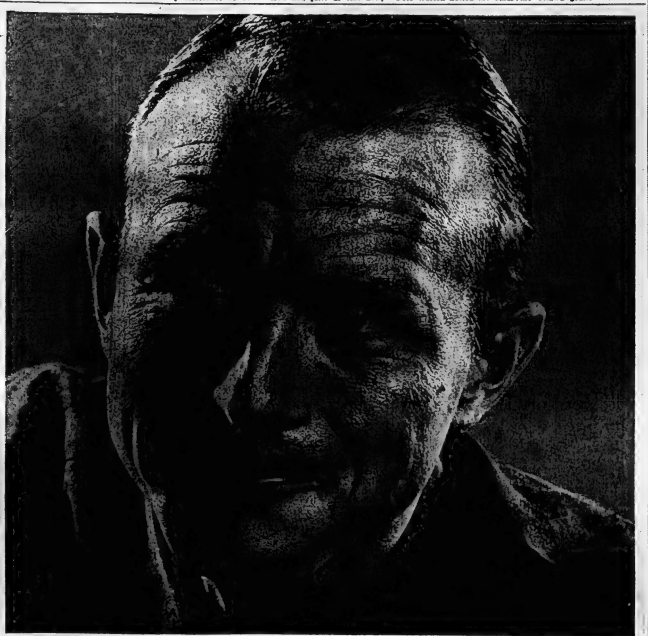
"He's not quite as fast now, but he's smarter and more deceptive. He has his confidence back and the squad has confidence in him."

It is expected the Lions will have to establish a strong passing game to beat the Tiger-Cats, and Kapp's targets besides Burton will include end Pat Claridge, halfbacks Willie Fleming and Ron Morris and flanker Sonny Homer.

The patterns they will run Saturday are the secrets Skrien wants most to keep by closing workouts today and Friday to public view.

Weston Helps Kingston Win

KINGSTON (CP) — Bob Rawson and Bob Collings paced Kingston with three goals each to down Ottawa 7-3 in an Ottawa - St. Lawrence Senior hockey game Wednesday night.



Pete Weston netted the other Kingston goal. John Bonner, Zaine and Don Tremblay scored the Ottawa goals.

City Teams Win 3, Lose 2

Belleville teams won three and lost a pair in OMHA scheduled games played here and in Gananoque last night.

Ritway Novices dropped a 3-1 decision to Trenton; Rollins peewees thumped Welling ton 3-1 and A.C.T. juveniles clipped Picton 6-1 here at Memorial Arena.

In Gananoque, the Oddfellows bantams captured a tight 4-3 victory, while the Oddfellows midgets dropped a 5-4 decision to Gananoque.

No score card was turned in for the novice game so names of scorers, etc., are not available.

Rollins kept their "lucky seven" rolling with the victory over Wellington. The club has scored seven goals in each of three wins in as many games.

Belleville led 1-0 and 4-0 by periods and held a 3-1 margin in the third period. Terry Meagher was the club's lone two-goal man with one each going to Cliff Janitsch, Fred Stickle, Mick Meagher, Austin Wilson and Brian Coutts. Mario Venutti drew two assists, Wilson and T. Meagher one apiece.

In juvenile, the A.C.T.'s victory was their first of the schedule. They moved ahead 3-0 in the first frame and led 5-1 after two periods.

Ron Poste and Jim Meens paced the Belleville attack. Poste scored two first-period goals and added the only marker of the third. Meens bagged the game's first goal and got another in the second. He also drew an assist. L. Lupenette added the other goal while J. Smith got two assists. Paul Fleming and D. McCormack one apiece.

R. Norton scored Picton's lone marker, aided by T. Slinger.

Someone Goofed, No Game

Trenton Apple Kings thought they had an OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League game scheduled against the Picton Merchants, at 8.30.

The Picton team had failed to show up by nine o'clock and some 171 fans were getting restless.

Trenton sponsor Howard Weese placed a call to Picton manager Chris Lockyer. He was not at home but when finally reached, Lockyer said he had requested the OHA to have the date of the game changed and he understood this has been arranged.

Weese said he had heard nothing about such a change.

Efforts to reach group convener Harold Webster in Napanee were unsuccessful.

OHA vice-president Jack Devine, in Belleville, was also unobtainable.

So as matters stand now, the game was "just not played".

Most of the 171 fans accepted rain checks rather than take their money back.

BC Lions Hit In Wallet

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Dave Skrien said Wednesday night that he suspects his British Columbia Lions will take a financial defeat in the Grey Cup game here Saturday.

"I think we'll lose money by playing in the Grey Cup," Skrien said in an interview.

"The (Canadian Football) league allows us so much for travel and expenses, but I think we'll probably spend more than our quota through entertainment, promotion and so forth. The teams that benefit the most are out of the playoffs."

All nine CFL clubs share in the receipts from Saturday's gate, expected to total $564,000 from all sources.

Tuesday, Peter Neumann of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who meet the Lions Saturday, said the financial allotment for individual players in the Grey Cup was too small.

Skrien also said he favored the playoff system used by the Eastern Football Conference. The semi-final in the EFC is a sudden-death affair with the winner meeting the top team in the conference in a two-game, total-point final.

The Western Conference holds a two-game total-point semi-final and a best-of-three final.

Gordie Howe's Hockey

By GORDIE HOWE

Some hockey coaches used to discourage players from taking slap shots. In my book, it is a very colorful part of the game. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion got his nickname from his thunderous slap shots.

There's really room against the boards when he missed. He ranks as the third highest goal scorer in National Hockey League history with 371 to his credit. He shares the NHL record of 50 goals in one season with Bobby Hull and Rocket Richard.

One critic of the slap shot made the point you 'telegraph' the shot, that it takes a little more time to execute, gives the goalie more time.

I think you 'telegraph' every shot. The goaltenders are no dummies. Many know your favorite target areas.

For instance, Toronto's Johnny Bower will hug the post and dare you to hit those three or four inches he's giving you to shoot at when you're coming in from the side.

A slap shot will get past him at times. So will a wrist shot. However, you can miss wildly with either one.

As far as upping off-the goalie, the drag shot is the biggest giveaway. You pull the puck behind you, then drag it up. You'll drag it three or four feet and the goalander will get a pretty good line on where it is going.

In contrast, a slap shot can go in any direction. I honestly don't think it'll ever be eliminated. It's like the sixteen in baseball or hockey. Nearly everybody is taking the big cut at the ball, trying for a home run, instead of concentrating on control to assure a base hit.

Here's another example of the value of the slap shot. Your teammate gets the puck behind your opponent's net. You're uncovered, in front.

When he throws it out, you belt it as soon as it reaches you. If you tried to stop the puck with your stick, then got a wrist shot away, you're giving the goalminder time to get in place, or a dentfencesman a chance to block you. The quick slap shot could easily mean the difference between scoring and not scoring.

Marlies Defeat Rangers

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Toronto Marlboros picked up four goals in first period and, went on to defeat Kitchener Rangers 8-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association junior A game here Wednesday night.

Paul Laurent, the league's leading point-getter, scored on Toronto's first shot on goal in the first minute of play. The Marlies put three more past Rangers goalie John Voss before the Kitchener netminder was taken out with seven minutes left in the period.

Gary Kurt replaced him in the second and third period, allowing only two Toronto goals.

Sharing Toronto's other goals were Jerry Meehan, Wayne Carleton, Wayne Mosdell, Jim Davidson and Al Hamilton.

Peter Brennan and Jack McCreary scored for Rangers.

About 1,447 fans watched the contest, played here because of other activities at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto.

Marlboros picked up the only goal of the second period with Davidson scoring from Osborne and Clark at 7:18. Each team scored in the third period, McCreary for Kitchener and Osborne for Marlboros.

SELECTED ALL-STAR

EDMONTON (CP) — Rookie defensive end Ed Molstad was one of 13 University of Alberta Golden Bears players named to a western intercollegiate football conference team selected by conference coaches and announced Wednesday. The 18-year-old Edmonton native became the youngest player ever named to the team. The six-foot-five, 210-pound rookie was named to the all-star defensive team.

Balding, Venturi Contenders

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ken Venturi of San Francisco, the U.S. Open champion, and Al Balding, the defending champion from Toronto, are expected to be the main contenders in the $10,000 Mexican National Open golf championship which opens today.

The four-day, 72-hole tournament will be held over the 7,317-yard par 72 course at the Club de Golf Mexico. Balding set a record of 279 in winning last year.

George Knudson of Toronto is also entered.

The unseasonal cold weather auc. rain may affect the play of the 150 golfers including 74 from eight foreign countries.

Tony Lema and Bobby Nichols withdrew but other U.S. golfers entered, in addition to Venturi, include Dow Finsterwald, Bob Rosburg, Gerry Barber, Tommy Jacobs, Jackie Cupit, Art Wall Jr., Dan Sikes, Ernie Vossler, Phil Rodgers, Don Massengale and Jimmy Demaret.

Lightfoots Defeated By Wilsons

Trenton Wilsons jumped into an early lead and turned back several Lightfoot victory bids to defeat the Belleville club 65-55 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League game at Trenton last night.

The setback was Lightfoots' first after a pair of wins. Belleville's next game will be on Wednesday, December 2. Picton is scheduled to play the Lightfoots, at Quinte Secondary School. Game time 8:15 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Picton club has postponed its home game against Trenton Wilsons, scheduled for tonight.

Wilsons jumped into a 14-4 lead in the early minutes last night but Belleville roared back to cut the margin to 17-15. Trenton again turned on the pressure and moved in front 40-22 by half time.

The losers made a final bid late in the contest and trailed 55-51 with five minutes left to play before Wilsons erved up the decision.

Mike Evan, Rich Hutchings and Arlen Dafoe each were the big scorers for Wilson Concrete. Egan hooped 16 points, Hutchings 15 and Burfoot 11. Wannamaker added eight points and Carl Crews seven.

Don Smith was the top Lightfoot scorer with 17 points. John McKibbon collected 10, Ian Houchin, Ron Marriott and Gary Duegan seven apiece.

Barons Cut Hershey Win String

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lowly Cleveland Barons spoiled Gordie Howe's 100-point debut in the final two minutes and nearly ended an eight-game unbeaten streak by Hershey Bears in American Hockey League action Wednesday night.

But the Barons, trailing the AHL's western division, were unable to break the 3-3 deadlock in the 10-minute overtime period, allowing the Bears their second tie in a nine-game undefeated string.

The Aces went undefeated in their first 10 games of the season but have won only four of their last nine outings.

In other AHL action, Pittsburgh Hornets walloped Buffalo Bisons 4-1 and Springfield Indians trounced Providence Reds 8-3.

Cross-Country Dates Named

CHICAGO (AP) — Two national championship cross-country meets sponsored by the United States Track and Field Federation and the Amateur Athletic Union, will be held here within three days.

The federation's event, at six miles, 376 yards and with a field of about 196, is scheduled for Thursday morning at Washington Park.

The AAU's run, at the same distance over the same course, will be Saturday afternoon, also with approximately 100 entries.

Both meets will be lacking defending individual champions—Kiki Cuyler Toronto, last year's AAU winner, and Tom O'Hara, federation meet champion.

BALDING RANKED HIGH

MEXICO (AP)—Ken Venturi of San Francisco, U.S. Open champion, and Al Balding, defending champion from Toronto, are expected to be main contenders of 150 in the $18,000 Mexican National Open golf championship starting today. The four-day, 72-hole tournament will be held over the 7,216-yard par 72 course at the Club de Golf de Mexico. Balding set a record of 279 in winning last year.

TORONTO (CP) — An icy drizzle and heavy mist rolled over exhibition stadium Wednesday afternoon, sending shudders from cold and apprehension through organizers of the Grey Cup football final between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and British Columbia Lions, slated for Saturday.

The mist drifting off Lake Ontario, a few hundred yards around fears of a repeat appearance of early - win ter fog that blotted out the 1962 Grey Cup game for most of the 33,000 spectators and the television fans.

That Dec. 1 game finally was called with nine minutes and 29 seconds left to be played next day. Winnipeg Blue Bombers led Hamilton Tiger-Cats 28-27 in the fog and there was no further scoring the next day in the only interrupted Grey Cup final in 55 years.

The Canadian Football League subsequently m a d e provision for a recurrence. If Saturday's game should be called during the first three quarters it would be resumed Sunday where it left off Saturday. If weather forces a halt in the final quarter, CFL commissioner S y d n e y Halter will decide whether to end the game then or order its completion the next day.

The decision would be governed by the score and the time left. A lopsided score with little time remaining would end the game. If Halter decided to resume, the teams would play two 10-minute periods Sunday, a kickoff starting each period, instead of resuming where play left off in the fourth quarter.

Until the mist appeared Wednesday, stadium groundskeeper Don McIntyre was agonizing only about the thought of Joe Kapp of the Lions or Bernie Faloney of the Ticats skidding in a mud patch on a keeper play.

McIntyre, beefy six-footer in his fifth year at Canadian National Exhibition Stadium, has been pampering the field in the hope that it will behave for the combatants.

"It looks pretty good right now," said McIntyre before the mist came, while his crew of five finished painting the hash marks and prepared to roll out $15,000 worth of tarpaulins.

The tarps cover a grassless oblong between the 35 - yard lines and about 15 yards wide on the north side of the field—a muddy rectangle left there by the mobile stage used during the exhibition grandstand show three months ago.

The area has been disguised with green dye mixed with vegetable oil.

"We decided against putting down new turf because in other years the sods often pulled loose and tripped the players," said McIntyre. Grass seed failed to take.

KEEP FANS OUT

A four-foot steel fence, normally used for stock car races, surrounds the field and 42 policemen will guard gaps to prevent intervention by spectators.

Four p r e v i o u s Grey Cup games have been marred by fans—an invasion of the end zone at Vancouver in 1955 prevented a kick runback; a fan stole the football to prevent a convert with 13 seconds left in 1956 at Toronto; a fan tripped a touchdown-bound player in 1957 at Toronto, and an unruly mob in Vancouver forced the game to end with 41 seconds left in 1960.

The fence has barred use of 490 ground-level seats at Exhibition Stadium, leaving the seating capacity at 32,655.

Bond Makes Little Use Of His Licence to Kill

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Poor Agent 007. Licensed to kill, he scarcely gets a chance to pull the gun out of the shoulder holster in his latest outing, Goldfinger, thusly foiled by continually dealing him a judo chop.

Matter of fact, James Bond spends a good portion of the film in the captivity of the ambitious aloh, Goldfinger. Really, 007! If this sort of thing continues, you may have to turn in your revolver.

Goldfinger continues the string of enormously entertaining films based on the Ian Fleming super-spy books. It has the most outrageous plot so far: a heist of Fort Knox, Ky., where U.S. gold is stored, is so small potatoes. Yet the film somehow seems less satisfying than Dr. No and From Russia With Love.

One reason is the passive role of Bond, still expertly delineated by Sean Connery. In many of his encounters he seems strangely ineffective. One expects more mastery from Bond.

Also, the Bondmen seem to be over-extended in trying to top themselves with each new film. This time the climax comes with a fiesta gun battle between American soldiers and criminal commandos. The sequence hovers somewhere between the absurd and the distasteful.

I have remarked before that the Bond films hark back to the Saturday matinee serials that still goes. There is the same fascination: What can happen next? How will the hero get out of this pickle? Goldfinger even follows the serial tradition with its concluding announcement for the moviegoers to watch for James Bond's next adventure, Thunderball.

PAINTS WRITER'S LIFE

Youngblood Hawke demonstrates why it is virtually impossible to make an absorbing movie out of the life of a writer. Delmer Daves has taken the least praised of Herman Wouk's novels and tried to involve the audience in the travels of a country boy who strikes it rich in the literary world.

A fairly obvious replay of the Thomas Wolfe career, the book comes off on film as a clinical study of the possibilities and pitfalls of best-selling authorship.

The players do their best to rise above the materia. James Franciscus is earnest and almost breathes life into the ill-starred author. Sumanie Plathette and Genevieve Page do well as the good and bad women in his life, respectively.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Flash Song won the featured $2,000 Castle Lee Purse trot at Garden City Raceway Wednesday night, running away from second-place finisher Cadenza in the stretch on a muddy track.

The seven-year-old gelding, off at odds of 3-1, ran the mile in 2:11 2-5 to raise his 1964 winnings to $8,186. Favorite Guess Who, finished third.

Flash Song's time was the best of the night as driving rain turned the track into slop.

Bill Wellwood of Stratford, leading driver of the meeting, brought his winning total to 12 in 38 outs when he drove Meadow Brooks C. home on top in the fifth race.

A total of 1,899 patrons wagered $109,503.

Sam Goldwyn to Package Fifty of His Best Movies

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Goldwyn, who made his first motion picture in 1913 (The Squaw Man), means to control his professional enthusiasm for television until he passed his 80th birthday.

Now, Goldwyn has gathered together 50 of his features in a giant package for television use —and it represents one of the last unplugged leaks of quality film entertainment.

Goldwyn, active and interested, was in New York recently to talk about movies on television.

"There is included in my collection some pictures I made as far back as 1941 or 1938," the producer said, "and I suppose some people will be calling these 'oldies.'" I say there is no such thing: Pictures are either good or they are no good. And if you go back to the theatre and plays you will find that when a play is brought back it is called a 'revival.'

Among Goldwyn's projected "revivals" will be Roman Scandals with Eddie Cantor, Ruth Etting and The Goldwyn Girls, and One Heavenly Night with John Boles, Evelyn Laye and Leon Errol. There will also be a number of Ronald Colman, Merle Oberon and Celia Johnson vehicles, Wuthering Heights, The Best Years of Our Lives and Wuthering Heights.

"For many years I have been able to do what I personally liked," Goldwyn explained. "Sometimes the picture took 2½ years. But I was using my own money and I could do this way—they are often using the money of others, and in television, the machines must keep going."

His own recipe for producing entertainment evolved primarily, he said, from three words: "action, integrity, taste."

"Even the greatest stars were lost without material," he said. "The Clark Gables, the Jimmy Stewarts—there is not one who could get along without a strong story. So, to me, the words come first."

Montreal Advertising Firm

CFL Sells TV Rights

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Football League announced Wednesday sale of television rights for the 1963 and 1966 Grey Cup games to BCP Advertising Limited of Montreal.

CFL commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg refused to say how much money was involved.

The advertising agency, formed last January, has also acquired Eastern and Western Football Conference rights for the same years.

EFC rights were bought for $1,000,000, but the company has not said how much it agreed to pay the WFC.

Halter said "there appears to be an advantage in having the TV rights for all professional football in Canada held by the same organization."

Jacques Bouchard, president of BCP, said in a statement that his company is negotiating now with both the CBC and CTV networks.

CONTINUE SHARING

Pierre Pelletier, a BCP partner with Bouchard and Jean-Paul Champagne, said:

"I should expect that the networks will continue to share television rights of league and playoff games."

Pelletier declined to say whether this sharing, which has applied to both the Grey Cup and CFL schedule for the last two years, would apply to the 1965-66 Grey Cup finals.

He said the WFC contract is being kept confidential "by mutual agreement between the conference and his agency.

"There has been too much speculation that we paid too little, or too much, or that we 'had' the conference," he said.

KILLS FAIR

NEW YORK (AP) — A delicatessen proprietor killed two youths with a kitchen knife Wednesday night after he was attacked with a catsup bottle. Police said the proprietor, Peter Bastianich, 63, has to walk with a cane because of a stroke several years ago. One died in the street outside, the other a few minutes after he was taken to Bellevue Hospital. Both apparently died of abdominal wounds, police said.

Clair On Bid Block ?

Ottawa Or Argonauts?

OTTAWA (CP) — A pay raise and some Eastern Football Conference clubs.

"If it comes to bidding for Frank's services, we'll be out in the same ball park," Rider general manager Red O'Quinn said Wednesday.

Clair, whose club was knocked out of the eastern finals by Hamilton Tiger-Cats last Saturday for the second straight season, has asked for a vote of confidence in the form of a new contract. His five year pact with Riders runs out next season.

Riders are not prepared to sign him to a long-term contract. O'Quinn indicated the longest term Riders now are ready to offer is three years.

Since coming here in 1956, Clair has led Riders into the playoffs every season. He won a Grey Cup in 1960 and the club has lost only three home games in the last two seasons.

O'Quinn said that as far as he knows, Argos haven't approached Clair yet. If Argos followed standard practice in the Canadian league, they would seek Ottawa's permission to talk with him.

NAMED JUDGE

OTTAWA (CP) — Capt. Richard Bruce Stock of Don Mills, Ont., has been appointed aide-de-camp to the governor general, it was announced at Government House Wednesday. Capt. Stock, 26, born in Timmins, Ont., is the son of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. R. B. Stock. He is a graduate from McMaster University, Hamilton and a member of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry regiment.

Impossible To Foretell Rebels' Acts

NEW YORK (AP)—A young Canadian doctor just back from a central Congo church mission established best held from which by rebel forces says it was impossible to tell from one moment to the next what the rebels would do.

The doctor, Nick Sikasy, 28, said that when the rebels took over the mission they said they wanted the work of the mission hospital and schools to continue normally and promised that none of the foreign missionaries would be harmed.

But in the ensuing days and weeks, he said, the rebels:

—Subjected the missionaries to various indignities, imprisoned them and at times indicated they might be planning to shoot them.

—Shot five native administrators. (The rebels broke the leg of one man, and then executed him before a platter cast put on by the doctor could harden.)

—Killed the pilot of a Methodist mission plane who had come to from a mission establishment about 170 miles away to see if he could aid the pinned-bird group.

—Looted the mission of trucks, fuel, food and money.

—Accused the missionaries of sending secret radio messages to the Congolese national forces, and made threats.

Dr. Sikasy, of Hamilton, Ont., went to the Congo in October, 1963, to serve on a volunteer assignment with The Congo protectorat relief agency, which is supported by Protestant churches in North America.

Father, Two Sons Served A Month in Cyprus Before Having Holiday Together

By ALAN WALKER

NICOSIA (CP)—A father and two sons served with Canadian forces on Cyprus for a month before they could get together. An officer arranged a reunion and gave all three a chauffeur for the day so they could tour the island.

Guardsmen John Bonvie, 25 and his brother Tom, 24, both of Pictou, N.S., came here with the Canadian Guards. Meanwhile their father Pte. Leo Bonvie, 49, a driver in the Canadian Army Service Corps, applied to make Cyprus his last posting before retirement next year.

Finally he arrived. John was stationed high in the Kyrenia mountains north of here. Tom was in the Kyrenia foothills with another company in the same battalion. A month later the three shook hands and said hello.

There's a fourth member of the family on Cyprus. He's Pte. Henry Munro, 25, Leo's nephew. Leo's third and eldest son was in the army too.

"Nova Scotia really seems to send a lot of boys into the army," Leo says. "My older brother was in, and I thought it would be a good life so I joined in 1939.

"Then my boys saw so much of me and the army together, that they thought they'd like the life. I never persuaded them, but . . ." Tom interrupted: "You threw the odd hint." They all laughed.

Both Tom and John joined on their 17th birthday, the earliest legal age for enlistment. John says he will make a career of the army but Tom isn't sure. Tom had just come down from Gin Hill, reachable only by helicopter, where he had been on guard with five other men for six days.

"Being up there was a stepping-stone to hell," he said with a wry grin. "The view is lovely but it's very unsanitary up there. The tent is just caked with dirt. You can't take a bath.

"Then when you're not up on the hills, you're back in head quarters for what they call a 'rest period.' The sergeant comes up to you and says: 'You're going for a rest at main camp,' and a big smile comes over your face, and then he finishes the sentence—'but you'll be working in the mess hall.' "

Tom wants to transfer from the Guards to his father's unit John says he "isn't fussy" and doesn't mind the Guards. But he finds Cyprus service with the United Nations forces a bit boring. "I plan on six months here but if it's three, I'm happy. There isn't much to do, no excitement."

Both Tom and John say they miss their mother in Nova Scotia and, mostly, their own families. Each has a wife and two children back home.

Leo loves the army and said he wishes he could have another 20 years of it. When he retires next June he plans to work for the army as a civilian driver.

"I guess I'll be saluting everybody for the first while," he said. "Habits are hard to break."

The three soldiers climbed into a landrover and started their day's holiday. Somebody said: "Have a drink for me, fellows."

"I don't drink," said Leo. "I don't drink," said John. "I'm broke," said Tom.

Woman Given Ten Years for Knife Killing

PERTH, Ont. (CP) —Mrs. Jean Lois McArthur of Smiths Falls, Ont., 33-year-old mother of four children, was sentenced Tuesday to 10 years in penitentiary for the knife killing of a young railway telegrapher who had been her companion.

The woman, originally charged with non-capital murder in the death of John Barton Hall, 23, of Kemptville, Ont. collapsed when sentence was passed by Justice A. H. Lieff of the Ontario Supreme Court. She was carried from the courtroom.

Troops Pursue Rebels Across River Into Bush

From AP-Reuters

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Snipers' bullets still whistled through Stanleyville today as government troops pushed across the Congo River after the main rebel force.

"Stanleyville is under control, but all resistance has not been eliminated," said an American embassy spokesman.

"The city is virtually deserted. The Congolese have fled to the bush. But snipers are still active and you can easily get a bullet through your head."

Most of the Congolese population had gone into the surrounding bush "until things quiet down."

Technician Shortage Hurts Navy

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—A shortage of technicians has hurt the navy just as Defence Minister Hellyer is about to announce a new shipbuilding program.

Informed source said Thursday night the shortage of skilled tradesmen in the navy has reached "disaster" proportions.

Mr. Hellyer confirmed in the Commons in reply to a salvo of Opposition questions that six older warships have been tied up in Halifax because their trained personnel are required to man new ships coming into service.

The minister is expected to announce soon a $176,000,000 construction of six warships—four $35,000,000 destroyer escorts and two $18,000,000 tanker supply ships—to begin in 1966.

The destroyers will be the same as the present Mackenzie class now being completed except that they will be 25 feet longer to accommodate a $2,000,000 anti-aircraft missile system, when the missile is available, and will carry a larger forward gun.

The ships will also have helicopter landing decks.

The supply ships will be of the same class as the new HMCS Provider though there will be some minor design changes to enable them to carry army vehicles and a few troops.

This program will take between four and five years to complete.

All Britons Will Celebrate Churchill's 90th Birthday

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons of all ages will celebrate Sir Winston Churchill's 90th birthday Monday with the aid of television.

But though they will be able to view many Churchill "tribute" programs on their TV screens they will catch only one glimpse of the old statesman himself.

He plans to appear at the balcony window of his London home Sunday, the eve of the birthday, to return the salutes of well-wishers and be photographed.

He intends to link himself "in spirit" with "absent friends" by viewing the Churchill TV programs.

For Sir Winston, now less mobile than he was a few years ago, the birthday itself will be a quiet day with celebrations confined to a family dinner party.

It will inevitably contrast sharply to his 80th birthday, which Britain turned into a national occasion.

Then, still prime minister, he was feted by all parties in Parliament at a celebration luncheon in ancient Westminster Hall where the speeches of tribute were followed by the presentation of a Churchill portrait by artist Graham Sutherland.

Sir Winston has changed little since his last birthday. His general health is good and he thoroughly enjoys life.

But he will remember the past year for one great wrench, his final official severance from Parliament, which has been his abiding love since the first entered it 64 years ago.

It was an added source of regret that when, last summer, he gave up his electoral district of Woodford, near London, he was unable to be present in the House of Commons to hear at first hand the wealth of affectionate tribute paid him by leaders of all parties.

Members of Parliament knew the emotional strain such an occasion might have imposed upon him and understood the reason why he chose, after a long spell of almost daily attendance in the Commons, to make his final exit, quietly and almost unremarked, a few days before.

Grandchild Was Talking On 'Hot' Line

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday night he found a grandchild talking on his "hot line" telephone at his Ottawa home.

The special telephone, used only in extreme emergency, links Ottawa with Washington and NORAD headquarters in Colorado Springs in the U.S.

Mr. Pearson told a Liberal rally here the four-year-old found the telephone in a cupboard.

"I grabbed the telephone and explained (on the telephone) that war had not begun," Mr. Pearson said.

Govt. Bows To Opposition Demand Inquiry Be Broadened To Include Favreau's Handling Of Bribery Case

Change Made After NDP and Creditistes Had Said They Would Vote for PC Motion

OTTAWA (CP) — Acting Prime Minister Martin announced today broadened terms of reference for a judicial inquiry, bowing to demands that Justice Minister Favreau's handling of police reports of bribery and coercion charges be included.

The New Democratic and Creditiste parties had served notice they would vote solidly with the Conservatives if the inquiry was not broadened. The Conservative motion is to reduce Justice Minister Guy Favreau's salary to $1 from $35,000.

In a statement to the Commons, Mr. Martin said the government's view had been that the original terms of reference given Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec Superior Court Wednesday were sufficiently broad.

But it was apparent some members were concerned about that point. Since the government desired that the judicial inquiry be comprehensive and also that it be clearly comprehensive, the changes had been decided upon.

He said that with the changes made there can remain no reasonable doubt that Chief Justice Dorion's instructions now are comprehensive.

He recalled that Justice Minister Favreau told the Commons Thursday night that the justice minister wanted the inquiry to go into his actions as minister as well as the other points raised in the allegations. This voluntary statement by Mr. Favreau now had been covered in the specific instructions to the judge.

CABINET APPROVES

Mr. Martin said the changes in the cabinet order establishing the judicial inquiry and setting out its terms of reference had been approved by the cabinet today shortly before the Commons met.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the matter was "a strange story of denial and then retreat."

The government had feared for its continued existence when Mr. Diefenbaker said that the New Democratic Party would support the Conservative's motion of non-confidence in Mr. Favreau.

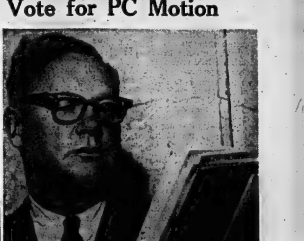
Mr. Diefenbaker said the government had first stated that the inquiry would be held in camera.

Then it had argued that its "hastily constructed" order establishing the inquiry was sufficiently broad in its terms of reference.

Finally the government had been forced to amend the order.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he doubts the amended order goes far enough but he did not doubt whether his party will approve it or otherwise.

He said the government knows that it has been and is in difficulties.



MEETS NDP REQUESTS

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said the changes announced by Mr. Martin meet three requests made Thursday by Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) on behalf of their party.

The first amendment to the terms had been borrowed verbatim from Mr. Brewin's letter and the other two changes met NDP objections in spirit.

Therefore, he said, the 18-member NDP group would vote against a Conservative motion censuring Justice Minister Favreau. His party had held out throughout for a full inquiry

New Aspect In Charges Of Bribery

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—A new aspect has arisen in the bitter Commons controversy over charges of bribery and coercion by ministerial assistants in a Montreal extradition proceedings.

For the first time on the Commons floor Justice Minister Favreau Thursday gave details of the actions of one of the men involved in the case.

He said his executive assistant, Andre Letendre, called Pierre Lamontagne, counsel acting for the United States government, about setting bail for a man whose extradition on a narcotics offence was sought by the American government.

"Mr. Letendre did in fact call Mr. Lamontagne in relation to the possibility of setting a bond in the case of Rivard," Mr. Favreau said.

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon), who placed many of the statements on the Commons record about the charges, asked Mr. Favreau:

"I ask the minister now whether Mr. Letendre phoned Mr. Lamontagne as the executive assistant to the minister of justice?"

"Yes, the answer is yes," replied Mr. Favreau.

OFFERED $20,000

Mr. Lamontagne, who was acting for the American government, was said by Mr. Nielsen to have been offered $20,000 to go easy in opposing bail for Lucien Rivard, in jail in Montreal awaiting disposal of the U.S. government's application for extradition.

Mr. Nielsen said an RCMP report identifies Parliamentary Secretary to Citizenship Minister Tremblay, as the person offering the money.

He also said that another executive assistant, Guy Lord who was executive assistant to Mr. Favreau before his appointment in England, was mentioned in the report as having suggested federal government bail sub-agent would be withheld from Mr. Lamontagne unless he went easy in opposing the Rivard bail application. Mr. Lord has denied this.

Mr. Nielsen's only previous reference to Mr. Letendre was to state that Mr. Letendre had given a statement to RCMP investigators looking into complaints.

No indication was given by Mr. Favreau, in describing Mr. Letendre's phone calls, why an official of the Canadian justice minister would be asking counsel for the American government about arranging bail in the extradition proceedings.

OPPOSITION WINS POINT — Andrew Brewin, NDP Member of Parliament, is shown with a copy of his letter to the government in which his party demanded a wider inquiry into opposition charges of attempted bribery and coersion by two ministerial assistants. Thursday's letter said that if the demand were not met the NDP would support a Conservative motion which amounts to a vote of non-confidence in the government. The government today bowed to the opposition parties and broadened the scope of the inquiry. (CP Wirephoto)

Pearson Will Stay on Tour Despite Commons Uproar

WINNIPEG (CP)—After wavering several hours, Prime Minister Pearson decided Thursday night to complete his western tour rather than return to the Commons uproar in Ottawa.

On a plane-hopping trip, Mr. Pearson told a press conference in nearby Portage La Prairie he was not underestimating the seriousness of Opposition bribery and coercion charges in high places.

At the same time, until there is more evidence, "I do not call this a crisis." Charges and allegations are one thing, he said, and evidence is another.

An aide said that Mr. Pearson was to spend the night here with a relative as scheduled and address a Winnipeg Liberal raising Liberal dinner in Winnipeg tonight. Then he flies to Dorgyn for the Grey Cup game Saturday.

As he made his way from Saskatoon to Winnipeg Thursday, with stop-overs at Brandon and Portage La Prairie, Mr. Pearson said he had decided to return to Ottawa.

Then he reconsidered for a time and finally decided to stick to his schedule.

In Saskatchewan where he started the trip Mr. Pearson ignored the Commons tumult except for an occasional tongue-in-cheek aside.

Finally, in Portage, he broke the silence, telling a dinner crowd of 600 "we are going to see our way through our present difficulties" which have been exaggerated anyway.

He added there will be times when allegations are made "against people in government and if the people are found in the wrong they will be punished."

At the Portage press conference following the dinner he said names may appear in police reports such as the RCMP document on the bribery case with no hint of wrongdoing. That was for the judge to decide.

The opposition charges are under investigation, and if any action is necessary it will be taken when the examination is completed.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: As a complex low pressure system across central United States begins moving eastward snow will spread through Northern Ontario this afternoon and evening and persist on Saturday.

Meanwhile an area of wet snow and rain should pass through Southern Ontario late tonight and Saturday morning. However by Grey Cup time in Toronto the rain should have tapered off to drizzle although quite strong easterly winds may persist through the game.

In Nightdress and Ballroom Gown, Passengers See Duel With Death

The forward section of the Norwegian tanker, Stolt Dagali of Oslo, wallows in the Atlantic off the New Jersey coast after being sliced in two by the Israeli luxury liner Shalam early Thursday. Nineteen members of the tanker's crew lost their lives.

(AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP)—Nineteen crew members of a Norwegian tanker are dead or missing from a U.S. Thanksgiving Day tragedy in which their vessel was sliced in two by an Israeli luxury liner heading out on a Caribbean cruise.

The collision occurred 18 miles off the New Jersey coast shortly after 2 a.m. Thursday in dense fog.

The stern quarter of the tanker sank in the pall of darkness and fog. Water poured into the liner's bow compartments, which were sealed off.

Clad mostly in nightdress or ballroom attire, many of the cruise liner's 616 passengers, including 31 children mainly from Toronto and Montreal, raced to the decks to watch throughout the night. Passengers booked at Montreal included Mrs. S. Clark, Cornwall, Ont.

Eventually, 34 of the tanker's 43-member crew were snatched from the seas, from small lifeboats and from the barely floating forward section of the vessel. Among them were a steward-ess—the lone woman aboard—and the tanker's captain.

FINED 13 BODIES

The Atlantic yielded 13 bodies. A massive daylong search of the area finally was called off at sundown without any trace of six men still missing.

The vessels involved were the $20,000,000 new liner Shalom, flagship of the Israeli merchant fleet, and the 12,723-ton Norwegian tanker Stolt Dagali.

The 629-foot-long, 25,320 - ton Shalom had sailed from New York at 11:15 p.m. EST the night before, after a round of gay farewell parties on what was to have been a leisurely 10-day cruise to The West Indies.

Aboard the sparkling white ship were 1,076 persons. They included crew members and a host of entertainers. No one suffered an injury of any consequence, it was reported.

Tough Viet Nam Premier Wins First Round

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Tran Van Hong's declaration of martial law and his obvious intention to crush anti - government riots with bullets if necessary appeared today to have won the scrappy South Vietnamese leader a first-round victory over his militant opponents.

Predicted mass demonstrations failed to materialize Thursday and today. The powerful Buddhist leadership apparently was shying away from a showdown in the streets, at least for the present.

The National Buddhist Institute was closed by barbed wire strung up by the Buddhists. Signs proclaimed there would be no demonstrations today.

Barbed wire was removed from around Chief of State Phan Khac Suu's palace, but troops were on the alert to crush any renewal of the demonstrations which were staged daily from Sunday through Wednesday. Hoong proclaimed martial law Wednesday night.

Hoong in a broadcast said the Communist Viet Cong had played a role in the riots and that they were fomented by "groups of irresponsible people (who) have either innocently or deliberately fallen in with Communist plans and incited the most unoccupied and innocent sectors of the population."

Communist terrorists continued at work in Saigon today. A grenade exploded in the yard of a U.S. aid mission's guest house. No one was hurt.

The Soviet Union meanwhile stepped in with a strong warning against any U.S. plans to carry the war to North Viet Nam.

In an "authorized" statement published by the Soviet news agency Tass, Moscow said it was ready to provide the Hanoi regime with "necessary assistance" in the event of U.S. armed attacks.

North Viet Nam accused U.S. and South Vietnamese warships of bombarding the North Vietnamese island of Con Go, off the northern portion of the demilitarized zone, on Wednesday.

Quebec Cheese Not Selling For More Than Ont. Make Convention Members Told

Recent claims that Quebec cheese was selling for a higher price in the United Kingdom than was Ontario cheese could be taken with a "grain of salt," according to Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board chairman Hector C. Arnold of Campbellford.

Speaking at the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Convention here Thursday, Mr. Arnold said that government figures did not bear out the claim.

He said that the price of milk paid to producers at the farm was the true indication of cheese prices and in this respect Ontario producers last summer consistently received more than did Quebec producers.

He quoted figures to show that Ontario cheese producers received up to 16 per cwt. more for cheese milk than did farmers in Quebec.

Actually, he said that during a recent visit to the United Kingdom, he had ascertained that English buyers were making two to three cents per pound less for Quebec cheese than for Ontario cheese.

Since Ontario producers organized they had been able to set the price of cheese. Production had doubled in the past 10 or 12 years and domestic consumption had risen from 31 million to more than 100 million, Mr. Arnold said.

And many factories during the past summer had been forced to turn away milk. This would not be so if the price for cheese was not good, Mr. Arnold said.

Other speakers during the closing session of the cheesemakers convention included J. M. Bain, Director, Milk Products Division, Ontario Department of Agriculture; Tom Dickson, secretary, Central Ontario Milk Sanitarians Association, and John Keay, Dairy Products Section, Food Products Branch, Department of Industry, Ottawa.

Also heard was Dr. D. M. Irvine, dairy science department, OAC Guelph.

Ontario Dairy Princess, Miss Elizabeth Crawford, told of her recent three weeks trip to the United Kingdom where she attended the London dairy show and farms in England, Scotland and Ireland.

County Museum Offers Special Yule Display

A special Christmas display opens this Saturday afternoon at the Hastings County Museum, 240 Church street.

Museum officials feel that the display has something for everyone, whether young or old.

The Cowdery Gallery of European furniture, pictures and silver has been rearranged and splendidly decorated, the decorations being supplied by Mrs. J. A. Blackburn.

All visitors to the museum will receive a small gift, a reproduction of an 1880 pussie card. The cards have been reprinted by the County Museum and are just as much fun today as when they were printed first.

The museum is open every Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 and extended hours will be announced early in December. Group tours are available also.

Few Elections Seem Imminent In the County

Although many nominations are not being held until tonight already a few elections in Hastings County municipalities seem imminent as a result of last night's nomination meetings.

The entire council at the village of Tweed has been returned by acclamation for another year while Madoc Reeve Tom Burnside has also received acclamation for another year.

But a fight for council and school board appears almost certain in Deseronto, while there are also election possibilities in Tyendinaga and the combined township of Elzevir and Grimsthorpe and also for council in Madoc village.

In Tyendinaga there could be an election for reeve, council and school board. Reeve Charles Long and Deputy Reeve Sid Fitzgerald were nominated for the township, while Herbert Harvey received acclamation as deputy reeve.

FIVE NOMINEES

There are five nominees for three positions on council, Gene Whalen, Carman Gibson, Leslie McLaren, Ray Hunt and William Mooney.

In addition there are about 12 nominees for the five positions on the township school board.

At Tweed it was acclamation all around as Reeve Guy B. Hughes was returned for a third term; Councillors reclaimed are Mrs. Barbara Allen, Ron Way, Robert Wood, and Stewart Lessard, while Keenan replaces Bob Palmateer on the village school board.

In Elzevir there is a possibility of an election for the reeveship with incumbent Reeve Ed McMurray and Bill Credicott being nominated. There were five nominees for the three positions on council, Kenneth Cassidy, Kenneth Smith, Ed. Alexander, Joe Kehoe, and Charles Reavis.

For school trustee C. Gordon, Francis Baker and Donald Brough were nominated for two positions to be filled.

There will be no election in Carlow township in North Hastings.

Reeve Gerald Caldwell has been given an acclamation while the four councillors are Mac Douglas, Gilbert Mackey, Gordon Mayhew and Thomas Fulton.

The three required nominees for school trustees are Frances Mackey, M. Whyte and John Whyte.

Eleven Candidates Qualify For Seven Aldermanic Seats Up for Election on Dec. 7

Entries in Belleville's 1964 municipal election stakes are off and running.

Qualification deadline last night pitted a field of six sitting aldermen against five citizen challengers for the seven council vacancies.

(Watching from the sidelines will be seven acclaimed public school trustees and PUC Commissioner Harry Rollins, also acclaimed when nominee Mac Smith failed to qualify.)

Separate school trustees also will run for the election post in three wards.

At no time was civic disinterest more obvious than last night's empty stillness of the city hall when clerk Adam Stalker formally called the closing of qualifications at 9 p.m.

Witnesses on occasion that usually draws involved candidates and sparks a flurry of last-deadline phone calls, were two of his assistants and one reporter.

Then were a couple of late-night cleaners somewhere in the building.

The rest was a tepid silence.

Not even a single candidate was present to discover the size and form of the field he had declared himself against.

Not one voting caller phoned to elicit the names of those who will be seeking association with voter sympathy up to election night, December 7th.

This will be the balloting schedule on that date with the names of aldermanic candidates listed in alphabetical order:

COUNCIL
(7 to be elected)

H. JACK ALLIN
GEORGE C. BROWN
T. A. CARRUTHERS
G. F. CUNNINGHAM
ENOS DAVIS
JACK DEACON
EUGENE HARRISON
THOMAS LALLY
J. E. McKINNEY

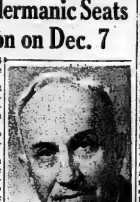
SEPARATE SCHOOLS



Ward 1—Victor M. Kirby, district opens.
Gordon Cooney.

Ward 2—Paul Fleming, Ernest Read.

Ward 4—William J. Flynn, Paul G. Wahl.

In addition there are three plebiscites—on fluoridation of city water, reduction of aldermanic to ten aldermen and mayor and replacement of the present Parks Board by a seventh committee.

Trustee election officials fear the lukewarm response to both nomination and qualification events in the past two nights indicates a low turnout of voters at the December 7th polls. Absence of a mayoralty contest also may rule against public interest in the election campaign.

ALD. WISHART RETIRES

Traditionally it adds the sophisticated political spice to the campaign. Without it, the burden for keeping election involvement simmering falls on the 11 aldermanic candidates.

There is one man missing from the line-up of incumbents. He is Alderman George Wishart, a member of council since 1959, with a popular record at the polls.

Alderman Wishart, although nominated Wednesday night, did not choose to qualify for another term.

His six fellow councillors perilous for a re-election bid are Allin, Brown, David, Deacon, Harrison and Murray.

Opposition from these five challengers:

G. F. Carruthers, independents businessman, owner of a district dry cleaners.

G. F. Cunningham, CNR employee, and local labor leader as president of the Belleville District Labor Council.

Thomas Lally, young lawyer who also holds a brief as an assistant Crown Attorney.

J. E. McKinney, independently in business for himself as a city realtor.

Ken Soden, public accountant, actively associated with city politics.

All these will be pressing individual causes with the city's electorate for the next eleven days.

Pacing their election activity will be Mr. Stalker and his staff who must organize voting facilities at 65 polls accounting for exactly 18,379 known qualified voters.

Polls are dispersed in varying volume across the polling subdivisions from 980 in poll 17 (Moira-North Front-College West) down to 37 in poll 31 (College East-University-Highway 401).

The only other nominee who failed to qualify was Zdenek Kvarda, young city business man, active with the Jaycees, who

Women's Spiel At Curling Club Much Enjoyed

The bonspiel season at the Quinte Curling Club opened on Thursday, when the Women's section of the club held an invitation event with 16 rinks competing and drawn from the Kingston Curling Club, the Catarraqui Golf and Country Club Gananoque, Trenton Curling Club, Trenton RCAF club, Newmarket, Scarborough and Belleville. The spiel was under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Bialkowski and her committee of Mrs. Jessie Baber, Mrs. Helen McCorquodale, Mrs. Agnes Benn, Mrs. Ella Fisher and Mrs. Betty Weymark.

There was plenty of hospitality and friendliness, the ice was excellent and the competition keen. The women enjoyed a full course dinner with all the trimmings. Instead of the usual three eight end games the spiel consisted of two ten-end contests which allowed the spiel to close in plenty of time for the competitors to arrive home at a reasonable hour.

A Belleville rink of Mrs. Gwen Monson, Mrs. Dr. Preston, Mrs. Jessie Baber with Mrs. Helen McCorquodale as skip won the two-game high score in the first draw and a Kingston rink of Mrs. M. McFie, Mrs. Doc Dyer, Mrs. Laurie Guest with Mrs. Fran Miller, as skip, were winner of the second draw. The runner-up in the first draw was a rink from The Cataraqui Club, Mrs. Ruth Gallow, Mrs. Shirley Graves, Mrs. Phil Fisher with Grace Saint as skip, while the second place rink in the second draw was from the Kingston Curling Club and was Mrs. Nina Goddard, Mrs. Ruth Hagerman, Mrs. Alice White, with Miss Leona Clow as skip.

The one-game winner in the first draw was a rink from the Kingston Club and included Mrs. Irene Mott, Mrs. Dixie Gray, Mrs. Pat Clare with Mrs. Blanche Lloyd as skip while the one-game winner in the second draw was a Belleville rink of Mrs. Joan Shepherd, Mrs. Helen Binning, Mrs. Lee Beare with Mrs. Jane Sheppard as skip. Another Belleville rink of Mrs. Madge Cowley, Mrs. Joan Loder, Mrs. Miriam Graham with Mrs. Agnes Benn as skip failed to make the prize list.

At the conclusion of the spiel the prizes were distributed and another enjoyable day of curling was brought to a close.

The two women nominated for council will, if they qualify, be the first women to run for public office in Trenton in a number of years.

However, they will not be setting a precedent as town officials' reporters last night can one other woman had twice run for council, and twice been defeated at the polls.

For the four vacant seats on the school board, eight men were nominated.

Incumbent E. M. Parker Jr.; Howard Aziz and James Coad.

Incumbent Donald Whitehead; W. D. Whitley and James Coad.

REPOR TO ELECTORS

Monday night, Nov. 30, this year's public officials will report to the taxpayers at a Citizens' meeting in the high school auditorium, starting at 8 p.m.

Contenders for office will present their platforms at this same meeting.

Ratepayers have been urged to attend this citizens' meeting by a number of public spirited persons, and the presidents of local societies have been asked their members to attend. The Rotary Club, meeting Monday night, will go to the meeting in a body, following the dinner meeting.

And at this meeting, the Trenton Citizens' Band will play. Election day is Monday, Dec. 7, and a list of names will be held at the town hall on Saturday, Dec. 5 for the benefit of those who may be shut in from town on election day.

Trenton voters will also be asked to vote on three questions. One is a question on which every voter may cast a vote.

They will be asked if they think town officials should approach the Ontario government with the suggestion that some other form of assessment appeal be found to pay for school construction costs.

At the moment, under existing legislation, school costs take a bite of 37 cents out of every dollar raised in the municipality.

It has been suggested that the provincial government in a re might add two per cent to the existing three per cent sales tax. Thus, all residents in the province would be contributing towards the school costs.

THREE QUESTIONS

In Trenton, a high percentage of homes are assessed for less than $2500. Taxes paid on one of these homes do not pay the cost to the municipality of sending one child to school for one year.

The other two questions to be asked Trenton voters are two on which voters entitled to vote on money by-laws only, will be permitted to vote. Those entitled to vote on money by-laws are property owners.

One question asks the voters if the municipality should make an annual grant to municipal golf course. The grant could be large, or small, as the need of the hand or the availability of funds for the purpose dictated.

The third question asks the voters if they are in favor of the town contributing up to $20,000 for a swimming pool in the present high school.

Voters answering this question are also asked if they are in favor of the pool being administered by the Trenton School Board and the Trenton Recreation Committee, jointly, with the mayor of the town acting as referee should a dispute arise between the two bodies.

Council included the swimming pool plebiscite at the request of the Board of Education.

If the pool is built in the high school, the board would receive a $16,000 grant on the hundred thousand dollar pool.

Also, if wheels are not put into motion by the end of the year, a $25,000 grant towards the pool, promised by the Trenton Lions Club, may be withdrawn.

The school board members themselves have promised to enable the services of local businessmen to raise an additional $30,000 towards the costs of the swimming pool.

GET OUT VOTE

Meanwhile, town officials are concerned about the lack of interest shown by the town's eligible voters about going to the polls on election day.

For the past few years, less than one-third of the eligible voters have gone to the polls.

This year, the members of the Trenton Board of Education have asked clerk-comptroller G. W. Larry to conduct an intensive letter to parents, asking them to vote. The letters will be sent home with the students.

This might have the end result of improving the vote, as a similar experiment by the Trenton Chamber of Commerce a few years ago bore fruit.

Council will have a big job to do next year, with a second bridge across the Trent River in the offing, and numerous decisions to be made regarding the spending of the taxpayers dollar.

The members of the school board and the utilities commission have equally weighty problems in the offing, and with this in view, a number of public spirited citizens have come forward to urge the voters to turn up at the polls on Dec. 7 and make it a record vote for the town of Trenton.

To Receive Bursary

Two hundred students, among them Barbara Jean Lindsay of Belleville, will receive bursaries, prizes and scholarships at Waterloo University College, Waterloo, Ontario, tonight.

Miss Lindsay will be presented with a Dominion-Provincial bursary.

Gentlemen and Players

In England, one of the annual cricket classics is "Gentlemen vs. Players."

The "players"—are the professionals. The "gentlemen" are amateurs. They play together on the same county clubs—but there is a distinction between them.

Basically, we suppose, this is a distinction of class. Those who can afford to play without being paid do so; those who are not "of independent means" receive remuneration.

Some people, though, hold the conviction there is a difference in the way in which "gentlemen" and "players" play the game. This conviction is born of realism. The professional is playing under additional pressure, because his livelihood depends upon how he performs. If this does not result in his yielding to the temptation to bend the rules more often than the amateur, it can only be because he is a better man. "Gentlemen" may not be better than players—as John O'Hara says in "From the Terrace" not all who play for gentlemen's schools are gentlemen. But is there any reason to expect that the players should all be better than the gentlemen? We doubt it.

What happens, when professionals compete, is that one or two men find ways to evade the rules and others, in self-defence, copy them. Soon, it is taken for granted every player will do certain things if he can get away with it. The unwritten code generally demands that these infractions shall not endanger the opponent's ability to continue to earn a living from the game. But anything else goes. For instance, the estimable Gordon Howe, in his column in Monday's edition of this newspaper, described methods of holding and interfering with another player. "Wise old defencemen have developed the technique to a science," he reported. "Study them sometime." If Mr. Howe is not actually admiring the illegal skills of defencemen, he is certainly not indignant about them.

After this, it is almost a relief to meet a character like Angelo Mosca, who publicly announced his conviction on CBC-TV ("This Hour Has Seven Days) that it is impossible to play dirty football unless you deliberately kick an opponent in the face. This is an exaggeration, but in football where it is an accepted part of the game to try and injure an opponent, legally, it is much easier to be honest than in some other games.

Those who believe in the value of sports for character-training, though, had better stick to tennis. This is the only game in which, playing without officials, a conscientious group of players will habitually give an opponent the better of the deal in a close call in their own court.

It is a game for gentlemen—but if you find a man who cheats at tennis then he is a much more reprehensible character than Big Ang, coming in a little late on the off-chance that his opponent's leg still be moving and physically unable to change the flight of his 260 pounds in time to avoid a penalty call.

Those who do not understand that just do not understand what sport is, or should be, all about.

A Dither, a Dollar, an Old Scholar

Canada's tax-sharing arrangements have come under fire.

This is nothing new? But wait, this Ottawa critic thinks that the federal government is giving too much to the provinces, not too little.

At each federal-provincial conference, he argues, Ottawa "gets talked out of more tax space for the provinces." Instead of raising taxes to recoup these losses, it accepts a deficit and calls it "planned."

"There is just no future for a nation in this kind of dithering around," he says.

Who is this heretic? Dr. Kenneth Eaton. What does he know about taxation? He is a former assistant deputy minister of finance. What did the federal government have when he held this post? Surpluses. What did it do with these surpluses? Reduce the national debt.

How old is Dr. Eaton? Seventy.

That explains everything. He belongs to a generation of thrifty, quaint ideas that a nation, like an individual, should only borrow when it had to do so in very tough times, should cut its coat to fit its cloth in normal times and pay off its old debts when times were good.

Those days, it seems, are gone for ever—though we still have to be convinced that one can borrow continually, never pay off debts and keep the piper happy while one dances to his unpaid tune.

To Your Good Health
Nicking Pimples With Sterile Needle May Help

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 14 and don't have too many pimples but I do have whiteheads. I can't seem to get rid of them.

At night before I go to bed I wash my face lightly with an old toothbrush, using a special medicated soap. Then I put on a medicated lotion and leave it until morning, when I wash it off and splash my face with cold water. This helps my pimples but not the whiteheads. What do you suggest? — M. A. K.

I am printing nearly all of your letter because your program is effective and sensible for preventing pimples and acne. My only suggestion is that a face bush might have softer bristles and be less irritating to the skin. Anyway, you're controlling the pimples.

But whiteheads can be run-ons. They are the cysts in the oil glands of the skin. The oily (sebaceous) material cannot escape, or cannot escape rapidly enough, from these glands.

Further, a whitehead is covered by a thin layer of skin. That is why it remains a whitehead instead of being a blackhead. The oily material turns dark when exposed to air.

The whitehead (and blackhead) problem is greatest in the teen years and tends to subside as you get older. But, naturally, you want to know what you can do now.

Controlling whiteheads isn't easy. They cannot be removed as easily as blackheads by use of a simple expresser. The skin underneath a whitehead is so much pressure can cause damage. So be careful about that.

Sometimes the skin over the whitehead can be nicked with a sterile needle, after which the whitehead can be squeezed.

This isn't likely to be a do-it-yourself project. Perhaps your mother could do it. Be sure the needle is sterile, as well as the skin. Applying alcohol to the skin will destroy surface germs and prevent infections.

Your mother should do it carefully and gently. The purpose is to make a tiny opening in the skin, and not to dig the whitehead out with the needle.

If the whitehead is around the eyelids, it is especially large. I recommend that you see your doctor or a skin specialist.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have friends who give their baby beer everyday. Isn't this harmful for a six-month-old infant? They also chew its food in preference to giving it strained. — G. I.

Of course, it is bad to start giving a taste for alcohol in a baby.

As for chewing the baby's food there could be a better way of making certain that the poor little fellow will be thoroughly exposed to every germ from gum diseases, dysentery or a host of others — that may be in the grown-up's mouth. The mouth is a notorious breeding place for germs.

That is why I have long recommended that parents (and all adults) kiss babies on the back of the neck, or cheek, but not on the mouth. There are feeding spoons available which have a tiny rod for mother to taste from and a larger end to feed baby with, thus avoiding contamination.

Dear Dr. MOLNER: How long after a man's tubes have been tied must a wife be careful not to become pregnant? — Mrs. G. H.

In a man you don't call it "having the tubes tied." It is having the "vas deferens" cut or tied — the ducts through which the sperm flows. But the answer is: There may still be some sperm left in the seminal vesicles for a week to 10 days after the operation. For that length of time impregnation (pregnancy) is still possible.

Strictly Personal
Conscience Shaped by Our Society

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the most fascinating discoveries I have made is that perhaps the most widespread misconception among people consists in their idea of what "conscience" is.

Most of them really believe that conscience is "something inside you" that permits you to distinguish right from wrong—a kind of built-in traffic signal, automatically lighting up "Stop" or "Go," for moral acts.

Of course, it is nothing of the kind. What is built-in is the human capacity for conscience, which no other animal has; it is like an empty vessel that can be filled with nearly any kind of social content.

What does the "conscience" of the cannibal tell him? That it is wrong and immoral not to eat your enemies after conquering them in battle, that to bury them under the ground is dreadfully impious and sickeningly indecent.

In one of the most moving passages of "Huckleberry Finn," Twain makes Huck express shame at himself for helping Nigger Jim escape. Huck was violating his "conscience" and was afraid he would go to hell for doing so. His socially-conditioned sense of right and wrong warned him that he was committing a sin in violating the canons of slavery.

It is precisely because conscience is an empty vessel waiting to be filled that education becomes so important — not mere book-learning, but education in its broadest sense of training the mind and shaping the character. If we were born with infallible detectors for good and evil, then conscience would be a reliable guide; but it is not, and cannot be.

And, once we grasp this fact, we can possibly comprehend the adamance of the white Southerners today in the civil rights struggle. Whatever their social and economic and psychic pressures may also be at work, the white Southerners are really living their "conscience." A deep, deep voice within them tells them that integration is wrong, and no amount of reasoning on the conscious level can still that voice.

Our conscience is shaped by the society we live in; but the whole imperative of religion demands that we rise above and beyond the society we live in. And this is almost impossibly hard for most people to do, white or black, North or South. Humanity is trapped in partial loyalties, and mistakes them for ultimate loyalties. This is the basic idolatry of mankind, and the thing that separates us from God and from one another.

"Christianity has not failed," said Chesterton many years ago. "It has simply not been tried." Nor will it be tried until we manage to achieve a universal conscience that takes precedence over the conscience of class, or color, or section, till the little gods who murder God.

"Hurry It up Dear — or There'll Be a Mighty Disappointed Little Boy in Ottawa!"

Beds Tend To Get Filled

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Parkinson's Law that, "Work expands to fill the time available." is a familiar maxim, to which most of us procrastinating humans will allow quite a degree of truth. If we have to get the storm windows on within a month, it will take a month to get them on. If it has to be done today, it can get done today.

There may be a variant of Parkinson's Law at work in the balancing of supply and demand for hospitals. At the annual meeting of the Ontario Hospital Association, a hospital consultant, R. J. C. McQueen, called attention to great variations in the rates at which hospitals are used.

Canadians seem to be at least as healthy as Americans, but in Canada we had people admitted to hospitals last year at the rate of 180 per 1,000 population. In the United States the admission rate was 134 per 1,000.

Mr. Newfoundland the hospital admissions last year worked out to 109 per 1,000 people, while in Saskatchewan the rate was 222 per 1,000. Surely there are not twice as many sick and injured people on the prairies, proportionately, as there are on the Atlantic coast.

In the Winchester neighborhood in Eastern Ontario, hospital admissions were 126 per 1,000, while at Hearst, in Northern Ontario admissions were 84 per 1,000.

Climate has something to do with these variations, we suspect. A doctor who is willing to drive around from house to house on the snowplowed roads of Southern Ontario might prefer to have his patients groupped in hospitals if he had to fight the snow and storms of winter to do house calls in far Northern Ontario.

However, the figures also suggest that there is a kind of Parkinson's Law operating. If new hospital space is there, doctors will order in enough cases to use the space.

Mr. McQueen suggested that thinking about hospital expansion might be turned around instead of trying to expand hospitals whenever they appear to be getting crowded, it might be better to set a figure for the amount of hospital space which should be available. His suggestion were enough hospitals to provide intensive care for 125 annual admissions per 1,000 population.

Canada was born in debt to the time of $23,000,000. By last year this grand old lady owed some 215 times to over $20,000,000,000.

From 1867 to 1912, while population was rising by only 20 per cent, the national debt increased by 600 per cent. It levelled off from 1912 to 1939, debt rising at about the same rate — 25 per cent — as population. Then there was a wartime leap from 1939 to 1947. This time debt soared 350 per cent, but population only 23 per cent. Since then the gap has been closing. The 1947 — 63 increase rates are: population 13 per cent, debt 41 per cent.

Private debt for consumer credit, loans, mortgages and other forms installed at the latest tally over $8,000,000,000. So overall indebtedness, national and private, averages about $1,500 for every man, woman and child in Canada, say $4,500 per family. But who cares?

Things Not As They Seem

Brockville Recorder

Things are not always as they seem.

Now that President Johnson has been elected president of the United States in his own right, the local member of parliament, John R. Matheson, recalls an incident that took place during the signing of the Columbia River Treaty that again proves this fact.

Mr. Matheson was riding in the limousine carrying President Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson from Vancouver to the treaty signing ceremonies in Blaine, Wash. Mr. Pearson and the President were discussing matters of mutual concern to the two countries, Mr. Pearson pressing for the settlement of a particular issue.

The President remarked that it would require the attendance of the secretary of the interior, who was riding behind them in another car. Mr. Pearson suggested they stop their car and get the secretary. The President agreed and the chauffeur pulled up on a lonely stretch of road.

As Mr. Johnson stepped from the car, he stepped into the midst of a small group of people, who were walking along the road, a mother and her three children. Seeing suddenly: "Where did they come from," the President, who had been recognized by the mother and children, walked over to them, shook their hands and greeted them. At this point the press photographers and the TV boys in the motorcade raced to record the event.

The story got the big play in the evening newspapers, on TV and on radio, all of it keyed to the considerate act of a president who would stop his motorcade to greet a mother and her brood.

As we noted, things are not always what they appear to be, but then newsmen cannot be expected to be mind readers either. They have to call them as they see them. But the President and Mr. Pearson, with the secretary in their car, did settle their problem.

School children in the public school inspectorate of South Hastings and South Lennox have gathered approximately 700 bags of milkweed pods for harvesting to make filler for life preservers, it has been announced by the inspector for the above mentioned area.

Freshly picked pods weigh about 15 pounds per bag at the start of the season but when fully dried weigh only about five pounds. Prices are based on full bags, not on weight, with each properly filled bag containing about 300 pods. School children receive 20 cents per bag for milkweed pods when they are properly dried. Picked during the autumn months, the pods were placed in special bags supplied through the Agriculture Supplies Board and have now been dried in readiness for delivery.

Nov. 27th, 1924

In one of the hottest election campaigns ever waged in the riding of West Hastings and with the largest vote ever polled in the riding, Arthur Edward Hume, the Liberal candidate and Belleville hardware merchant, was elected yesterday by a majority of 450 votes over E. Gour Ketcheson, K.C., M.P., the conservative candidate. Some of the remote northern subdivisions have not yet been recorded, but no change in the result is anticipated.

Jets to Have Time Trouble

Tulsa Tribune

Recently 200 airline stewardesses had a convention in Chicago. One of the subjects discussed of their bosses concerned the food service for passengers on flights coming 3 times the speed of sound) flights.

For example, on such a flight from London to Los Angeles, if the trip left at 6 a.m. it would arrive in Los Angeles at 6 a.m. the same day and land at Los Angeles at 10:30 p.m. the same day and land at Los Angeles at 10:30 p.m., or one and one-half hours before leaving London. Would breakfast be served aloft?

Or, stewardesses will be leaving Manila at 11 a.m. on the fifth of the month and arrive in Los Angeles at 10:30 p.m. on the fourth and land at St. Louis at 1:15 a.m. on the fifth. They may transfer immediately to a westbound flight taking off at 2 a.m. on the fifth and land at Honolulu, their home base at 11:30 on the fourth. Assuming they had received their pay up to and including the fifth, would they owe the company when they get home on the fourth?

Answers: Never mind breakfast. We're too dumbfounded to eat. And, wait in St. Louis a day. There's a fine zoo in Forest Park.

Texsol was dumped for a 28-cent loss to 53 cents in active dealings in the speculative mining group. Northcal was ahead 15 cents to $1.13.

Base metals took a minor setback. Highland Bell sagged 50 cents to $7.50, Leitch 20 cents to $4.70 and Falconbridge ½ to 85½.

On index, industrials were up .17 to 166.39, western oils .09 to 95.70 and the exchange index .15 to 155.45 Golds were down .08 to 153.27 and base metals .02 to 71.58. Volume at 11 am. was 1,366,000 shares compared with 1,886,000 shares traded at the same time Thursday

On Thursday an industrial rally which started Wednesday carried through as speculative issues lost some of their steam.

CPR . . . para 2—FS

CPR was the outstanding industrial, gaining 1¾ to 54 after selling as high as 55 at one point. Imperial Bank of Commerce tacked on 1¾ to 69 in an otherwise softer bank group. Versatile Manufacturing put on a late spurt and advanced 1 to 13. Rothmans and Dominion Bridge were other Bi gainers at 22 and 23 respectively.

Papers moved back into favor with Consolidated ahead 1¼ to 41¼. Abitibi was up ¼ to 13¾.

Windfall, a well-known name to speculators, had a brief run, climbing 6½ to 40 cents. McWatters which sparked the current speculative spree with some favorable findings on a nickel property near Timmins, fell one cent to $1.50.

Base metals were higher as Teson Bay gained ½ to 71½.

Selling came into these issues when it was learned that a writ had been obtained asking that the property on which Texas Gulf Sulphur made its huge base metals find near Timmins be returned to its original owners. Leitch and a Highland Bell subsidiary already have issued a writ claiming ownership to certain sections of this property.

On index, industrials were ahead .73 to 166.22, base metals .14 to 71.80, and the exchange index .68 to 155.30. Volume was 6,191,000 shares compared with 4,400,000 Wednesday.

Licence Plates Go on Sale On December 1

Ontario's 1965 licence plates for passenger and dual purpose automobiles and motorcycles will go on sale Tuesday, December 1st, Transport Minister Irwin Haskett has announced.

The new plates will have white lettering and numerals on a blue background — the first change from black-and-white combination since 1956. The plates will be on sale at all licence issuing offices throughout the province.

Expiry date for 1964 passenger, dual purpose and motorcycle plates will be midnight Sunday, February 28, 1965, and there will be no extension.

These dates for sale and expiry apply only to plates, not to drivers' licences. Under the new system of issuing drivers' licences begun a year ago, an expiry date is shown on each individual licence. This date coincides with the driver's birth-date in either 1965 or 1966 and each driver will receive an applying by mail when it is time to renew his driver's licence.

For commercial vehicles and trailers, the later issuing dates of the past two years will again apply. 1965 plates for commercial vehicles and trailers will go on sale Monday, March 1st, 1965, and the expiry date for 1964 commercial plates will be midnight, March 31st, 1965.

RESOLVED ON RESEARCH

Youth Loses Licence On Driving Charge

A 17-year-old Belleville youth today lost his licece for four months for dangerous driving after Crown Attorney John Pringle described him as one "of those horsepower cowboys".

Stephen Fraser Dick, 96 Chatham Street, also was fined $50 and $26 costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Dick, who pleaded not guilty, was charged after police chased his automobile from the Fairgrounds around the Dunbarton West Moira Streets area in the early hours of November 8.

Police Constable William Armstrong testified the chase ranged up to speeds of 65 miles an hour with Dick dousing his car lights, driving through five stop streets, and skidding sideways on several turns.

The youth said he "more or less panicked" when he spotted the police cruiser while speeding through the Fairgrounds.

Award of Merit For New 'Y' Given Board

An exhibition of photographs of the local 'Y' building is being held at the moment in the Ontario Association of Architects building at 50 Park Road, Toronto for approximately one month. Following this the exhibition will tour major centres in Ontario. Arrangements have also been made for all architectural magazines and newspapers across Ontario to carry photos and the story of the award.

Credit of this Award goes to architect Eb Zeidler, the general contractor Hugh Murray Ltd., the Board of Directors for selecting the design and of course to the hundreds of contributors who made it possible for our city to acquire a "Y" building to be proud of.

Men Were Amazed to See Woman Geologist in Bush Says Pretty 24-Year-Old

By ANNE MASON

EDMONTON (CP) — Resourcefulness and a yen for adventure are assets for a woman in an overwhelmingly male field, says geologist Alice V. Payne.

The attractive 24 - year - old blonde, the only woman geologist in any Northwest Territories mining camp last summer, says "the men were amazed to see a woman in the bush."

Miss Payne, taking her master of science degree in the geology of hard rocks at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, was in Yellowknife doing field work for her thesis when she had an opportunity to go farther north.

She took her pick, packsack and bedroll and hitched a ride in a bush plane to Coronation Gulf, 75 miles within the Arctic Circle, where a mining syndicate was doing exploration work for gold.

"The men — 14 geologists — promised I'd be treated just like any other geologist."

But they gave her a special tent with a cot, straw mattress, a stove and three oil drums with a plank across them for a dressing table. The men lived in one large tent with bunk beds and a stove.

"And the prospectors did all the cooking — it was really good."

LIKES FIELD WORK

She spent a week in the Arctic camp, 975 miles north of Edmonton, collecting about 150 pounds of rock samples for further study here this winter. She also did reconnaissance work with other geologists and mapped rock formations and continental drift.

A geologist's basic equipment is a pick, a compass, a labelling pencil and sometimes a canoe. Miss Payne says she usually wears tough pants, a heavy wool shirt and water-proof field boots for the muskeg, insulated if possible with heavy socks.

The tall, blue-eyed blonde says she prefers field work to being in the laboratory and likes a job that can take her "anywhere, any time and under practically any conditions." She worked for the department of mines and technical surveys in Ottawa for a year.

She says it is often hard for a woman geologist to find work, as mining companies usually will not hire them. "Women can't go underground due to miners' superstitions."

"If a woman wants to continue in geology, she must be prepared to buck opposition and to accept the public's mental image of a rugged, tough woman who outdoes the men."

Miss Payne enjoys riding and owns three horses. She also loves to curl, ski and play the piano.

She attributes her interest in rocks to her family being drenched in the geology and oil business. Her father prospected in the north during the 1920s and '30s and the family has spent many summers in Yellowknife, where her father's partnership has a 40-per-cent interest in a mine owned by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

Miss Payne says her ambitions are similar to those of her fiance, Robin Leech, 27. She would like to do research, teach and also do field work during the summer.

Mr. Leech spent his summer in Alert, N.W.T., 2,200 miles northeast of Edmonton—studying spiders. He collected about 20,500 of them and pickled all but 50 in ethyl alcohol for study this winter.

He is training to be an arachnologist, a specialist in the study of spiders.

Susanna's Family Fare

BASIL DAZZLE

Dear Susanna: Like most women who love to cook, I have a dozen or more jars of spices through which I must rummage every time need a sprinkle of this or a dash of that.

Finally, I woke up. I lined them all up alphabetically! This was simply great, except that I don't have a narrow shelf for them, and they kept getting knocked over whenever I reached in behind for something else.

What did I do? I moved them to the end of the cupboard and placed them against the side wall in alphabetical order. This way dear, is the perfect solution! In fact, since there were still a few left over I nailed four little brackets a few inches above the row of jars and added a very narrow little shelf for the balance of the bottles. I have even written the names of the contents of each one on the wall directly above it — which makes it even easier to pick up the right one at a glance. — Mrs. M. Marks.

Rejected Too Often
Group Care Needed for Disturbed Girls

By GLADYS WARD

It is becoming increasingly difficult to get foster homes for children, Mr. Bruce Kerr, executive director of the local Children's Aid Society, told this interviewer from The Ontario Intelligencer.

"The amount of money offered does not appeal to many people as it once did. Years ago young people came into the care of the society for physical mistreatment from horrible deprived homes. These conditions do not exist to the same degree now because welfare has taken over and their needs are taken care of."

REJECTED TOO OFTEN

Group homes are being tried for some girls who cannot accept family living. These girls are emotionally disturbed because of conditions that led to the breakdown of their homes. They have lived with relatives, then moved to other relatives until the supply was exhausted.

They may have lived in foster homes for awhile, and then through no fault of their own, been forced to leave. By this time they have been rejected too often and are unable to accept family life.

These are children with problems that pose problems to the people who care for them. Their hostility shows is unacceptable behavior. They seldom display any emotions, or say "please" or "thank you." Because of their relationship with their own parents they cannot accept foster parents.

These children need more than food, shelter and clothes. A house with modern conveniences is not their greatest need. It takes a particular person with the gift of understanding to know their needs.

Prior to coming into the care of the Society they feel they have been rejected and may be real or imaginary — because their mother has been unable to look after them.

These girls can live and do their best in group life. It is rather like the army. Their needs are looked after, but they do not feel they need to respond. They need a strong figure they can respect, and one who is a good listener.

ONE PARENT ENOUGH

For this group it is not essential that there should be two parents. A widow may take two or three girls providing she meets the other requirements. There may be other young people in the home too. For younger children, of course, two parents are necessary. A monthly retainer is paid, plus a per diem rate.

The Society has had 80 per cent success with these girls. They become able to accept what society has to offer.

"To raise the regular boarding home rates by 20 cents a day would mean an increase of $6,000 a year on the child care budget," said Mr. Kerr. "The Society offers remuneration according to the needs of the child, and the care required. For instance, a woman who was a nurse and looks after an epileptic child would require more than one who had a healthy child."

HOPES FOR INCREASED RATE

Mr. Kerr hopes that the per diem rate for boarding homes will be increased by the end of the year. At present the Society gets $2.85 a day for child care, for supervision, medical care, dental care, clothing, food, board and other needs. Everything is paid by the municipality, which is then re-imbursed by the province with 40 per cent of the costs at the end of the year.

EDUCATION FUND

Public support is provided for the child until the age of 18, but many of these children can qualify for university, or can go on to be nurses, teachers, or for further training. A fund has been set up called the "Continuing Education Fund" to enable these young people to achieve the fullest potentialities they are capable of. The Society believed it had a moral responsibility to see that its former wards over the age of 18 received an education that would help them become, eventually, useful functioning members of society. The fund is administered by members, and was created by be-

Mother Models for Fun -- and Profit

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Herb Capozzi figures he's a lucky man.

He has a model football team, a model home and now—a model wife.

Dorothy Capozzi, wife of the general manager of the Western Football Conference British Columbia Lions, has become a model for fun and profit.

"It's fun, but I couldn't possibly model a great deal," she says wistfully.

"But perhaps four or five times a year. . . ."

Her top job, she admits, is tending the three Capozzi children, acting as husband Herb's hostess for the many entertaining chores they tackle, and caring for their rambling home in the exclusive British Properties district.

Dorothy was talked into trying modelling by Sharron Kent, wife of a West Coast lawyer and a leading model in her own right. Her first assignment was to help show the swimsuits to best advantage at the recent showing of beachwear in Vancouver.

Mrs. Irving Heft, in charge of the showing of 1965 beach styles, says:

"Dot could fast become one of the top models in Canada. She has the face, the figure and an instinct for doing things as they should be done without a great deal of coaching.

"It isn't often one finds an untrained girl who can adapt so quickly to the difficult and demanding chore."

Husband Herb started the whole thing when he mentioned to Mrs. Kent that he thought she have something interesting to do outside the household."

Her appearance in a creation called "illusion," was one of the top spots of the show. It's a two-piece, black, modified bikini with the midriff filled in with transparent stretch nylon.

Sharron and Dorothy teamed up in identical striped suits—Mrs. Kent wearing the two-piece version and Mrs. Capozzi the single-piece costume.

MODEL FOR FUN—Dorothy Capozzi, wife of the general manager of the Western Football Conference champion British Columbia Lions, has become a model for fun and profit. She is shown modeling a creation called "illusion," a two-piece, black, modified bikini with the midriff filled in with transparent stretch nylon. Her top job, she admits, is tending the three Capozzi children, acting as a hostess for her husband, Herb's entertainments, chores and caring for their home. (CP Photo)

Readers' Friday Column

BY MARY MOORE

LETTER: Am enclosing a recipe for chilli con carne which is popular at buffets (with Christmas coming!) - more spicy than most, but not too hot. Also an herb bread which is so easy to make. We have it with big bowls of pea or lentil soup on Grey Cup Days! I have really enjoyed your column and find it one of the "plus" things. Mrs. Doreen Van T...P.S. This chili is excellent served just chilled and reheated. Add beans at time of reheating, so it can be prepared ahead and frozen for holidays. Also I cook it all afternoon if I have errands to do!

CHILI CON CARNE
(courtesy Mrs. Doreen Van T.)

1 cup sliced onions,
1 clove garlic,
1 lb. ground beef,
3 tablespoons shortening,
one 20-oz. can tomatoes,
½ cup catsup,
two 16-oz. cans kidney beans,
1 tablespoon chili powder,
1 teaspoon dry mustard,
1 teaspoon salt,
1 teaspoon white sugar,
½ teaspoon cinnamon,
¼ teaspoon cloves,
½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Cook onions and garlic and meat lightly in shortening - add rest of ingredients except beans. Simmer about 2 hours. Add beans - thicken with a little flour and water paste, and simmer half hour longer. Serves 6.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu

(Oven Dinner)

Baked Fish Fillets au Gratin; Stuffed Baked Potatoes (see Thursday); Blushing Cauliflower; Celery Hearts; Baked Spy Apples; Top Milk; Coffee.

HERB BREAD
(courtesy Mrs. Doreen Van T.)

2 yeast cakes,
2 cups warm water,
2 tablespoons sugar,
2 teaspoons salt,
2 tablespoons cooking oil,
6 cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour,
2 teaspoons savory,
1 teaspoon marjoram,
1½ teaspoons parsley flakes,
½ teaspoon thyme.

Dissolve yeast in warm water in mixing bowl. Stir well - add sugar, salt and oil, stir and let stand 5 minutes. Add half the flour and all of the herbs, beat smooth. Add remainder and knead till velvety - about 10 minutes. (I have fun at this point!) Add a little flour when necessary to keep dough from sticking. Place in greased bowl - oil the top - let rise until double - punch down and let rise again. Shape into two loaves, oil tops, let rise again on greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 minutes.

ANSWER: Your letter was perfectly timed. Grey Cup Day is an exciting one in our house too and I'm making your Chilli con Carne and Herb Bread to serve for our supper tomorrow night. Thanks a thousand.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

When you go to the movies or theatre, do you avoid creating an unnecessary stir or making noise distracting to others? You show a lack of consideration if you answer "No" to the following:

1. Do you follow the usher quietly to your seats, without laughing and talking on the way?
2. Do you wait for those already seated to make room, so you can get through the aisle with a minimum of fuss?
3. Do you remove your wraps and get settled as quickly as possible?
4. Do you avoid whispering and making comments during the show?
5. If you must eat candy or popcorn during a movie, do you do so without rattling the bag or wrappers?
6. After intermission at a play, do you return to your seat before the start of the next act?
7. Do you courteously stand and let others get to their seats without tripping over your feet?
8. Do you resist squirming or leaning forward in your seat, so that you don't block the vision of the person behind you?
9. If you've worn a hat, do you remove it before the ticketholder in the rear has to ask you to do so?
10. Do you show consideration for both the audience and the actors on the stage by waiting until the final curtain falls instead of dashing out to try to beat the crowd for a cab?

Remarriage to Ex-Partner Often Very Successful

DEAR ANN — I want to commend you on the advice you gave "Just Plain Miserable," the woman who announced to friends and relatives that her husband was an impossible scoundrel and that she was divorcing him. Several weeks later she changed her mind about wanting a divorce but she was too ashamed to take him back.

ANN LANDERS

I'd like to recite my own experience. It may be of value to others who are obstinate and blind.

When I learned my husband had been unfaithful I was deeply hurt. My friends and family agreed he was a louse and agreed I was too good for him. They urged me to get a divorce. So I did.

It didn't take long before I realized I was at least 50% to blame for what had happened. I realized, too, that the divorce had offered no solution but merely compounded the problems. I discovered, to my great disappointment, that my friends and family couldn't have cared less about my troubles.

By then my husband was ready to admit he had lost everything of value and deeply regretted his foolishness. We were remarried within eighteen months.

Our real friends were hoping all along we'd get back together. As for the others — those who told me I'd be crazy to take him back — I saw how wrong they were every time my children's faces beamed at the sight of their dad's car pulling into the driveway.

All this happened 15 years ago and every day I thank God for giving me the courage and good sense to reunite our home and make our marriage work. — LIVING PROOF.

DEAR LIVING — I'm sure thousands of divorced men and women who read your letter are at this moment regretting that they didn't take the same route.

I earnestly hope the slightly disenchanted wives and husbands in my reading audience (which means everybody —for what marriage can live up to the glowing image of the movies and novels?) will read "Living Proof's" letter again, and take a good look at their own marriage. It may not be the greatest but it's probably better than any alternative.

U.C.W. Meeting

WHITE'S U.C.W.

November meeting of White's U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. George Bilham on Wednesday afternoon with president Mrs. Albert Jones presiding. Mrs. George Bilham conducted the devotional part of the meeting.

Mrs. L. Dafoe gave a report of funds. It was decided to send for copies for "This Is Trinidad" to study in 1965. For almost 100 years the United Church has been closely associated with the Presbyterian Church in Trinidad, and it was felt the members ought to know more about Trinidad, where many of the Missionaries have served.

It was decided to hold the December meeting at White's Church. There will be a Christmas program climaxed by a dessert tea.

Some of the members wended their way to Wallbridge United Church where they had their afternoon tea.

Indifferent Husband Seeks Diversions Outside Home

DEAR DORIS — Gradually over a period of 15 years my husband goes out oftener by himself for an evening with the boys. Now he goes out three nights a week for cards, hunts each weekend in the fall, fishes in the spring and golfs in the summer. The results are, he is home mainly to rest. At first I begged him to spend more time with his family but gave that up and have built a shell of indifference instead.

This coldness I feel is not right. I realize it could be worse if another woman came into the picture but that will be next.

I asked him to see a family counsellor together with me but he refused. However, if you would give me the address of one perhaps I could go myself.

DORIS CLARK

I play a good hand of bridge but he doesn't enjoy doing very much with me. He even spends and invests the money we work for together without telling me. I do not go out to work but am penny wise at home.

Please let me know what else to try before the last spark of interest is lost. — MIXED UP.

• • •

DEAR MIXED UP — For what comfort it is, you aren't alone. By all means seek counselling through your regional welfare resources.

Life is change. With the lucky ones, as personalities mature, the changes bring them closer. But all too often marriage partners fall into the error of pursuing their own sweet ways then wake up one morning to find they are living with a stranger.

The fact that we can pick up the pieces and create a happy re-union later is a tribute to the flexibility of human nature. And to the warmth that can be rekindled between man and wife.

It's a two-way street. Each must endure the spotlight of self-examination; each must share the task of yielding a little, reaching out in love and self-giving, for the sake of the other and their progeny.

Could we hear from some who have weathered this winter of indifference and ushered in the warm spring sunshine which can come of taking a second look at life together?

Dozen Persons Nominated for Council Seats

Despite the fact it is an "off" year for the mayoralty and township contests, a spirited election fought by slates is shaping up for the town of Deseronto for both council and Board of Education positions.

With only three vacancies to be filled an even dozen persons, including two women, were nominated last night for council while there were nine nominees, also including two women, for the Board of Education. Here also three positions are to be filled.

Nominated for council were: Dr. D. C. McVicker, Robert Huffman and Albert Marks, together with John Webster, Ross Neal, Bert Lloyd, Mrs. Dorothy McCullough, James McVicker, Lawrence West, Mrs. Margaret Neal, George Jackson and Ambrose Garliand. Robert Huffman and Albert Marks are this year's council members.

Nominees for Board of Education are John R. Neal, Earl Keech, Mrs. Betty McVicker, Jack Spence, Donald Armitage, Harold Topping, Keith Brooks, Mrs. Grace Martin and Mrs. Gisele Saunders.

The first three persons named are members of this year's board.

Nominated for Public Utilities office are Ernest Luck and Donald Hobble, with one to be elected.

Despite the long nomination list there was but a small attendance at the meeting.

Govt.

and this now was assured.

Mr. Knowles said the week's developments show the value of Parliament and of constructive criticism.

He acknowledged Mr. Dietenbaker's comment that he had met several ministers in the last few hours to amplify the NDP's position.

The Commons should not prejudice the inquiry by voting to censure Mr. Favreau.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said it is obvious that the government has indirectly yielded to pressure. His party now would support the justice department spending estimates.

He said it is important "that the government clean its stable."

Mr. Thompson said he was concerned to see that the "image" of Parliament "not be brought into further disrepute, so far as public opinion is concerned."

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste—Shefford) said his group felt the revised terms would allow the judge "to study this question in the fullest possible way."

In view of this, the Creditistes did not intend to vote against the government supply motion.

The additions to the terms are for inquiry into:

1. The manner in which the RCMP and any officer thereof and the department of justice and the minister of justice, dealt with the allegations when they were brought to their attention."

2. Mr. Justice Dorion also would be instructed to say "if he considers that there is prima facie evidence of an offence, in relation to the activities, as an employee of the government or an officer of a department, of any person involved in the allegations."

Word of the government's proposed changes spread shortly after a one-hour morning cabinet session and a half-hour before the Commons was to meet.

It came less than 24 hours after Acting Prime Minister Paul Martin maintained in the Commons that Chief Justice Dorion's terms of reference were "wide enough" as approved by the cabinet Wednesday.

Spokesmen for all opposition parties had lined up in the Commons Thursday to demand a broadening of the terms of reference.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) had written Mr. Martin just before Thursday's Commons sitting, demanding that the inquiry be specifically instructed to deal with the actions of Mr. Favreau and the justice department on the police reports of their investigations of the allegations.

However, Mr. Martin had maintained in reply that Mr. Favreau was responsible to Parliament and that it would be impossible to have a judge inquiring into the minister's actions.

Informants indicated that the New Democrats, Social Creditors and possibly the Creditistes have accepted the government's proposed alterations of the terms of reference.

There was no immediate indication of the stand of the Progressive Conservatives.

The allegations by Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) in the Commons are that one minister aided tried to bribe a Montreal lawyer to drop his opposition to bail for a suspect in a narcotics-smuggling case, and that two other ministerial aides were also involved.

Guy Rouleau (L — Montreal Dollard) has resigned as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson. He said he made representations in the same case.

The cabinet met at 9:15 a.m. EST amid widespread speculation that there would be a change in the terms of reference.

However, at that hour Mr. Martin when asked about a change replied:

"Not that I know of. We're not meeting for that purpose."

Shortly before that Justice Minister Favreau, centre of the parliamentary storm, was asked the same question.

"I can't tell you that. There's a cabinet meeting. You'll remember what I said in the House last night."

This was in reference to his reply to Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) who demanded that one way in which the terms of reference should be widened is to permit inquiry into how Mr. Favreau handled RCMP reports of their investigations into the charges.

Mr. Favreau told Mr. Brewin: "As far as I am concerned, whether or not in a strict interpretative sense, what was contained in the suggestion of the honorable member for Greenwood is included in the present terms of reference. I would be ready to agree and undertake . . . to state to the commission that it is my wish that this matter be looked into and inquired into.

"I think the point is, from a strict constitutional point of view, that I doubt this could be spelled out in any official terms of reference . . .

"It would be my wish that what is referred to be the object of investigation by the commissioner."

An atmosphere of deepening crisis and cut-throat political warfare pervaded Parliament Hill Thursday.

Stanleyville has been completed. The American planes brought a total of 1,070 refugees from Stanleyville and Paulis. Congolese and other aircraft have airlifted hundreds of others from the rebel zone.

The embassy said five Americans remained in rebel - controlled areas.

REPORTS CONFLICT

There were conflicting reports on just how many whites still are unaccounted for.

The Associated Press said there were reports that "several hundred" whites were still missing in the northern Congo, and that the Belgian paratroopers were planning other rescue missions before leaving the country shortly after this weekend.

Reliable reports said the paratroopers might drop at Bunia, on the eastern frontier, or Watsa, to the northeast, to save whites there from massacre at the hands of the rebels.

But Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak said in Brussels Thursday night that only "a few tens" of hostages still are being held by the rebels, and that the rescue operation was finished.

He called the Paulis landing a "humanitarian action" and said that Belgian forces were being regrouped at the big Kamtanga provincial base at Kamina for withdrawal. They probably would fly home Monday or Tuesday, he said.

Among those rescued at Paulis was Minneapolis-born Lillian F. Hogan, 47, of Fort William, Ont., a teacher.

Some 26 Canadians have been rescued in Stanleyville and Paulis. Only a handful remain to be accounted for in isolated stations.

STAGE PROTESTS

Violent protests against the Western powers continued in Communist and African capitals. In Cairo, hundreds of African students burned the U.S. Information Agency's John F. Kennedy Memorial Library and a marine barracks in the U.S. Embassy compound. No one was hurt.

The U.S. and Belgian embassies were stoned in Nairobi, Kenya, and the U.S., British and Belgian embassies were attacked in Prague.

There was speculation that the rebels would take the offensive again when the Belgian paratroopers are withdrawn. Premier Moise Tshombe's white mercenaries and supporting Congolese Army troops did not appear to have sufficient strength to consolidate the rapid gains they have made across a vast area of the northern Congo.

Pours 1,000 Gallons of Water Down Dry Well -- It's Still Dry

PICTON — Prince Edward County is suffering from a drought that is drying up wells which have supplied water for generations.

Albert Norton of Bloomfield, Ont., five miles west of here, poured 1,000 gallons of water he had purchased Saturday down a dry well. When he finished the well was still dry.

"I've been here 18 years and this is the first time I've seen it as bad as this," said Lewis Wright, a Wellington district farmer. "I don't know what we are going to do if we don't get a lot of rain before the ground freezes."

Industries are trying to supply water to farmers but are finding their own water supplies are not inexhaustible. Jack Hartwick, president of Quinte Milk Products Limited, said his firm had been supplying water free to farmers but found one of its water intakes, normally feet under West Lake, now is out of the water.

MAY SHUT DOWN

William Barron, general manager of Lake Ontario Portland Cement Company, said if Lake Ontario levels drop again next year he may have to shut down.

A dozen canning factories charge a fee to cover the costs of pumping the water to the island's farmers. J. D. Baxter, president of Baxter Canning Company Limited, said his firm is selling double the amount of water it was six months ago. It now is selling 8,000 to 10,000 gallons a day, he said.

Picton's public utilities commission said its sale of water to farmers has doubled to a rate of 25,000 to 30,000 gallons a week.

Members of Belleville Y's Men's Club practised exercises necessary for physical fitness after a talk given last night by Donald McGregor, National Director of the YMCA Physical Fitness Project, in the YMCA.

People Becoming Physically Inactive 'Y' Meet Told

The fastest man travelled before the 1850's was 30 m.p.h. but in the past 200 years technology has created machines capable of such great speeds that we have become physically inactive, Donald McGregor, National Director of the YMCA Physical Fitness Project, told the Y men's club last night.

Recreation today consists mainly of reading and watching television. Those who say they are interested in sports are usually social athletes interested in the activities after.

Heart attacks, Mr. McGregor explained, are not sudden, but often the consequences of up to 20 years of being physically unfit.

Until recently, the human being was considered fit as long as he was not in a hospital or disabled, and had enough energy to do his work.

Definitions of fitness have changed.

Complete physical, mental and spiritual well being constitute fitness and health under the World Health Organization's definition.

To the Federal Physical Fitness Department it is the condition under which a person "can be at the peak of his physical and mental potential.

PUT IN FLASTER CAST

"Our society has put us in a plaster cast because it is no longer the thing to work or engage in vigorous exercise," Mr. McGregor said.

A broken arm is useless when it first comes out of the cast because the muscles have lost their strength through disuse.

Muscle overload — asking our muscles to do more — keeps them firm and strong. By exercise muscle overload is affected.

Although the average heart passes three ounces of blood each pump and the athletes four to five ounces, science has proven that exercise will not damage the normal heart.

But if the veins are in bad shape due to lack of exercise the blood that should be pushed into the heart holds back, forms pockets, and results in malfunctions such as varicose veins.

CORONARY CAN RESULT

When one of these clots break loose, usually due to sudden activity, after long periods of inactivity, a coronary can result when the clot catches in the heart.

There are physical limits to exercise, but psychological crimps are the greatest deterrent to beneficial exercise Mr. McGregor explained.

Our society teaches us not to push ourselves too far so that we often stop before working up a sweat and the principle of muscle overload can go into effect.

Physical fitness is a personal responsibility the Director told his audience, and no one but you can do anything about it.

Mr. McGregor stated two half hour sessions each week of intensive training would be enough to develop fitness and maintain it.

Motor efficiency tests were held after the talk to allow the Y men's members to gage their balance, flexibility, agility, strength and power.

Rev. N. Rawson Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

MONTREAL (CP) — Funeral services will be held Monday for Rev. Norman Rawson, 70, chairman of the Montreal presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

Dr. Rawson, who died suddenly Thursday night at his home of heart failure, was also minister of St. James United Church which he joined 10 years ago from a pastorate in Hamilton.

A native of Coldwater, Ont., he was a First World War army private and was mentioned in despatches.

American Nazi Leader Came Into Canada Disguised as Rabbi, Not Allowed to Speak

VANCOUVER (CP) — American Nazi Leader George Lincoln Rockwell was banned from entering Canada, said here Wednesday night he crossed into Canada at Windsor, Ont., disguised as a whiskered rabbi and flew here on a scheduled Air Canada flight.

Canadian immigration authorities caught up with Rockwell, and, because he was headed back to the U.S. at the time, they let him go.

Rockwell came to Vancouver for a speaking engagement at the University of British Columbia. However, the speech was ordered cancelled at the last minute by John B. Macdonald, university president.

The university's special events committee, which had offered to pay Rockwell's travelling expenses if he spoke to a meeting scheduled for Thursday, had billed the speech as "stimulating and provocative."

Rockwell was interviewed at the Biltmore Motor Hotel here where he registered under the name of L. R. George, the first two initials presumably standing for his names Lincoln and Rockwell.

He was accompanied by a companion Mike McCarren of Spokane, Wash., who registered under the name of Mike Cameron.

Roger McAfee, president of the university Alma Mater Society, visited Rockwell at his hotel suite and told him the speech was cancelled.

Shortly after, Rockwell and McCarren drove to the U.S. border crossing at Blaine, Wash.

L. C. Hawkins, regional director of Canadian immigration here said his department had been aware for several days that Rockwell intended to return to Canada in defiance of a federal government ban on his entry.

"We were prepared for him and intended to arrest him and lodge him in immigration cells as a prohibited person," he said.

Mr. Hawkins said he wasn't aware Rockwell had entered Canada until about 2 a.m. Thursday.

STOPPED CAR

"We stopped the car and questioned Rockwell at Douglas border crossing and then let him proceed because he was heading back to the U.S."

Rockwell also came to Canada Oct. 24 to watch himself on a controversial half-hour program filmed by the CBC. His visit raised a storm of controversy in the Commons.

In a statement Thursday, UBC President Macdonald said: "Lincoln Rockwell was identified by the prime minister in the House of Commons as a prohibited person under the terms of the Immigration Act. On this basis I advised the Alma Mater Society that Rockwell would not be permitted to speak on the campus of the University of British Columbia."

Rockwell said he disguised himself as a bearded rabbi and hitch-hiked across the border from Detroit to Windsor. He said he had his arm around the shoulders of a girl in the car as they passed through the customs inspection station.

Naturalists Enjoy Films On Bird Life

The monthly meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists was held recently in the Entomological Laboratory, with the president, Miss Florence Fitzgerald presiding. There was an excellent attendance.

The minutes, treasurer's report and business was disposed with. Again a splendid report from the directors meeting of the FON was given by Irwin Knight. Of great concern are the low water levels.

The program was very enjoyable. Four of the members showed slides, Mrs. W. A. Watson, K. Mills, Maurice Harvey and Hedley James. The guest speaker of the evening was Mrs. Alma Wallis, who is no stranger to the club or the community. She is a naturalist, photographer, lecturer, architect and taxidermist. The members are always glad to welcome her to the club and see her wonderful slides. Those shown were splendid. Miss L. Hart expressed the thanks of the meeting, after which a cup of coffee was served and much enjoyed.

Slash in Britain's Overseas Defence Spending Now Appears to Be Inevitable

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A slash in Britain's overseas defence spending now appears inevitable as the Labor government seeks to rid itself of the economic harness demanded by the Allies in return for the $3,000,000,000 pledge in support of the British pound.

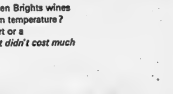
For the moment, the pound is out of danger. The pledge of support from the 11 central banks, including Canada, combined with other resources available to Britain, have removed the fear of sterling devaluation.

But James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer, knows he has only won a breathing spell, not a final victory. Britain must quickly put its economic house in order. It must find ways of building up exports rapidly, even at the expense of British consumers and it must find some way of reducing its spending abroad, aside from the cuts imposed through the extra 15-per-cent tariff.

On Thursday, Callaghan gave Parliament a hint of what is in store. By going "cap in hand" to the bankers of other countries to find support for the pound, he had curtailed his freedom of action. He now finds himself in a position from which any chancellor would want to escape as quickly as possible.

The priority is to be given to creating new forms of export incentives. The whole range of government spending abroad, including defence commitments, is to come under "strict review." And skilled manpower and resources tied to what he described as "prestige projects" is to be freed to help build up the exports drive.

While Callaghan gave no details, his aides suggested the British government now spends about $1,500,000,000 a year abroad. Part of this is tied to diplomatic and other missions from which there cannot be extracted many speedy savings—except in the defence field which takes up about one-half the administration's spending.



A large part of the current foreign defence outlays is tied to the 50,000-man British army on the Rhine; to the support of military bases from Gibraltar to Malaysia and to the purchase of Polaris missiles for Britain's new sea-based nuclear force.

When Prime Minister Harold Wilson goes to Washington Dec. 7, he likely will seek to persuade President Johnson that Britain should be allowed to reduce purchases of the proposed Polaris force or stretch out the commitment.

At Ottawa he may urge Prime Minister Pearson to take on a bigger defence commitment in the Commonwealth, perhaps in the West Indies, in order that Britain's own burden may be reduced.

At home, Britain's joint project with France to build the costly Concorde supersonic aircraft may be terminated or stretched out—again to reduce costs and free British manpower for other work.

Even Britain's army on the Rhine may be in for a trimming, though this may raise new murmurs among the Allies that the Labor government does not intend to carry its full weight in defence of the non-Communist world.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

Tomorrow is the climax of the Big Binge.

Canada's national Mardi Gras after a week of rehearsals will go front and centre stage, topped off with the death and glory struggle between the Lions of the West and the Tigers of the East.

Veterans in Grey Cup play, the Jungle Cats from Hamilton are favored 'em by seven points over the championship-hungry Lions of the Pacific slopes.

Actually it looks from here like a head-on battle between the experience and depth of the Ambitious City champions and the fighting spirit and desire to win of the Nomads from the west coast.

The East, according to the metropolitan newspapers, which gives the "Mystery of the Big 'M'" second billing, is almost solidly behind the "Sacio Assassins", from Hamilton.

Western fans, and reports indicate that only fifty percent of the anticipated number will be on hand, are taking some solace from the fact their favorites are healthy, and do not hold the hard-hitting Bengals in the near-awe that was apparent in the 1963 clash of the clubs.

Lions' coach Dave Skrien is reported as saying his club lacks the "killer instinct" offensively, the ability to or desire to pile up points once they have a game safely in hand. He had an example of this when the Calgary Stampeders beat the Lions in the second game of the final on Vancouver soil.

Someone has pointed out that the Lions are not the "killer" type; that they will not retaliate if the opposition resorts to "play-the-man" and not-the-ball tactics. He was certainly considered last year when Angelo Mosca went out of his way to smash Willie Fleming and put him out of the game.

It was the Tigers' emphasis on the physical, plus two costly Ottawa lapses, that crushed the Rough Riders' cup hopes in Hamilton last Saturday.

As one writer puts it:—"There were occasions when the Lions could have retaliated against the militant Stampeders in their final, but they didn't. If they had Calgary's fierceness they would be as big a brute as ever campaigned for the cup, and they would win because they have everything else plus the aching emptiness of never having won."

Despite the fact they are ruled the underdogs and will play before a mainly "hostile" crowd, the Lions will be a different club to that which faced the blood-hungry Tiger-Cats in Vancouver a year ago.

As was mentioned they are ready—and healthy. And they have the experience of one Grey Cup battle under their collective belts. Last year they thought getting into the cup final was the big thing. This year the western championship was the stepping stone to the ultimate glory. This time they want to win it.

The "beast" in them is dormant—if it is there at all. If the Tigers needle them into hitherto absent retaliation frame of mind—Look look out for the "Lions Roar in .64"—and the eastern experts could be chasing their post-game highballs with crow cocktails.

Meanwhile staid old Tarawnte is jetting its hair down. The weather man thus far has blanketed a lot of outdoor celebrations with a pall of mist and rain, but what the cozy warmth of boite, bistro, hotel and motel, the groundwork of the biggest headache in the country is being laid.

I recall checking into a prominent Toronto hotel a few years ago a week after the Grey Cup. The bellboy showed us to a newly decorated room. He caught me sniffing the aroma of fresh paint.

"We have to redecorate some 75 rooms after the Cup bings," he said. "The celebrants tossed liquor at everything, including the walls and ceilings. The trouble was—the most of them forgot to hang on to their glasses before making the rum-and-coke forward passes."

Hull Scores No. 15 * * * * * * Ullman Gets 5th Winner

Bruins Dump Blues; Leafs, Wings Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Norm Ullman is being manhandled in the National Hockey League this season and his own Detroit Red Wings teammates are to blame.

It's all because Ullman likes to score winners.

"It's a tremendous feeling when you score a game-winning goal," he says. "The guys pat you on the back and jump all over you, there's nothing like it."

At the rate he's going, the 28-year-old centre is likely to be pounded into the ice by all that patting and clapping. Ullman already has five winning goals so far.

The slick playmaker scored his fifth winner Thursday night as the Wings defeated Montreal Canadiens 5-4 to maintain their grip on first place. And just for insurance, Ullman added another goal for a hat-trick.

Toronto Maple Leafs stayed within one point of the Wings by downing the Black Hawks 4-3 at Chicago while Boston Bruins dumped the visiting New York Rangers 6-1.

Ron Murphy opened Detroit's scoring and Ullman supplied his ninth and 10th of the season as the Wings jumped ahead 3-0 in the first period. Although Montreal controlled the game, only Claude Provost's second-period goal got by Detroit netminder Roger Crozier.

THIRD LOSS

It was Montreal's third straight loss and completed a disastrous road trip that saw them salvage one tie in four games.

Murphy, inserted in the lineup as an emergency after missing three games with a shoulder injury, gave Detroit the jump at 3:32 of the opener after taking a pass from Gordie Howe and drilling a 35-footer past Charlie Hodge's pads.

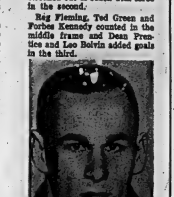
Ullman converted Floyd Smith's passout into a goal from 12 feet and got his second by banging in Parker MacDonald's rebound while Montreal was shorthanded.

It was Montreal's game from that point as they outshot Detroit 33-34, but Crozier allowed just one goal, Provost's eighth of the season. He made 15 stops in the first period alone.

Andy Bathgate supplied the spark for Toronto with two goals, tying the game twice after Chico Maki and Bobby Hull had given the Hawks one-goal leads. It was Hull's 18th goal in 17 games.

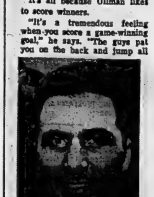
Ron Stewart scored the winner. He caught the Chicago defence napping and found himself alone in front of Glenn Hall to take a pass from Jim Pappin and flip it into the net.

SEWED IT UP



George Armstrong added a clincher with the only goal of the third period. He stole the puck from Hull in the Hawks end and the rest was simple.

Hull's goal gave him the individual scoring lead with 21 points, one more than Ullman and two ahead of teammate Stan Mikita.



Third - place New York dropped four points behind Toronto as the Rangers ran into the usually punchless Bruins. Boston led 4-0 before Earl Ingarfield ruined Ed Johnston's shutout bid at 3:15 of the third period.

Outshooting New York 41-31, the Bruins got a first-period goal by Wayne Rivers and streaked out of reach with three in the second.

Reg Fleming, Ted Green and Forbes Kennedy counted in the middle frame and Dean Prentice and Leo Boivin added goals in the third.

Detroit's Norm Ullman scored twice Thursday night to pass Chicago's Stan Mikita and Hull over second place in the National Hockey League scoring race with 30 points.

Bobby Hull of Chicago scored his 18th goal in 17 games to maintain his lead with Mikita and Ullman each obtained nine points to third with 28. Ullman has 10 goals and an unusual number of assists for 30 points.

Claude Provost scored his eighth goal of the season and remained in fourth place with 25 points while Detroit's Gordie Howe picked up an assist for his 14th point, slipping into a tie with Bobby Rousseau of Montreal and Bob Pulford.

Chicago earned two points on two goals, Pulford an assist and Henry was blanked.

Only Canadian In Both Shrines

Mike Rodden Holds 'Halls' Record

TORONTO (CP) — Nine new members were named Thursday to the Canadian Football Hall of Fame, including Tony (Golden Boy) Golab of Ottawa and Winnipeg's great all-star, Tom Casey.

Golab, Casey and four others move into the hall primarily because of their great playing days. Three others were chosen as "builders" of the game who made outstanding contributions in executive and coaching capacities.

The nine will join 21 names previously selected for a new Hall of Fame building in Hamilton, expected to be completed by next summer.

The builders are the late A. H. (Bert) Warwick of Winnipeg and Edmonton, Frank Newton of Toronto and Sarnia, and M. J. (Mike) Rodden of Kingston.

Rodden is the only man in Canada to be named to both the Canadian football and hockey halls of fame.

The players, besides Golab and Casey, are Teddy Morris of Toronto; Huntley (Huck) Welch of Hamilton, Winnipeg and Regina; Ross Craig of Peterborough, and Hamilton, and Paul Rowe of Calgary.

IMMEDIATE HIT

Golab was an immediate sensation with Ottawa Rough Riders after he played with Sarnia Imperials in 1959. He stood out in the interprovincial union through the years 1939-40-41, was shot down twice as an RCAF pilot in the Second World War, and returned to Riders for six more years of brilliant football before his retirement in 1951.

Casey, now staff neurologist at the Cleveland Veterans' Administration Hospital, is guest speaker at tonight's Grey Cup dinner.

He made six western all-star teams and four Canadian all-star teams during a career from 1950 to 1956 with Winnipeg Blue Bombers. One of the most versatile two-way men in the Canadian game, he played as quarterback, end, halfback, punter and defensive halfback.

Teddy Morris is linked inseparably with the history of Toronto Argonauts. He was a halfback on their Grey Cup winners of 1937, 1938 and 1939, and coached the club in 1945-46-47 to Grey Cup victories over Winnipeg.

Huck Welch was a kicker and running back with Hamilton Tigers in their Grey Cup championships of 1938-39, spent five years with Montreal Winged Wheelers that included another Grey Cup victory in 1931, and in 1946 joined the Hamilton again in their 18-12 Grey Cup loss to Winnipeg. A later coaching and executive career in football took him to Winnipeg and Regina.

Ross Craig has been called one of the greatest ball-carriers in the history of the Canadian game. He began with Peterborough Blue Bombers in 1904 and played with Dundas, Ont. and the Hamilton Clubs between 1906 and 1920.

Rowe was regarded as the best halfback in Canada when Calgary Stampeders upset Ottawa Rough Riders 12-7 in the 1948 Grey Cup. He served the Calgary Club for a dozen years and remained a force in promotion of minor football. He was a four-time western all-star and twice a scoring champion.

Warwick died last year after a long career as player, coach and manager and executive at all levels of Canadian football. He was primarily active with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and as an executive with the Canadian Football League while living in Edmonton.

Jack Newton coached Toronto Argonauts to Big Four victories in 1913 and 1914 and to their Grey Cup in 1914. His Sarnia Imperials were ORFU champions in 1959 and he was succeeded there by hall of fame selectors as a football "tower of strength" for 25 years.

Mike Rodden won 15 letters in football and hockey at Queen's University, still a record, and coached Queen's, Hamilton Tigers and Toronto Balmy Beach teams in the 1920s and early 1930s.

Detroit Choked On Bear

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Lions' Thanksgiving Day football League dumped on the Detroit Lions' Thanksgiving table was no turkey.

The Lions, who had spent their last 13 Thanksgiving afternoons entertaining Green Bay Packers, ordered Bear Thursday and choked the Chicago NFL champions won the annual holiday game 27-24 on Roger Nelson's 27-yard field goal with less than two minutes to play.

The loss knocked Detroit out of second place in the western conference. Baltimore, which already has cinched the western title, seeks its 11th straight victory Sunday at San Francisco against the 49ers and Cleveland Browns, leaders in the eastern conference by 1½ games, plays host to Philadelphia Eagles.

Green Bay Packers visit Dallas Cowboys, St. Louis Cardinals visit Pittsburgh Steelers, Los Angeles Rams visit Minnesota Vikings and New York Giants visit Washington Redskins in Sunday's other games.

Buffalo Bills crept closer to the American Football League's eastern crown Thursday by nipping San Diego Chargers 27-24 on a last-minute field goal by Pete Gogolak. Sunday's AFL pairings have Boston Patriots at Houston against the Oilers while Oakland Raiders visit Denver Broncos and Kansas City Chiefs visit New York Jets.

Pre-Game Mayhem Missing

'Ten Grand On Tigers'

TORONTO (CP) — The man from Calgary with the vicuna coat and the oversized voice put it this way in an attempt to sum up the argument:

"I picked up $10,000 on the Vancouver-Calgary final and I'm putting the whole 10 grand on Hamilton".

The silence that followed was at least partly welcomed. It said disbelief as the Thursday-night party at the Royal York hotel cooled right down. But the silence was brief.

"Tell me who can score for the Lions?" . . . "Non Morris, that's who." . . . "sold by Calgary and stopped by Argos" . . . "and just what does that prove?"

Football talk is as available as Scotch and water at the downtown hotel as the Grey Cup final Saturday between British Columbia Lions and Hamilton Tiger-Cats approaches.

Experts on all phases of the game are generous with their knowledge, wasting wisdom on elevator girls before decked with the ribbons of both teams.

But the once-routine mayhem preceding the Canadian football final was missing Thursday night.

A nine-piece band in Vancouver colors tried shaking things up at lunch and suppertime. A few dozen plastic boaters with orange-and-black Lions ribbons drifted around and a handful of Hamilton fans wearing yellow helmets circulated briefly.

And nobody was making a move to remove the furniture from the football - field - sized lobby, a defensive tradition at the Royal York during Grey Cup week since 1948.

The hope was that Western trains arriving today with about 10 extra cars, and the planes and chartered buses from Ottawa, Montreal and Hamilton might bring the noise and whoopee.

As for the game, virtually a sideshow in some previous years, the weather began to look kindly. Skies cleared Thursday after 24 hours of rain. A drop in temperature today was expected to be followed by warmer but windy and cloudy weather at game time, 1 p.m. EST Saturday.

Wings Trim Generals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings, stretching their winning streak to three games, continued their climb in the Ontario Junior Hockey Association Junior A series by trimming third-place Oshawa Generals 5-2 Thursday night. Hamilton moved into fifth place with 13 points from a last-place tie with Montreal.

Peterborough Petes tightened their hold on fourth place with a 7-5 victory over fifth-place St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Bob McGuire, Real Lemieux, Brian Watt, and Nick Libett each scored one for Wings. Bob Orr and Nick Beverly scored for Oshawa in the fast moving game which left Oshawa in third place with 22 points.

In Peterborough, Andre Lacroix scored two goals for Petes with one each by Lee Thiffault, Danny Grant, John Vandenburg and George Gideon.

Brian McDonald counted twice for the Hawks. Mickey Chevraty, Wayne Maki and Maurice Labbe got one apiece. It was Peterborough's seventh straight win on home ice.

By DENNIS ORCHARD

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Clair, who was kicked out of Toronto 10 years ago, is being asked back.

He may well return today, retrieving the same football he once handed Nobby Wirkowski, his quarterback when Toronto Argonauts last won the Grey Cup.

The 48-year-old head coach of Ottawa Rough Riders took a hard look Thursday at his future in the Canadian Football League, weighing a new Ottawa contract at 10 a.m. and seeking a Toronto contract at noon.

He will get his answer from the Argos today, and give his reply to the Riders Saturday.

Ottawa club executives want to keep the man who has never left them out of the Eastern Conference playoffs, but they felt obliged Thursday to let the "Professor" of Canadian Football seek a more lucrative job.

They offered Clair a new and improved three-year contract for a basic salary of $20,000 plus bonus inducements, then agreed to allow him 48 hours to explore prospects with Toronto.

ASKS MORE MONEY

Clair said he asked Lew Hayman, managing director of the Argos, for more money than he is getting in Ottawa, a salary that is officially undisclosed but unofficially estimated at $16,500 plus bonus clauses.

If is speculated Toronto will offer $20,000.

He asked for autonomy in the choice and handling of his players, and stipulated that Bill Smyth, his assistant at Ottawa for eight years must come with him.

Clair said he was "encouraged" by the response of Hayman, who was to consult with owners and directors of the Argos.

If he comes back to Toronto, Clair will be replacing Wirkowski, fired earlier this month after leading Argos to a second-straight last-place finish.

Nobby was calling signals under Clair when the Argos beat Edmonton Eskimos 21-11 in the 1952 Grey Cup final.

Clair had also won the cup for Argos in 1950, but the native of Cincinnati, Ohio, was fired in 1954. He went back to the United States for two years, and returned in 1956 as coach of the Riders.

There followed a 15-6 Grey Cup victory over Edmonton in 1960, and there would have been a Grey Cup berth this Saturday too, except for the 18-point comeback waged last week by Hamilton Tiger-Cats, eliminating the Riders 39-38 in their two-game total-point Eastern final.

Bees, Picton Tonight!

Belleville "B's" will be seeking their third victory in a row when they take the ice against the Picton Merchants here tonight.

The occasion is an OHA Eastern Junior game, slated for Memorial Arena at 9:00 p.m.

Since dropping their opening 4-3 in Trenton, the "B's" have chalked up consecutive victories over Napanee and Peterborough on home ice, and surprised a few people in so doing.

The city squad appears to be headed for a good season. Rough play has been at a minimum, despite large penalty totals, and the boys have gone out to play hockey.

Referees and rookies alike have skated and checked well and proved that they can score goals by rapping home 10 against Peterborough last Friday.

Balance and desire have been the secrets of the club's early success. Each line has produced its share of goals, Jim Rotherford has been the individual star, with five goals and three assists, followed by Bill Lang (3-3) and Grant Hagerman (1-4). The team has scored 18 goals and given up 12. Eight players have shared in the club's goal production.

The game should be a typical Belleville - Picton battle, deserving of good fan support.

Aces Whip Americans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces, the early terrors of the American Hockey League, regained some of that prestige Thursday night.

The Aces, who won their first 10 games of the season but lost their last three, humbled western division leading Rochester Americans 7-4 to maintain a four-point lead in the East.

The victory gave the Aces 15 wins in 20 games.

Elsewhere, Hershey Bears defeated Baltimore Clippers 6-3 and Providence Reds shutout Springfield Indians 3-0.

Pete Conacher paced the Hershey attack with two goals as the Bears stayed four points behind the Aces with 26 points in the eastern division. Ralph, Kal and Providence Reds shutout Harvey and Bob Woytowich got one each.

Quinte Hockey League

Ter-Haar Daubers registered a 2-0 shutout over Rosemore in one of two Quinte Hockey League games played here last night.

In the other contest, SACO stopped Horlock Electrics by a 6-1 score.

Both games were tight contests. SACO led slim leads of 2-0 and 2-1 by periods before breaking it wide open with four goals in the third.

Rosemore held Ter-Haar to a scoreless tie in the first period before the Daubers poked home singletons in the second and third heats.

Ron Pointer and R. Urch scored the Ter-Haar goals. G. Duggan and D. Moore gained one assist apiece.

The losers took seven of 12 penalties called in the contest. All were minors.

For SACO, D. Knapton and L. Potter opened a 2-0 lead in the first but L. McBride converted B. Vanzmmaker's pass for Horlocks to make it 2-1 entering the third.

D. Hallam, A. Delhse, K. Forsythe and J. Gilby completed the winners' goal total. S. Woodcock drew a pair of assists with one each for Hallam, Gilby, Delhse, Knapton, R. Lucas, D. Forsythe and D. Ray.

North Shore Hockey League

Scoring often in the later stages of the games, Albury dumped Cherry Valley 5-2 and Melville Shoreliners clipped Proctor Silex 3-5 in a pair of Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League games at Wellington last night.

In a penalty-studded affair, Albury and Cherry Valley were scoreless after one period and the winners held a slim 2-1 margin entering the third.

Keith Stacey spearheaded the Albury attack with three goals and one assist. Pete Mitchell scored once and set up another while Wally Istead added the other goal.

Gary Leavitt and Bob Wood triggered the Valley tallies.

Proctor Silex led Melville 2-1 at the end of the first but the Shoreliners moved in front 5-2 going into the third.

Joe Scott and Gary Pyke each scored twice and helped on two more for Melville. E. Ross had two goals and one assist while Eldon Carson bagged the other two goals. L. Rua got two assists, G. Pratt and Simpson one each.

Ken Fraser was a two-goal man for Silex with singletons for Ray Cummings, Nell Holding and Don Duffy. Heffernan drew three assists, Weeks and Irvine one apiece.

Eye Race Pot Of $177,635

BALTIMORE (AP) — Horse owners will be shooting at the biggest pot in Maryland racing history Saturday in the Pimlico Futurity, but the bettors may wind up with the shortest possible range of selection—win only.

Only four two-year-olds, including the early-line favorite Sadair, were listed Thursday as probable starters in the 1 1-16-mile event.

Besides Sadair, who is owned by Mary B. Hecht and can set a money-winning record for juveniles, the probable field includes Hail to All and the Ford stable entry of Royal Gunner and Umbrella Fella.

If all four go, the purse will be $177,635, topping the previous Maryland record of $176,250 set by last year's Pimlico Futurity.

Because only three owners will be presented, however, the state racing commission may authorize the track to limit wagers to the win horse only.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Eric Walsh, 34-year-old jockey from North Sydney, N.S., who took Tuesday off to get married, came back Thursday and rode three winners at Greenwood.

This gave him a total of 24 wins for the meeting, tying him with John Leblanc of Rogersville, N.B., for second place, three behind leader Wayne Harris of Vancouver.

Walsh rode winners in the first two races, finished out of the money in the third and came back to win the fourth.

He married the former Patricia Gismondi, 21, of Buffalo.

Mr. Brutus and Susie's Roman combined for a $67.40 daily double.

Susie's Roman returned $17.80, $7.30 and $4.50. Walsh's third winner, Select Sin, returned $21.80, $10.30 and $6.00.

SEEK GREY CUP GAME

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official request to hold the 1965 Grey Cup game in Vancouver was sent Thursday to Canadian Football League commissioner Sydney Haller. The 1965 Grey Cup was originally scheduled for Montreal, but in view of reports the new stadium at Montreal may not be ready in time, Vancouver decided to put in a bid.

Most Ailments Minor Ones
Little Wrong With Health of Jungle Cats

By IAN MacLAINE

HAMILTON (CP) — Most of Hamilton Tiger-Cats' ailments will be minor ones when they take the field at 1 p.m. EST Saturday in quest of their second successive win over British Columbia Lions in the 1964 Grey Cup final at Toronto's Exhibition Stadium.

Following light practices Thursday afternoon and again today, just before they moved out to their overnight hideway somewhere on the outskirts of Toronto, trainer Jimmy Simpson and his assistants persevered with an assortment of bruises and sprains in the Ticat clinic.

Coach Ralph Sazio Thursday indicated that his club will be 99 per cent fit when it plays the Lions before 32,655 expected to attend the game, in addition to CBC and CTV national television and CBC radio coverage for Canadian and United States fans.

He said the only "still doubtful" starter is Jackie Simpson, the defensive halfback Tiger-Cats picked up from Toronto Argonauts during the season. Simpson suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in Hamilton's first game of the Eastern Football Conference finals with Ottawa Rough Riders.

Fullback Art Baker, whose ankle was injured in the same Rider game, will be a starter in the Ticat offensive backfield with running mates Willie Bethea and Johnny Counts, flanker Tommy Grant and quarterback Bernie Faloney.

The Ticats, with 15 U.S. imports on the roster, will be forced to sit two out to get down to the regulation 13 import limit.

Ralph Sazio

DECISION SIMPSON'S

While Sazio and his coaching staff of Joe Restic and Kelly Mote consider their starting lineups for the game, the decision on the injured players remains with Simpson and his crew.

The pudgy 36-year-old ex-football, who describes himself as a "football bug," has been connected with the game since he won a 100-yard dash at a pre-season Tiger Football Club picnic at the Hamilton Amateur Athletic Association grounds in 1928.

Until that time he hadn't played football. But Mike Rodden, who coached the club, took him aside and asked what position he played.

"I had to think fast," recalled Simpson. "So I just told him I was an outside wing.

"I played with the Tigers until 1938 when somebody broke my jaw and I decided it was time to quit."

He joined the Ticats as an assistant trainer under Pinky Lewis in 1957 and became head trainer after the 1961 season.

Regals Line Tops Senior Score Race

GALT (CP) — Dave Luciuk, Joe Malo and Don McGregor are the chief reasons why Guelph Regals currently share top place with Galt Hornets in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior Series.

The three linemates, imported from Chatham after the collapse of the Maroons of the International Hockey League last season, are holding down the top three spots in the circuit scoring race.

Luciuk leads all point-getters with eight goals and 13 assists for 21 points, while Malo is second with 20 points. His 10 goals are also tops in the series.

McGregor holds third place with six goals and 13 assists.

Galt and Guelph are also battling it out for top goaltender honors.

Harold (Boat) Hurley of the Regals has a 2.92 goals-against average after 12 games, while Dave Dryden of the Hornets is second with a 3.23 average after 13 games.

MOSLEM RITUAL

Every able-bodied Moslem is expected to make the pilgrimage to Mecca at least once in his lifetime, unless he is unable to afford the trip.

AMERICANS COURTED

TORONTO (CP)—Two young Americans are being courted here during Grey Cup week in the hope they will sign to play professional football in Canada. British Columbia Lions are exhibiting the glories of Canadian Football League warfare for Clarence Williams, a six-foot three-inch halfback from Washington State. Montreal Alouettes are playing host to Archie Roberts, a quarterback and medical student from Columbia University.

Some Sponsors Have Jumped Gun on Yule Commercials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus officially arrived Thursday, courtesy of CBS and NBC reports of various U.S. Thanksgiving Day parades.

For the next 28 days television viewers may just as well reconcile themselves to commercials chock full of holly, evergreens, carolers decking the halls with boughs and proud daddies in cotton beards admiring electric razors, cameras and after-shave lotion.

A number of sponsors have jumped the gun on Christmas commercials. Jingle Bells was heard even before the Thanksgiving turkey was ordered. But most obeyed the unwritten rule and refrained from breaking out the yuletide messages until we were through Thursday's celebration.

NBC focused its color cameras on the lavish New York celebration which was loaded with TV personalities, bands and enormous balloon figures.

CBS popped around to show parades in New York, Toronto, Philadelphia, Detroit and elsewhere, and although the sights weren't as interesting for color set owners, it was another delightful hour for youngsters.

Ed Sullivan, who often books his show off the headlines, will have a dance sequence from Zizi, a new Broadway hit, on his CBS show Sunday night.

Recommended viewing: Tonight—NBC follies of 1965 10-11 EST, musical variety with Steve Lawrence and Juliet Prowse.

Sunday—Profiles in Courage, NBC, 6:30-7:30 p.m. with a drama about Thomas Hart Benton, the Missouri senator who led President Andrew Jackson's campaign against the Second United States Bank.

French Star Alain Delon Enjoys Stay in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — MGM hasn't seen anything like it in all its 40 years.

French star Alain Delon was enjoying his lunch in the studio cafeteria and pouring himself and his guests drinks from a bottle of champagne. Oldtimers at MGM, most conservative of the studios, blinked in disbelief. Studio workers are not even allowed to buy beer in the dining room.

"I am sorree," Delon said airily, "but I cannot drink Coca Cola with my meals."

The independent Frenchman is the latest of international film stars to come to Hollywood, and he is one of the most willing of immigrants. Many of them travel here to collect large salaries and the prestige of appearing in U.S. films, then hasten back to their tax shelters at home.

"How long will I stay?" said Delon. "As long as they want me here. Wherever I work, I am happy to stay. I have no great longing for my home then; perhaps I am too young for that.

"Living in southern California is very pleasant—if you are a movie star and can afford a house in Beverley Hills. But not everyone is movie star."

Delon now is finishing his first Hollywood film, Once a Thief, in which he co-stars with Ann-Margaret. He has found the filming technique no different from that in Europe.

The sad-eyed, handsome actor has fluttered many a heart, notably those of co-stars Romy Schneider and Jane Fonda. There was consternation among female members of the jet set when he married Natalie Barthelmy earlier this year. He now appears to be a devoted husband and father. A son was born six weeks ago.

Delon said he would like to pursue an American career for a while. His reasoning: "Through European films I am known in Europe, in South America, in Japan. But here the films are shown only in art houses. If I am to achieve a goal as an actor, it is to be seen everywhere. And I can only reach a large audience here by being in American films. That is why I am here."

MOOSE KILL UP

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec fish and game department said Thursday preliminary reports show almost twice as many moose were shot in the province during this year's hunting season as in 1963. The total in hunting this year was 7,435 compared to 3,908 last year.

Mexican Open Golf

Knudson Tied For Lead

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Canada's four golfers entered in the Mexican open finished first —and among the last—in Thursday's opening round.

George Knudson of Toronto tied with Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo with five under-par 67s to lead the International pack of about 160 golfers.

Knudson, 27, said later he is playing his best game of the year, and that his drive, always good, is fine in Mexico where the 14-mile-high altitude makes the ball go a bit farther.

The Canadian PGA champion shot six birdies and one over-par Thursday, sinking 20 putts.

"The man who wins here will be a good driver," Knudson predicted.

Al Balding of Toronto, the defending champion who won with a record - breaking 278 on other course here in 1963, had an off day, turning in a 37-39—76, seven over par and a heartbreaking score for the 11flat.

Montreal's Andre Gagnier shot a creditable 38-36—74, but the score of Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., was not as good, (score not immediately available)

Balding, the champion, was teamed with Jan Ventorf of the United States, who had a poor 75, and Mexico's Antonio Cerda, be.: of the trio with a 71. He was the only one to break par.

The Argentine ace who tied with Knudson said: "That Canadian Gringo stole my lead. George was too hot to stop.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE

"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Many property owners, being good neighbors, permit others to use their property for driveways, short cuts, etc.

Such uses, continued for long periods of time, however, can convey to the neighbors a legal right of use known as an easement.

A typical example of how easements can arise appears in the following letter:

Dear Mr. Meltzer: On the back of our lot we have built a large two-car garage and driveway. Two adjoining neighbors use our driveway to go in or out of their own garages. They do this without our permission, and have continued the practice ever since we built the garage four years ago.

We put up "keep out" signs which are ignored. Does their use constitute an easement on our property? — P. E.

ANSWER: Not yet. If they continue to use your driveway for access, however, your two neighbors will have gained the "right of passage" easement over your property.

The time required before this continuous adverse use 'constitutes the basis of claim for an easement varies from state to state, and ranges from five to twenty years.

To protect your rights, you must either physically (perhaps by building a chain) or legally prevent their using your property as a right of way; or secure from them a written statement to the effect that the permission to use your driveway excludes any claim to legal right over by them in the future. Your attorney can advise you of your rights and duties.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I borrowed $1,000 from the bank for some necessary repairs around the house, rather than use my savings.

I am repaying the loan in one year on twelve equal payments. They are charging me $60 for the loan. The note reads 6 percent interest, and according to my arithmetic $60 is 6 percent of $1,000. . . My son a freshman in college who knows it all — claims I am paying more than 6 percent. If this is the case, it makes me very angry. What about we are in trouble. It is 6 percent interest and I am right, aren't I? — J. P. J.

ANSWER: No. Your son may not know it about you, but he is right this time. Even by the old math, you are paying approximately 12 percent true interest on your 6 percent note.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We bought a house for $18,000 and carry a $10,000 mortgage. In looking through the settlement papers I noticed that there was only a $10,000 fire insurance policy. I'm not a real estate expert, but it seems to me we should be insured for the full value of our house. My husband says the bank knows a lot more about real estate and insurance than we do, and if that is all the coverage they think we need they probably are right — and besides we are saving a lot of money on premiums. I still feel uneasy. Am I just being foolish? — A. S.

ANSWER: Your instinct is correct. The bank required that you carry a $10,000 policy to insure their right and protect their claim. Your equity above the mortgage commitment, however, is not protected. To protect your investment, you will have to secure additional insurance coverage.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Can you explain to me the difference between a condominium and a cooperative apartment? — W. S.

ANSWER: In a condominium one actually has ownership of his apartment. He can mortgage it, sell it, will it to his heirs — he can do with it anything he can do with any owned real estate.

In a cooperative apartment, one holds a share of ownership in the corporation owning the real estate and insurance than that ownership of any specific unit or identifiable part of the building.

Sunday School Lesson

The Gospel Is Brief

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

This is the day of short digests and brief newscasts. Most people are too busy to daily pore over the news. They want it presented in brief capsule form. They glance at the headlines, read a paragraph or two about the leading events of the day, and dash off to work or to some other interest. They are accustomed to the one minute commercial, the 15 minute program. Even sermons must be short if they are to hold people's interest.

For people who like their truth presented in small packages, the brief letter to Titus in the New Testament is made to order. The whole letter can be read in less than ten minutes. The contents, however, require considerable thought and meditation. Almost every facet of Christian doctrine is mentioned in the three brief chapters. Eight verses (Titus 2:11-14 and 3:4-7 RSV) can well be called the Gospel in brief, for they present an epitome of the entire Christian gospel.

The major part of this letter deals with Christian conduct. Only a few verses deal with what a Christian should believe. But these verses are extremely important for they provide the motive for Christian conduct.

In the life and mission of Jesus, the author sees the grace of God appearing "for the salvation of all men." This grace appeared, he says, that men should "renounce irreligion and worldly passions," and live "sober, upright and godly lives in the world." How did Jesus hope to bring this about? He sought, says the author, "to redeem us all from iniquity," and to "purify for himself a people of his own who are zealous for good deeds."

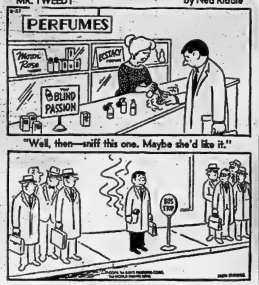
The heart of the matter, however, is reached in Titus 3:4-5. Here the writer says that when God portrayed His love through Christ, it was "not because of deeds done by us in righteousness, but in virtue of His own mercy."

Now what do these words mean? To understand them, we need to back off and look at man's predicament. With all their vast material blessings, most people today are not happy, because material blessings alone cannot give complete satisfaction and joy. Men need more than science and culture can give them. They need a satisfying faith in God.

But how can men know God? This is the age-old question. "Canst thou by searching find out God?" the book of Job asked. (Job 11:7 KJV) Can men think their way to God? Can they by good behaviour compel God to love them?

The trouble is that when men try to understand God, or seek an assurance of His love, they are faced by a chasm they cannot bridge because of their finiteness and sin. How can a finite mind ever comprehend an Infinite Being? And if, as the prophet Habakkuk says, God is "of purer eyes than to behold evil," (Hab. 1:13, RSV) how can He ever look with favor on sinful men?

GOD ACTS AS BRIDGE



To these questions, the Christian gospel presents a daring answer. It declares that the chasm men cannot bridge by their own reason or merit has been bridged for them by God Himself. What men cannot know about the nature of God by their reason, God has revealed to them through the life of Jesus. The love they can never be good enough to deserve has been extended freely to them through the love Christ demonstrated when He "gave Himself" that men should know and receive God's love.

The point of this teaching is that religion is not a hopeless attempt to win God's favor, but a glad response to the love He has already shown. The children of Israel were told to obey ten commandments out of gratitude that God brought them out of "the house of bondage." (Exodus 20:2) Christians are told to repent not to win God's favor, but in heartfelt response to His love revealed in Jesus.

LOVES AS A FATHER

After all, who are we to think we can impress God? To try to do so would be like a novice trying to win the love of great musicians by pounding out on the piano a one-finger version of a Chopin prelude. But if the fumbling novice were his son, the musician would love him, not because he tried to play music beyond his ability, but because he is the child's father.

TWO MISSING AFTER MILLBRIDGE FIRE

RCMP Probes 1954 Order
Making Banks Immigrant
Unidentified 'O'Toole and Sheehan' Are Interrogated by Mounties

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Favreau disclosed in the Commons Friday a plan that the RCMP is investigating the circumstances of a cabinet order passed 10 years ago that gave Hal Banks landed immigrant status.

The minister was replying to Douglas Fisher, NDP deputy leader, who asked whether it is true that two RCMP officers named McCarthy and Boutel have been "interrogating persons including Mr. O'Toole" Mr. Sheehan about events that took place on July 29, 1954."

Mr. Favreau consulted RCMP Commissioner R. B. McClellan, who was seated in front of him, and replied:

"I am informed by the commissioner that this matter is under investigation."

Spending estimates of the justice department were up for consideration and advisers to the minister are expected in at this time to be available to give advice.

Mr. Fisher said in his question that July 29, 1954, was the day when the then Liberal immigration minister rejected a recommendation by an immigration appeal board that Banks be allowed to the United States and approved an order permitting Banks to stay in Canada.

WAS PRESIDENT

Banks was then president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind). The government - appointed board of maritime trustees removed him from office in 1963 after Banks later was convicted of conspiracy to beat up a rival union leader. He skipped bail and turned up later in New York.

Mr. Fisher did not identify O'Toole and Sheehan further.

The NDP member then asked whether it is "proper for any member of the RCMP has had conversations with Donald Riley, former Liberal MP for Saint John-Albert.

(Mr. Riley now sits in the New Brunswick cabinet of premier Louis J. Robichaud as chairman of the electric power commission.)

Mr. Favreau replied: "I am informed by my commissioner that he will have to check on this, but I can say that I personally have not had occasion to discuss this matter with the commissioner. I do not think it would be proper for me at the moment to discuss an investigation which might be pending."

Banks was tried in parliament from 1949 to 1953, when he was defeated by Conservative Thomas Reid.

ASKS RESUME

Mr. Fisher asked that Mr. Favreau "table in the Commons with a "resume" of the investigation when it is completed.

The minister first replied that he will "make the necessary disclosures" when he receives the report, but later corrected this to say that he will decide when he gets the RCMP report whether he should lay any action or disclose any of the contents.

Suspend Judgment Urges PM

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson Friday called for a moratorium on personal judgments and condemnation until the completion of a judicial inquiry into Commons opposition charges of bribery and coercion in high places.

"That is the only fair and decent course and I for one propose to follow it," he told a $50-a-plate Liberal fund-raising dinner here.

He told the crowd of 900 in a downtown hotel ballroom the innocent must not be ruined by ruthless and irresponsible words.

"Therefore until the inquiry is completed, judgment and condemnation should be suspended" he said.

Mr. Pearson's full-dress appraisal of the week-long Ottawa tumult climaxed a four - day, two-province Prairie tour.

Following the speech he left the Manitoba capital by plane for Toronto where he will make the ceremonial kick-off for the Grey Cup game today.

HEARS APPLAUSE

Applause rang out seven times during the section of his speech devoted to the Commons uproar in which two former government officials are linked with an international narcotics smuggling ring.

"Every specific charge in Parliament, or default in duty or betrayal of trust, which is seriously made, should be investigated at once through a full and fair inquiry conducted in a way which will deserve to command public confidence," he said.

An inquiry of this kind now being made by Chief Justice Frederick Gibson of the Quebec Superior Court will be "pursued with vigor and complete impartiality," the prime minister continued.

"If there are findings from this inquiry which require action by the federal government that—action must and will be taken without fear or favor.

"Nothing should be hidden and no wrong-doing, if any is found, should go uncorrected.

MUST BE PUNISHED

"However, while the guilty must and will be punished by responsible action, the innocent must not be ruined by ruthless and irresponsible words."

Mr. Pearson said he did "not believe in guilt-finding by insinuation.

"I have always considered McCarthyism a real menace to the freedom that its proponents so often claim to be preserving.

"But I repeat, if evils are exposed, they must be removed.

"If the exposure is genuine, the action required must be honest, effective and swift.

"Only on this basis can public confidence in the faith of the people in public men be maintained.

"Without that faith and without good reason for it, there can be neither democracy nor freedom."

Decks Cleared For Flag

By RONALD LESEL

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons approved government spending plans totalling $2,681,208,567 Friday, clearing the deck for a resumption of the stubborn flag debate Monday.

All outstanding estimates for the last-45 were approved, as the government and the Opposition exchanged parting shots after a week-long gun battle over the Liberal administration of justice.

A Conservative motion censuring Justice Minister Favreau for "deplorable conduct" and "singular lack of common sense" was defeated by a vote of 111 to 30.

The amendment technically sought to cut Mr. Favreau's salary to $1, and was regarded by both sides as tantamount to a motion of non-confidence in the entire government.

The minority Liberal administration rallied the support of the three smaller parties at the last minute by broadening the scope of a judicial inquiry into allegations that Mr. Favreau and immigration Minister Tremblay lied to cover up alleged interference by government figures in an international narcotics case.

TURN AROUND

Spokesmen for the New Democratic, Creditiste and Social Credit parties indicated Thursday they might support the Conservative motion, but they turned around Friday when the government bowed to their demands for a fuller, wider inquiry.

In the 51 vote, the 95 Liberals present were joined by 10 New Democrats, five Creditistes and two Social Credit MPs. Several members of the smaller parties were absent from voting, returning to their seats immediately after the results were announced.

The government announced that the month-old recommendation of the special flag committee for a single red maple leaf design will be called for debate Monday. The committee was set up in September after Commons-long deadlock on the flag issue.

'HOT LINE' CUT

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The "hot line" between the White House and the Kremlin was interrupted briefly Friday—by a bulldozer. Danish Postmaster General Gunnar Pedersen said the machine grading a local road cut the vital teletype cable. Ht said connections were re-established almost immediately by means of a microwave chain kept in reserve.

African, Asian and Cuban Students Attack Three Embassies in Moscow

From AP-Reuters

MOSCOW (CP)—Hundreds of African, Asian and Cuban students along with a few Russians attacked the United States, Belgian and Congolese embassies today in rock-throwing demonstrations at a time of Western action in The Congo.

Screaming anti-west slogans, they smashed windows at the three buildings and raided the ambassador's office in the Congolese embassy.

The students tried to attack the British Embassy also, but were unable to get to the building, located behind a gate.

The students from Patrice Lumumba University also splattered ink on the walls of the U.S. Embassy and set a car afire in front of the building.

The Associated Press said there were between 500 and 800 demonstrators in the mob. Reuters news agency estimated the mob numbered over 1,000.

Police roughed up some of the demonstrators at the U.S. Embassy and tossed one student from a second-floor balcony at the Congolese quarters. No serious injuries were reported, however.

The students first attacked the American building and then turned to the Belgian and Congolese embassies, demonstrating about 20 to 30 minutes at each place.

The U.S. charge d'affairs, Walter Sloessel Jr., protested the action in strong terms to the Soviet foreign ministry and demanded compensation for damage done, and better Soviet police protection.

At the U.S. Embassy the students ignored appeals for calm and it took 30 mounted policemen to disperse the crowd.

Sloessel is top man at the embassy since Ambassador Foy D. Kohler is in Washington.

Obviously losing their tempers, officers shouted "hooligans" at the demonstrators, whom abot back: "We are not hooligans. We are patriots."

Americans said the violence of the attack was greater than in any previous anti - Western demonstration authorized by the Soviet authorities, and worse than the U.S. Embassy attack that came during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

Few Russians were among the students, but there were many Cubans. Most of the demonstrators came from Moscow's Patrice Lumumba University, which has many student's from Afro-Asian countries.

The crowd carried banners reading "hands off The Congo."

Once the demonstrators got out of hand, police took stern measures. One policeman was seen slugging an African student in the face, knocking him to the ground. The policeman kicked the student in the head with his boots.

A car with a Soviet camera team was parked outside the nine-storey American embassy building during the demonstration. It arrived 50 minutes before it started.

Churchill 'Cheerfully Happy' Approaching 90th Birthday

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill is "cheerful and happy" as he approaches his 90th birthday, a secretary said Friday night.

Greetings and gifts from "all parts of the world—a terrific lot from Canada and the United States," were arriving at the London home of the man who called Britain to its "finest hour."

Churchill will be 90 on Monday but the celebration begins Sunday—if not before—with television and other tributes. Sir Winston plans to appear at the balcony window of his Knightsbridge house Sunday to return the salutes of admirers and be photographed.

An aide said Churchill has never been the type of person to be downcast by advancing age as signified by birthdays and the forthcoming event was no exception.

The Queen, as in other years, will extend greetings to be be loved "Winston" who was prime minister when she was crowned in June, 1953.

Lake Ontario Will Likely Reach Lowest Level in Years

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Lake Ontario is now at its normally and engineer predict it will reach its lowest level in 30 years by next February, in the wake of this year's drought.

The falling water level is the easternmost lake of the Great Lakes is causing concern in New York's dairy country.

The other Great Lakes also are experiencing lower levels. But the difference between Lake Ontario shoreline say they have not seen the lake so low in three decades.

The U.S. army corps of engineers agrees generally.

—Scores of small boats resting high on land as far as 40 yards from water.

Breakwalls once employed at $100-a-day to cut channels to link the receding waterline with harbors are marinas and other marine-service operations.

Some engineers report that the average depth of the lake now is slightly more than 242 feet. They say they believe that the decline, which began two years ago during prolonged dry weather, will continue.

By February, the engineers say, the lake will be at an average of 241.45 feet, the low recorded in 1934. This is the lowest level of the lake in the 100 years in which records have been kept, the engineers report.

2 Wounded In Robbery At Sutton

SUTTON, Ont. (CP) — Two masked men bandwilled a policeman to cell bars Friday before shooting two bank employees in a holdup and escaping with $5,500.

Aided by the driver of their getaway car, the men battered 64-year-old Const. Bill Harris, the only policeman on duty, then unconsciousness in the police station and then drove to the Bank of Nova Scotia branch in the town 30 miles north of Toronto.

The two gunmen rushed into the bank, brandishing rifles and shouting at the eight employees and eight customers to line up against the wall. The bandits then said, one of the bandits panicked and shot Bank Manager Donald Goodwin 54, in the shoulder.

The bullet passed through Mr. Goodwin's shoulder, ricocheted off a wall and struck teller Mrs. Irwin Taylor, 21, in the knee, breaking the last bone—passing through her neck. She was in satisfactory condition later in hospital.

The bandits fled after rifling the vault and cash drawers and the bank's safe deposit boxes. Harvey O'Neil, 44, to phone a doctor to tend Mrs. Taylor's wounds.

HURT BADLY

"I told them the girl was hurt pretty bad and asked if I were permission to call a doctor," Mr. O'Neil said, "I give them credit for that."

Bank employees phoned the other three members of the town's police force at their homes after unsuccessfully phoning the police station. Within minutes a massive hunt was under way.

Const. Harris—who had been dragged unconscious into a cell, gagged and then handcuffed to the cell bars with a pair of Japanese-made handcuffs the bandits brought with them — was found after a youth ran to the police station to warn of the holdup.

Semi-Invalid And His Wife Believed Dead
Old Frame House Burns Quickly After Fire Seen

MADOC — An elderly couple were feared dead after fire gutted a house near the hamlet of Millbridge, 20 miles north of here last night.

They are identified as John Hogan, 84, a semi-invalid, and his wife, Margaret Irene Hogan, about 56 years.

Both lived in an old frame home about a half-mile east of Highway 62 which, neighbors said, was lost within minutes after the fire was first spotted.

Cause of the fire, first spotted shortly before 7 p.m., was not known.

The two-storey house was a one-time general store near the now-abandoned Millbridge railroad station. The couple dwelt on the first floor.

Mr. Hogan was said to be active in community work up to a few years ago when he fell from a scaffold. Since that time, a neighbor said, he had been a semi-invalid.

There were two wood-burning stoves in the house, it was reported, one of them a cookstove.

The house, said a Millbridge resident, was destroyed within minutes as fire raced through its ancient timber.

Firemen were called from Madoc to damp down its embers while provincial police searched among the ruins.

One clue to the tragedy was provided by the couple's pet dog.

"No one has seen them around. Yet the dog was there," said a Millbridge man who knew the couple. "It used to follow them to the top of the hill, the dog was at the house it meant they were there too."

Mariner Starts Long Trip to Mars

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —An interplanetary spacecraft named Mariner IV rocketed into space today, and the Flight Control Center said it was apparently executed early maneuvers successfully on the start of an almost 7½-month journey to Mars.

A 10-story-tall Atlas-Agena rocket thundered skyward at 9:22 a.m. with a rush of flame from its three booster engines.

It was to propel the interplanetary ship across 325,000,000 miles of trackless space for a brief encounter with the red planet next July 14.

If all goes well, Mariner IV will streak within 8,600 miles of Mars and radio to earth the first closeup information ever obtained about the planet.

Budgetary Surplus Is 451 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has reported a $451,000,000 budgetary surplus for April-October, the first seven months of the current fiscal year.

Last year there was a deficit of $128,600,000 in the period. Thus there was a total improvement of $579,600,000 from one October to the next.

Finance Minister Gordon said in a statement Friday night rising government revenues were due to "more favorable economic conditions" than when he made his budget estimates last March.

At that time he forecast a $455,000,000 deficit for the current fiscal year. He said Friday night on the basis of present conditions, the deficit will be "considerably less."

He noted government expenditures normally rise in the latter months of any fiscal year.

EXPENDITURES UP

Expenditures in the April-October period this year were up $75,500,000 to $3,955,000,000.

Revenues were up a while advanced by $655,100,000 to $4,106,800,000.

Within the revenue figures was a 19-per-cent increase to $2,250,000,000 in government collections of personal and corporation income taxes and withholding taxes on dividends sent abroad.

Sales tax revenues advanced about 31 per cent to $687,900,000.

In the expenditure side, seven-month defence spending was down $62,300,000 to $520,400,000 from $833,300,000 in the same period last year.

DOWN TO $280,800,000

Transport department spending also was down $31,400,000 to $280,800,000. Post office expenditures dropped by $109,400,000 from $110,300,000.

Public debt charges rose to $620,100,000 from $528,000,000.

The government also reported seven-month surplus of $19,600,000 in the unemployment fund, from which the $75-a-month pension is paid to all at age 70.

At the same point last year, the fund had a $17,300,000 deficit.

SELEC TXMAS TREE

CHESTERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) —After 30 years of sectarian in the peaceful Adirondack forests, a sturdy white spruce is ticketed for a glittering appearance as the nation's 1964 Christmas tree on the White House lawn in Washington, D.C. The 72-foot tree was cut Friday as about 1,000 persons watched on a hill near the community of 200, north of Lake George.

Paratroopers' Mission Over, 300 Whites Still in Rebel Territory

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Discovery of victims of slaughter by Congolese rebels in another massacre near Stanleyville has raised the total of known white victims to 97 as the Belgian-American rescue mission headed toward its windup today.

Unofficial reports of still another rebel massacre could mean nearly 150 foreigners were killed.

The fate of perhaps 300 whites including at least five Canadians still behind rebel lines, now depends on the mercenary-led Congolese national army.

There had been reports that U.S. C - 103 transport planes might ferry Belgian paratroopers for a drop at Bumia, on the eastern Congo border, or Watsa to the northeast, in search of white hostages still held by the rebels.

But Belgian Premier Theo Lefevre said in Brussels the rescue mission which saved more than 1,600 hostages including 27 Canadians in Stanleyville and Paulis would be completed today.

The last Belgian paratroopers in Stanleyville embarked by air Friday night for the big military base at Kamina in Katanga province. A Belgian foreign ministry announcement said the Belgians would start heading for home Sunday.

The Canadians in rebel-held areas still not heard from since the rescue began last Tuesday included two nuns, Sister Yvonne due Bon Pasteur (Jeannette Verins) of Montreal and Sister Marie Jeanne Bedard (Bedard of Notre Dame de la Paix, Que.

Also unreported are Muriel Harman of Victoria, a missionary with the Worldwide Evangelisation Crusade, New, and Mrs. Chester Burk of Calgary, missionaries with the Unevangelized Fields Mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Burk were last reported at Boyulu, 150 miles east of Stanleyville.

Many evacuees were saddened by the end of the Belgian-American rescue mission.

A Canadian missionary, Rev. Colin Buckley of Vancouver, who led a Belgian mission to rescue a Welsh missionary couple near Paulis, told reporters that he vainly "begged the Belgians to lend me some trucks and guns" so that he could go to the rescue of other white missionaries.

Mr. Buckley and his wife were rescued themselves by the Belgians in the Paulis operation Thursday.

The International Red Cross announced that 45 whites, including four Spanish nuns, were killed in a final rampage in Stanleyville's African quarter before government troops seized the section, on the left bank of the Congo River.

The bodies were mutilated beyond recognition, with throats cut and cannibalism suspected in several cases, a Red Cross spokesman said.

"It was a charnel house (house of dead) — people were slain on top of other bodies," one refugee said. The remains were buried Friday afternoon with full military honors.

The massacre was discovered Friday when government soldiers crossed to the left bank in an effort to flush out rebels still holding much of that part of the city.

One of five survivors was Camille Borry of Belgium, who said:

"We bought our lives with beer and money. The killing began in front of the main market the day before yesterday (Wednesday) . . . the sisters had nothing to give them."

Refugees flown here from Paulis brought reports of massacres in the village of Wamba, a nearby trading post. They said as many as 50 white hostages may have been killed. If confirmed, the slaughter would make the total of white victims almost 150.

During the months of rebel attacks and subsequent occupation of a vast area of northern and eastern Congo, it is estimated the rebels killed thousands of civilians, concentrating on educated administrators.

And probably, the toll of rebels in the fighting is in the thousands.

No pain nor sorrow, no night nor morn
But that I think of you.

When I am all alone,
The one I loved so very much,
The one I miss so much,
Sadly missed by Sarah Vandervoort and children.

Beautiful memories she left behind.

Highlights of Space Program Outlined at Canadian Club

"Man's deep urge to explore the unknown, to render the inaccessible accessible and to extend his control over his physical environment are persuasive arguments in man's desire to reach the moon," so stated Dr. J. J. Green, M.B.E., Director of Research Litton Systems (Canada) Limited as he addressed the Canadian Club last evening in Queen Elizabeth School.

Dr. Green who has had a varied and interesting career in scientific research particularly aeronautics was introduced by club president Mrs. J. G. Demeza who also expressed appreciative thanks to the speaker for filling in at this time when the previously scheduled speaker Baron Guy Daufresne De La Chevalerie was unable to attend due to the Congolese crisis. He spoke on the topic "Man On the Moon and What Next?"

SPACE PROGRAM

In his opening remarks the speaker stated that great strides had been taken in the space program which began with the launching of Sputnik I in October 1957 in Russia. Four months later the United States launched its first satellite Explorer I which is still in orbit. This was launched by a Jupiter rocket having a thrust of 150,000 pounds. Since that date large numbers of satellites have been launched into orbit, some for strictly scientific purposes and many for quite practical tasks. He named the various types of satellites which included weather satellites intended to transmit to earth photographs of cloud cover and weather systems and one of the divisions of the company of which the speaker is director made the equipment employed to receive the photographs. There are also passive communications satellites for the reflection of radio signals and finally two Telstar active communication satellites which can handle telephone calls and live television shows. It is safe to predict that by the year ahead many satellites of direct utilitarian value will be launched.

CANADA'S ALTERNATIVE

The speaker went on to say that after Russia and the United States, Canada was the next country to design and construct a satellite which was launched from the Pacific Missile Range in 1962 by means of a two-stage booster. The Alouette as it is known is still transmitting more than two years after launching. Canadian scientists have discovered that the Alouette is able to give details about earth's magnetic field in its vicinity.

APOLLO PROJECT

In dealing with American space program the speaker explained that the United States Apollo project is built around the concept of landing two men on the moon and returning them safely after one day of exploring on the moon. Apollo spacecraft to do this job will include one manned command module and in addition to the two men to be landed on the moon. The spacecraft will consist of three parts- the command module which will house the three-man crew and the control and guidance equipment - the service module which will contain engines, propellants and supplies - and the lunar excursion module, the LEM as it is called, in which two of the crew will make the actual landing on the moon. The speaker also explained the various stages on making the landing and the stages involved in returning the astronauts to earth.

Early assessment of the program indicated that it could be successfully consumated before 1970 using existing technical knowledge and not relying on any new scientific "breakthroughs". Although an enormous number of tasks remained to be done before the first man land on the moon much work has already been accomplished and much knowledge gained.

GEMINI PROGRAM

The speaker further dealt with the Gemini program which is now active stating that this was a two-man spacecraft which is carrying out a twelve flight program in three phases. Due to the interruption of the work on this project at times by storms by hurricanes and a lightning strike the first manned Gemini flight has been postponed to next year. The carrying out of this program will provide valuable experience and training for future Appollo astronauts. Long duration flights of up to two weeks will also be made.

In addition to this there is also the Lunar Orbiter program which will assist in the selection of suitable lunar landing sites for the Apollo spacecraft. Many elaborate facilities have been established to test and train the astronauts for the Apollo mission.

Dr. Green touched on the many problems involved in sending a man to the moon and dealt in particular with problems concerning food and drink and clothing. All these and many others have been assessed and in mid-1964 the schedule for landing the two men on the moon before 1970 still looked good, perhaps on one of the early 1969 flights.

Further plans call for the orbiting of a scientific laboratory around the earth, preferably a large one and is a likely objective of the U.S. space program. Several possibilities are at present under active study.

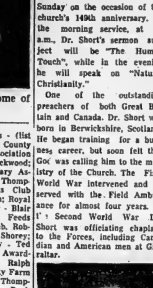
MARS NEXT

The speaker continued by saying that the most exciting extension of the space program and one which will find encouragement in many quarters is an intensive drive to investigate the planets, beginning with Mars, using unmanned spacecraft. A manned mission at least to Mars would be a likelihood at a much later date.

TREMENDOUS COST

In concluding Dr. Green felt that he had only touched the highlights of a dynamic space program which in the United States has cost 25 billion dollars or more in this decade. This is valuable to the economics of the country with the engaging of the efforts of thousands of companies large and small. He also felt that the U.S. space program will immeasurably broaden man's intellectual horizons and said, "Man himself may yet devise the vehicles which span the awesome distances to the stars and to answer the question — is there intelligent life out there beyond the confines of our solar system?"

A most enlightening question and answer period followed with many interesting questions asked.



On behalf of the members Mr. L. A. Kells expressed thanks to the speaker and added thanks expressed by Mrs. Demeza who also extended Season's Greetings to each and everyone.

Mrs. E. Bird played piano accompaniment for the opening and closing numbers.

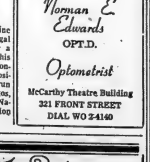
In 1 s Second World War Dr. Short was officiating chaplain to the Forces, including Canadian and American men at Gibraltar.

In 1924 he graduated from the University of Edinburgh with an M.A. degree with first class honory in Philosophy. His theological training was taken at the Scottish Congregational College. He was awarded Doctor of Divinity degrees (honoris causa) by the University of St. Andrew's, Scotland, in 1950 and McMaster University in 1964.

Dr. Short began his ministry in the Evangelical Union Congregational Church in Bathgate, England, one of the mother churches of the Scottish Congregational Union, in 1925. In 1926 he went to Lyndhurst Congregational Church in Hampstead, London, his next pastorate, in 1937, was the Richmond Hill Congregational Church at Bournemouth, England. In 1946 the Congregational Church elected him chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales. In 1951, he was called to be minister of St. George's United Church, Toronto, where he ministered until his retirement in June of this year.



Among his writings are three books, "Can I Find Faith?," "All Things Are Yours" and "Triumphant Believing".

Lesage Meets Competition

If any sporting blood runs in the veins of Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, he must love Premier Joseph Smallwood like a brother.

Joey is the only person who seems willing to give him any competition.

Sparring with the federal powers must get monotonous, when it always ends in victory.

But Joey is a foeman worthy of anybody's steel.

In recent months Quebec and Newfoundland have been jockeying for advantage in an arrangement for the development of the vast power resources at Hamilton Falls, in Labrador, not far from the Quebec border.

Newfoundland would like to supply power-short New England, but since the obvious route for power lines runs through Quebec that province has been endeavoring to cut itself in for a slice of the power at an attractive price. Brinco, the company concerned, has balked and the development has been stalled.

Now, though, Premier Smallwood has announced that from the engineering, economic and financial standpoint" transmission of power through the Maritimes has been found feasible.

This ought to make Quebec review its demands. There may come a day when it badly needs to draw on the Hamilton Falls power. Transmission through Quebec to New England would certainly be cheaper than by the Maritimes land-and-sea route, so that an agreement with Quebec on suitable terms would also be to Newfoundland's advantage.

The question which Quebec has to decide is whether Smallwood is bluffing about the Maritimes route—and if not, how much it needs to offer to win an accord.

But perhaps both sides are too proud to give an inch.

Meanwhile, others who have to deal with Premier Lesage might consider hiring Joey Smallwood as a consultant, before they risk playing their cards.

We Are Supposed to Celebrate

All provinces have agreed that their federal-provincial centennial projects shall be of a cultural, historical, educational or recreational nature.

Any future proposals by municipalities for utilitarian undertakings, such as fire halls, sidewalks or sewers, will be rejected.

In other words, Ottawa wants us to have a little fun for our money. It thinks the nation is rich enough to be able to give itself luxuries on its hundredth birthday.

This would make sense if it was not also stipulated projects should be of a lasting nature "that would be of benefit to all the people."

If any person can name any historical, educational, cultural or recreational project which will benefit all the people of any community, we should like to hear of it. A lot of people have no interest in history, have ceased trying to further their education or to acquire culture and are either too old or too lazy to enjoy any recreational activity.

The most we can ask is that projects should please the majority, that a decade after our national centennial the most frequent remark concerning our "birthday gifts" to ourselves shall not be "What did they want to spend money on that thing for?"

No Solution

Accidents caused by youthful drivers are once again under the critic's gun, and this time one suggested solution is to raise the age limit for drivers from 16 to 18.

Admittedly a number of accidents involving drivers 16 and 17 are due to recklessness and immaturity, but other factors are involved.

Having a license may encourage an individual to drive a car, but does not say he is a capable driver. Usually it takes a year or two after he has obtained his licence and a few thousand miles' driving experience before the main behind the wheel is relaxed and fully aware of what to do in all situations.

In that first year, instead of pumping the brake on a wet or slippery day, he may slam it on and slide into another car.

It is quite possible that if the age limit were raised to 25, the number of accidents in the 25 to 27 age group would increase.

Also, many youths are not any more responsible at 18 than they were at 16. On the other hand, many youths at 16 are more sensible than some 18 year-olds.

To boost the age limit to 18 will not solve the problem. It will merely delay it.

Iritis Inflammation of Iris Of Eye — Easily Cured

By JOSEPH G. HOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like information on an uncommon ailment. My doctor says I have arthritis of the eye. What are the symptoms and treatment? Can it be cured? Can it impair vision or cause blindness? — F. D. J.

Are you sure, sir, that you haven't got your "iris" mixed up?

Arthritis is stiffness, pain or deformity of a joint.

An eye condition which sounds similar is iritis, inflammation of the iris or colored membrane of the eye surrounding the pupil.

It is true (although not common) that rheumatoid arthritis as well as other collagen diseases can sometimes cause inflammation of the eye as a complication but we can't call it "arthritis of the eye" except by resorting to poetic license.

Anyway, there are many disorders and infections of the iris, from that and other causes. They produce pain, excessive flow of tears, and disturbances of vision.

Whether vision is impaired or even destroyed depends on the precise type of ailment, and depends even more on whether the ailment is treated or neglected. Since iritis may be related to infectious elsewhere in the body, underlying causes should be corrected.

Antibiotics are frequently used, but for specialized cases, other treatments may be required. I refer you to your eye doctor. Most iritis responds well to treatment.

* * *

Dear Sir: Would you answer these questions about the barbiolin glands: 1 — Is any antibiotic effective for barbiolinitis? 2 — If the glands are infected, wouldn't they enlarge? (They were very much enlarged before they drained, but not since.) 3 — If there is infection, would there be a discharge that would be irritating? 4 — What can be done for an alkaline condition in the vaginal area? Acid douches, etc., have not helped much. Soap is irritating. — Mrs. A. D.

1 — Usually one or more of the antibiotics will be effective, but it is usual to drain the glands too, as was done in your case.

2 and 3 — So long as they remain open and draining, you would not expect enlargement. Any drainage would be washed away by natural secretions or by washing, and this ordinarily would avert risk of irritation.

4 — There are numerous medicated douches. Rely on whatever your doctor suggests. However, douching is not going to do much good for an infected bartholin gland. These glands are situated at the outlet, not in the area that a douche would reach. Sitting in a hot bath would be more effective, both for soothing effect and for cleaning.

Dear Dr. Molner: On my radio it was recently stated that there are foods which take calories to digest. If this is so, what are they? There are thousands of nervous eaters like me who would like to eat the pounds off. — I. M. W.

I didn't hear any such thing, but I've had enough letters from readers to convince me that some such hogwash must have been said somewhere.

There are low calorie foods — carrots, celery, radishes, green, leafy vegetables. You can eat a lot of them yet pick up but a few calories.

There are other foods with medium calorie content. And some which are high in calories, especially sweet, gooey desserts, and any kind of a fat which are still higher. (That's why we put such emphasis on avoiding fried foods, gravies, etc.)

There are no foods which use up calories. Circulating is any such fairy stories is unkind to people who are trying to lose weight. There is no way they can eat as heavily as ever yet still get slim.

Adding another link to the bond of fellowship that characterized their initial meeting, members of the Belleville District Shrine Club and the Knights of Columbus held their second inter-club gathering in an aura of fraternal environment. With the district "Shriners" as hosts an elaborate program of entertainment, and a sumptuous repast were tendered the visiting Knights and Shriners in the Masonic Temple, Upper Front St.

Heading an imposing array of out-of-town "Shriners" was Illustrious Noble, Imperial Potentate of the A. A. O. N. Mystic Shrine for North America, who gave an illuminating address on his experience as head of the Shrine and who also spoke in warm terms of the work being done by the Shrine in the interests of crippled children.

Ottawa Offbeat
George Hees Hankering After Past High, Happy Hey-Day

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

Ottawa — Listen to who is sounding very like he is preaching for a call.

Or perhaps, more accurately, recall.

Who else but the Honorable George H. Hees, former Conservative Minister of Transport and Trade and Commerce, and currently president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

The Hon. George, in his high and happy political hey-day positively the most personally popular Cabinet Minister in living memory to come down the Parliament Hill pike, has been making speeches.

In fact, the once-powerful political wheeler - dealer who was such a "good-guy-type" that he just grinned amiably and shrugged good-naturedly when not only friends but scarcely nodding acquaintances greeted him as "Gorgeous George," has been stumping the country making almost as many speeches as any one of the far-travelling Federal Cabinet Ministers. and they, if they are not actually electioneering, are giving a quite convincing imitation of it.

"George Boy," as intimates used to call him, has sounded almost wistful, pathetically so, in his obvious longing for a return to the good old political days.

NOTHING LIKE IT

He was sounding off the other day, as you might expect a stock exchange president to do, on a matter of principle regarding a question of national importance, or if he believes his Government is putting political expediency ahead of the national interest, he has no alternative but to resign. This is something that happens only rarely in Canada."

But not so rarely that Mr. Hees didn't happen to be one it happened to.

Russia, China Call Truce

Montreal Gazette

The overthrow of Premier Khrushchev has brought few changes in Soviet policy. But there has been one important change. The bitter and quarrelsome atmosphere of Russian-Chinese relations has for the moment disappeared.

Each country continues to state the policies which, a few weeks ago, would have brought an angry reply from the other. But the reply is no longer given. These statements of policy are no longer being taken as a provocation, which must be met with a counter-provocation Russia and China now seem to be talking for the sake of hearing each other talk, rather than to stir each other to anger.

Further, the Chinese Premier, Chou En-Lai has been to Moscow, where he has held discussions with the new Russian leaders. Whether any agreements were reached is not known. But there has been no resumption of the public quarrel. The two countries seem to have declared a truce.

There is no doubt that the truce results from the overthrow of Mr. Khrushchev. But whether Mr. Khrushchev was overthrown for the purpose of making a truce possible is another question. All that can be said is that the Chinese had always demanded that Khrushchev be sacrificed as the price of a resumption of normal relations. And disappearance has, indeed, resulted in something like normal relations.

So far, however, this is all on the surface. And the appearance should not be confused with the reality. Public slanging matches between two great powers are always dramatic ; But they are not always a reliable guide to the true relations between those powers. Antagonism can be silent as well as loud.

Other indications will have to be watched for, before it can be known whether Russia and China have really agreed to improve relations, or whether they have merely decided to behave in a more polite fashion.

A new and far-reaching trade agreement between the two countries would be important. Equally important would be the provision of Soviet loans, and the return to China of Soviet expert advisers. Neither could be a sign that Russia has again decided to help China in its economic planning, especially in the industrial field. And they would mean that the Russians once again regarded China as more of an ally than an enemy.

Another important indication would be the resumption of Soviet military aid. If the Russians begin to supply spare parts for the equipment China already has, and if they agree to supply new planes and other material, this would be an extremely important sign. If there has been a basic change, that, if Russia should by chance resume its role of the nucleus field, all the diplomatic calculations would have to be done over again.

No less important, as a sign of deeper changes, would be the adoption of a more realistic ideological line by the two countries. There has not been any indication of this so far.

But it seems most unlikely that the leaders of the Russian-Chinese relations will swing back to where it was ten years ago. For this would mean, from the Russian viewpoint, that the Chinese would have to accept the principle of subordination to Moscow. This China will certainly not do. The entire Russian-Chinese conflict could be interpreted as a struggle on the part of China to have a say in foreign policy in all matters, foreign and domestic. It will not retreat from that position.

However, this does not mean the conflict need be continued in the bitter spirit of the past. The Russians can recognize, as in fact they have recognized, that China has the power to be independent. The Chinese, also, can cease their efforts to imposed their version of communist ideology upon Moscow. If each is prepared to "live and let live" there is no reason why normal relations cannot be resumed.

It is probable that this is what both countries want, realizing that it has nothing to gain from dramatizing differences. But this would be a very different thing from a return to the old alliance. It would rather mean that each would be allowing the other to go its own way.

Children's Aid Will Study Possibility of Establishing Marriage Counselling Body

What would appear to be the urgent need for the establishment of some form of a professional family and marriage counselling service was discussed at length at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society this week. Mr. Bruce Kerr, the local director, said that while the Society was equipped to deal with neglected and potentially neglected children, and offered a measure of family counselling, it had neither the time, nor the staff, to undertake marriage counselling. "This is a highly specialized field," said Mr. Kerr. "Locally there are any number of people offering help with family and marriage problems; people consult their minister or priest, their family physician, their lawyer, etc. regularly and all of these people offer help to the utmost limit of their abilities, but the fact remains, that apart from one of two psychiatrists in private practice, and a heavily over-worked mental health clinic in Belleville one day per week, there is no professional help available between Toronto and Montreal - with the exception of Peterborough and Cornwall, each of which has a Family Service Bureau".

Mr. Kerr said that, in his opinion, CAS sponsorship would be but an extension of the service the community has come to expect of the Society over the years. "We have the physical accommodation, the office staff, and the contacts", he said, "We do not have either the finances or the professional staff."

COST SUBSTANTIAL .

Mr. Kerr said it would be necessary to seek out the services of a professional social worker, with at the very least a Master's degree. "This means we would be hiring a person with five years university training and he should have experience. The cost would be substantial, but", Mr. Kerr continued, "when one considers the amount of money available in the course of one year in this area for religious and fraternal and other important causes it should not be prohibitive".

Alderman George Wishart inquired as to whether or not the Corporation of the City of Belleville might be expected to contribute to such a project, to which Mr. Kerr replied that, while it might be suggested, such a service was usually supported by volunteer rather than tax funds.

He said the Province of Ontario would contribute indirectly about $400 annually and that the charging of fees might be given consideration — fees graduated according to the income of the client. In both Peterbough and Cornwall the agency is supported entirely by United Appeal or Community Chest Funds.

A committee comprising Mrs. Douglas C. Burr, Rev. Alex McDowell and F. L. A. McQuarrie, all of Belleville, was appointed to explore the matter fully and make recommendations to the Board at the next regular meeting.

TRIBUTE TO WISHART

Dr. S. C. Rose, chairman of the board, paid tribute to Alderman George Wishart, a past president of the Society, who this week announced his retirement from municipal life. He made mention of the many years of service Mr. Wishart has given the citizens of Belleville and the County of Hastings in the fields of education, child welfare, conservation and municipal affairs.

The resignation of Mrs. K. M. Douglas was read and the Board moved to accept it with regret.

Thos. R. Colden of Belleville, the treasurer, review the Society's financial position at the end of October. Receipts for the first ten months of the year amounted to $161,294. The Society appears to be operating within reasonable limits of its budget.

In his report, Mr. Bruce Kerr, the local director, stated that there were 156 children in the care of the Society, a reduction of about twenty from the beginning of the year. Nine children had been admitted to ward care during the month, four at the request of the Trenton Welfare Department, four from the City of Belleville and one from the Township of Sidney. Two children who had strayed from their home area and become lost were given shelter at the Receiving Home until picked up by their parents. Said Mr. Kerr, "I am always amazed when a child is lost for a matter of six or eight or even more hours before his parents think to telephone the city police, yet it happens all the time."

HOMES SCARCE

Mr. Kerr's statement that it was becoming increasingly difficult to obtain foster homes able to meet the needs of some of the children coming into the care of the Society sparked spirited discussion. Questions raised included "why are people in the high or medium to high income bracket not interested in foster parenthood?" and "are the Society's standards too exacting?"

Mr. Kerr said that the difference between a satisfactory foster home and an unsatisfactory foster home was the extent which emerged. "It goes without saying that the children of whom you and I are so proud today were reared in superior foster homes - not necessarily by superior people - but people who had all the characteristics, or at least most of the characteristics found in good foster parents."

"We do not expect our foster parents to perform miracles", Mr. Kerr continued "for such is not necessary. In foster homes we look for and find a real existence, a good level of intelligence, the ability to work as a part of a team, respect for the child and tolerance and quiet understanding of his problems."

Mention was made of the amount paid by the Society for the maintenance of children in foster home care (from $31.00 to $40.30 per 31 day month) with extra allowance for children with special problems. Mr. Kerr said that the Society had increased its boarding home rates in 1954 and again "about five years ago". He felt that there was a definite relationship between the amount paid and the number of applications received. He said that the current rate for boarding children privately or "baby-sitting" children by the day was $10 a week and that this rate had prevailed for a number of years - and the natural parents delivered them in the morning, picked them up at five or six o'clock and the substitute parent had the weekend free.

WELL STUDY RATES

Not all members of the board agreed that people were motivated to take children for monetary gain only, although it was generally agreed that they were entitled to some financial reward for their efforts, particularly in the care of infants who are, of course, more demanding of time and physical effort. A committee comprised of Mrs. Jas. Musgrove, Mr. Linton Read and Mr. Joel Moore was appointed to give further consideration to an increase in the present rates and report to the January meeting. Any increase, if authorized, would be retroactive to the 1st of January, 1965.

The matter of the establishment of a group home for teenage youngsters unable to accept family living was discussed. The local director stated that there had been no response to a recent advertisement in the Intelligencer. He said that the requirements as outlined in the advertisement were as close to the ultimate as might be attained locally and that it was on this premise, and this premise alone, that the project should be considered. He said "We want the very best for our children—and I am not equating the very best with that which money will buy. The cost to us of operating a top calibre home would not be greater than a mediocre one."

Mr. Kerr said he was surprised that "some young couple had not expressed interest." He pictured the ideal situation as a couple with one or two young children, with a good level of

SATURDAY

QUESTION:

I wondered if you have a recipe for what is called "Roasted Chicken". It is sold in some of the hotel dining rooms and in delicatessens . . . Mrs. Ken. A.

ANSWER:

I am not familiar with the term "roasted" but since it suggests combined broiling and roasting and I have a method for broiling chicken I will give it.

BROIL-BAKED CHICKEN HALVES OR QUARTERS

Heat broiler burner for 5 minutes. Brush liberally two chicken halves or four chicken quarters on all sides with melted butter or cooking oil. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Place skin side down on greased broiler pan (not on rack) and slide under preheated broiler burner having top surface of chicken 6" from heating unit. Broil chicken until it is golden brown — about 10 minutes. Turn chicken over and brown skin side — about 5 or 7 minutes. Turn off broiler burner if your stove has an oven where broiler burner is above and bake burner is below. Turn on bottom oven burner, setting oven control at 325 deg. Fahr. Transfer broiler pan to lower part of oven and bake until thighs and legs are tender — about an additional 20 to 25 minutes.

QUESTION:

Would you have the recipe for winter salad relish? I know it has red peppers, cucumbers, celery and mustard seed in it. It is a very pale green in color. — Mrs. B. H.

ANSWER:

The following relish calls for all of the vegetables you mention, plus cabbage and onion. It may be made at this time of year.

WINTER RELISH:

1 small head cabbage, quartered, 6 cooking onions, 2 green peppers, 2 sweet red peppers (optional), 2 outer stalks celery (not heads), 2 cucumbers — unpared, 2 cups cider vinegar, 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon mustard seed, 1 teaspoon celery seed.

Put all vegetables through the coarsest blade of food grinder. Put into a large porcelain or enamel container and cover with cold salted water using ¼ cup salt for each 4 cups cold water needed. Let stand 3 hours. Drain thoroughly. Mix the vinegar, sugar, mustard and celery seeds in a kettle and bring to boil. Add drained vegetables. When the liquid again comes to a hard boil, remove from heat and pack into sterilized jars and seal. Yields 4 pints.

Rossmore Resident Celebrates 94th Birthday

Rossmore's grand old lady, Mrs. Stilman Root celebrated her 94th birthday on November 13th, and was guest of honor at a party given by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Kelleher of Belleville, which was attended by 19 relatives. This was a gala occasion with a birthday cake and all the trimmings.

On Sunday, November 15th, Mrs. Walt Gerow, another daughter, held open house at Mrs. Root's home in Rossmore. Friends, neighbors and family called to pay homage to their lifelong friend. There were five generations present.

Mrs. Root helps with the housework, and her fancy-work is the envy of her neighbors. Most of her life has been spent in Rossmore. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dan Belnap, and many older people remembered her father as a lay minister who often preached in the village church.

Mrs. Root has been endowed with perfect health, and has all her faculties. She has always been an active worker in the church and was president of the Ladies' Aid for many years. As she greeted many friends on the occasion laughter and tears were intermingled as they remembered past years.

Mrs. Root lives with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bruce Root, and two grandchildren, Patsy and Bonny. Her son Bruce, formerly a barber in Belleville, died about two years ago.

Friends congratulated Mrs. Root and hoped that the years would be kind to her kindly, that she would continue in good health and that they would have the privilege of joining again with her to celebrate future birthdays.

QUESTION: My husband and I have been invited to an "open house" being given by neighbors. The invitation was addressed to us and there was no mention of bringing the children. Should we couple-invite them later, or invited plan to bring their youngsters, some of whom are younger than our two, who are eight and ten. It seems to me that if children were to be included it would have been mentioned on the invitation or their names would have been put on the envelope. Is it correct to assume they are invited, as some of our children don't seem to think? — Mrs. G. A., Croton, N.Y.

ANSWER: It is were alright to bring the children, their names would have been included in the invitation. It would be wiser and more considerate to ask the hostess in advance if you may bring the youngsters rather than just assume they are expected.

Fly in Soup, Bug in Salad And Worms in Peaches - Ugh

DEAR ANN LANDERS — If this had happened to me only once I would overlook it, but since it seems to be a recurring problem, I need some advice.

What does one do when he is a guest in a home and is served food which contains some foreign and inedible body?

ANN LANDERS

Several months ago a beautifully arranged salad was placed before me. Under one of the lettuce leaves was a dead bug. I almost gagged when I saw it but managed to control myself.

A few weeks later I was served a fly in the soup. This occurred in a restaurant so I simply sent the soup back. (The waiter apologized.)

Last night it happened again — at a dinner party in the home of a friend. The dessert was peaches and ice cream. I was half way through the dessert when I spotted two little worms on a peach section. I was talking with the hostess at the time and heroically ate around the little creatures.

What shall I do if this sort of thing occurrs again? — NOT HUNGRY.

* * *

DEAR NOT — Just keep on doing what you're doing. So far you've fielded the emergencies with admirable aplomb. Anyone who can eat around worms and carry on a conversation with the hostess doesn't need advice from me.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — How do I break the news to a woman that it's all over? I'm a divorced man who has been going with a 42-year-old woman for almost four years. She has never married, owns her own home, plus other inherited property. I'm afraid she's too comfortable for her own good. I asked her two years ago to set the date but she never got around to it.

Three months ago I ran into a woman I used to know back in Montana. Her husband died last year and she moved to this city to live with her widowed sister. The second time I took her out I knew she'd be a wonderful wife for me. She said "yes" on our fourth date.

Now how do I tell the other woman without hurting her feelings? After all, I took up four years of her time. — ALEX.

* * *

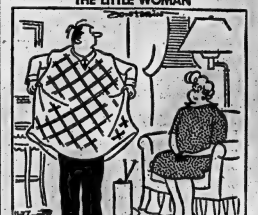
DEAR ALEX — Your solicitude is unwarranted. A 43-year-old maiden lady who has been dragging her feet on the way to the altar isn't going to take the news very hard. She may even be relieved.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My three married daughters are always having trouble with their husbands. They all have children, which, in my eyes, is reason enough to keep a home together even if it isn't all honey and roses.

For the past six years one daughter or another has been at home with me at least half the time. They just show up the door with their children and say, "I've left him for good this time."

In a few days the husband appears and they sit down and talk things over for half an hour. Then they leave together — happy.



If they can talk it over in my living room, why can't they talk it over in their own living room? I've told them repeatedly I don't want to be involved in their family troubles and not to come running home. They come anyway. At the moment two girls are here with their five children. I can't lock them out. What's the solution? — UNWITTING ACCOMPLICE.

* * *

DEAR UNWITTING — Prove you mean business by saying, "Come in. I will phone a hotel or a motel for you because you can't stay here."

When they have to shell out money for room and board they won't run away from their husbands so fast.

CMHA to Sponsor 'Spring Thaw' Again

The regular board meeting of the Belleville and District Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association was held at Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital. The meeting was chaired by the vice-president, Mrs. Janette Thompson.

MENTALLY ILL OFFENDER

Mr. John Pringle announced that he had been successful in arranging to have Dr Kenneth McKnight, assistant Superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Penetanguishene, speak to an open meeting to be held on Wednesday, December 2, at Education Hall. The Ontario Hospital at Penetang has one section "Oak Ridge" which is a maximum security hospital to which patients are referred from the courts. Mr. Pringle commented that Dr. McKnight had been a psychiatrist at Oak Ridge for over four years and had therefore gained the experience to make him an expert on the mentally ill offender — the topic he will discuss at the open meeting.

WHITE CROSS GIFTS

Mrs. Louise Hurst, chairman of the White Cross Christmas gift campaign, stated that over eighty letters had gone out to various groups and organizations in the district soliciting Christmas gifts for the women patients at the Ontario Hospital, Cobourg. It appears that the response so far is favorable and the campaign should again be a success. The general public is asked to leave their gifts in the boxes on display at Leslie's Shoe Store and Barton's Pharmacy.

Real Men, Real People Try To Change, Help the World

There was once a great philosopher who was really only a little man. He demonstrated his human stature in simple, tell-tale ways.

He became furious every time he missed a bus. If his dinner was badly cooked he was red with rage when his clothes failed to return from the cleaner on time, he would vow vengeance upon the whole dry-cleaning industry.

If you talked to him about peace and war, and all the other consequential ideas, he was, of course, full of plans, programs and prudence. He was quite capable of solving the world's ills — especially the bigger ones. But personally he was a small and unhappy man.

REAL PEOPLE

You may be an important wheel in the industrial, scientific, or educational machine, but if you are not a man first, you are nothing. Real men, real people, try to change and help the world — but they first apply terms of reference to their own knowledge.

This is to suggest a new direction for people who speak about peace as if it were some abstraction, and they keep up a perpetual war at home or in the office. This is to remind the woman who collects money for orphans not to abandon her own children in the process of saving the world. This is to advise community leaders who raise huge sums for education and religion, that they ought not act as if everyone needed these but themselves. And this is to question the cynics, snobs, and other hosts of unhappy people who assume the role of judge and high commissioner in an entire community: "How are you doing?"

SELF CONTROL

No force on earth, no worldly wisdom, no charm or beauty, can make us men until we face up to ourselves and know what we are like. We cannot control anything for long if we do not start with self-control. Too often we are busy fighting windmills when we should be conquering ourselves.

No human effort that does not involve personal improvement really measures up to human needs. We cannot change the laws of nature. But our own human nature — that we can change — and we had better stop acting as if we could not.

Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, unless and until he is wise enough to know where wisdom begins.

ALBERT COLLEGE
(The Story of a Church School)
(Second of Three Parts)

"The want of a seminary of learning has for some time been seriously felt among us." — Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in a pastoral letter addressed to its people in 1852.

* * *

"There is neither beauty nor grandeur. Instead of the majestic St. Lawrence sweeping along its graceful curves in silent grandeur, my eye falls upon the narrow, shallow, dirty, noisy Moira, plunging onward with turbulence around sharp points and over an uneven bottom . . ."

* * *

So wrote Albert Carman, the math teacher to his parents upon the opening of the new Seminary in Belleville on July 11, 1857. In 1866, the school would receive its university charter, become a university and give degrees in Arts, known as Albert College, and Albert Carman would have been Principal since 1858. He remained so until 1876, when he left to become Bishop where his duties in the Methodist Church required him to live in Toronto.

SMALL BUILDINGS

"Instead of the expanse of level landgrves, I gaze upon marshy land covered with cedar. . .The buildings of the town are generally small and there are few of those magnificent blocks that grace other towns of its importance. Yet the local merchants are enterprising and liberal. . ." the young teacher continued and concluded, "I predict that in this sphere the Lord may make me useful. That Albert Carman's prayers were answered is testified in Waldo E. L. Smith's book "Albert College, 1857-1957". Mr. Smith writes,

"Courage, capacity and faith were what this young scholar built into the school which he was called to vitalize and lead 'when he was only 28 years of age. . .A reading of the records of these days of poverty and endeavour convinces one that Albert College lives today because of what Albert Carman was then."

Why was there a constant battle with the scarcity of means? How did the school originate? It is a story which belongs to the Episcopal Methodists, begun with the Loyalists and claimed to be the most distinctly Canadian church in Canada. Then in 1833 they voted to merge with the British Methodist Church to become the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

But not everyone agreed to this.

A minority of the membership disagreed on grounds of independence. They wished for an share in the clergy reserve. They had no desire to be ruled by the government in Canada, and the Conference in Britain. They would go on as before and reorganize their church accordingly. Its first conference was held in Belleville in 1836. It was not until 1852 that the ambitious project of a college for all students regardless of creed, could be launched. Thus the people who built this college believed in self help and independence. Would they be able to carry on?

A standing committee was named to decide on the location whether Belleville or Brockville, according to "the sufficient encouragement by the inhabitants of the place". (The Wesleyan Church which shared in the denominational property had its newly established college Victoria at Cobourg.)

Within six months, Belleville became the chosen site with a two acre lot at the northern edge of the city chosen and purchased for £312. A prize was offered for the best plan and specifications of the building which was won by William Kingston, of Victoria College.

DEEP IN DEBT

Needless to say there were problems and difficulties aplenty. Even its completion in the spring of 1857 was enveloped in a thick mist of financial troubles for a serious depression had overtaken the United States and Canada. Banks failed, payments were suspended. Subscribers to anee. Frontier conditions were the school embarrassed. Loans still the background of social were raised and interest accrued and thus — though the decision was made to begin classes, the Belleville Seminary as it was first called opened deep in debt.

The visible structure of the college may have been masonry and timber but the actuality was a fabric of faith and effort, of anxiety and sacrifice," states Dr. Smith. "Some of the students could not pay all their fees in cash but eked them out with work or farm produce." By a devout-pick and shovel played a helpful part. The rate for sawing up a cord of wood was 50 cents" and records suggests that one student "was sawing his way through college." Another student "did the bell ringing that called the day's program and received $7 January."

Then there were disciplinary problems, for a new school "gets its assortment of students." A glimpse of school life is found in a letter that one student wrote home, dated 27 January, 1858:

SOME PILFERING

She writes that "there was some pilfering among the students and after articles were lost it was necessary to keep one's door locked. The boys were rowdy; they would throw their washing water into the boys' beds and one night they threw a large rock at the Principal's door, splitting the panel from top to bottom. But the Board was holding its acrimonious meeting the boys evidently provided some light relief by holding a bedstead up on top of the roof."

And Albert Carman wrote that first term: "Some who came lawless and wicked have been in part at least in some degree restrained. Nearly all are making fair progress and a healthy moral influence is at work. Boys will have their sport and 80 of them together will prosecute some of mischief."

The curriculum offered was considered to be the basic to a liberal education. Classics and Natural Sciences, Mathematics, Ethics, Belles Lettres, Mental Philosophy, English, and "Extras" which included French, German, Italian, Spanish, drawing and embroidery. There were three terms: (Trinity (summer), Michaelmas (autumn) and Hilary (winter). The collegiate course was three years. Education was considered useful and the purposes in creating the school, and much importance was attached to good English composition and the ability to speak well in public.

The citizens of Belleville became interested in the college, and were most proud when it was given a university standing, and gave it liberal support. Each term began with an inaugural lecture to which the citizens were invited. Descriptions of Belleville's advantages and points were always included in a college calendar, while the Intelligencer in 1890 gives this picture of the city:

COWS AND PIGS

"We do not believe there is another town or city in Canada where cows and pigs are allowed the free use of the streets and gardens as in Belleville. . ."

This ends the first period of Albert College and Dr. Smith says: "The school began while forests were still being cleared in Hastings and Addington and Frontenac counties. Logs were still being run down the Moira River, the Salmon and the Napanee to be productive of alertness to the world outside and zeal to be up and doing."

Y's Menettes' Coffee Party Held at New Building

The Y's Menettes' annual coffee party was held for the first time at the new T Victoria Ave.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated for this occasion in the festive Christmas motif.

Mrs. Hugh Watson, the president and Mrs. Gary Sherman greeted the guests.

Various home baked items were appetizingly displayed on the bake table, which was conveyed by Mrs. Vernon Weir.

The guests showed keen interest in the handicraft table, which featured aprons, mittens, finger puppets, door chimes and doll clothes. Mrs. Cecil Hinser ably convened this table.

TEA ROOM

The small tables around the tea room were centred with various Christmas centrepieces. The tea table was attractively set with gold and green Christmas cloth, a gold centrepiece and large red candles. Convener for the tea room was Mrs. Jim Barbe.

Christmas music was provided by Mrs. Douglas Sine.

Co-operation by all the members of the Y's Menettes made this a most successful coffee party.

U.C.W. Meeting

AIKEN'S U.C.W.

Aiken's United Church Women held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. O. Pearson with a good attendance. President Mrs. K. Jones thanked the hostess and program committee. She announced that the allocation is to be raised three and one half per cent in 1965.

The exchange of Christmas gifts will take place for the December meeting. Mrs. O. Pearson was in charge of subscriptions to the Church Observer.

Mrs. C. Mcmullen convened the Bible study taken from the "Word and the Way," Building on a Rock. She was assisted by Mrs. W. Bailey and Mrs. L. Chard.

A short question and answer period was convened by Mrs. McMullen. The hostess and committee served light refreshments and a social time was enjoyed by all.

Woman Should Take Second Look at Husband

DEAR DORIS — I am married, but I am terribly in love with another man who is also married, but unhappily. My husband knows about this, since I asked him for a divorce and he refused to let me go. The man's wife also refuses to divorce him. But although I live with my husband, I cannot or do not have any feelings for him at all. I have not seen this man for three months yet I still love him and need him as desperately as when I first fell for him.

On the other hand, my husband and his wife say they will ruin my career if I keep in touch with the man I love. But I do so love him, what can I do? — BEWILDERED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR BEWILDERED — Let's face it: You are married. The man is married, Canadian law does not make it simple to switch from one love to the next.

Since your husband still wants you I'd say simmer down a while and take another look at where you are. In Barrie's play "Dear Brutus," the man who wanted the other woman found himself on Midsummer's Night, married to her — and flirting with the one who was his wife in real life!

Is the fault in our poor luck or in ourselves, "that we are underlings?"

Ancient Capital of the Incas Still Stands High in Andes

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

CUZCO, Peru — Shortly after take-off, with the smog and fog of Lima left behind, the imposing peaks of the Andes rise into view against a blank blue sky. There seems no end to the DC-4's climb to get above them, and at the 10,000 foot level the no-smoking sign goes on and the oxygen tubes come out.

This is one of the last flights in the world operating in the stratosphere with non-pressurized planes (the runway at Cuzco is too short for larger equipment), but perhaps it's just as well; the shock of rising from the sea level of Lima to the 10,000-foot altitude of this city in the sky requires a more gradual adjustment.

We descend into a bowl-like valley among the barren, green slopes, skim the tile-roofed adobe houses, and finally skitter onto the runway.

In this mountain fastness lies the ancient capital of the Incas and one of the most coveted conquests of the Spaniards. From here the legendary Huascar and countless generations of kings before him ruled an empire whose origins are buried deep in the jungle overgrowth and earthquakes of antiquity. It was an empire that covered a third of a continent, from Colombia to Patagonia, and in many ways was as sophisticated administered as the Roman world.

TIMELESS ECHO

Here, in the heartland of the impassable Andes, echoes of pagan civilizations and remote people still ring with a timeless and mournful echo. It is an echo heard in the strange stillness of the Indian market places, and in the incongruously Oriental music of the flute-playing street musicians. Its ghost is seen in the ruins of barbaric stone temples, in the mute farming terraces built by long-vanished tribes, in the strange round huts and reed-cap caps of the Indians — so strangely similar to those of remote Himalayan tribes — and in the very foundation stones of the city.

The Incas built Cuzco of solid stone. No one knows how, for in the unique and all but impossible manner by which they mastered the art, laid a heritage of harmonious classic styling that is more Spanish than most Spanish cities.

Cuzco is one of those rare places where restoration has been all but unnecessary, for nothing has changed much since the Spaniards moved in, and, nominally, converted the Indians. Adobe colonial houses with cedar window boxes line the cobbled streets or hide among narrow stone stairways. Indians with braided hair and babies slung on their backs trudge sloedingly through the squares and alleyways, leading donkeys or an occasional llama, and wander into the imposing churches of the Spaniards.

Cuzco Cathedral, dating to the 13th Century, with its gold and silver altars and its dazzling collection of heroic-size religious and historic paintings, is more impressive than many of Spain's cathedrals. Famed for its intricately carved, wooden choir, its art includes many paintings of the school of Velasques and El Greco, as well as an authentic Christ by Van Dyck.

There are also brilliant examples of the unique Cuzco Indian school of painting in which Biblical figures were clothed in the gold filigree and lace of the Spanish courts.

The church of San Blas is more crude in its style, but not the exquisite pulpit hand carved by an Indian over a period of 25 years (he was promptly put to death by the Spaniards to prevent his ever duplicating the artistry).

La Merced is a more typically colonial church. A carved white stone building surrounding a peaceful cloister and gallery ceilings, it is also built on Inca foundations. The church is perhaps most famous for its fabulous and priceless gold monstrance encrusted with more than 1,800 diamonds and more than 1,100 pearls. One of the pearls, the largest, is voluptuously shaped like a woman's torso and it attracts even Indians, who come to clap on Saturday nights and listen to the melancholy five-tone music that can easily be mistaken for Chinese. Like so much else about the barely uncovered Andean Indian civilizations, it baffles students who seek its origins.

even older, the baths of Tambo-Machay where water still flows from the hills through the ducts. In the nearby Kenko Amphitheatre, pagan sacrifices and rites took place.

A 50-seat theatre in a loft is one of the best places in Peru to see representations of the Indian dancing and music rarely found outside of remote Andean villages. A local folklore troupe attracts even Indians, who come to clap on Saturday nights and listen to the melancholy five-tone music that can easily be mistaken for Chinese. Like so much else about the barely uncovered Andean Indian civilizations, it baffles students who seek its origins.

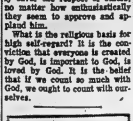
A Lift for Living

Self-Respect Prime Necessity For Complete, Wholesome Life

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

These are tough days for developing and maintaining ... r self-respect. It may be that feelings of self-worth are harder to come by now than at any other time in history. Our expanding knowledge of the size of the universe, our technology, the dominance of the machine that is more efficient than its maker, the towering problems of international relations and world order and the threat of man's self-annihilation all tend to dwarf man in his own sight and diminish his self-regard.

In the past we have enjoyed some natural aids to self-respect. Once upon a time most children in America felt needed. The role a child filled on the farm was an important one and he knew it. Even a three-year-old could help his parents by carrying light kindling-wood or corncobs into the house so that mother could start a fire in the cookstove. In a few more years the child could go to the far pasture after the cows, feed the calves and assist with the milking. He helped plant, cultivate and harvest crops. A child knew that if he did not do his share of the farm chores the farm and family would suffer. He knew he was important.



FEELINGS DAMAGED

But in this generation only an extremely small percentage of Canadian and American children have the good fortune to grow up where they feel desperately needed. If they have any household chores to perform, the jobs are seldom the sort that seem significant. The very existence of the family does not depend upon their hard work. Thus, during the most impressionable years of their lives children are too easily led to believe that they are not very important, and their feelings of self-respect are damaged.

Moreover, from their earliest days many children's ears are assaulted with complaints about how much it costs to keep them supplied with shoes, clothing, play space, baby-sitters, summer camping experiences, education. They hear how much brother children are to parents, teachers, policemen, city planners. Children come to feel they are not worthy human beings but problems and nuisances. Is it any wonder they have trouble developing self-respect?

Self-respect is a prime necessity for wholesome living. Without it we lack the confidence to live life openly, courageously, venturesomely. We are afraid the world will discover what we are really like. We live clumsily uneasily, hesitatingly; we are self-reproachful and defensive. Without such feelings of self-esteem, the high regard of others counts for little. No one can enjoy the respect he receives from others unless he has self-respect. A person must feel he is somewhat deserving of the respect others show him; otherwise he will suffer from secret guilt because he believes he has fooled his friend, and acquaintances and has cheated them. He will believe that others do not really respect him at all; they respect the person they believe him to be. So the person who is without self-respect cannot fully savor the respect of others, no matter how enthusiastically they seem to approve and applaud him.

What is the religious basis for high self-regard? It is the conviction that everyone is created by God, is important to God, is loved by God. It is the belief that if we count so much with God, we ought to count with ourselves.

LIGHTING THE WAY

By Walter S. Crone

IF THE SUN DIDN'T SHINE

Science tells us, that if the sun refused to shine, within the short period of forty-eight hours this world would be frozen solid in temperatures hovering around 250 degrees below zero. The primary reason for existence of the sun is that which saves us from such killing cold.

The Bible speaks of Jesus Christ as, the "Sun of Righteousness." Because He came, and because He lives, this world is a much better place in which to live. Were it not for His love warming the hearts and lives of men today, our world would be a very cold place in which to dwell.

Without the shining of the "Sun of Righteousness," selfishness, unhealthy fears, hatred, resentments, jealousy and bitterness, would be dominating many more millions of lives than at present. Crimes of all kinds would be vastly increased in number. When we are inclined to deplore the widespread moral breakdown of our generation, let us remember to be thankful that God's "Sun of Righteousness" still shines, imbuing the hearts and lives of millions with His love and power.

Text for Today:—"To as many as received Him, To them He gave." — (St. John 1:12).

Man Cures Retirement Shock By Moving to Another Town

By THOMAS COLLINS

The fellow had been fighting retirement all the way. Since age 65, when the company had sounded the two-year warning bell, he had become a conniver.

He tried to keep people from knowing he was 65. He refused to talk about retirement with anybody. He angrily rejected any literature or information on retirement that came his way.

Most men in the neighborhood who had reached 60 would drop by now and then and casually discuss their future as they sat on my front steps. But not this man. From age 63 on he dropped what little friendliness he had once shown, and made it a point never to be seen with me.

The boom fell, as it always does. He was handed his watch and pension. He had apparently failed in some rather frantic efforts to have part-time work with the company.

"The fellow is badly shook up" a friend of his said to me a couple of months later. "He stays in seclusion, and will hardly talk even to his wife. And then it's to yell that she had better stop spending money."

The friend wondered if he should have a doctor. . . maybe a psychiatrist. I told him that was for the family to decide. But that this wasn't the only man who ever went into shock over retirement. And that I never knew of one who couldn't con.. out of it in his own.

In general, there are two things that shake a man up when he retires. One is that he has let his job become his emotional crutch. For 40 years he's had a job, and like the baby with its thumb he has come to allow it to mean more than a means of making a living. It has told him what to do, and when; has influenced his loyalties; frightened him; rewarded him. It has been a Great White Father, not just a job.

Take it away and he's in trouble.

The second thing, oddly, is snobbery, which most men have a little or a lot of. The more the worse. Retirement usually takes away most of the snob items: the title at the company, a chance for better furniture than the neighbors (or at least better taste), the civic, church, and social status built up over the years. Men suck their thumbs on these things, to about in proportion to the level of their snobbery.

Money can break up a man, when income drops to 25 or 30 percent of what it was before retirement. But most long-time days. It was a minor factor to my neighbor. . he was pacified with about $400 a month.

JUST HUMAN

The emotional hold of the job and the bankruptcy of snobbery, can usually be met best when a man sheds his old environment — and the people who can compare him, then and now, in brief, when he moves to a new tow.. and starts another life. He's not nuts if he needs to do this. All kinds of men need to do it. And I would think it best that none of them ever be given the idea they may be nuts. They're just human.

The friend of my neighbor, working with the neighbor's family, helped lay the groundwork for him to sell his home and move to a small Kentucky town where his Grandfather had once been a prominent citizen.

His friend later told me: "The commotion of the move was a tonic for him. And two weeks after he was settled in Kentucky he had snapped out of his blues. He was himself again, only better, because his wife said so, the first time in 20 years he was beginning to relax. There were to reminders of the company. There were no people on the street to remind him of his vanished status.

"He has put $7,500 savings into a hardware store in the town, and says he will be running for the town council soon. . ."

Sometimes — — not always, but sometimes — it's like the old days when the boys didn't marry the girl he had the fun with: He retires best in a town where he didn't have his career.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The season of 1964 will go down in major league baseball records as "The Year of the Managers That Was." Death, disappointment, head-rolling—live and taped—marked the managerial turmoil.

Not known at the time and which would have added spice to the stockpot, was the fact, recently announced, that Warren Spahn was offered the managership of the Milwaukee Braves, as early as last June.

The famous banana-nose southpaw, baseball's "winningest" lefthander, turned down the promotion cold with the assertion that he still could pitch—and wanted to prove it.

Add to that the fact that a chief's feathers in the Braves' camp carries a salary of $30,000 as against $80,000 Spahnie banked as a pitching-brave in the Milwaukee wigwam.

The Durante-beaked lefty accepted a New York Mets-proposition as pitcher-coach rather than grace the Braves' relief paddock next year. He'll take home some $64,000 which is not regarded in baseball circles as "hay or peanuts."

Spahn is 43 years of age. At this time of life most professional athletes have joined the "brass ring," are writing memoirs, masterminding minor outfits, or nibbling the sweet grass of retirement pastures.

Not Spahnie. He feels the famous arm that won 358 games in the Milwaukee encampment during the past 21 years, has not struphied to the point where it has lost all its cunning and ability.

Despite the fact he had an extremely poor year last season (only six victories) Spahn's pride was hurt when he was relegated to the Braves' bullpen.

This is indicated in his decision to play for the Mets in a pitcher-coach capacity.

He says, "the greatest job in baseball is being a starting pitcher, and that's the first job I have to do. I think my title explains my position—player-coach—I'm a pitcher first and a coach second."

So the great southpaw joins our Yogi Berra to form a battery that ten years ago would have been a manager's dream. And it won't exactly be a nightmare under the venerable and loquacious Mr. Casey Stengel, PMEESCC, (president major baseball senior citizens' club.)

If the rest of the Mets use their shillalaghs to hit the ball instead of creating cooling breezes for the catcher and umpire, the Spahn-Berra duo could be a great help in breaking the club's current win string of two.

For here—and who will dare contradict—is the most experienced battery in baseball, even if it wouldn't stand a chance in a "Mr. America" contest.

And Spahn is not alone in his conviction that he has a lot of good pitching left in that forkside flipper.

The other day a party, of the Milwaukee Braves huddled around a transistor radio. They agreed there is nothing wrong with their ex-buddy's arm.

"He's had off-years before and came back and he knows more about pitching now than he ever did. Never underestimate him. With the kind of determination he has, he's probably going to go out and show everyone in baseball he can still pitch," they said.

"The Mets don't have a good hitting club," one remarked, "but if he gets the breaks I wouldn't be shocked if he won 12 or 15 games—even with a club like the Mets."

Spahn had a brilliant 23-7 record in 1963. He fell off the cliff to a six-victory record this year. It seems hard to believe that the fall was so sudden and so great—yet it happened.

Spahn would like to reach the 400-victory mark. His current 356 wins is a major leagues' record for southpaws. Also he would like to win the "Comeback of the Year" award for 1965.

I hope he makes it.

Breaks With Argos * * * * * * Refused Players Control

Clair To Remain With Rough Riders

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Clair's ambition to return to his old job as head coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference was shattered Friday or the issue of control of the club's players.

Managing director Lew Hayman refused Clair's demands on this point and, said negotiations had broken off. The 48-year-old Clair now will likely remain as coach of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Announcement of his decision to accept a new three-year contract with Ottawa will be made today by Clair at a 10 a.m. meeting with officials of the Riders.

Clair, disappointed over his failure to reach agreement with Hayman, said in an interview he will accept the Riders' new contract.

Clair said he has "complete control in Ottawa."

He said salary terms hadn't been settled because they never got past the other stumbling block. There have been reports that Clair, who coached Argos for five years from 1950 to 1954, was offered a four-year contract at $30,000 a year, plus $5,000 in performance bonuses.

The Toronto coaching job became vacant at the close of the EFC regular schedule when Nobby Wirkowski was fired after three losing seasons.

Clair, who has never failed to get Rough Riders into the EFC playoffs since he joined them in 1958, was offered the new Ottawa contract at a meeting here Thursday. They left it up to him to accept or reject it by the 10 a.m. deadline.

Failure of Clair and Hayman to reach agreement has thrown the Argo coaching job wide open again.

Several men have indicated they are interested. Among them are Bob Shaw, coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders, assistant coach Joe Restic of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, head coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and defensive coach Jim Champion of British Columbia Lions.

Another possible candidate is Frank (Pop) Ivy, a former coach of Edmonton Eskimos, St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League and Houston Oilers of the American League.

Clair has one more year to go in his five-year contract with the Riders. General manager Red O'Quinn and Barry O'Brien, president of the Ottawa club, have agreed to tear up the old pact and replace it with a new three-year contract at a salary increase.

It has been reported that his basic salary last year was $18,500, with a $1,000 bonus for getting into the playoffs and $1,000 for each playoff game. Under this arrangement he is believed to have made $20,500 for the season.

Clair led Argos to the Grey Cup in 1950, his first year with the Toronto club, and again in 1952.

Clair won the cup with Ottawa in 1960 and this season just missed in getting the club into the east-west classic again. The Riders collapsed in the second game of their two-game, total-point eastern final against Hamilton, blowing a 17-point first-game lead to lose the series 39-38.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Eric Walsh of North Sydney, N.S., aboard Big Rocky, and Wayne Harris of Vancouver, riding Swiftly Home, finished in a dead heat in the featured seventh race at Greenwood race track Friday, leaving Harris three up on Walsh in the race for leading rider honors.

With only one day remaining in the meet, Harris led the jockey colony with 30 victories. Both riders kept pace Friday with two winners. Harris triumphed with Big Rocky and Swiftly Home while Walsh took the last two races with Big Rocky and Peppy Girl.

In the dead-heat, Harris took a lengthy lead at the start, but Walsh moved Big Rocky from third place into a deadlock with Swiftly Home and the two battled it down the stretch.

Swiftly Home returned $5.00, $4.70 and $3.20 across the board while Big Rocky paid $2.80, $2.80 and $2.50.

The $1,000 Double of Bay Flight and Pay Parade returned $56.20 while the Quinella of Back Diver and Shining Sun paid $6.80.

TORONTO (CP) — The 1964 thoroughbred racing season ends at Greenwood track here today after a 196-day season at Jockey Club circuits at Greenwood and Woodbine in Toronto and the Fort Erie, Ont., Track.

By the final race more than 1,075,000 fans will have filed through turnstiles at the three tracks to watch a total of 1,868 races. Officials say the total money wagered during the meetings this year will exceed $99,000,000.

Last year about 1,700,000 fans turned out and bet about $96,-000,000. The mutuel handle has been going up every year since the mid-1940s.

The 1965 season will open at Fort Erie Saturday, April 3.

Ottawa Bids For 1967 Grey Cup

TORONTO (CP)—The 1965 Grey Cup game will be played in Toronto, the Canadian Football League decided - Friday. CFL officials, meeting behind closed doors, made the decision despite a strong bid from Vancouver officials.

Montreal Alouettes president Ted Workman made the announcement by city officials that Empire Stadium is to be enlarged to 60,000 seats to accommodate 33,000 without standing room.

The 1965 game will be played Nov. 27 at Canadian National Exhibition Stadium on the same site as this year's game.

Ottawa announced its intention to bid for the 1967 Grey Cup game. That city's feeling is that the capital of Canada is the proper place to hold the Grey Cup game for centennial year.

If the CFL reverts to non-playoffs here, Vancouver will be awarded the 1966 game and the 1967 game will be played in Toronto. However, the Ontario capital will have to fight off bids by Ottawa, Vancouver and probably Montreal.

The site for the Grey Cup game is usually chosen one year in advance. Therefore, officials will have to wait until 1966 for a decision on the site of the game for centennial year.

Workman made this announcement concerning the Montreal Stadium at a meeting of the CFL.

"He said club officials feel the climate in Montreal is not ripe to build the proposed $3,700,000 stadium.

About $150,000 has been spent on preliminary work on plans, engineering costs for the purchase of 3,000,000 square feet of land.

He said he has received support from the mayors of both Montreal and Ville d'Anjou and that he intended to try to find financial backing from interests other than the club, but his time was too short.

Sazio Coach Of Year

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has been named Coach of the Year by his Canadian Football League colleagues in a vote announced Friday night on the eve of the defence of Grey Cup title he won as rookie coach last season.

Sazio, a 42-year-old native of South Orange, N.J., who joined the Tiger-Cats as a tackle in 1950 and stayed with the club as a player and assistant coach until he succeeded Jim Trimble in 1963, has piloted Hamilton to two Eastern Football Conference titles and two Grey Cup finals.

The award was announced at the annual Grey Cup dinner, at which Sazio was a head-table guest along with Dave Skrien, coach of British Columbia Lions, last year's winner of the award and Sazio's opponent for the second straight year in the cup final. Sazio left to join his team before the award was announced.

The victory confronts Sazio with a jinx. Skrien, last year's winner, was beaten by Sazio and the Tiger-Cats 21-10 in the cup final the following day. The late Steve Owen, who won the award in 1962 as coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders, was dismissed by the club a few days later.

Casey Tells Players

"Stop Acting Stupid"

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Tom Casey, a practising neurologist in Cleveland, Ohio, who was one of the most elusive halfbacks in Canadian football in the 1950s, advised professional footballers Friday night to "stop acting stupid" simply because they feel the public expects it of them.

A six-year All-star with Winnipeg Blue Bombers who simultaneously put himself through a medical course at the University of Manitoba, Casey won a standing ovation when he rose to speak briefly at the annual Grey Cup dinner.

He urged his successors in professional football to "get rid of the stereotype of stupidity" and make the most of the opportunities the game offers them in Canada.

"I cherish the education I received here," he said. "I cherish my friends and I'll stand up for Canada until the day I die."

ALMOST CLASS REUNION

The dinner was almost a class reunion of participants in the 1953 Grey Cup game, which Winnipeg lost 12-6 to Hamilton Tiger - Cats as Casey barely missed getting to a pass near the Hamilton goal line that would have tied the score on the final play of the game.

At the head table were coaches Dave Skrien of British Columbia Lions and Red Grant of the Bombers, a tackle and an end for Winnipeg, and Ralph Sazio of Hamilton, whose selection as Coach of the Year was announced during the dinner and who played for the Ticats the same afternoon.

Two other 1953 Tiger-Cats, centre Orest Mihaiuk and defensive end Pete Neumann, are still with the club and will enter their eighth Grey Cup final against the Lions today.

WILL SIGN-FOR BOUT

NEW YORK (AP)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo of Toronto will sign for a 12-round bout scheduled Jan. 29 at a luncheon Monday, Madison Square Garden officials said Friday night.

How The Experts Voted

TORONTO (CP)—It is British Columbia Lions by a shadow in the outcome of today's Grey Cup game hinges on the prediction of 11 football writers and sportscasters who followed closely the seasonal performances of Lions and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Eight selected the Lions, seven favored the defending Grey Cup champion Ticats.

Only two of the nine westerners polled — Denny Boyd, sports columnist for the Vancouver Sun and Lloyd Saunders, Saskatoon Star-Phoenix sports columnist—favored Ticats by a healthy margin.

The prediction is for give the B.C. club the nod was Bob Scott, football writer for the Montreal Gazette who likes the Lions by fewer than three points.

Most predicted a close game with the eventual winner holding a point spread of anywhere from two to seven points. However, others went out on a limb on a high-scoring game and suggested a point-spread of as much as three touchdowns.

Ian MacDonald, football writer for the Montreal Star, sees the Ticats as 28-17 victors on any type of field while Jack Gallagher sees a 34-12 margin for Hamilton.

CLAY GOES HOME

BOSTON (AP)—Cassius Clay, shedding good will but no predictions about his next fight with Sonny Liston for the heavyweight championship, checked out of Boston City Hospital Friday after complaining of a "little weak" after his hernia operation. Doctors have said he may be ready for fighting in another six months.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Gina Guinea is hotter than a counterfeit coin at Garden City raceway these nights.

The big mare from A. G. Thompson's Ottawa stables won her third place in a row here Friday night, running her record to four firsts in six starts at the new St. Catharines track.

The victory was Gina Guinea's second this week and came in the Newport Stakes, a mile pace for $1,200 which went as the sixth race.

Go Ko owned by Hector Noble of Toronto, came on for second with Kate Sola, from the Leverington Farms of St. Thomas, taking third.

While Friday night's win was Gina Guinea's fourth at Garden City, it was only the sixth of the season. In 38 starts during 1964, the Ottawa pace has now earned $5,855.

Paying $5.50, $3.40 and $2.50 across the board as the sixth race winner, Gina Guinea completed the mile distance behind Go Ko C. for a $49.90 quinella.

The quick time of 2:03 over the evening's opener and Hickey Direct came through in the second for a $21.00 daily double.

Kaylee provided the evening's longest price when she staged a tremendous rally down the stretch to nip Diplomat Hal at the wire and earn the third race by a neck. Off at 25-to-1, the eight-year-old mare from the Auld-Taylor Combine of Simcoe paid $52.00, $15.70 and $6.70 to her backers.

Sazio Coach Of Year

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has been named Coach of the Year by his Canadian Football League colleagues in a vote announced Friday night on the eve of the defence of Grey Cup title he won as rookie coach last season.

Sazio, a 42-year-old native of South Orange, N.J., who joined the Tiger-Cats as a tackle in 1950 and stayed with the club as a player and assistant coach until he succeeded Jim Trimble in 1963, has piloted Hamilton to two Eastern Football Conference titles and two Grey Cup finals.

The award was announced at the annual Grey Cup dinner, at which Sazio was a head-table guest along with Dave Skrien, coach of British Columbia Lions, last year's winner of the award and Sazio's opponent for the second straight year in the cup final. Sazio left to join his team before the award was announced.

The victory confronts Sazio with a jinx. Skrien, last year's winner, was beaten by Sazio and the Tiger-Cats 21-10 in the cup final the following day. The late Steve Owen, who won the award in 1962 as coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders, was dismissed by the club a few days later.

Wings' Ullman Getting Hot As Hull

CFL Has Problem

West Wants Bigger TV Share

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Football League plans further discussions on its interlocking schedule in an effort to appease the West.

The decision was taken at a closed CFL meeting Friday after it learned that Montreal was abandoning its plan to hold the 1965 Grey Cup. The game now will be played in Toronto on Saturday, Nov. 27.

It was awarded to Toronto for the second year in a row despite a bid from Vancouver which plans to enlarge Empire Stadium by 6,000 seats to a capacity of 35,000. The West Coast city likely will get the 1966 final.

It was disclosed that Ottawa has indicated it will bid for the 1967 game on the ground that the capital could be the site for the final in Canada's centennial year.

On the interlocking schedule, the West has become somewhat disenchanted after four years of operation. The root of the problem is money.

WFC teams want a greater share of eastern league television and gate receipts. The East is reluctant to part with as much as the West has asked for.

The whole issue will be studied by a four-man committee reporting to the CFL by Jan. 15.

Montreal's chance for the 1965 cup game was lost when Ted Workman, president of Montreal Alouettes, informed the meeting he was abandoning plans for a 40,000-seat stadium because his partners felt the time was not ripe for the $3,700,000 project.

At the same time he squashed rumors the Alouettes would be sold. "I am presently making plans to carry on in 1965. Moreover, I have not lost hope of eventually giving Montreal a suitable football stadium."

The meeting also heard a report from John Vrba of the Fourth Network in the U.S on the 11 elected CFL games shown in the U.S. this season. Vrba said he was happy with the reception given Canadian football relayed over his network in 19 cities and that he hoped to enlarge it to 40 cities in 1965.

Normie Ullman has been a victim of circumstances throughout his 10 years in the National Hockey League, but this could be his season.

Not only has he played in Gordie Howe's shadow, but Ullman is a centre and competes with Jean Beliveau, Dave Keon and Henri Richard.

Because of these hazards, one of the league's most talented performers has become its most under-rated. Ullman is the fourth player in NHL history to score more than 200 goals without gaining a berth on a first or second all-star team.

The 29-year-old native of Provost, Alta., however, could pick up all the marbles this season.

Traditionally a slow-starter, Ullman already has 10 gols and 10 assists in 19 games, only one point less than league-leading Bobby Hull, to his credit only four times in his first 35 games last season, but wound up with 21 goals and a career-high of 56 points.

He may also get a larger share of the recognition he deserves. Howe and Beliveau are both slowing down, Richard and Keon seem injury-prone and Mikita has slipped behind Ullman in the scoring race.

Ullman doesn't suffer by comparison to Mikita. At the start of last year's semi-final between Detroit and Chicago, Black Hawks coach Billy Reay said the player he feared most on the Wings was Ullman.

The statistics proved Reay correct. Ullman, playing opposite Mikita, led the series with six goals and seven assist while holding Mikita to three goals and six assists. While facing Ullman Mikita scored just twice and had three assists, two of them on the power play.

Detroit coach Sid Abel feels Ullman is too valuable to play on the same line with right winger Howe.

"Both Normie and Gord are puck carriers and stick-handlers. If Ullman was out with Howe, one of them would be left standing with little to do and that would be foolish. Naturally, it's better to spread the talent around."

Howe and Ullman were united eight years ago with left winger Ted Lindsay and established the record for most points in a season by one line—Howe had 86, Lindsay 85 and Ullman 62.

His value to the fast start by Detroit is summed up in Ullman's five game-winning goals, which have propelled the Wings into first place. Toronto Maple Leafs, however, could overtake them this weekend.

The Leafs, trailing Detroit by one point, play New York while the Wings are idle tonight. Then the two teams meet head-on in Detroit Sunday night.

While the Rangers visit Toronto, Boston Bruins play the Canadiens in Montreal in the only two games scheduled tonight. Montreal is in New York and Boston at Chicago in Sunday's other games.

Score Four In Third

Bees Rally To Defeat Picton

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Erupting for four unanswered goals in third period, Belleville "B's" scored a come-from-behind 4-2 win over Picton Merchants in OHA Eastern Junior hockey action here last night.

The win stretched Belleville's undefeated string to three. They travel to Smiths Falls for a "toughie" on Tuesday and hold their special "children's night" game here against Gananoque next Friday, when a live pony will be the main door prize.

Picton, getting tremendous goal tending from Larry Holmes as the "B's" held a 33-19 shooting advantage, led at the first two periods.

Belleville poured the pressure on from the start of the third and the visitors wilted, especially in their own end. Penalties hurt Picton a major part with three of the winners' goals coming while they were a man up on the other with the teams five aside.

There were two Merchants and a "B's" off 1, after the period and Belleville got on the scoresheet after just 56 seconds. Holmes had made several stops already but Jim Rutherford, parked in front of the nets, deflected a low Malcale's drive between his pads.

The clubs were five aside when Grant Montreal took a nearly sight minutes later, steering home Rutherford's pass from behind the nets. Bob Boyle had started the play.

A Picton penalty followed and later Boyle shovelled the "B's" ahead 3-2 at 9.07. Then got the clincher from Hagerman, carried in himself and beat Holmes with a high backhander.

Pete Fleming iced the victory cake with the loners still two a man at 19.07. He knocked down a clearing attempt with his hand, took four strides and rammed the puck home from near shot from well out.

Harold Haddock potted the game's opening counter for Picton at 7.42 of the first, assisted by Paul Jones and Bart Frederick. Standing near the corner of the net, he flipped in a short rebound before Moon could recover.

Belleville ran into a rash of penalties in the second and two of the homesters were in the sin-bin when Gary Hasenei hit the far corner on a slap shot from the left wing. Jones drew an assist at 9:44.

Bob Moon played a steady game for the Belleville crew but was overshadowed by Holmes' terrific work over the first forty minutes.

Penalty-wise, there were nine aside. They included fighting majors for Jim Woodcock Belleville and Picton's John Todd minors for Bob Boyle, Bill Lang of the "B's" also had a major in the second called for high sticking. He drew Picton's Frederick to the ice with a surprise blow to the mouth when the two were exchanging words at 19:27.

PICTON: Holmes, Pettingill, Hasenei, Hagerman, Rutherford, Hopkins, Hasmuel, Flake, Frederick, Hicks, Jones, Thompson, Bellhawski.

BELLEVILLE: Moon, Boyle, Maracle, White, Hagerman, Rutherford, Fleming, Woodcock, Woodcock, Stewart, Lang. Referee — Bob Drury, of Kingston.

Syracuse Wins Over RCAF 5-3

TRENTON (Special) — In a rugged crowd-pleasing battle, the Syracuse Stars defeated the RCAF Globetrotters 5-3 before a large crowd here last night.

The clubs resume their exhibition series in Syracuse with games tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

The largest Globetrotter crowd of the season, some 700 fans, liked the hard-checking aggressive style of hockey dished up by the clubs. It was fast and clean with the clubs getting but four penalties.

Wayne "Wiener" Brown drew the only "extra" sentence of the night getting a match penalty following an altercation with the referee.

The Stars raced to a first-period 3-1 margin with the Trotters closing the gap to 3-2 in the second frame. The teams split four goals in the final session.

The Trotters came up with one of their best efforts of the season against the big powerful Syracuse squad bolstered with ex-members of the Belleville McFarlands 1960 world champions.

John "Shaker" Baker and Frank Gerbasi shared the scoring for goal-getting honors for the Stars, each scoring a pair. "Wiener" Brown got the odd goal.

Floyd Crawford and Morley Hunt each had two assists for the winners with Bill Charron and Andy Gyrosky getting singles.

Globetrotter skipper Joe St. Pierre scored two of his team's goals with Petersen getting the other.

Dixon, Blanchard, Drake and Muirhead drew assists.

Research Council Asks Detachable Cleats

TORONTO (CP)—An Ottawa physician said Friday the National Research Council is trying to develop football shoes with detachable cleats as an attempt to reduce knee injuries.

Dr. Kenneth Wilgen told of the research during a symposium on the prevention and care of athletic injuries, sponsored by the Ontario Football League and directed to physicians, trainers and coaches interested in amateur and professional sports.

He said he is working with the research council on detachable cleats because they like the shock of the foot driving against unyielding ground causes many knee injuries. If the cleats became detached on the sharp ground contact, the shock would be lessened.

The symposium was the second such gathering the first was held in Vancouver last year prior to the Grey Cup game, and football officials hope to make the meeting an annual affair.

Dr. John Palmer, surgeon to Toronto Argonauts and organizer of the symposium, said most injuries are the bugbear of contact sports. He described them as far the most common and most serious injuries encountered.

Dr. Wilson also pleaded with those attending to have a doctor at every football game, regardless of how big a game it is, to prevent death from asphyxiation.

HONOR THREE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Three men, credited with saving the lives of about 130 school children, were honored Thursday night by more than 300 parents, teachers and members of suburban Riverside council at a dinner. Ralph Parent, school caretaker, Carl Coulo, owner of a trucking firm, and Kenneth Pressello, a teacher, were responsible for the evacuation of the St. Thomas Separate School in Riverside a few seconds before a gas explosion ripped through the building May 29.

Juveniles, Tweed Jrs. Here Sunday

Belleville's A.C.T. juveniles, who chalked up their first victory of the year here earlier this week, will meet stiff competition in an exhibition game Sunday.

The juveniles will meet the Tweed Junior "D" squad in a 4:30 fixture here at Memorial Arena.

Tweed, entered in the OHA Trent Valley Junior "D" loop, with Bancroft, Wellington and Stirling, should provide the city "Travellers" with a tough test.

Bob Taylor, coach of the Belleville squad, says his team is starting to jell now and will develop into a solid club before the OMHA playdowns roll around.

Taylor said yesterday that a couple juvenile age players who have been with the junior "B's" practised with his team this week and may be interested in dropping back to their own age category.

"They would certainly strengthen our team but it will be strictly up to them if they want to play junior or juvenile, at least as far as I am concerned," Taylor said.

FUR EXPERT DIES

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Hodgson, 66, publisher, author and an authority on the fur industry, died at his home Thursday after a lengthy illness. Mr. Hodgson was editor of the Fur Trade Journal of Canada, the oldest periodical of its type in the world. He was author of some 22 books on fur farming.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We would like to go to Miami Beach for two or three weeks in March. Is it possible to find a reasonably priced room down there in one of the smaller hotels? We are an old retired couple, living on a limited income, and are not interested in under luxury and entertainment, but we do enjoy the great outdoors. I have written to a few of the smaller hotels and the lowest quote was $10 a day each. We could not afford that. — Mrs. L. K., Belleville

ANSWER: Twenty dollars per day would be about par at most hotels in March, but there is cheaper accommodation to be found. How about an efficiency apartment? Home-cooked meals will cut down the expense. Write to Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce for a listing of moderately priced accommodations. If you wait until April, the rates go down considerably.

QUESTION: My husband and I are planning a two weeks' vacation in Florida in January. Could you give me an idea of the average temperatures for that month in Daytona Beach? — A. G. W., Trenton.

ANSWER: From December to February the maximum ranges from 69 to 71, with an over all average of 60 degrees.

QUESTION: Two school chums and I plan to motor to Florida for two weeks. We want to make our stay as inexpensive as possible and would like your advice as to how much we can expect to spend on a room for cottage, or even the YMCA in Miami Beach. We would consider St. Petersburg or any other spot with bathing weather. — C. M., Pictou

ANSWER: Accommodation in Miami Beach is usually at a premium during the cold months but you can still line up something if you act right away by writing to the Chamber of Commerce there for a hotel and motel list. You might also write to the Metro Miami Chamber of Commerce. While hotels will be booked solid, many of the commercial hotels in Miami where a couple might stay for $10 a night and slightly more for a third person. But an efficiency motel would likely be best. For one room you might run you about $15 a day, but you could save a little by doing your own cooking.

QUESTION: We are visiting Toronto next week and plan to take in some points of interest including the new International Airport. Could you please tell me how to get there from Toronto, and a run-down of some of the facts concerning this airport? — M. B., Belleville.

ANSWER: Toronto International Airport's $34,000,000 terminal was opened to traffic Jan. 11, 1964. The new terminal is south of Malton, and you will see it from the highway. Just follow the road signs from there. It is considered one of the most up to date air terminals in the world. It has one of the largest indoor parking facilities in Canada, a dining lounge and cocktail bar, a small hotel, and some of the finest works of Canadian and European painters and sculptors.

DO YOU KNOW?

In your search for a warm climate country in which to retire, you will now find Mexico more economically attractive.

Heretofore, you would have to show financial responsibility to the tune of $400 a month from pensions and securities. Now, the monthly income requirement is reduced to $250, reflecting the lower cost of living there.

Under Mexican law, non-national are prohibited from taking employment or operating a business. But regulations have been relaxed to allow outsiders to invest in business.

Popular with retired Canadians is Guadalajara. Mexico's second city, where nearly 1,000 of them now make their home.

PLAN MOSAIC

TORONTO (CP)—A mosaic depicting the Canadian people and crests of the various provinces is planned for the 1967 centennial celebrations, the Ontario division of the Women's Institutes of Canada was told Thursday. Mrs. Leonard Trirer of Streetsville, Que., president of the institute's board, said plans for construction are under way.

Maple Leafs Baseball

Pollock Quits, Anderson Fired

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Pollock, general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club who has been associated with the International Baseball League team here for 17 years, has resigned.

Pollock submitted his written resignation to Robert Hunter, president of the Toronto baseball club, and said he has decided to accept an opportunity in a field other than baseball.

The resignation was accepted by Hunter and club directors. Hunter said club vice-president Sam Starr, left Toronto Friday for Houston, Tex., for a minor league meeting. They said they will try to acquire a new manager there.

Starr also announced that field manager George (Sparky) Anderson has been fired following his first season as a manager. He said the club would likely get a new manager from the major league team with which it signs an agreement.

Pollock said later in an interview: "Minor league baseball has become a great disappointment to me and I don't see any future in it any longer.

"You don't buy yourself ball players any more. Major leagues control everything. They got all of the private people out of baseball.

"Every year it becomes more difficult to get and keep a gate attraction. You get a good player and he is here today and gone tomorrow."

Aces Clip Barons 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mainly because of penalties Quebec Aces are riding higher atop the American Hockey League's eastern division standings today and Cleveland Barons are deeper in the western division cellar.

The Aces scored three goals Friday while Cleveland Barons were shorthanded to run up a 4-1 victory. The win gave them 32 points and a six-point margin over Hershey Bears in the eastern division.

Cleveland's defeat was compounded by Pittsburgh Hornets' 3-3 tie with Baltimore Clippers. The single point moved the Hornets eight points ahead of the Barons in the West and the Clippers pulled out of a tie for last place in the East.

INDIANS REQUIRED

"The Glory Guys," a new movie being filmed in Mexico, is using 2,500 Indians and 1,500 actors as cavalrymen in the Old West epic.

Queen's Tie Marlies 5-5 Blues Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two years ago, Bob Pond was one of the major reasons McMaster University Marlins won the first Canadian intercollegiate hockey title as Marlins beat Father David Bauer and his University of Fritish Columbia team for the title.

Friday night in Kingston, Pond scored twice and assisted on a third goal as Queen's University Golden Gaels, former Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association rivals, tied Marlins 5-5.

In Quebec, University of Toronto Blueh held on in the last half of the third period to score a 5-4 win over Laval University. They were the first league games of the season for all four teams.

ADAM S. STALKER
CITY CLERK

Union Carbide's Hexa plant has outwardly reached completion. On the right is the bridge support for piping leading to the plant.

Brickwork on the front of Smith's Garage, located at the foot of Adams Street, was finished Thursday. Windows and glass will be put in during the coming week.

Construction Round-Up

WILSON CONCRETE PRODUCTS

Wilson Concrete Products is building a roof over the north end of its crane bay. Made of precast concrete slabs, it will cover an area of 20,000 square feet. Supporting columns will be on the sides only, leaving the centre area clear. The job is expected to be complete by next Friday.

PERMITS ISSUED

Building permits issued as of November 23, 1964, totalled 402 compared to 397 at this time last year. Permits issued for November 1964 as of Wednesday number 31, compared to 26 last year.

UNION CARBIDE DRAINAGE

Lightfoot Construction finished the form for Union Carbide's settling tank Thursday. Cement will be poured Friday. Foreman Henry Hersten estimates 80 yards of cement will be needed for the 6 inch walls. The jackhammer crew will work over the weekend, while the plant is shut down, to complete the 100 foot drainage ditch inside. Outside about 150 feet was cut as of Thursday.

UNION CARBIDE HEXA PLANT

Except for glass and flashing around the windows, the Union Carbide Hexa plant is outwardly completed. The aluminum siding and roof are on. Most of the machinery — pumps, exhaust fans, the agitator kettle, separator, and dryer — is in. Foley Foundry and Machine Co., supplying the pipeline to the process equipment into the building with a crane before putting on the roof. Welders are completing the pipelines to the processing plant. Inside plumbing has to be installed.

DUNDAS ST. CLINIC

Foundation footings were poured last Friday for the Dundas St. clinic. The cement block wall should be completed today.

L.C.B.O.

Peacock Plastering completed the inside rough coat at the new liquor store this week and will put on the finished coat by next weekend. Approximately 140 tons of asphalt were laid on the parking lot Wednesday.

WILLIAM ST. CLINIC

The foundation hole is completed for the William St. Clinic and the wall will be up next week. A Lightfoot backhoe is doing the digging and E. H. Bell trucks are hauling the dirt.

CITY BARNS

Foundation blasting is completed and footings in for the city works building. In a week the outside foundation wall will be about half done. Superintendent Howard Lewis estimates building inside and outside foundation walls will take about 6 weeks.

DIXIE LEE

McCallum and Bridge Construction poured the last 10 yards of cement for the foundation walls of the Dixie Lee building Wednesday. Construction of the block walls started the same day and is expected to take two weeks.

AMODEO'S

All the inside foundation walls are up at Amodeo's on N. Front. To strengthen the walls concrete will be poured into the two top layers. Precast concrete slabs supplied by Wilson Concrete will be used to make the floor. Backfill taken from the foundation hole has been levelled.

STRADWICK'S

This week the cement floor was poured for Stradwick's building — 62 yards of cement were used, the asphalt for the parking lot put in, and the aluminum front put on. Opening date is expected to be December 1.

SMITH TRANSPORT GARAGE

The overhead doors are installed and the last of the outside brick work was completed Thursday for the Smith Transport terminal. Next week the windows will be installed by Bellview Glass and Mirror.

ARGOSY TERMINAL

Inside the water lines have been laid at Argosy Terminal and the fill is in. Outside gravel has been laid on the heaps and mounds. By the end of next week weather permitting, the outside walls will be up.

LAMBERT CONSTRUCTION

Block work has begun on Lambert's new double triplex located on Wallbridge Rd. Construction will begin at the first of next week on the two double triplexes located on Wallbridge Rd.

INTELLIGENCER BUILDING

Cement, 135 yards of it, was poured for the second floor of the Intelligencer building this week. Today the basement floor will be poured. On the southwest corner, the wall is now at roof level. Superintendent Nate Carr reports he is still short of masons.

Badminton Banter

The club's season is really hitting its peak this week. We have been having a good number out regularly but Wed. night found 8 courts going strong with around 15 more players having to wait for a court.

A delegation of players was up from the Napanee Club due to their armouries being closed. We will be having a number of them joining the club.

Billie Waldron has the thankless job of collecting dues. We have quite a number of paid up members but a greater number unpaid. Don't be surprised if you see Billie on the prowl with her black book because she has a budget to meet.

It is plain to see that everyone is getting in shape because the calibre of play is getting fast and furious.

Bev. McLean (of the Royal Bank) has taken over the treasury of the club due to a vacancy. Bev is one of our strongest players.

The clubs will have a drop in attendance after Dec. 10 due to Christmas but right after the New Year there will be a number of inter-club matches. By this time everyone will be working hard on lining everything up for the CORA "B" tournament which Belleville is holding Feb. 6.

Paul Temple seems to have taken it very hard when he was beaten by the fair sex. He is working on improvement and is out to prove that it was a fluke as he has his eye set on a big win this Saturday during C.O.-B.A. Social Day.

Any of the Belleville members not playing in this event are invited to come down around 8 p.m. and join fellow members in dinner and fun.

Brandy, Oysters, Plaudits 90th Birthday Menu

Winnie Cannot Make Victory Sign But Churchillian Grin Is Still There

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill climbed out of bed on his 90th birthday today, creaky of limb but feeling well.

"It's very well," said Sir Winston's doctor and long personal friend, Lord Moran, "and I can tell you something else—he still enjoys his daily cigar."

Lord Moran, who was 81 earlier this month, could have added that Britain's wartime leader still enjoys his daily brandy.

Sir Winston began his birthday celebration by leaving his bed shortly before noon. Assisted by a male nurse—for he is very feeble — he dressed slowly and went downstairs at his London home in Hyde Park Gate to be greeted by his secretaries, servants and plain-clothes detective.

AVALANCHE OF GIFTS

After receiving the good wishes of his staff, Sir Winston faced the avalanche of messages and gifts that poured in from all over the world. A message from the Queen, sent with a bouquet of lilies and freslas, was given to him first.

There were thousands more including messages from President Johnson and Governor-General Vanier of Canada.

Britain's postal service department estimated Sir Winston would receive a minimum of 60,000 greetings before the end of the day.

That meant a birthday dinner with members of the family.

Oysters and champagne were on the table centerpiece was a huge iced cake, two feet in diameter and decorated with a big golden rose and these words on a scroll:

"In war—resolution: in defeat — defiance: in victory—magnanimity: in peace—goodwill."

In the birthday eve hundreds of well-wishers crowded outside Churchill's home near Hyde Park to sing Happy Birthday, Sir Winston and For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

He could not manage the famous Churchillian grin, but, supported by Lady Churchill on one side and a nurse on the other, he spread his arms wide in acknowledgment of the cheers.

He was wearing one of his wartime siren suits—a coverall ideal for the day's short sheeting for old Churchillian grin spread across his face as acknowledged the crowd's greeting.

Despite a freezing drizzle he had been determined to stand so that he could see and be seen.

Pearson Blasted for Leaving Ottawa by Opposition Chief

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Saturday blasted Prime Minister Pearson for leaving Ottawa "in the face of a moral crisis affecting senior servants of the government and ministers of the Crown."

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke by telephone from his Parliament Hill office to the convention of the New Brunswick Progressive Conservative Association at Fredericton.

Most of his 15-minute "conversation" was taken up with criticism of Mr. Pearson and the government over charges raised this week in the Commons of bribery and coercion attempts by ministerial assistants in connection with the Rivard narcotics case.

Mr. Pearson should have been in Ottawa, the opposition leader said, but "has been out in Western Canada on a political pilgrimage."

On the Rivard case, Mr. Diefenbaker said the government "concealed from the prime minister" and "all would have been covered up if it had not been for Mr. Nielsen" (Erik Nielsen, PC—Yukon).

The prime minister had said in Winnipeg "there should be a moratorium on the discussion of this case.

"There would have been a moratorium on knowledge of what had occurred in the departments of justice and immigration if he had not been for Erik Nielsen."

On the new flag, which returns to the Commons for debate this week, the Conservatives were not opposed to it. We say that Mr. Pearson has been our flag and to abolish it will divide the nation. We say a new flag does not need to be on the Ensign a fleur-de-lis on the flag to signify the Acadian and French contributions to this country."

Mr. Diefenbaker said in a telephone interview Sunday night that in any administration under the British system of government, Justice Minister Favreau and Citizenship Minister Tremblay would have been suspended.

In a separate interview during the same program, Transport Minister Pickersgill accused the Progressive Conservatives of playing politics with the nation's moral standards by making threats of further charges which were never carried out.

He said the government regards the bribery and coercion charges very seriously and had changed the terms of reference of a judicial inquiry to make it perfectly clear it wants them thoroughly investigated.

Both men appeared on the CBC-TV network program This Hour has Seven Days.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the fact that the allegations of Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne were concealed by the government was evidence that it felt it wouldn't benefit if they were known.

He said the justice department failed to act, as had been the case with deposed SIU president Hal C. Banks.

Mr. Favreau should have brought Mr. Lamontagne's allegations to the attention of the judge presiding in the extradition hearing against Lucien Rivard so that the judge could consider immediately proceedings with contempt charges.

Instead, Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Mr. Tremblay, continued for six weeks on Mr. Tremblay's personal staff after the minister's attention had been brought to Mr. Lamontagne's allegations that Rivard offered him a $20,000 bribe to go easy in opposing Rivard's application for bail.

He said Mr. Tremblay should have fired Mr. Denis immediately he was suspended him. The minister was "entirely negligent."

Airport Closed As Rebel Forces Get Upper Hand

'You Shoot One Rebel 6 More Take His Place'

From Reuters-AP

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Stanleyville airport, where a chartered Belgian DC-4 exploded and crashed on takeoff Sunday with the loss of at least seven lives, was "temporarily closed" today due to fighting around the field, the leader of the mercenary forces told reporters here.

Maj. Mike Hoare, leader of the white mercenary force fighting the rebels, made the disclosure amid signs that the situation in the former state of Kital was getting desperate for the white mercenary-led central government forces trying to prevent the rebels from recapturing it.

Air Congo cancelled one flight to Stanleyville today and another place airwaye on the way there was called back to Leopoldville.

Hoare, in Leopoldville "to get more reinforcements," told reporters "not to over-dramatize the situation."

NUMBERS DWINDLE

Other mercenaries said their number in Stanleyville was dwindling steadily.

One white mercenary gave a low figure of only 60 mercenaries left in Stanleyville out of the approximate 250 who came in there six days ago. Earlier, other sources said there were 200 mercenaries and some 600 Congolese government soldiers.

Another mercenary, brought to Leopoldville to get a minor wound treated, declared: "As soon as you shoot one rebel, there are six more there to take his place."

Two United Nations communications experts flew in from Stanleyville with the news that the mercenary - led forces were in control of the northern city's European section.

Sources here gave the figure of at least seven dead aboard the Belgian airliner, but there were other reports the toll might be at least eight.

Belgian International Air Transport officials said they were not sure whether the plane was hit by rebel gunfire or crashed accidentally.

In Brussels the Belgian news agency Inbel said the plane was shot down by rebels.)

People returning from Stanleyville on an earlier flight said they saw hundreds of rebels massed in the dense bush at the far end of the Stanleyville runway and that Congolese Air Force planes were bombing the rebels with rockets and machine-guns.

REBELS COME SIN

A message reaching Leopoldville said the plane "got fire on taking off." It was not clear whether this meant that the plane had been hit by the rebels.

There were conflicting reports on the number of passengers on board the plane, which crashed at the end of the runway.

A U.S. Air Force source said only 21 persons were on the Debate On Flag To Open

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—With no one quite sure of what's in store, the proposed new Canadian flag will be unfurled in the Commons today and exposed to the same winds of oratory that blew down another design after 23 days of temper-lingering talking.

On the eve of the debate there were indications that the winds of Opposition would not be as long or as strong this time, but no one was guessing as to when, and how, the proposed flag would reach a vote.

The circumstances are somewhat different this time. The previous three-leaf flag was proposed by the government, and was bitterly assailed by the Conservative opposition as "The Pearson Pennant." This time it's a single red maple leaf on a white background with a red panel at each side, and it comes to the Commons on the 10 to 4 recommendations of an inter-party committee.

However, four of the five Conservatives on the committee voted against it and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker has termed the design "unacceptable." But there has been no indication of a blockade against the flag although several members of the party have said they would like to extend the debate until the government invokes closure.

Prime Minister Pearson has promised a re vflag by Christmas.

INDICATE SUPPORT

A majority of members of the smaller parties have indicated their support for the proposed

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Northwest to northerly winds are bringing the cold air behind the storm that's so far southward into southern Ontario this morning. Off-lake snow has accompanied the cold outbreak. Not much change in the general weather pattern is expected during the next forty eight hours. Skies have been gradually clearing in Northern Ontario and in eastern Ontario and this tendency to clear cold weather is likely to continue. The winds should gradually decrease. Variable cloud conditions and occasional snow are likely to persist in the snowbelt to the south and southeast of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay.

Hindu Extremists Cancel Plans For Protests Against Pope's Visit

BOMBAY (AP)—The Indian government appears to have headed off big Hindu demonstrations during Pope Paul's visit to Bombay this week for the International Eucharistic Congress.

Two extremist Hindu organizations, the Jan Sangh and the Hindu Mahasabha, had planned to demonstrate against the Pontiff when he arrives Wednesday for a three-day visit.

The Jan Sangh, a national political party, made a drive to get the government to abandon its plans.

A government source said the Hindi Mahasabha, a militant group considered dangerous, had made the same decision, but this could not be immediately confirmed.

The Hindus contend that the congress, a major spiritual gathering held every four years, and the Pope's visit represent the start of a campaign to gain Roman Catholic converts in non-Christian India. The congress began Saturday.

The Indian government warned it would not tolerate incidents during the Pope's visit. In its deal with the Jan Sangh, the government agreed to relax restrictions on the organization's leaders who were placed under house arrest when the group began denouncing the papal visit.

Russians Reject Proposal

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union today rejected a compromise formula put forward by Secretary-General U Thant in the hope of avoiding a U.S.-Soviet confrontation on UN financing.

Thant proposed to the four big powers that they agree to postpone all important matters until after the first of the year so there would be no occasion to question the voting rights of the Soviet Union. The United States and others contend that the Russians cannot vote because of their bank debts.

The Soviet delegation issued a statement this morning saying:

"In connection with reports published in the American press to the effect that important matters on the agenda of the UN General Assembly should be postponed for a long period or indefinitely, the Soviet delegation deems it necessary to state that it categorically opposes such views."

Think LBJ To Replace FBI Chief

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine says that President Johnson has decided to replace J. Edgar Hoover as chief of the FBI.

A spokesman said today there would be no comment from the FBI.

The magazine says Hoover "has become a figure of controversy—not merely to longtime leftist critics but among old admirers who wonder whether he has forgotten the motto on his desk."

The motto, inscribed on a small brass plaque: "Two feet on the ground are worth one in the mouth."

Hoover held one of his rare press conferences Nov. 18, in which he told women reporters that civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is "the most notorious liar in the country." He also denounced the Warren commission for its criticism of the FBI's role in the events preceding President Kennedy's assassination.

Premier of South Viet Nam Asks Public Help Stop Street Riots

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Tran Van Huong of South Viet Nam appealed Sunday night for public support after pavtroop cers crushed another Buddhist demonstration against his month-old government.

In a broadcast, Huong called on the people to help put down street demonstrations which he said were inspired by the Communists.

Saigon's military governor, charged that the Viet Cong definitely had been involved Sunday in the funeral procession for a Buddhist boy that turned into an anti-government demonstration. Police arrested 89 persons.

The Buddhist hierarchy, who have vowed to bring down Huong's government, charged that the government's show of force amounted to "direct provocation against unified Buddhism."

About 1,500 paratroopers clashed with some 2,000 demonstrators who had gathered for the funeral procession. The Buddhists claimed 15-year-old Le Van Ngoc was shot by troops who broke up an earlier anti - government demonstration.

Fighting broke out after the demonstrators protested the seizure of a truck in the procession. The army said it carried knives, clubs and grenades. The vehicle's occupants were armed.

The government had given permission for the funeral but stipulated that only 200 marchers could take part and that the procession follow a route avoiding downtown Saigon. The procession, however, started out with 2,000 marchers and at one point veered toward downtown Saigon.

Officials blamed Viet Cong agents for sending an empty locomotive rolling into Saigon's main station early today. It crashed into a railway car, station and injured 11 others.

Spectre of China Bulks Big Over UN Assembly Opening

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The spectre of Communist China bulks big over the UN General Assembly opening Tuesday.

Communist China's new role as a nuclear power, the admission of its right to China's seat in the assembly and the Secretary Council tie, its threat of domination in Southeast Asia, its infiltration in Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America—all these things will be discussed when the 115 nations almost from the opening through 15 weeks until the scheduled adjournment.

Nationalist China, with strong U.S. support, has managed to block Red China's drive to get a mounting demand for Communist China representation over the years.

Condemned for the part it played against UN forces in the Korean War, Communist China has been thumped back year after year with the slogan that it must not be allowed to shut Iway into the United Nations.

This year it has a nuclear weapon, the device it exploded Oct. 16. Many of the countries are saying no universal disarmament program can be effective unless the Chinese Communists are represented—in the UN Disarmament Commission and in the United Nations-sponsored disarmament committee of 18.

The argument has been added to the previous contention that a group of 650,000,000 or more — one - quarter of the world's population — must be heard in UN discussions.

Cambodia, Indonesia, Mali, the Congo Republic (Brazzaville), Mali, Guinea and Albania are sparking the new drive to get the Communists in.

The Canadian government has indicated that it feels the isolation of the Communist regime must soon be ended. But Canada is expected to continue at least for this session to back the U.S. and vote against admission.

Torontonians See Grey Cup 'Hoopla' on Wane Each Year

TORONTO (CP)—The Grey Cup, said the cab-driver fourth in line at the Royal York Hotel, is dying.

"The Grey Cup is dead," corrected the cabbie who was fifth in line, with little prospect of business in the quiet at 2 a.m. Sunday.

They were talking about the decline in sustained, free-wheeling fun that is now gone since the East-West football final a big show in several days of entertaining for visiting fans.

If organization could make a party, the Grey Cup festival for Saturday's game between Calgah Columbia Lions and Hamilton Tiger-Cats should have been terrific.

"About 250 members of the Toronto Argonaut Club have worked for a year on festival plans, held daily "hoopla" parades for a week preceding the game, doled out hamburgers from a mobile barbecue, hired bands, assigned greeters and staged public parties.

The pre-game Grey Cup parade was among the biggest in 17 years of such parades. The half-hour halftime show at the game was the most spectacular ever, with scores of majorettes, precision squads, fireworks, floats and singing.

The game itself should have been a drawing card as a rematch between the two tough teams that met for the 1963 cup in Vancouver.

But apart from a mob scene at the Toronto Argonauts Friday night and a tamer repeat performance for a couple of hours Saturday night, Grey Cup 1964 was a weak version of past blowouts. From the beginning in 1948, when Calgary turned Toronto on its ear, and in the 1950s, when thousands journeyed to the fun and game.

Estimates of the number of visitors in Toronto for the Grey Cup range widely, but they were probably no more than 15,000 to 20,000 — perhaps as many more from the four other Western Football Conference cities.

The crowd of 32,655 at the game itself, predominantly Hamilton fans, was subdued by rain, a chilly wind and the steady inevitability with which the Lions built their 34-24 victory over the Tiger-Cats.

Mariner Finds Its Guiding Star, Is Now on Its Course to Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Spacecraft Mariner IV finally found its guiding star today, and controllers said it was using it to speed on toward an appointment with Mars.

Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena said that the second radio command sent to the craft today resulted in its finding Canopus — the bright orb it needs to hold it on course through a 7½-month, 325,000,000-mile voyage.

The second command was sent at 2:57 a.m., starting the craft rolling over in space, scanning the heavens for Canopus. Three minutes later it locked on a star.

Scientists said the data it then radioed back was analyzed, proving it locked on Canopus and not some other star.

At the time Mariner IV began on Canopus it was 134,800 miles from earth and was travelling at 7,400 miles an hour, scientists said.

Mariner needs the fix to keep it flying through space without tumbling into positions where its radio equipment won't function properly.

It also needs the fix on Canopus for the crucial midcourse maneuver.

When Mariner IV was rocketed into orbit Saturday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., it was aimed on a course which would take it on a 7½-month, 325,000,000-mile journey to within perhaps 150,000 miles of Mars.

But Mariner's key assignment — taking television pictures and transmitting some of the red-hued planet's many secrets — the spacecraft must make a fly-by at 8,000 to 10,000 miles.

Scientists who developed the craft planned to fire a rocket aboard the ship from five to 10 days after launch to put it into the refined course for the 10,000-mile near-miss.

Former Moderator Heard By United Church Laymen

Creation of a welfare society is the Western world's answer to communism and supports the teaching of Jesus, Rev. James R. Mutchmor, former moderator of the United Church of Canada, said here Saturday night.

Dr. Mutchmor also warned the time has come to call a halt to the Western way of life which seems based on an unbridled philosophy of "everything goes."

"Such a trend posed a challenge to all church men and women," he said.

Mr. Mutchmor, who became a controversial figure while moderator for his frank stands on contemporary moral issues, spoke to the Belleville Presbytery of United Church laymen at Tabernacle Church.

He stayed in Belleville to preach the sermon at the church's Sunday morning service.

The church, he told Saturday night's meeting, must "really be the conscience of the state."

He also repudiated belief that traditional morals attitudes now are outmoded.

Dr. Mutchmor warned that such beliefs poses a threat to "honor in government, justice in our courts, dependability in both the legal and medical professions and common honesty in business.

The nation's "unbridled and standardless proceedings" in Dr. Mutchmor, were turning much of radio and television drama and newspaper columns into "come-ons for sexual promiscuity."

"This senseless philosophy has invaded the teachings of the Christian church. It is time for men and women of the church, with good sense and good humor to sweep today's accumulating filth into the gutter where it belongs."

Realtors Hear History of Land Surveying

The November meeting of the Belleville and District Real Estate Board was held Friday evening in the dining room of Johnny's Restaurant.

Two members of the Board, J. E. McKinney and John Deacon, who are Aldermanic candidates, spoke briefly.

The president, Gerald Joyce, invited on behalf of the Board executive, the members of the association and their staff to the annual Ladies' Night Christmas party. The function will be held Saturday, December 12th, 1964, at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel.

The guest speaker for the meeting was Mr. Thomas Ransom, O.L.S. Mr. Ransom's topic was "The History of Land Surveying".

The speaker traced the practice of surveying to the Egyptians when they were called "rope stretchers".

In this part of Ontario land surveying became necessary in 1783 when the Loyalists began to arrive in this part of the country. In 1787 Sidney and Thurlow Townships were staked out in this area, with the use of a compass and a Gunter's Chain. The magnetic compass and the method of measurement were not accurate a method of surveying. Mr. Ransom suggested that was one of the reasons why we have some "odd curved property lines".

In 1816 Belleville was laid out by Samuel Wilmot. Belleville was then known locally as "Myer's Creek". The speaker mentioned the fact that Belleville was without the benefit of a local O.L.S. during World War I and II.

The speaker offered the services of his office to the Realtors present. The necessity of having precise descriptions in legal agreements was explained. The speaker referred to some descriptions as now recorded in the Registry Office of Hastings County, which now appear most amusing and very inadequate.

Several pieces of surveyor's equipment, old and new, were displayed. Mr. Ransom explained the uses to which the equipment was put.

The speaker was introduced by D. E. Barr, and the thanks of the Board members were conveyed by D. T. Stork.

'TWAS 24 DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS.....

When all over town
People hurried and scurried
Some wearing a frown.

Soon the stocking would hang
By the chimney with care
But what to put in them?
We feel such despair.

The children were nestled
All snug in their beds,
What to buy? Where to shop?
Buzzed through our poor heads.

Mom with her list
And Dad just confused,
Had just settled down
Not too enthused.

When out of his chair
Dad arose with a clatter.
Mother, surprised, said,
"What is the matter?"

The light from the lamp
Lit the floor up below,
Where Dad dropped the "Intell"
His face all aglow.

Then to my wondering eyes did appear
An add in the paper that made it all clear.

As rapid as eagles our ideas all came,
We whistled and shouted as we checked off each name.

Hunter Made Bed of Boughs On Snow 20 Inches Deep

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) When 33 - year - old Robert W. Fisher began making his bed a week ago tonight, "I began to refer to it as a 'death bed.'"

The bed was of boughs. It was made on snow 20 inches deep. The temperature was somewhere below 15 degrees. It was Fisher's third night, lost in upper Michigan's Houghton County woods.

Fisher vanished from seven hunting companions a little after 9 a.m. Friday, Nov. 20, when he set out tracking a deer.

On Monday, Fisher stumbled into a lumber camp outside Toivola. He had been missing more than 72 hours in near-blizzard weather and Houghton County sheriff's men had begun to "fear the worst" for him.

Shortly after he set out Friday morning, Fisher, a hunter for 14 years, found a north wind blowing his tracks away almost before he stepped out of them.

CHECKS SUPPLIES

By his own estimate when he lost the deer, Fisher was some five miles from his camp. He sat down on a log and checked his supplies—a skinning knife, six shells in his gun, a pack of matches and a watch—and began to watch.

He started back, but his compass didn't lead him to camp.

As darkness began falling, Fisher gathered boughs and built a fire. He drank from a nearby stream and ate newly fallen pine buds.

Trundling through streams, gullies and ravines Saturday, Fisher plodded through his three pairs of socks and wet his precious matches. Also, he fired his fifth shell.

Again he made a bed of boughs in eerie, terrible, lonely quietness.

Laying awake, looking up at the sky, Fisher thought:

"I thought of little incidents: Did I snap too briskly at the grocery man? But mostly, I thought of what I had left only a week before—my wife, Bonnie, the children, my mother and dad and my brothers.

HOW SHORT IT IS

"I think I realized then, to the very fullest, how short life really is, and how the smallest incidents could be so important in your re-living them."

Sunday's fruitless tramping ended with Fisher's preparing what "for the first time I began to refer to . . . as 'death bed.'"

"It was so strangely quiet at daybreak Monday that I thought, 'Oh, my God, everyone's given up and gone home. It's Monday and they've all had to go back to work.'"

It was some two hours later that Fisher heard the drone of what sounded to him like an engine. At about 10:40 that morning, unshaven, exhausted and with frostbitten feet he stumbled into a lumber camp.

A surprised lumberjack gave Fisher his whole lunch and coffee jug when he asked for something to eat.

Toronto Men Arrested for Burglary Here

Two Toronto men have been charged in an apartment house burglary in Belleville on November 12th, that ended with a touch of farce.

In custody are Donald Elmer McDonald and William Frederick Lauzon, both aged 30, arrested in Toronto Saturday by Belleville police.

The search for suspects started after two men slipped the lock on an apartment at 170 William Street. They were surprised by a housewife and fled the scene—with the woman in hot pursuit across Queen Alexandra school grounds.

They escaped, but police later found an abandoned automobile with articles stolen from another apartment in the building.

Two Canadian Soldiers in Gaza Strip Killed

GAZA (AP) — Two Canadian soldiers serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East were killed when their car ran over a land mine, United Nations headquarters announced Sunday.

The defence department in Ottawa identified the Canadian victims as Cpl. Paul Reginald Wallace, 33, of Three Mile Plains, N.S., who was in charge of the party, and Tpr. Adrian Bons, 22, of Bowmanville, Ont., the driver.

The two soldiers were members of D-Squadron, 8th Canadian Hussars.

They had approbended a Bedouin who had strayed into a restricted zone of the Egyptian side of the border and were returning to their desert outpost when the accident occurred.

A defence department spokesman said several Canadian soldiers have been killed in the Gaza Strip in very similar circumstances since the emergency force was set up in 1956.

He said UNEF troops have removed many mines over the years, but thousands more are believed to have remained undetected because of poor maps and markings and shifting sand.

Kiwanis Club Will Present 'Mysteries of the Balkan World'

Gene Wiancko, travelogue lecturer and photographer will present his film, "Mysteries of the Balkan World" this Thursday evening at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium when the Kiwanis Club presents its "Travel and Adventure Series".

Mr. Wiancko has been a radio narrator, writer, producer and explorer, prior to entering the motion picture field and for 12 years was an exploration geophysicist. He was in charge of the 30-man exploration party whose work with sub-surface seismic waves led to the discovery of the world's northermost gas field at Point Barrow, Alaska. He has made films of Alaska, Mexico, Munich, Venice, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Romania.

"Mysteries of the Balkan World" is a new travel-documentary motion picture in full color, with its chief settings in Macedonia, Montenegro and the mountains of Albania. This film also shows the finest national dances, the magnificent Montenegro sea coast, the ancient cities of Budva, Bar and Ulcinj. Another interesting film-story to be shown is that of the Oracle of Delphi — a mystical voice which dictated the future of the Balkans and on to Greece to visit Athens' famed Acropolis and the museum. Finally in Izmir, Turkey, on the trail to the Balkans, and Perast — the "smallest town city," and the majestic Fjord of Kotor.

D. McMaster Declared Reeve Of Murray Twp.

TRENTON — Douglas McMaster of the York Road will spend his seventh year as reeve of Murray Township next year. Saturday night, he was acclaimed as reeve, when two other nominees for the post, Fredrick Bruyea and John Alpea failed to qualify. Mr. Bruyea, deputy reeve under Reeve McMaster for a number of years, will not seek public office this year.

In the Dec. 7 elections, township voters will be asked to choose a deputy reeve from the contenders, Gerald Ross and Ronald Webb, both members of township council for a number of years.

For the three vacant seats on township council, Leo McAuley, Douglas Williams, James Day, Robert Seeley and Harry Lafferty have qualified to contest.

For a five-man school board, Hugh Fox, Douglas Tufford, George Plumpton, J. E. Leveridge, Richard Kerr, Stewart Mainprize, Paul Ross and Archie Bennett have qualified to run.

Public Bodies' Members Will Give Reports

TRENTON — Tonight, in the high school auditorium, starting at 8 p.m., Mayor MacDonald and the members of 1964 council, as well as the chairmen of other public bodies, will make their annual report to the ratepayers of the town. Contenders for public office in the upcoming municipal elections Dec. 7 will also present their platforms.

These ratepayers' meetings have been badly attended in recent years, but this year, there is a move afoot to get people out.

Service club heads have reminded their members of the meeting and also urged them to get out to vote.

The Rotary Club, meeting for dinner tonight in the Gilbert Hall, plans to attend the citizens' meeting in a body. Similarly, the Kiwanis Club members, Lions and Business and Professional Women's Club members have been "nudged" by their presidents also.

One drawing card is the Trenton Citizen's Band, whose leader is Ted Snider. The band will play before the meeting and possibly between breaks in the program.

The entire meeting will be taped and rebroadcast over radio station CJBQ tomorrow night.

Freak Mishap On Overhead Railway Bridge

TRENTON — Damage totalling $700 was the result of a "freak" accident on the overhead railway bridge between Trenton and Brighton Saturday morning.

Provincial police from the Brighton detachment say a car driven by Gary Pete McCormick, 18, of R.R. 3, Trenton, went out of control on the bridge, struck the north side of the structure, then spun across to the south side. A collision between the McCormick car and a car driven by Frederick William Dunning, 41, of Richardson St., Brighton, occurred minutes later. Neither driver was hurt.

Damage to the McCormick vehicle was set by police at $450; to the Dunning car, $250.

Grandmothers To Stage Spiel At Curling Club

TRENTON — The women's division of the Trenton Curling Club is today running a "first" in local circles . . . a Grandmothers' Bonspiel. Rinks from Peterborough, Marmora, Kingston and the RCAF will join with Trenton ladies for the bonors. Eight rinks in all are involved, and two games will be played. Convener is Mrs. George Confette and the president of the local club, Mrs. Ruth Steevie, will greet the guests.

NOT MUCH DAMAGE

Trenton firemen Saturday morning were called to the Trenton Dyeing and Finishing Company plant on Flim Street, where fire had broken out under the mezzanine. Damage to the machinery was negligible, but a considerable amount of smoke damage to materials in the plant was caused. Damage is being assessed by plant personnel.

Smaller Council Offers Advantage

For the third time in recent years Belleville municipal voters will be asked for a plebiscite opinion on a smaller city council.

This time the referendum proposes to reduce council membership from its present 14 aldermen to 10.

The suggestion is no new departure for Belleville. Some years ago the electorate actually did vote for a council composed of fewer aldermen. With annexation in the wind, however, the voters later reversed their first decision.

Now, they are being asked once more to cast a decision on the number of representatives they wish on council. It is hoped the vote will be positively in the affirmative.

A smaller council, after all, was touted as one of the benefits of the city manager form of local government. Belleville has been administered under the city manager system for nearly a decade now—and we still have the same number of councillors in office.

Neither is the present numerical strength, or weakness, of the city council justified by comparison. For instance, Sarnia with a population of about 52,000 and a city manager has a mayor and eight councillors. Niagara Falls with 54,000 and a city manager makes do with a mayor and 10 councillors. Kitchener (pop. 81,000) is governed by 10 aldermen and a mayor. Even North York, with over 300,000 residents, finds a reeve and eight councillors sufficient.

The advantages are obvious.

With fewer seats available, the calibre of council is bound to be raised. Admittedly, voters are not foolproof, but they have an unusually discerning eye in local politics.

On the council floor itself, agreement is more easily attained between 11 men than 15. There would be less debate—though this by no means signifies restricted discussion. This, in itself, should be sufficient to commend the idea to the electorate.

What Might Have Been

"What I could have been!" are five of the saddest words in the English language—and the frequency with which they are repeated increases daily.

Caught up in a world where wealth is often the measure of a man, many people in their later years find themselves in possession of houses, cars, and bank accounts, but sadly lacking in that important abstract satisfaction.

Rather than pursue a job because it pays well, it would be wise if in our early years we took a short pause, evaluated our abilities, and examined where they could lead us.

The ability tests offered today by most universities and high schools, and some private institutions, are an excellent aid in evaluating capabilities.

These written tests, designed by psychologists, can determine an individual's likes and dislikes, abilities and weak points.

Once these are established the fields that his capabilities and temperament suit him for can be pointed out and discussed.

We only pass this way once. The years may as well be spent doing what we enjoy.

Lifetime Job?

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor says he has "enlisted in this war (in South Viet Nam) for the duration."

This observation is not the bid for lifetime job security that it may appear on the surface. Taylor was denying that he intends to resign if President L. B. Johnson does not accept his, Taylor's, plan for new actions against the communists, probably to include bombing their supply lines from North Viet Nam. He is thus pressing for the only type of action which appears likely to bring the war to a conclusion, one way or another, during the foreseeable future.

Reactions of Taylor's proposals brought a quick reaction from Moscow. Tass, the official Russian news agency, said the Soviet Union would give North Viet Nam "the necessary assistance" if the country is bombed.

Meanwhile, in South Viet Nam, another change in the government seems possible.

The South Vietnamese are such unsatisfactory allies that the U.S. might be forgiven for wondering whether one of the advantages of bombing North Viet Nam is not the possibility that the communists might retaliate by bombing Saigon.

Mononucleosis Rarely Seen in Persons Past 30

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard of several cases of mononucleosos my granddaughter had it, and there seems to be nothing we can really find out about the disease. Her doctor took a blood test and said that only rest would help.

Her boy friend doesn't seem to be satisfied, but he said two of his girl friends have it. When he asked the doctor if he could be a carrier, his doctor just laughed. Please write about this. — Grandmother.

Mononucleosis is (or "glandular fever") is a common infectious, communicable disease which occurs almost entirely among young people. Rarely is it ever seen in persons past 30.

It is not extremely dangerous, complications, however, can be, so a case should be watched carefully.

Your doctor is entirely correct: the average case the essential treatment is rest. But you can be certain that if some complications threatened, he would immediately start treatment to control it.

There have been so many questions about this disease that I've written a booklet on it — the problem is the matter of the way it spreads possible complications and special measures which sometimes need to be taken. If you would like a copy, sent 30 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 138, Dundee, Ill., and ask for "Mononucleosis: What it is and What To Do." Do not just ask for the "mononucleosis booklet."

The ailment has a tendency to spread through groups of young people, and it is not unusual for you to know of several cases. It is common, but until fairly recent years a great many cases probably were overlooked or mistakenly thought to be something else. It is well worth-while to know the signs and have positive laboratory tests, rather than let a young person drag along, achey, listless and exhausted.

As to the boy being a carrier — this I strongly doubt. Without question, it is frequently transmitted by people having light cases, but there's no evidence to indicate that people become carriers in the sense of those carrying typhoid.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was very interested in your column about croup. Originally I tried the vaporizer recipe, but because it takes some time for a sufficient amount of steam to form, and because my child was so young as to make the tent setup difficult, I followed my doctor's suggestion for more practicable results. As soon as I hear the baby gasping, I take him to the bathroom and run the shower as hot as possible.

There is relief in seconds. Meantime my husband starts the vaporizer. Once the baby is feeling better, we transfer him back to his own room after changing him to dry clothes to prevent chilling. — Mrs. L. R.

Excellent suggestion. My thanks to you and your doctor. Which method you use depends on circumstances. The moist atmosphere (the steam), preferably with some aromatic material, is important. This can be benzoin compound or a preparation containing menthol or eucalyptus.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: What does the term "general anesthetic" imply. — M. L.

It just means an anesthetic which "puts you to sleep" entirely, as opposed to a local anesthetic which shuts off sensation (pain, etc.) only in a particular part of the body.

• • •

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Molner for a copy of the booklet "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed envelope and 30 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Leaving the Land

Sherbrooke Record

Some forms of farm assistance may always be necessary. At the present, however, most farms are being assisted to maintain operations that are neither economic nor productive. Moreover, when a farmer "leaves the land is absorbed into a large and scarcely allowed to go to waste. If it is good land and in a location that makes farming it an economic proposition.

What often happens is that the land is absorbed into a large and more efficient farm operation. It is made to produce more with comparatively less expenditure of manpower and equipment.

Who Killed Kelp?

Montreal Gazette

Most people like a good mystery story, especially one that is true. And the new evidence indicating that the Emperor Napoleon was murdered with arsenic will keep the mystery hounds busy for a long time to come.

A British scientist has announced test tests were carried out on locks of Napoleon's hair at Britain's nuclear research centre at Harwell. These tests showed that arsenic had been administered to Napoleon over a lengthy period.

Needless to say, there have been angry denials. Bon Isabella of this sort are seldom well received. Still, if it can definitely be shown that the locks of hair really came from Napoleon's head, the question would seem to be settled: he died from arsenic poisoning.

Who murdered him, and why? Unless further evidence can be found, the field seems to be open to speculation, both informed and uninformed. Already, the finger of guilt is being pointed by some at Count Montholon, who was with Napoleon on St. Helena to the very end. He has gone down in history as a faithful friend. But now he is getting a second look. News stories are pointing out that he received 2 million francs in Napoleon's will.

Certainly, all the elements of the classic mystery story are present, including the precise and isolated location and the limited cast of suspects. evidence that he did not. It is even if completely verified, will have to compete with the inertia of time and legend School history books still ate's flatly and positively that Richard II murdered the Princes in the Tower, despite the considerable evidence that he did not. It is a fair guess that 100 years from now text-books will still be saying Napoleon died a natural death.

Many Cities Fight Pigeons

National Geographic News Bulletin

The war between cities and pigeons has spread to Munich.

Two hundred thousand of the city's star boarders are to be caught with big nets, put in cages, and banished to distant part of Bavaria. Since pigeons have proved extraordinarily adaptable over the ages, the Munich city fathers hope the exiled birds will learn to like the country as much as they like sidewalks and people.

Many cities would wish Munich good luck, but without conviction. Berlin, New York, Boston, Washington, Chicago, London, Paris, and Moscow have learned that pigeons can withstand trapping, deportation, shooting, poisoning, scaring, and all manner of campaigns. The birds multiply instead of decreasing.

People who happen to like pigeons enjoy their companionship and beauty. But the birds damage buildings, desecrate public monuments, foul sidewalks and streets, clog eaves and drainpipes. Their droppings can carry dangerous viruses.

Paris netted 100,00 pigeons captive this year. Specially trained catchers marched into the boulevards with crossbows, firing nets upon their unsuspecting quarry. The birds were packed off to the country to be kept in captivity for some time. Hopefully, they will forget about the City of Light and not try to return.

Moscow used to be extremely kind to pigeons. Traffic signs ordered drivers to watch out for pigeons at the risk of 2.5 ruble fines; food could be purchased for pigeons at special kiosks on Red Square. Several years ago, however, ominous bands of men started shooting down with nets —the traffic signs disappeared, food stalls vanished.

Even in Egypt, where the written history of pigeons began some 5,000 years ago, the tide has turned against them. The Nile Delta of Damietta deported its pigeons to height, clean, modern lofts erected at a cost of $14,350 in villages that did not resist the scheme. It was the same old story: The birds refused to stay deported.

A ledge-nesting bird before man's time, the block rock dove (Columbia livia) became the common pigeon of city streets in Africa, Asia and Europe. When the great cities began rising in medieaval times, pigeons found the ledges and crannies of buildings irresistible, and people could not resist feeding them. Emigrants brought pigeons to the New World.

Few animal species have adapted so well to man's environment without becoming wholly tame or dependent.

In New York's Times Square, heart of the glittering Great White Way, pigeons have learned to sleep by day and fly by night. In London, officials suspect that perhaps 80 per cent. of pigeons in the financial district, a dark emptiness after 5 p.m., are following commuters to the suburbs at day's end.

Elsewhere, despite all efforts to dislodge them, pigeons seem firmly entrenched in their own private municipal playgrounds—London's Trafalgar Square, Moscow's Red Square, Tokyo's Imperial Palace, Venice's Piazza San Marco; and Lafayette Park opposite the White House in Washington.

An exception to the anti-pigeon trend in Brasilia. This recently built, made-to-order capital felt something was missing. So city planners put up dove towers and imported a thousand birds to Three Powers Square.

Strictly Personal
Educational System Is Bogged Down

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What if the nation's high schools simply refused to graduate any of their students next June? What if the whole educational process were backed up a year or so?

Apart from overcrowding, this radical suggestion might be the only solution to the growing problem of illiteracy in the nation's schools. It's not that we can't read, write and spell, should they get a diploma and go on to college or to work?

And they can't read, write or spell — even at the highest levels. The University of California, for instance, takes only the top one-eighth of the state's high school graduates, and gives them a three-hour English test before admission.

This year, as in past years, about half of these "top one-eighth" incoming freshmen failed to meet the English test. Of the 9,000 admitted to the University of California, nearly 5,000 have to be given "bone-head" remedial English courses, at a great cost in time, expense and energy.

You can well imagine what the other seven-eighths are like, in terms of having a command of their mother tongue. Yet they are being turned out of high schools by the millions, to clog up colleges everywhere, to hold back the efforts of the minority of serious students.

If pupils don't even absolutely knew that they could not get out of high school until they had a basic grasp of the reading and writing process, then holding them back a year or so might be the fastest way to begin to break the log-jam of illiteracy in the college freshman level.

Why can't these students read and write? There are three main reasons: (1) They don't care enough; (2) Many, if not most, teachers of English, are unqualified to teach grammar; and (3) even the qualified ones have too many students and too many classes.

A concerted attack is needed on all these fronts. If the students are held back, the teachers will quickly care enough. If they care enough, more school bond issues will pass — and perhaps more of this money will go to higher salaries and better staff, and less fo, homecoming games, beauty queens, swimming pools, brass bands, and driving instruction.

The National Council of Teachers of English recommends no more than 100 students and four classes per teacher, to obtain the optimum results. But in my state of Illinois, which is fairly typical, only public high schools out of 706 meet this minimum requirement. The pupils can't learn if the teachers can't teach.

Meanwhile, the colleges are flooded with semi-literates, and the whole educational process is bogged down in mediocrity. Maybe it's time to stop the machinery and re-tool for the next season.

Voting Costs Curb Needed

Quebec Le Soleil

The announcement by State Secretary Lamontagne that a committee to study electoral expenses has been well - received by all the parties in the Commons. It will be by the population as well. But one may wonder whether our politicians will show anything but surface approval. Will they really support the reforms needed to curb excessive expenses in practice? . . .

The principle of control of electoral expenses is an effect of the evolution of the democratic system. It stems from the fact that the voice of the people must be heard as freely as possible in the election of its representatives. For this, the people must be well informed about the various candidates and about the various candidates. It would be unhealthy if this information depended too much on well-furnished party war chests.

But how can expenses be limited without limiting election information?

This is what the new committee will have to study. Certain countries have already given themselves electoral laws aimed at restraining electoral expenditures, and have adopted measures of this kind. The steps taken here and elsewhere may certainly throw on the light of the particular needs of Canada.

Thus one might suggest free voters' lists for the candidates, remuneration by the state of party representatives in the polls, repayment of part of the campaign expenses of candidates who have received a determined number of votes to prevent multiplication of parties, making available to the state television network and so on.

Where application of such measures might be difficult is in putting a ceiling on expenses, in the precise accounting needed and in the penalties required. One must keep in mind the great ingenuity of politicians in getting around the electoral law. . . .

This study committee is based on an article in the federal Liberal party's platform. The members of the committee have the confidence of the parties. Later, it will be up to the federal government it, correct the electoral law in the light of the main recommendations that will be made. Once it is recognized that it is essential to limit and control electoral expenses," as Mr. Lamontagne said, let us hope action will soon follow and the principle will become part of reality of Canadian politics.

FIFTH GENERATION of family to attend Bayside school, Diane Dafoe cuts ribbon at new school opening.

Design of Bayside School, Officially Opened Saturday, Departure From Accepted

One of the oldest public school sections in the district has been given an ultra - modern appearance.

The official opening Saturday of a new school at Bayside introduced a design that is a radical departure from the flat, utilitarian tradition of most small-or Ontario education centres.

Architects Craig, Zeller and Strong (the firm that planned Belleville's YMCA) have housed four classrooms in a design that equally emphasizes environment with utility for the school's 120 young pupils.

The fact was noted by guest speaker Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., who said the building amply demonstrated the interest of citizen school trustees in education.

More important, "with such beautiful schools it is a great environment, therefore a great encouragement, for students to carry on to higher education," he added.

The building, immediately north of the old Bayside school on Highway 2, is a far cry from the days of the rural red brick schoolhouse — a fact recalled by a number of speakers at Saturday's opening ceremonies.

For one of them the event had particular significance. Fred Denyes, 82, who received his primary education in just such a building at Bayside, was there Saturday to assist in the occasion's formalities.

But he also had a direct hand in establishing the new school. Mr. Denyes, not only is one of the oldest living graduates of the original Bayside school. He also is the oldest trustee on the school board.

His board was co-opted for a touch of local history in formally declaring the school open. Cutting the ribbon was nine-year-old Diane Dafoe, fifth generation of the Meyers family to attend a Bayside school.

Afterward, school inspector R. A. Dunsmore, officially declared the school in business — and added some words in the principles of education.

"Many of us feel we have to go to university," he said. "That is not the case.

"However, I do feel that (we) should see that our children have the best education they can obtain — consistent with their ability, their aptitude and their willingness to work."

The philosophy of education should be to guide each individual to (1) earn a "decent and honorable" living; (2) assist in making wise decisions and (3) help in creating the best possible type of leisure.

Completion of the school, actually in operation for several weeks, was delayed about a month by a late-summer district construction worker's strike.

Trustees, teachers and township councillors were introduced at Saturday's ceremonies by board chairman Emil Masse.

Rural School Board System Subject of Talk

The Belleville and District Men Teachers of District 4 held their November meeting at Jim's Place.

Guest speaker of the evening was Mr. R. A. Dunsmore, Public School Inspector for South Hastings and part of Prince Edward County.

Mr. Dunsmore spoke on the changeover in the rural school board system to take effect January 1, 1965. He pointed out that the number of rural school boards would be greatly reduced as of this date. Five elected board members will be in control of all the public schools in a township excepting corporated villages which meet population requirements for individual boards.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. M. M. Hackett and thanked by Mr. D. G. Lockyer.

Absent Santa Sends Greetings To Museum

Although Santa Claus was unable to be present Saturday afternoon for the opening of the Hastings County Museum's Christmas display, he did not forget the museum.

Shortly after the opening, a telegram arrived from the North Pole, and Santa Claus congratulated the museum on its fine display.

Although rain and the Gray Cup football game provided competition, Museum Curator Mrs. J. Sargent said that the opening day's attendance was very good and that there were only one or two quiet periods.

The Christmas display features a large number of children's toys and games from the T. S. Ransom collection and many interesting dolls from the Mary Moult collection.

A 19th century kitchen offers a glimpse of the Christmas season in past years, and Santa's workshop shows some early equipment used by toy builders.

The Cooldery collection of European furniture and silver has never been displayed in a more effective manner. Thanks to the lighting effects arranged by Rodger Greig and the artificial flowers and fruit provided through the courtesy of Mrs. J. A. Blackburn of the Flower Bowl and Gift Shop, the collection takes on a festive air.

The efforts of Miss Helen Watt are to be seen in the attractive displays of silverware from the Cooldery collection.

ARRANGED DISPLAYS

Chief Curator, Mrs. J. Sargent, and Assistant Curator, Mrs. G. D. Williamson arranged several of the displays including the attractive kitchen area, and several other museum members also contributed of their time and efforts to make this a very successful display.

To provide an extra touch at the opening, Christmas music was provided by a trio composed of John Barlow (flute), Ted Fort (clarinet) and Doug. Winman (cornet).

Among the many visitors on opening day to offer congratulations to the local museum was Judge Gerald F. Smith of Napanee, president of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society.

The display is open every Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5, with extended hours being announced early in December.

According to Hastings County Historical Society president, Gerald Boyce, this is one of the finest displays the local museum has ever offered since it combines the best of the museum's regular displays (especially the outstanding paintings by Rev. Bowen P. Squire) with several special displays appropriate to the Christmas season.

Also, the Christmas display has issued a call for 19th century purple cards, these being given to museum visitors.

Add to Bus Service For Wednesdays

In order to assist the public in the Christmas rush period the East Hill extra bus and West Hill Hillcrest bus will operate in addition to the regular buses on Wednesday afternoons, effective December 2 to December 23 inclusive.

It is to be noted that regular service of a one-half hour will be carried out in the evenings.

Ask Gifts For Mentally Ill Patients

The Christmas gift campaign of the Belleville District Branch, Canadian Mental Health Association is now under way to provide patients at Ontario Hospital, Cobourg, with gifts.

This project, that no patient in our mental hospitals will be without a special remembrance at Christmas, is not an appeal for money. Residents of the district are asked to give a gift similar to one they would give to a friend or relative.

Gifts should be left at Leslie's Shoe Store or Barton's Pharmacy, which will serve as collection depots or brought to 948 Church St., Belleville.

NO GLASS

Donors are reminded not to wrap the gifts and refrain from articles of glass which might be broken in transport. Additional gift suggestions are books of stamps, jig-saw puzzles, home made fruit cakes, candy, shortbread or articles of clothing.

The Canadian Mental Health Association has been established for 45 years. Their objective is to ensure better facilities for the care and rehabilitation of the mentally ill, and to promote through education, better mental health. Hospitalization due to mental illness has increased in Canada to the extent that nearly half of all hospital beds are occupied by these patients, according to information received from the association. Facilities for the care of the mentally ill have not always kept pace with this increase.

NEEDS SUPPORT

The Belleville branch has been operating since 1952 and is in need of support and new members. They are a voluntary group who work closely with the hospital staff and government authorities.

For their Christmas gift campaign more than 500 gifts are needed prior to December 10.

Bulletins From Birdland

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

TIME TO EAT

One of the chief reasons why our Canadian born birds fly south in autumn is the lack of edeetable light here. By the time they leave us there are barely enough hours in a day to find food before darkness falls. A few birds use moonlit nights for foraging in summer, but naturally, these are not sufficient in number to be of any real value. Most owls hunt by night, their eyes being especially designed for seeing well in a dim light — twilight, dawn, moonlight, or even that of stars on a particularly clear night. Consequently, many owls do not migrate — short days are no worry to them.

Migrants choose a flyway that has on it restaurants with suitable food for their own particular taste. Digestion is rapid in birds, and for a long flight much energy is required; and so it is essential that these restaurants be not more than a day's flight apart. Among all smart migrants, journey by night, then pause at daybreak to eat and rest. At migration season, spring and autumn, it is not unusual early in the morning to find a whole flock of migrants in area unviously devoid of birds, proving their night travel activity.

Birds of prey usually fill themselves to repletion when the opportunity arises. Therefore they do not mind fasting after a big feast, so often travel by day. Hawks come into this class. Certain water birds travel over water by day and over land by night, and in this way they pause for a meal in daylight if they so desire. Ducks and geese migrate either by day or by night, coming d'n to feed wherever food is available.

RAT AND FLY

No doubt the most fortunate migrants are those able to catch their meals as they fly, swallows, swifts, and nighthawks simply scoop up flying insects in their broad mouths as they travel. This is their ordinary way of eating. In consequence they can progress and eat simultaneously by daylight, thus having the hours of darkness for a complete rest.

However, many migrants fatten up before starting south. This reserve fat is used when the bird is obliged to make a lengthy flight without a chance of feeding — as, for instance, crossing a large body of water. For a similar reason birds are known to travel even in summer, before darkness falls, to before a storm. How they know enough to do this is, of course, quite a mystery to us; we just accept it as a fact, and put it down to "instinct".

Debate

flag, along with the 10 Conservative members from Quebec. Leon Balcer, Quebec lieutenant to Mr. Diefenbaker, said the flag should be "adopted without delay by the House."

While not favoring the new flag, several English-speaking Conservatives have also come out strongly against a prolonged debate. Gordon Fairweather (PC—Royal) has said that "tactics designed to frustrate what appears to be the will of the majority of Parliament by a renewal of the prolonged debate on the face of other issues which should be before us for consideration would be irresponsible and divisive."

Mr. Diefenbaker has said that "30 or so" members of his party had indicated a wish to speak in the debate. In the previous flag debate there were 117 speeches by Conservatives, along with one by Liberals, 10 by New Democratic members, eight by Social Credit members and seven by Creditistes.

Most of the Conservative speeches were based on a defence of the Red Ensign, as the battle waged through the summer from June 15 to July 15, with scattered interruptions for other business.

When it was apparent that the House was locked in a bitter impasse, the party leaders held a series of five meetings to decide on some compromising course of action. The result was the formation of a committee consisting of seven Liberals, five Conservatives and one member from each of the three smaller parties.

SAT 100 HOURS

The committee, under the chairmanship of Herman M. Batten (L — Humber - St. George's) was given four weeks to make its report. It sat behind closed doors for about 100 hours in 46 different meetings and through 2,000 submitted designs, and recommended the red and white design by a 10-4 majority.

Mr. Pearson then called a meeting of the House for the day of establishing a time limit on the subsequent debate. Mr. Diefenbaker had said the committee's report would have to be "virtually unanimous" before he would agree to such a limit. And so the debate opens today without any agreement on when it might end.

A month has passed since the committee made its report, and much of the government's other priority legislation has come before Parliament in the meantime. All the estimates have been passed and the Canada Pension Plan has been put through second reading and sent off to a committee.

Only one national labor code remains on the government's pre-Christmas list of priorities, and Mr. Pearson has said he believes both the flag and labor code can be dealt with prior to a Christmas holiday.

Members of the Kente Chorus (19 in number) are under the direction of Mr. Al Redmond and were accompanied by Mrs. L. F. Carter. The Chorus was formed two years ago under the very capable and dedicated direction of Mr. Al Redmond. The name Kente was chosen as an alternative to Quite which is used by the Belleville group. Kente is the French spelling for an Indian cloth and is also a popular garment in Prince Edward County.

In Saturday's concert the group performed a variety of folk songs, madrigals and light classical selections. The colorful West Indian Group provided interesting and highly entertaining music for their own countries of Jamaica, Trinidad, Barbados.

DENOUNCED HOLIDAY

U.S. President Thomas Jefferson refused to proclaim Thanksgiving Day, denouncing it as a "monarchial practice," but the day was reintroduced during the War of 1812.

Hot Line Phone Was Concealed In Cupboard

TORONTO (CP) — Four-year-old Robin Hannah was the grandson of Prime Minister Pearson who somehow last summer got to a hidden phone in Mr. Pearson's Ottawa residence and talked on the "hot line" linked with Washington and NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Robin's mother, Mrs. Walter J. Hannah of Toronto, said her daughter found the phone concealed in a cupboard and was talking with someone she thought was a telephone operator when she was discovered by the prime minister.

"Robin's a mischief," she said in an interview Saturday.

Mr. Pearson first related the incident in a speech at Portage La Prairie, Man., last Thursday.

"I grabbed the telephone and explained that war had not begun," he said then. He did not say who was on the other end of the line.

The prime minister has two phones—one in his office and one at his home—for use by Canadian end of the NORAD "hot line." The phones are to be used only in an extreme emergency.

Woman Stabbed To Death by Night Prowler

CACHE BAY, Ont. (CP)—A 69-year-old woman was stabbed to death by a prowler Saturday night and her 35-year-old niece wounded—her life apparently saved when pretended to be dead.

Mrs. Alderic Lavergne was found dead in her bedroom above a grocery store in this community 31 miles west of North Bay.

Her niece, Jeannette Renaud, was reported in fair condition in hospital at nearby Sturgeon Falls Sunday night. She suffered knife wounds to the arms, legs, face and back.

Police are searching for a tall young man who broke into the store operated by Mrs. Lavergne's nephew, Romeo Lavergne.

The two women had been sleeping when the sound of a prowler entering the store woke Mrs. Lavergne.

Police said she apparently went downstairs and met a man who began slashing her with a knife. As she struggled up the stairs, he followed her, repeatedly stabbing her, until she fell into her bedroom.

PROWLER SHOELESS

Miss Renaud said she left her bedroom, two doors away from her aunt's, to confront the prowler. He was blood-stained and shoeless.

He seized her and slashed her face and arms, she said. When she collapsed on the floor, he cut a deep gash in her back and stabbed her legs.

Miss Renaud told police that the man returned later and kicked her but she pretended she was dead.

The assailant stole $11.34 from a drawer in the store. Miss Renaud said she had begged him to take $50 from her purse and leave.

Mr. Lavergne was in hospital at the time of the attack.

United States Deeply Mired In War in South Viet Nam

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States position in South Viet Nam resembles the problems of a man digging a hole in a swamp.

Every shovelful of earth is replaced by water. Backbreaking it exists, is a long way down. How much farther can this U.S. afford to dig?

After 10 years of supporting South Viet Nam against Communist infiltration, the U.S. is more deeply mired than ever. Having given aid amounting to more than $2,000,000,000, about one-third of it for military help, it has no easy choice between keeping it up and dropping it.

The situation is drawing another penetrating analysis in Washington amid signs that if the U.S. gets tougher militarily, a more aggressive reaction will come from both China and the Soviet Union.

TAYLOR HOME

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, is back in Washington for high level consultations that will include President Johnson this week.

Taylor, on his return, south to play down reports of broader military action, especially the notion that the war may spread beyond South Viet Nam.

Speculation on the reports sprang directly from statements attributed to him in Saigon before he left.

There is no such thing as a simple solution in South Viet Nam, he said. "There are too many variables to attempt to put through one program."

Spokesmen for the White House portrayed the Viet Nam consultations as routine, with no "horrendous" decisions contemplated.

But the fact remains the U.S. is faced with the alternatives of expanding its role or watching the internal situation in South Viet Nam continue to deteriorate.

Since President Ngo Dinh Diem, leader since 1955 was deposed and killed a year ago, there has been a succession of coups, government realignments and riots. The last time Taylor visited Washington, in early September, there was an abortive coup.

Student and Buddhist rioting and the subsequent declaration of martial law followed his departure this time.

There is considerable speculation he intends to argue for an extension of military action to block aid coming to the Viet Cong inside South Viet Nam from North Viet Nam and Cambodia.

KREMLIN WARNING

In Moscow last week there was an aggressive warning from the new men in the Kremlin Russia would supply the necessary assistance to the Vietnamese Communists if the U.S. attacked them.

This was a change from the attitude of Nikita Khrushchev, at least in his last years as premier. To the U.S. air strikes on North Viet Nam in August, Khrushchev reacted mildly, drawing a bitter Chinese blast for his reticence.

Khrushchev's successors seem to be taking a sterner line.

There is ample evidence the South Vietnamese themselves perhaps are a good deal less about the fate of the war than the U.S. itself or other Southeast Asian countries, such as Thailand, that fear the U.S. may write off the country.

Viet Nam was occupied by the Japanese during the Second World War. The French returned after the war, and left again after inability to cope with the Communists. Now the U.S. has the same problem, as more than 20,000 of its military advisers are in the country and American casualty lists mount daily.

Take Heed Of Warning Sounds

By EUGENE B. MILNOR

Many car noises are due only to minor troubles — but it's best to take them all as warnings of serious conditions. To help ingyou pinpoint them, here are a few common noises and their probable causes.

A light, metallic engine tap or ping indicates pre-ignition, (commonly called spark knock) usually due to poor ignition timing, wrong octane fuel (regular instead of premium) or heavy carbon formation. A steady clicking, especially when the engine is cold, points to sticky valves. A loud grinding noise after the engine is started, means the starter is jammed. All automatic - transmission hum or whine could be low fluid or low pump pressure.

A squeal under the hood may look for a tight fan belt If the noise is constant, or a loose belt if it's heard only on accelaration. A hiss or whistle may be from a loose spark plug or radiator pressure cap. An engine rattle when the car is in motion will be heard if the battery is loose in its carrier. A tire squeal, on turns or curves, is the result when tires are lower than normal.

From H. M.: "Is there a windshield washer unit which will fit my 1960 sports sedan?"

Yes — most auto supply dealers carry one which will fit any car and is easily installed.

K. R. writes: "In the last several days, a leak spot has shown up on my garage floor. It's coming from the front end of the car and seems to be blue or green in color. My guess is a leak in the power steering system."

Not if it's blue or green in color. It's probably anti-freeze from the radiator.

H. Q. asks: "Yesterday I noticed a strong smell of gasoline in our new '64 sedan. What would cause this?"

A flooding carburetor, a leak somewhere along the fuel line route, or an overfilled gas tank.

From B. M.: "On a '62 used car I just bought, I often notice a smell, similar to burning brakes. Could this be caused by a faulty emergency brake adjustment?"

It's possible . . . or a faulty lining adjustment at just one wheel could be responsible.

REPLIES GALORE

SEVENOAKS, England (CP) — The mailman for Dartford Road in this Kent town has to make special deliveries to the home of 17-year-ok. Elaine Jones. She wrote to a New York newspaper asking for a pen-pal interested in the Beatles and has had more than 4,000 replies.

plane and eight had survived. All were reported injured.

Earlier reports said the plane carried about 40 Congolese passengers being evacuated to Leopoldville.

One of the injured survivors was reported to be Belgian Col. V. Lillegraven, a commander of the Congolese government's anti-rebel drive.

In the last few days, several planes have been unable to land in Stanleyville because of rebel ground fire. Belgians who returned from Stanleyville Sunday night said the region between the airport and the centre of the-city about two miles away was heavily infiltrated by rebel snipers.

REBELS NOW FIGHT

The rebels, who control an estimated 150,000 square miles of The Congo, have been fighting strongly to regain Stanleyville although they did not put up much resistance before the former rebel capital fell last Tuesday to Congolese National Army forces led by white mercenaries after a Belgian paratroop landing.

The government held on the city admittedly was tenuous.

Observers predicted that the struie to end the seven-month-long rebel uprising will be long and bitter.

Fears mounted today for the safety of 500 to 1,000 whites still in rebel - held areas of The Congo. Belgian paratroopers who dropped from U.S. planes to rescue 1,700 were withdrawn Sunday.

Refugees said the rebels were intent on killing all whites to vent their anger over the paratroop action in Stanleyville and Paulis last week. The area they control is about the size of Newfoundland.

The confirmed death toll of white hostages stood at 85, including two Canadian and three American missionaries. Many were slaughtered minutes before the Belgians arrived.

SEEK 8 CANADIANS

The Canadian embassy in Leopoldville said eight Canadians, seven of them women, still were unaccounted for in The Congo.

Canadian missionary Muriel Harman, 69, of Victoria, was killed in one of the Stanleyville massacres last Wednesday. She was believed to have been one of the 20 whites slain in the market place by the rebels .

The Canadian embassy confirmed her death Saturday but could give no details.

Miss Harman was a missionary with the Worldwide Evangelization Crusade, a nondenominational order. Rev. Hector McMillan, 40, of Avonmore, Ont., was killed hiding outside his mission station near Stanleyville last Tuesday but his wife and six sons escaped.

We owed them a lot in 1964

$4,340,434,848 to be explicit. This figure represents the cash deposits of well over three million Canadians at the Bank of Montreal at the October 31st year-end. And we're the first to point out that the nation is in debt to these customers . . . because most of our depositors' dollars went straight to work on projects vital to Canada's progress and to the well-being of her individual citizens. They're working dollars, employed to the national advantage. In fact at the Bank's year-end, $2,728,862,030 was on loan to individuals, to companies and to communities across the nation. Another $874,466,266 was invested in high-grade government bonds and public securities which have a ready market, and $268,181,390 in other securities—mainly short-term credits to industry. Yes, we owed a lot to our more than three million customers in 1964.

Birth Control and Family Planning Being Dealt With Publicly in Montreal

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Birth control and family planning—subjects little publicized on the Quebec scene until recently—now are being dealt with publicly in Montreal.

The Family Planning Association of Montreal was founded in October and received wide coverage in the women's pages of the Montreal French - language press. (One newspaper reported that four times as many French - speaking as English-speaking people attended the meeting at McGill University.)

A group of French-speaking Montrealers, including doctors and sociologists, was among 182 Roman Catholic laymen from 13 countries to sign a petition to the ecumenical council in Rome asking the church to reconsider its ban on artificial birth control in the light of modern knowledge.

And a University of Montreal sociologist has brought to light some facts about changing attitudes in Roman Catholic communities in Montreal in a recently published book, Planification des Naissances en Milieu Canadien-Français (Family Planning in French - Canadian Society).

Mrs. Colette Carisse compiled a study of 80 families in three Montreal parishes, half, from the working class (skilled laborers) and the other half professionals.

Mrs. Carisse said that in the last century Quebec's average birth rate has been cut by half —from nine children per family in 1850 to 4.49 today.

This is still larger than the average family in an industrialized society. An earlier study of 14 industrialized nations showed the average family had three children.

SEE CHANGE IN STAND

Although she found no statistically significant difference in aspirations in the two classes of people interviewed, there was a slight tendency for the professional class to wish for and to have more children than those in the working class. Also, among the more educated there was a slightly higher birth rate.

The majority felt that the Roman Catholic Church wanted them to have large families. A frequent reason given for this was that the church did not approve of the most effective birth control methods. The majority of younger couples (those married five years) felt that the couple should decide for themselves how many children they should have.

There was a considerable amount of criticism of the church by those interviewed and the general opinion was that the church would change its attitude towards birth control methods. Thirty per cent admitted having used, at one time or another, contraceptives not approved by the church.

Mrs. Carisse said in an interview that her study could not be considered "up to date" because it was made three years ago. Also it was felt that the climate had changed because of the stand taken by Montreal's Cardinal Leger when he urged the church to take a new look at its teaching on birth control and his statement that the church must teach that "married couples are not merely reproductive but also persons."

Meanwhile Montreal Roman Catholics have access to family planning information at clinics set up by SERENA (Service de la Regulation des Naissances). Ten years ago a Montreal couple, Gilles and Rita Breault, recognized the need for birth regulation education when working with married couples in an organization called L'Action Catholique.

They began instructing couples in their living room on the "Sympto - Thermic" method based on charting temperatures to determine the date of ovulation.

A number of other "monitor" couples began teaching the method and the system became known as SERENA. Two years ago a central clinic was established in Montreal's Notre Dame Hospital. SERENA clinics also operate in other Quebec centres.

Mrs. Breault said the clinics instruct between 110 and 120 couples a month. Two medical advisers for the clinics, Dr. Roland Simard and Dr. Michel Bedard, have been teaching the Sympto - Thermic method to medical students at the University of Montreal for the last five years.

There are no publicized clinics, however, for those wishing information on other methods of contraception.

One of the goals of the new Family Planning Association is to ensure that such information and technical assistance will be available in the Montreal area to those who want it.

Dr. Lazare Mackay, president of Le Mouvement Laique, a lay organization whose members are mostly French and prominent French-speaking Canadians, said the organization feels individuals should be free to plan families "if they think it best."

On the clause in the federal Criminal Code prohibiting the distribution and advertising of contraceptives, Mr. Mackay said the law "has no business imposing a ruling based on religion on a whole group of people."

The FFA resolved to support a private member's bill proposing an amendment to the Criminal Code submitted by New Democratic Party leader Lament Robert Prittie. The proposed bill would make legal the sale and advertising of contraceptives.

"But so far other Montreal organizations have remained tight-lipped on the issue.

WEDDING

TAYLOR — HAMM

A lovely autumn wedding was solemnized in St. Ola United Church recently, when Brenda Elizabeth Hamm, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton J. Hamm, St. Ola, was united in marriage to Harold Ralph Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taylor, Madoc. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was Rev. Colwell, of Coe Hill, assisted by Mr. J. Van der Veen, minister of St. Ola United Church. Mrs. Hugh Davidson, of St. Ola, cousin of the bride, was guest organist.

The church was decorated with yellow gladioli and bronze and yellow 'mums, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of white silk faille with portrait neckline and lily-point sleeves. The sacrilina and the full skirt had appliqued sprays of embroidered organza trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. For back interest the gown featured a large French bow with long streamers of self fabric. Her tiered veil of silk illusion, worn over the face, was caught up by a crown of pearls and diamonds, and she carried a bouquet of Orange Delight roses and ivy.

The maid of honor was Sandra Wood of St. Ola, cousin of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Annette Taylor, of Madoc, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. They were identically gowned in emerald green velvet, featuring bell-shaped skirts with matching wedding-ring headpieces and over-the-face shoulder-length veils. They wore matching shoes and wrist-length gloves and carried hand bouquets of bronze and yellow 'mums and feather fers with Talisman streamers.

The flower girl, Miss Debbie Taylor of Lakefield, niece of the bridegroom, was demure in her dress of gold velvet with matching bandeau headdress of self-fabric flowers and white gloves. She carried a basket of Orange and yellow poms with Talisman ribbons.

Mr. William Taylor, Madoc, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Mr. Garnet Reid of Cobourg, and Mr. Jim Wood of St. Ola, cousin of the bride.

The reception was held in St. Ola Community hall, where the bride's mother received the guests in a two-piece dress of bronze velvet with hat of brown velvet and ostrich tips, beige gloves and alligator shoes. Her corsage was of tangerine shaded carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisting wore a blue printed silk dress, white maribou hat and corsage of pink carnations.

The three-tier all-white wedding cake was topped by doves carrying wedding rings.

For the honeymoon the bride donned a three-piece teal blue suit and muskrat jacket, winter-white hat and gloves, black patent shoes and bag, with a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. They will reside in Madoc.

Guests were present from Weston, Montreal, Rochester, N.Y., Toronto, Brantford, Peterborough, Belleville, Oshawa, Lakefield, Madoc, Marmora, Flinton and St. Ola. Also present were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. T. A. Hamm, of St. Ola, who is 85 years of age, and the bride's great-aunt, Mrs. Elsie King, who is 95 years of age. The bride presented both with roses from her bouquet during the reception.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Melville Schultz, Madoc, with Mrs. Don Bjornstad as co-hostess; at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Allan Carroll, of St. Ola. The bride was also guest of honor at a dinner party given by her co-workers of General Motors office staff when she was presented with an electric clock, and at a presentation and dinner party by the Engineering Department of General Motors. The management and staff of Kincaid Bros. store honored the young couple at a supper shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kincaid and presented them with a tri-light floor lamp and chest of silverware.

What Influence Has TV And Toys of Violence?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I are having a heated argument and neither of us will give an inch. Can you settle it?

I am becoming increasingly distressed about the indifference of our society to brutality and death. Practically every day we are bombarded with pictures of violence. We are conditioned to accept it. Even worse, we are conditioned they say they don't know why they did it. In some instances the murderer didn't even know his victim.

Heartbroken and bewildered parents report, "He was always a good child." Teachers said, "He was the sort of boy who never caused any trouble."

What is happening? I say the daily diet of killing on TV compounded by the use of guns as toys makes murder commonplace. Children are confused.

Values are blurred. They don't know when the game ends and real killing begins.

My husband wants to buy our 5 and 7-year-old sons toy guns, chaps, and cowboy hats for Christmas. I say "no guns." He says if guns are a part of boy's growing up and that I am some kind of a nut to deprive sons of boyhood fun.

What do you say, Ann Landers?—BATTLING FOR SANITY.

DEAR BATTLING — I'm with you but I don't buy the theory that toy guns and TV will make killers out of healthy, normal children. The trouble goes back much further. I do agree that constructive TV shows and creative toys are infinitely better for children and I would not buy a toy gun for a child.

The American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) distributed an essay which echoes, faithfully, my sentiments:

Violence is abroad in our land.
Dogs are turned on humans —
Murder is with us in the headlines and TV,
Homes are robbed in the North
Children in church are killed in the South.
We rely on weapons of annihilation to secure our "way of life."
Violence is so commonplace in our lives that we hardly notice it —
Until finally, our young and vital President is killed
By an assassin's bullet
Setting off an outcry of even more violence.
And we are ashamed.
Let us begin to question the violence of our lives.
Let us bring love and understanding to our families.
Let us begin with our children
Ought we supply them with the toys that make violence so commonplace—
The gun, the tank, the rocket,
Rather than tools, paints, or books of other lands?
If we buy only creative toys this Christmas
It can be a beginning —
A symbol of our rejection of violence.
In memoriam to our late President,
In keeping with Christmas as a time of peace and love,
Let us begin by this small act.
If each of us does not do this — who will?
If not now — when?

LOW FAT DIET

Dear Susanna: Home decorating can be fun and most economical if you exercise a little imagination in the materials used.

For instance, factory cotton, dyed to suit your color scheme, can be very effective for drapes and table cloths.

For those of us who must stay on a fat free diet, it is often quite a chore trying to remove all the grease from the roasting pan before making the gravy. It isn't a problem any more for me though.

A plastic turkey baster will suck up all the excess fat in seconds without any mess or bother. — Mrs. T. G. Welsh

Hope somebody told Jack Sprat about this! SUSANNA

LIPSTICK RED

Dear Susanna: Many of your readers may be interested in know that the ends of old lipsticks will do nicely for coloring melted wax for candles.

When you come to sprinkle your candle with glitter you can substitute broken Christmas tree ornaments.

Lay the decorations out between several thicknesses of newspaper and roll them with a pop bottle or rolling pin. — June Aletter

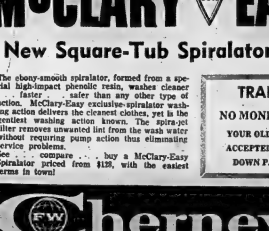
Your ideas are adorable, but I would suggest that this last operation take place in some room other than the kitchen. We don't want any of this glitter to land up in the food that's going to land up on our tables. How do we? — SUSANNA

Music Teachers Entertained

The monthly meeting of the O.R.M.T.A. was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Alec Gordon where two new members Mrs. Storey and Mr. McLeod joined the Belleville Branch of the O.R.M.T.A.

After a short business meeting, Mr. Gordon demonstrated for the music teachers his Casavant organ which had been recently installed in his home.

Mr. Gordon played three of his own arrangements for piano and organ, accompanied by Mrs. R. Reid on the piano. For his solo work, he performed Handel's Concerto and Bach Chorale.



Mr. Gordon continued to show his outstanding musicianship and wit by playing several numbers on his Baldwin electronic organ.

Since it was Canadian Music Week the music teachers of Belleville could have done no better than to have heard and enjoyed Belleville's own master of the organ. Mr. Gordon was thanked by Mrs. Townsend. Refreshments were served by the social convener, Mrs. Marcin.

Doris Invites Teenagers' Comments on Dancing

DEAR DORIS — Last Christmas season I attended a number of dances, but always with the same girl friend. Each time I ended up dancing with the one person all evening, and although

I enjoyed her company very much, I would have liked to dance with other people, and I'm sure she felt the same.

However, I felt that it wouldn't be courteous to leave her sitting at the side while I danced with someone else, and I didn't know the proper way to see that she got to dance with a different partner. How should I go about seeing that both my partner and I get to dance with others? — BOTHERED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR BOTHERED — I'm bothered too! And we aren't alone. Here's part of what one girl has to say on the subject:

"The country school where I grew up had a dance every Friday night. It was a community dance and everyone came, from little Junior to Grandpappy. They had old time waltzes, polkas, square dances, and we really had a good time. Even though I went with Bob, we only had maybe about three or four dances all evening together.

"Even when danced with everyone else we never thought any different. However, in town every other dance is a waltz, and then a twist or hop, and if a girl goes with a guy, she dances with him all evening.

This tells me that I have broken up with Bob, I hardly feel even acquainted with anybody else. What can I do to latch onto a guy?"

On the other side of the coin we hear from a young man who is engaged: "If you are courting, it's not necessarily bad!" She agrees that for younger teen-agers, dances should be get-acquainted affairs. Even the so-called "going steadies" are crowding their luck when they carry their exclusiveness onto the dance floor.

Someone suggested that such inseparables have a basic fear of introducing their dates to someone else.

All I can say to that is that you can't go through life with your own exclusive property wrapped in cotton wool carried around in your pocket. We have to learn to live dangerously if we are going to live it up!

The recreation leaders I talked to have a bag of tricks up their sleeves for just such occasions. They've learned how to mix 'em up with Snowballs and Paul Joenes, Broom Dances and "Back to Backs." We got a page of these mixers I can send out to anybody who asks for them.

The old-fashioned country dances which welcomed Junior and Grandpa and all those in between were marvellous affairs, taken made for the fostering of friendships.

All right then, Mr. Bothered. My guess would be that there are times when your girl friend is not hanging onto your hand. When she first makes for the powder room, you could make your own beeline for the pal you spotted as you came in and suggest an exchange of dances. This would provide partners for both of you.

Better still, some planning ahead of time would help. You could arrange it so that three or four couples go to the dance together, plan ahead to switch, and switch, and switch again — then back to the gals you came with. There could even be special reasons for switching, such as making it possible for Janice to dance with John — since both of them love to twist. Or for Rose and Robbie to swing into the waltz rhythm they enjoy.

Of course, if there's a record player in a "rec" room, it's a natural to bring in the neighborhood for twists and tangos, potato chips and pop. This would make it easier to get together on a dance floor later.

Friends of the teen-age set — are you bothered, too? Let's have your comments. — DORIS.

How Well Should Russian Girls Dress for a Party?

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—"Our neighbor Darya Ivaniva had a hard life. So now she tries to give an easy life to her daughter."

Thus began a letter to the newspaper Verchernaya Moskva—Evening Moscow—on the universally controversial subject of schoolgirl fashions and mores.

It was one of a series run by the newspaper in response to a broadside from one highly critical reader who demanded to know why school administrations so permit girls to organize themselves the way they do.

"Manicures and unthinkable hair styles" were two things complained about.

"They compete in dresses—who will have the better ones," wrote the irate reader, A. Makarova. "Some mothers help them. I know a student who has smart dresses which even the teachers never wear. . . ."

MESSENGERS GROUP

RAWDON — The Messengers Group convened Saturday evening in Mount Pleasant Rawdon Church hall for the last meeting of the year when they entertained approximately 30 mothers and several pre-school children. The hall was decorated with a miniature Christmas tree and the meeting was under the direction of the leader Mrs. Raymond McConnell and her assistants.

The president Janet Scott was in charge of the program which had been arranged by the boys of the group. Linda Potts was pianist and Christmas carols were sung. Vice-president Judy McAdam welcomed the mothers to the Christmas meeting. Piano selections were given by Janet Spencer, Jeannette Hoard Lorraine Jeffs, Brenda Campbell, Janet Scott, Bonnie Williams and Carolyn Merrick. Vocal solos were contributed by Lynne Joslin, Linda Hoard and Isobel Hoard. A reading was given by Debra Graff. Vocal duets were rendered by Judy McAdam and Linda Potts; Nancy Johnson and Judy Graff. An accordion selection was given by Kenneth Couch.

Mrs. Herbert Smith spoke briefly re the Fred Victor Mission, and told of their work in Toronto.

The group packed 35 Christmas baskets with candy canes and other Yuletide confectionery. These baskets will be delivered to the Fred Victor Mission for distribution to needy children at Christmas.

Refreshments were served and the children were given a special treat of candy canes.

Trinity Church Holds Annual Tea, Bazaar

FRANKFORD — Frankford Trinity Anglican Church held its annual fall bazaar and tea on November 25 in the parish hall. Despite inclement weather the event was exceptionally well attended.

The miscellaneous table was in charge of Mrs. Wellington McLaren, Mrs. Jane Sadler, Mrs. Edward Green and Mrs. Margaret Bland.

The home cooking table was taken care of by Mrs. Arthur Osterhout, Mrs. Stanley Caskey, Mrs. Gerald Chapman and Mrs. Oscar Farrar.

The candy booth was well patronized with Miss Annie Weston in charge.

The afternoon tea and the hall were gaily decorated for the Christmas season. The Nativity scene designed by Miss Margaret Cooney held a prominent place in the tea table.

A vote of thanks was extended to all organizations whose presidents assisted in pouring coffee, and to all who helped in any way to make the annual affair a successful one.

REFUSES PROFIT

BURNHAM GREEN, England (CP)—The owner of a 1931 Austin Seven that won an Austin concours d'elegance turned down a £1,100 offer for the car which cost him £100 two years ago. "It's worth far more to me than money," said Mr. Malcolm March of Hale Hertfordshire community. "It does between 30 and 60 miles to the gallon, with a top speed of 30 m.p.h."

School for Deaf Subject At Carmel W. I. Meeting

The November meeting of the Carmel Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Russell Ritz with a good attendance.

The meeting was opened by the president Mrs. J. Lucas. Correspondence was read, including a letter from the Canadian Mental Health Association asking for gifts for the Ontario Hospital at Cobourg. It was decided to send a group of articles from the society. A letter from Mrs. Trevers offered the society a fund raising project in selling spoons, a letter from the department of agriculture offering recipe books free of charge to anyone wishing to obtain one.

The December meeting will be a night out at "Johnny's Place," on December 15th. It was decided that gifts to the value of 30 cents would be exchanged.

Mrs. Lucas thanked Mrs. Ritz for opening her home for the meeting.

Mrs. Harold Elliott read items from the Tweedsmuir history. Mrs. Selden Homan read "Care of the poinsettia plant," and modern refreshments on hand. Mrs. Clayton Sullivan gave the highlights of the annual culture division of the winter fair, which she recently attended.

Mrs. Lucas, convener of education, took charge of the program which opened with a sing song, and Mrs. Allan Gowthorpe gave a reading.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Martin introduced the guest speaker Miss Wilhelmina Huffman, supervisor of teachers at the Ontario School for the deaf in Belleville. Miss Huffman began her talk by saying "Educating the deaf is like hunting, it is in the blood, you can't stamp it out." She chose as her topic, "Education of deaf people in Ontario." It is the desire of every person that every deaf child have proper education. The school is supported by fees and there are two schools for the deaf in Ontario, the school at Belleville and a junior school recently built at Milton. The school at Belleville completes the education of a child from five to 21 years of age. A deaf child is privileged to attend these schools absolutely free although they are asked to pay a fee of $18 to cover incidentals.

The method to teach the deaf is Belleville is the oral method, there is also the manual method.

Miss Huffman said that they like to get the children at the age of five, the younger they are, the easier they are to teach. A normal child has five years advantage over a deaf child. In Belleville the junior room is separate from the other classes and the children in this room are five to ten years of age.

Rhythm plays a great part in their training. They have to develop their sound feeling. Rhythm helps with speech, helps to produce an even flow language. A totally deaf child must learn to speak; it is a sort of a monotone that they speak, the majority will talk with those with whom they work. From junior school they proceed to advance school, here they stay about eight years. Most children are through school at the age of 18. There are six academic subjects taught in advance school, in the 8th year they change half a day in academic school and a half day in vocational.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

A new vocational school has been recently added for boys. The boys learn different trades, they learn typing, they have a complete print shop, on a six month a paper is printed which is sent to the parents and to every school in North America. There are also welding, woodworking, carpentering, upholstering shops where they build chairs and chesterfields, auto mechanical shop where they do repair work and industrial arts for the younger boys.

The girls school is in the main school, they take home economics and beauty culture, also typing. They work and are trained in the laundry. There are 310 children attending the Belleville school 24 hours of the day.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical education takes over the school until 4 o'clock in the evening. The children take part in sports with other schools, such as Queen's, Guides, Brownies. A group of 34 scouts recently attended the royal winter fair in Toronto. They also belong to curling clubs and have driving school (driving education) for those in class room instruction as well as in cars on the road. They are permitted to drive cars after 16 years. Belleville also attend any other activities on Saturdays and Sundays.

There is religious education taught and on Friday mornings they have a boys' meeting. On Sunday every pupil who is old enough to sit quietly attends church. On Sunday afternoons the priest comes to the school and a senior teacher or Protestant minister. There is a staff of 210 with 80 professional teachers. To be a teacher at a deaf school one must have three to seven years of teaching experience.

GRADUATION

Graduation is held in June, and this year there were 41 ADD CAR RET. WI HEARS graduates at the school, which is the largest graduating class in the history of the school. Prizes were also awarded to those in the junior and intermediate classes for outstanding improvement and alility in academic, vocational and athletic work. Six of the students gained admission to Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C. This is the world's only college for deaf students. It offers to graduates and schools for the deaf around the world an opportunity to advance to degrees in the liber al arts and sciences.

Mrs. Earle Ross thanked Miss Huffman for an interesting talk and presented her with a gift from the society.

Miss Eleanor Ritz gave a reading. Miss Ruth Brintnell conducted a contest on "books and their writers."

Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants and a social period followed.

Chicken Recipe Recommended

By MARY MOORE

The home economists of the consumer section of the Canada Department of Agriculture have prepared a new book 'Poultry, How to Buy — How to Cook". I bought a copy from the Queen's Printer for 75c and immediately started to try the recipes.

There were weekend bargains of broiler chickens so I bought two 3-lb. ones to serve 8 and they cost me $2.60 altogether. I used the Department recipe for Smothered Chicken as a guide but doubled it and made some minor adjustments. It would have served 10, for there were a few pieces left-over. I served these cold for lunch and they were surprisingly good. A fine recommendation.

I thought it an excellent inexpensive meal to prepare for dinner parties during the Christmas season.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Sausages; Baked Sweet Potatoes in Jackets; Creamed Cauliflower; Celery Hearts; Hot Mince Pie; Coffee.

SMOTHERED CHICKEN

(these amounts serve 8 to 10. To serve 4 or 5 cut recipe in half):

Two 3-lb. broiler chickens, cut into serving pieces, 1¼ cups flour, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup butter or cooking oil, 2 cups sliced onions, 2 cans (10-oz.) mushroom cream soup, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon dried thyme, 1 teaspoon salt.

Into a strong paper bag measure the flour, the 1 tablespoon salt, paprika and pepper. Put dry the chicken pieces and shake them in the dredging flour in the bag until well coated. Heat the butter in large frying pan and gently saute the onions in it until they are limp but not brown. Remove onions and reserve. In the remaining butter or oil, brown all the chicken pieces — about 10 to 20 minutes. As chicken pieces are browned put into large shallow baking dish. (Or if this recipe for Smothered Chicken is to be cut in half to serve 4 and cooked throughout in frying pan, lift browned chicken pieces to a warm plate until all are browned.) To frying pan add soup, milk, thyme, sauteed onions and salt. Mix well, pour over chicken pieces in baking dish. (Or if to be cooked on top of stove add chicken pieces to pan and cover and cook gently for 40 minutes.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes, basting 2 or 3 times during baking period.

NOTE:

Electric frying pan enthusiasts will gloat over this Smothered Chicken recipe, for if only half of the recipe is used to serve 4 or 5, it may be made from start to finish in their electric frying pans.

LEASE-A-SYMBOL

LONDON (CP)—Britons seeking a new kind of status symbol can lease a racehorse from its registered owner for $20 a week, collecting any winnings and enjoying the rank of an owner at race meetings for the period of the rental. Additional costs are high—apparently $76 a week for stabling and stable hands—but the Jockey Club says 300 horses have already been leased this year.

Chairs Given 50 Years Ago Used by Couple at Reception

STIRLING — The banquet room of the IOOF Hall, Charlotte Street was a bower of beauty with potted plants, ferns and bouquets of yellow 'mums for the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Stapley, R. R. 4, Stirling on Saturday afternoon and evening, when over 200 guests were in attendance.

A corner space was designated with streamers and golden bells in canopy style in a unique arrangement. This included leather chairs, 50 years ago where the honored couple received their guests. These chairs were presented to them in 1914 by their community friends.

Mrs. Stapley received her guests in a two-piece dress of brown and white double knit cotton Jacquard with a corsage of yellow button 'mums, and Mr. Stapley wore a matching boutonniere.

SUPPER PARTY

All their children and grandchildren were present on this happy occasion. A supper party was held later at the Stapley home. Guests were in attendance from North Bay, Belleville, Ryistone, Marmora, Foxboro, Massassga, Campbellford and the Stirling area.

The guest book was in charge of two grandchildren, Janice and Ruth Stapley.

On a long table in the tea-room a three-tiered anniversary cake was iced with white rosebuds and a top arrangement of gold bells set in a bed of white tulle. The cake was flanked with silver candelabra with lighted gold tapers. A silver tea service at one end was balanced with a large floral bouquet of golden yellow and bronze 'mums decorated with gold jettering.

Mrs. John Wilson, Belleville, sister of the bride and Mrs. Morton Terwilliger, Stirling, R. R. 4, sister of the bridegroom did the honors of pouring.

NUMEROUS GIFTS

Eggleton United Church Women catered for the event. A long table covered with white crepe paper and gold streamers and flowers held the numerous gifts, and was in charge of Mrs. Robert Reid. The gifts included a pole lamp from Grace Chapel Assembly and a wrist watch and steam iron from the immediate family.

The display included over 70 greeting cards, a framed scroll from the Province of Ontario, presented by W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A., and a wedding picture taken in 1914.

Nelson Horatio Stapley, son of the late Samuel Stapley and his wife, Sarah Tufts, was born on the 1st concession of Rawdon township in 1891. Bertha Hamilton, daughter of the late George T. Hamilton and Bertha Hamilton, was born on the the 8th concession of Sidney, 1894. They were married at the home of her parents on November 25th, 1914, by Rev. W. S. Barker, minister of Sidney Baptist Church. The bridesmaid was the bride-groom's sister, Annis Stapley, now Mrs. Merton Terwilligar, and the groomsman was Rev. A. T. Richmond, who now lives in England.

They have resided since their marriage at Stirling R.R. 4, 9th concession Sidney, and they are members of Grace Chapel, Stirling.

Mr. Stapley threshed with his brother for seven years prior to his marriage. He purchased a threshing outfit of his own and carried on this business for 41 years, along with a small farm. In 1956 he sold the farm to his son who lived nearby, and retired from active work.

FIVE CHILDREN

They have three sons and two daughters, Harold of Ryistone; Garnet, North Bay; Samuel, Stirling; Hilda (Mrs. Robert Reid), Ryistone, and Joyce at home. There are 14 grandchildren.

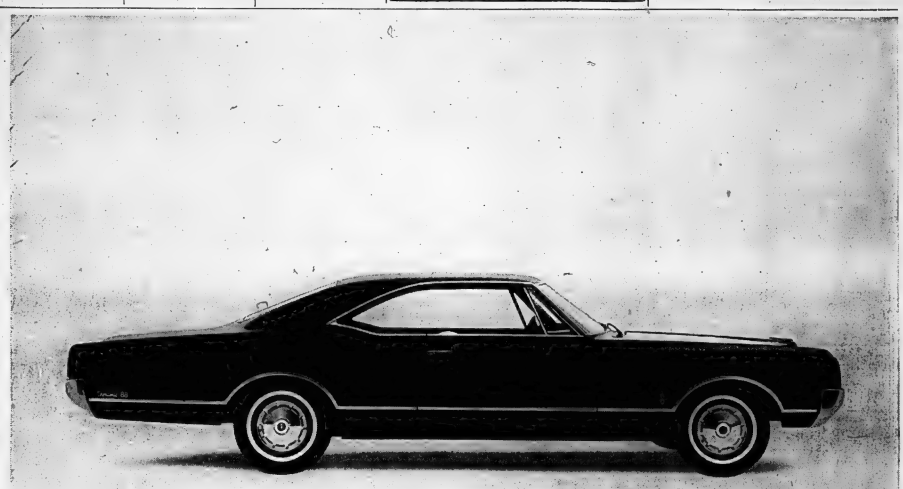
Best wishes were extended by their Stirling friends on this occasion.

U.C.W Meeting

HOLLOWAY ST. U.C.W.

Holloway St. U.C.W. met in the church parlor for their November meeting. President Mrs. R. Taylor conducted the business session, appointing four ladies to go on the furnishing committee for the new building, and six volunteers were named for duty at the Cancer Clinic next Monday. Mrs. Kellar gave her report on the "Golden Book of Charity" labels.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend led the devotional and members were challenged by two leading questions, "What are we here for?" and "What are we doing?" The film, "A Day of Experience," dealing with Home Missions, showed highlighting experiences of the summer students in their work among the Indians in northern areas and also the fishermen and residents of outlying districts of Labrador and Newfoundland on the east coast, as well as in the congested areas of our large cities.



Mrs. G. Dobbs gave some interesting and helpful information on foreign and home missions and the work that can and should be done at home.

Was Vibra-Tuned Ride named by an Irishman?
It sure sounds like Blarney.

Doesn't it though? How can you hang a name like that on a ride so smooth and nice that you hardly feel or hear anything? Obviously the engineer has kissed the Blarney Stone —and maybe that's a pity.

Because every one of the features he invents or perfects for Oldsmobile could easily make a name for itself. Oldsmobile engineering is all silk and satin smoothness. All quietness and comfort. All performance. All luxury. Vibra-Tuned Ride indeed! Super Rocket engine for Rocket "Go"! Air-Scoop brakes! How could you believe in a bunch of fancy names like that...without finding out for yourself what they really mean!

Say! Maybe that's the answer. Come on down to your Oldsmobile dealer's now. You might end up the same as us, thinking it's a darlin' car.

Regular Checks Needed If Eyesight Is Defective

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—You probably think you would know it if something were the matter with your eyes. But you might be compensating for a vision defect without realizing it.

If you habitually squint or close one eye to "see better," hold a book closer or farther away than normal, avoid reading or watching TV to "rest your eyes," you may need glasses. Some persistent headaches, or a gritty, sandy feeling in the eyes may be signals.

"Most generally changes in vision come on gradually," says Dr. Marvin Langer, assistant professor of optometry at the College of Optometry of Ontario.

"This makes it difficult for people to be aware of them. As far as they know, they see as well as they did last week. They may not see as well as they did last year.

"Any unusual or sudden symptom or pain may be important and should be investigated right away."

The more common symptoms will be less noticeable, but will persist.

"Headaches are a puzzle," Dr. Langer says. "They can be due to so many causes. If your eyes are the cause you may have a dull headache behind the eyes. It will be the type that appears later in the day, after you've been using them. A symptom like this will usually disappear after a night's sleep."

CHECK REGULARLY

Dr. Langer says an adult with a vision problem should have his eyes checked every two years, a child every year through his teens.

"A child with normal vision could be examined at longer intervals. An optometrist would suggest an appropriate time.

"Unfortunately, routine checks are the exception, not the rule. When we go into an industry to do a survey almost 20 to 25 per cent of the people will require attention. Some know it, they have just put it off. A good proportion don't even know it."

The person to start with is an optometrist, he says. "Part of his examination is for disease. Eye disease is relatively rare—less than five percent of Canadians are afflicted. But effects are so important, it should have immediate attention."

Incidentally, Dr. Langer says an eye check will sometimes indicate disease in other parts of the body. Because, for instance, blood vessels in the eyes can be seen, hardening of the arteries can be detected in them.

PRE-SCHOOL EXAM

He says it is particularly important to have children's eyes checked before they start school. Even if the school offers an eye test, it may not be a complete one.

"Children under 10 will rarely complain of symptoms as have headaches. Their vision seems normal to them because they have no comparison." Dr. Langer says about 13 per cent of kindergarten children need attention and about 30 per cent in grade 13.

A child with poor vision may do the same thing as an adult does. He will avoid reading and book work. "People learn to avoid doing what causes them distress."

The common belief that wearing glasses will make you dependent on them is a false one, Dr. Lander says. "Wearing glasses doesn't cause any changes in the structure of the eyes. People say 'I used to be able to see without my glasses and I can't any more.' They had learned to adapt to poor vision. They see more clearly with glasses and are conscious of defects when they take them off."

It's Winston's Birthday
90 Years of "Finest Hours"

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill, the man who personified a defiant Britain in her darkest days and finest hours of the Second World War, will be 90 today.

Television and radio programs around the world will honor the wartime leader whose own "finest hour" did not come until he was 65 and who soon enters the 10th decade of a life embracing an almost unbelievable torrent of change, from cavalry charges with Kitchener's army at Omdurman to cosmonauts and moon rockets.

The Queen is expected to send a personal birthday message. So will other heads of state and countless humble, unknown citizens who remember, in Field Marshal Lord Montgomery's words, how Churchill "took tyranny by the throat and tore freedom from its grasp."

COLLECTED ON RECORDS

To mark the birthday all the Churchill war speeches, those historic trumpet calls to greatness, have been collected in a 12-disc, £23 set of long-playing records. The late president John F. Kennedy paid tribute to the power of those when he made Sir Winston an honorary U.S. citizen in April, 1963: "In the dark days and darker nights when Britain stood alone, he mobilized the English language and sent it into battle."

Two of the most famous speeches—"I have nothing to offer you but blood, toil, tears and sweat" and the Battle of Britain tribute to "the few"—will be heard by the public, in complete form for the first time in Churchill's own resonant growl. He delivered them in the House of Commons in the summer of 1940 and in 1949 spoke them again for recording on tapes. These now have been added to the BBC broadcast speeches and extracts from the war memoirs, read by himself.

Another commemoration of Churchill's moment of destiny, timed for his 90th birthday, is a tribute from Sir Isaiah Berlin called Mr. Churchill in 1940. In this slim book, originally written as a preface to the Second World War memoirs, the Oxford scholar says Churchill's great gift was to mold the British people through his power of words so that they snatched the "heroic mood" he created.

"He idealized them with such artistry that in the end they approached his ideal."

Other British plans to mark the birthday include a one-volume version of Sir Winston's massive History of the English-Speaking Peoples and the presentation to the aged statesman of three gold Churchill medallions by his successor as Conservative member of Parliament for Woodford in Essex, Patrick Jenkin.

The medallions, struck in gold by a London banking firm, bear on one side the famous bulldog profile and on the other a lion and Union Jack with the words "This was their finest hour."

On the eve of his birthday, Sir Winston was to watch the BBC television spectacular Ninety Years On, expected to be shown around the world. Among other nations, it has already been bought by the networks of four European countries that were invaded by Nazi Germany before Churchill became Britain's war leader in May, 1940—Holland, Belgium, Norway and Luxembourg.

The program, described by the BBC as "a birthday gift to the greatest living Englishman," is a 90-minute cavalcade of popular songs and shows spanning Churchill's lifetime, with a script by playwright Terence Rattigan and commentary in the clipped voice of Noel Coward.

It includes many of the "old man's" own bouncy, unsophisticated favorite tunes from the early music hall, the Boer War and two world wars, Gilbert and Sullivan and modern musical comedy. British stage and television stars "represent" their famous predecessors like Marie Lloyd, Dan Leno and Harry Lauder. Vancouver - born Edmund Hockridge takes part in sequences from The Merry Widow and Oklahoma.

FONTEYN WILL DANCE

Margot Fonteyne will dance the part of Anna Pavlova in The Dying Swan—a feat she once said she never could do, but which she studied and perfected especially for the Churchill tribute.

One song is included that Churchill's wartime valet Norman McGowan once said his boss could never bear to hear because it "made him so sad"—Harry Lauder's Keep Right on to the End of the Road.

The famous song of Churchill's old school, Harrow, Forty Years On, which he used to join in lustily whenever he heard it, forms the finale, sung by Harrow schoolboys. It has a special verse called Ninety Years Old, sung by 13-year-old Michael Watney.

The idea for the program came when BBC Producer Michael Mills, leafing through Churchill's autobiography My Early Life, came upon this passage:

"I have got tunes in my head for every war I have been to and indeed for every critical or exciting phase in my life. Some day when my ship comes home I am going to have them collected in gramophone records and then I will sit in a chair and smoke my cigar while pictures and faces, moods and sensations long vanished return, and the cruel true there gleams the light of other days."

Other scheduled television tributes include a CBC program of interviews with Churchill associates and film clips of historic moments in his marathon career.

An American color film on his painting, called The Other World of Winston Churchill, will be televised in every English-speaking country in the world. It contains a tribute from former President Eisenhower to his "old comrade - in - arms," saying that if Sir Winston had given his energies to some of the arts that he did to political affairs, he might have been "the world's greatest painter."

Ideas for honoring the birthday in other ways in Britain include a letter to The Times suggesting that "the bells be rung in every town in the land" Nov. 30. A Conservative backbencher told a reporter he thought the House of Commons might make a special tribute after question time on Churchill's birthday.

PRIVATE BIRTHDAY

Sir Winston now has retired completely from public life. His birthday will be spent in the customary quiet and private way — "much as usual," a Churchill secretary said. Most of the day will be taken up with gifts and messages, with a dinner party in the evening for family and close friends. Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, in hospital for an operation, said he hoped to attend.

Gifts have been pouring in to the elegant Knightsbridge house where the Churchills spend the winter months. In summer the household moves to Chartwell, Sir Winston's beloved old country home in the rolling orchard vistas of Kent.

As usual, a giant birthday cake will be delivered as a gift from Floris, a posh west end bakers—a custom dating back to the middle of the war years. It started when the then Mrs. Churchill ordered a birthday cake and Maria Floris, head of the family concern, designed a superb confection that she found would cost far more than the controlled price levied in wartime.

"We decided to give it to him —we wanted to anyway—and and we've gone on doing so even since," said Christopher Floris, present head of the firm.

The theme of the cake is always kept secret until Sir Winston sees it. For his 80th birthday cake in 1954 Floris adapted one of his own most famous phrases: "A thousand years hence, people will say this was our finest man."

In the sunset of his tumultuous and storm - tossed life, Sir Winston today is bent and frail but still vigorous of heart. He seldom ventures out, except to nostalgic gatherings of old political cronies, but when he does he is always immaculately turned out and breathtaking, for the crowd's delight, a Churchillian cigar which he rarely smokes right through these days.

Until his retirement from Parliament, he used to turn up regularly in the Commons clad in black jacket, stripped pants and the well-known blue and white spotted bow-tie. But his voice—once called by Sir Alan Herbert "the voice of old Britain at bay" — had not been heard in the Commons since 1953.

He would sit silent in his front-bench corner, snowy head hunched low between the massive shoulders, the bull dogfeatures as imperious as ever but weathered and blurred by time, like a Roman Statue.

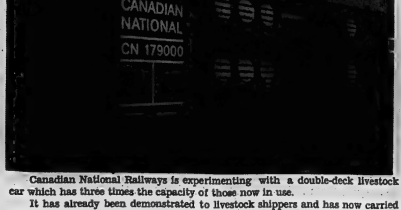
52 Out of 66 Fatalities Are Car Mishaps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A towering elm tree toppled by high winds brought tragedy to a Santa Claus parade in Montreal's suburban Lachine as it struck and killed two 15-year-old majorettes.

It was one of several multiple fatalities across Canada during the weekend which helped push the total to at least 66 deaths in a survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times.



Of the total, 32 died on the highways. There were nine deaths in fires, one by drowning, one in a hunting mishap and one in a fall.

Ontario was hardest hit with 24 deaths, including 19 in traffic, four in fires and one Toronto man who fell down a flight of stairs in his boarding house.

Quebec reported 18 fatalities, 14 of them in road crashes, one in a fire, one in a hunting accident, and the two killed by the falling tree.

CRASH KILLS THREE

British Columbia had six traffic fatalities including a man, his wife and child killed in a level-crossing accident near the interior community of Smithers. The province also reported two deaths by fire.

Canadian National Railways is experimenting with a double-deck livestock car which has three times the capacity of those now in use.

It has already been demonstrated to livestock shippers and has now carried its first load in Western Canada.

The mammoth carrier will take a total of 80 slaughter cattle or 250 butcher hogs on its two decks which have a length of 55' and headroom of 5' 10" on the lower deck and 6' 7" on the upper. Internally, the car has transverse gates which serve to separate the class and type of animal in the shipment.

As far as this is known this is the largest car on the continent for the movement of beef cattle. If the prototype car proves acceptable to livestock shippers and stockyard operators, the number of cars in service will be increased.

CELEBRATES 90th BIRTHDAY — Sir Winston Churchill, the wartime leader, who personified a defiant Britain in her darkest days and finest hours of the Second World War, is 90 today. He will be honored by television and radio programs around the world. Sir Winston, who now has retired completely from public life, will spend his birthday in the customary quiet and private way. Canadian Players to Present Play

Canadian Players return to Belleville Wednesday night with a star-studded cast and the greatest playwright of all time.

"Passion and Destiny" is the title given the presentation and its author is William Shakespeare.

It will be produced at Belleville Collegiate Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Belleville Theatre Guild.

The cast numbers five famous actors and actresses whose talents have raised them to national stardom.

Combining their artistry for the evening will be Amelia Hall, Paul Harding, Mary Benning, Max Helpmann and Marvyn Blake.

"Passion and Destiny" integrates scenes of comedy, romance and tragedy from some of Shakespeare's best-known works. They include King Lear, Julius Caesar, Henery V, Richard III and Romeo and Juliet.

KILLED IN STAMPEDE

JALAPA, Mexico (AP) — Twenty-four persons were killed and 33 others injured Sunday in a stampede by 5,000 persons leaving a stadium after a political rally. "They were like panicked buffaloes," said a survivor. "Those who fell down were trampled to death." The crush at the gates occurred after one of the speakers invited the crowd to escort the governor to his residence and join there in a dance festival.

LIONS TWIST TIGERS' TAIL!

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

TORONTO (CP) — A third-string fullback who had carried the ball once for no gain in two years of professional football and a poetry-writing reserve quarterback provided the knock-out punches Saturday that gave British Columbia Lions a crushing 34-24 Grey Cup victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats. The Lions earned every point.

The usual sources of the B.C. offensive and defensive fire-power backed up the two heroes for the decision, hammered out in drizzling rain that made a few damp-slick patches on the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium grounds. It came 11 years after Lions entered the Western Conference and became a laughing stock with the optimistic "Lions roar in '54" slogan.

The Lions were soft touches and the joke of the West for years until they moulded a contender that reached the heights in '64 and gave the West its 12th victory in 27 East-West clashes since the cup became a national affair in 1921.

The names that will be remembered from this one are Bill Munsey and Pete Ohler. Between them, they were directly responsible for three of the Lions' five touchdowns.

FAVORED TO WIN

The Tiger-Cats, and just about everybody else, didn't figure that these comparative unknowns could take a big part in knocking over the powerhouse of the East, the team that went into the game favored to win by eight points. But 32,-650 fans at the stadium and television viewers across the country were witnesses to their hitchiricles.

Munsey, who got no farther than the line of scrimmage in his one ball-carrying effort in a WFC game last year, scored two touchdowns in three minutes and four seconds in the third quarter. And they couldn't have come at a more opportune time.

The Tiger-Cats, sniffing blood and on the prowl, had cut the Lions' lead to 20-6 when Munsey went to work. Playing in the fullback spot left vacant by a knee injury to first-string Bob Swift and a leg ailment to second-stringer Neal Beaumont, he bulldozed 18 yards off left guard for his first touchdown at 11:54.

On the last play of the quarter and with Tiger-Cats on the B.C. 35, Johnny Counts fumbled a long lateral from quarterback Bernie Faloney. Dick Fouts, B.C. defensive end, booted the loose ball, Munsey was there to grab it on the run and he streaked 65 yards for the touchdown that ended the Lions' scoring.

The scoreboard showed Lions in front 14-6. Tiger-Cats were dead and every fan wearing the Hamilton black and gold colors knew it, although a desperation last-quarter rally netted them 18 points on two converted touchdowns and a conceded safety touch. Time simply ran out on them.

WAS BROKEN PLAY

The westerners had lined up for a field goal attempt from the Hamilton 18. Ohler fumbled the snapout, retrieved the ball and pitched an end zone pass to Jim Carphin, a second-string end who had been detailed to act as an emergency receiver in the event of any miscues on the snap.

Coach Dave Skrien of the Lions said "definitely" it was a broken play. The 23-year-old Ohler, who spends most of his time holding the ball for Peter Kempf's place-kicking and who does free-lance writing and writes poetry, said he had been practising the pass to Carphin for just such an eventuality.

The other Lions' touchdowns came on a 25-yard end-zone jaunt by quarterback Joe Kapp and Ohler, pointed Beaumont in the some-what-tricky wind with an average of 43.3 against 36.3.

LIONS STRIKE EARLY — Bob Swift, B.C. Lions' sensational rookie fullback put the Western Champions on the scoreboard early in the first quarter with a dive over the line from between the one and two yard line. A similar play a moment before fell short. Swift took a handoff from Joe Kapp (22). Zeno Karcz is No. 73. (CP Wirephoto)

Tiger-Cats out-gained the Lions on the ground 203 yards to 150. They outpassed them 233-150. They had the most first attempts to 10 of 22 for quarterback Joe Kapp and Ohler, Each team intercepted one pass. Hamilton's Garney-Henley grabbed one thrown by Kapp early in the first quarter and Beaumont got in front of a Southern pass off a fake field goal attempt from the B.C. 47.

But the figures don't tell the story.

He picked holes in Hamilton's deep pass defence. He crossed up the big, tough Ticat line by sending the 183-pound Fleming down the middle instead of steering him out wide where he is a tricky, fainting ball carrier and a hard man to grab.

And the Tiger-Cats couldn't do much about it. Fleming, who gained only 14 yards in five carries before retiring from the 1963 cup with a mild concussion shortly before halftime, barrelled through the Hamilton front wall for 67 yards on six rushes.

He caught two passes for 36 yards and his 65-yard second-quarter touchdown romp was one of the niftiest pieces of broken-field running Ontario fans have seen this season.

Among his victims was Henley, a speedster himself who had a terrible afternoon on the long passes. Henley was left clawing at the ground on Fleming's touchdown.

Faloney's favorite target was Hal Patterson who caught five for 85 yards. His scoring losses

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

A victory-hungry pride of Pacific Coast lions trekked eastward on a tiger-hunting safari—their main weapons, determination, confidence, desire and a Kapp gun.

Not given a chance by the eastern mike-type experts, they faced the "Yankees of Canadian Football," the formidable Hamilton Tiger-Cats before a near all-out "hostile" crowd in celebration-soaked Toronto.

Yesterday, their roars of victory resounding off both slopes of the Rockies, they winged to their coastal lair, a tiger skin tucked under one arm, the coveted Grey Cup hugged tightly under the other.

What happened? You will read and hear all sorts of reasons, perhaps alibis, but the all-out truth of Tiger defeat was capsuled by the Bengal coach, Ralph Sazio:

"We were beaten by a better club."

And huddled behind their dishes of fricasseed crow was a solid (except one) phalanx of eastern experts, a trifle stunned perhaps by the turn of events, more so at the transformation of a 1963 scared Lion cub into a tiger-eating Numa intent on a full-course meal.

"If Kapp throws a bomb, the Tigers will stuff the ball down the Lions' throats," chanted one in his newspaper column.

Late Saturday afternoon with his crystal-ball confreres he was chewing the cud of prediction after a neat thread-stuffing job by Messrs Kapp, Muncey, Ohler and company.

Did the Tiger-Cats suffer from a slight touch of overconfidence? Did their dramatic come-from-behind victory over the Ottawa Rough Riders a week ago partly lull them into a sense of false security?

A club that has dominated the Grey Cup scene for the past decade should know from experience that it is folly to sell the underdog short. The Rough Riders' finals proved that. So did Biblical David and Carolus Clay the First.

Tiger Cat buffs horseshoeria claimed, as the large salty tears dropped into their suds, that their favorites were not at their best. That could be—but it was because the rousted Lions made them look that way. In fact the "want-to-win" spirit was so strong in the Lions that they not only capitalized on the Tiger lapses—but their own as well.

If the Tiger-Cats did suffer from a slight touch of complacency, the printed, aired and private opinions of Eastern football writers, casters and those in the high places may have had something to do with it.

After all, east is east and west is west—but I don't think this had anything to do with the solid backing of the Tigers by those of the tenderfoot half of the nation. Their expertise called for the Cats to win on depth and experience. Against this was pitted the desire, will-to-win and the "one-Grey-Cup experience" of the challengers from the Pacific slopes.

And you know the rest.

As a chaser to the victory cup of the Lions (via CBC) was the American television network airing of the game. The American announcers carefully explained the difference in rules, grounds, etc., between our game and the American version.

They spoke, I thought rather condescendingly of our game and had some fun with our "rouge." Experts all, they analyzed Canadian plays, strange to them, but to this observer the introduction of the starting teams was strictly "all-American."

They called the Tiger-Lions' players as they trotted on the field with strict emphasis on their American college or university background. In fact one was introduced as a graduate of a Yankee high school. Not once was a Canadian player mentioned.

It sounded for all the world like someone reading the selections of American all-star teams from a Yankee-based sports magazine.

Anyway this is "settling-up" day. This Lion is going to rear picking up those Tiger bets. The change will do me good. And if the Cats addicts want practice between now and next football season, I'll get them a job on those TV commercials, howling from the interiors of a gasoline pump or detergents box.

DEFEAT DOES NOT REST LIGHTLY — The outcome of Saturday's Grey Cup game is reflected in the faces of three members of Hamilton Tiger-Cats as they think about the afternoon's events in the dressing-room. Lions Twist to Grant and Crisson gave him eight in seven cup games, breaking the record of seven previously held by Joe Krol of Hamilton Flying Wildcats and Toronto Argonauts.

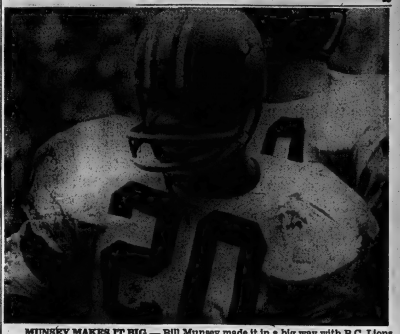
Faloney threw 14 passes in the final quarter alone, completing nine for 99 yards.

The man who took all the back-slapping was Munsey. He gained 94 yards in seven tries after taking over the fullback slot from Swift early in the second quarter.

He didn't miss a play in his defensive halfback position and his tackling was fierce.



The pattern of the game was set early when the Lions took a 7-0 first-quarter lead. Swift got his touchdown following a 74-yard drive highlighted by a 25-yard pass to Ron Morris and a 33-yarder to Fleming to the three-yard line.

Ohler's surprising play made it 13-0 early in the second.

After Zuger's first point, the Lions went 100 yards in five plays. Kapp gained 15 on a quarterback sneak, completed passes to Morris and Homer, and Fleming went on his long ramble.

Counts put Ticats back in the game with his touchdown and nearly 10 minutes later Munsey broke it up with his 18-yard gallop, climaxing an eight-play 84-yard touchdown drive. He sealed it with his 65-yarder.

The desperate Ticats went to the air with a last-gasp bid. Grant pollshed off a 62-yard drive with his touchdown—first in seven Grey Cups—from 11 yards out and Crisson ended the scoring at 13:19 after taking an eight-yard end-zone pass. It ended a 67-yard march.

MUNSEY MAKES IT BIG — Bill Munsey made it in a big way with B.C. Lions in the Grey Cup game in Toronto on Saturday. His two touchdowns and two-way play were a large part of Lions 34-24 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Munsey played fullback as well as defensive half. (CP Wirephoto)

'Munsey For Mayor'
BC Fans Roar Welcome

VANCOUVER (CP)—"Munsey for mayor."

That's the sign that greeted big Bill Munsey as he stepped from an Air Canada jet with the rest of the Grey Cup champion B.C. Lions Sunday night.

He was the star in Lions' 34-24 win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Toronto Saturday and the approximately 5,000 who greeted the plane here made it a triumphal homecoming.

"It's just like Toronto," said Munsey as he stepped out of the plane in a chilly downpour of rain, much like the weather during the Grey Cup game.

But when his notice was directed to the "Munsey for mayor" sign, the man who went 60 minutes offensively and defensively and scored two B.C. touchdowns was noncommittal.

"I've no political aspirations," he said.

Mayor William Rathie, in the running for re-election next month, was on hand to greet officially the club and welcome the first Grey Cup ever to come to Vancouver.

He made no comment about the "Munsey for mayor" sign.

"Dief" Top Sports Predictor

OTTAWA (CP)—The Diefenbaker crystal ball was off by only one point in predicting the outcome of Saturday's Grey Cup football game.

The Opposition leader told a radio-television sportscaster at station CKBI in Prince Albert Sask., that British Columbia Lions would win the match by 11 points. They won by 10.

An elated Mr. Diefenbaker told a Canadian Press reporter of his call, then telephoned the western station to remind them of his prophecy. They had already planned to lead off their sportscast with the almost-perfect prediction.

Mr. Diefenbaker was dead right only weeks ago when he told the same station that St. Louis Cardinals would win the World Series in seven games.

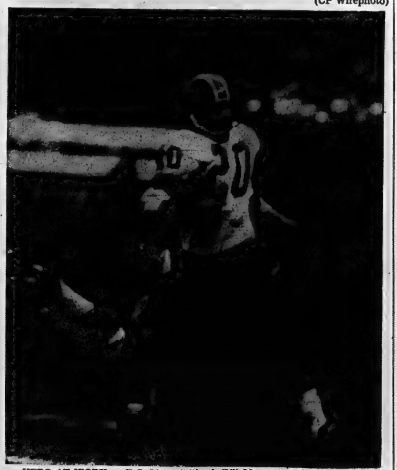
CRIME BRINGS CAMERAS

LIVERPOOL (AP)—The Liverpool police department is to install hidden television cameras to watch over parking lots, banks and business establishments. The pictures will be fed into a central control room where observers will be able to spot anyone acting suspiciously. The crime rate in this English port city has tripled in the last five years.

Cup Win Cost Over Six Million

VANCOUVER (CP) There was a financial aspect to British Columbia Lions' acquisition of the Grey Cup after 11 years of trying.

Herb Capozzi, general manager of the newly-crowned Canadian Football League champions, was bubbling when he stepped from the jetliner which had carried the Lions home Sunday night.



But amid the laughing and shouting, a sobering thought occurred to Capozzi:

"That cup may not look like much, but it cost more than $6,000,000 to bring it to Vancouver."

Leafs Beaten, Tied; Hull Gets 16, 17

Wings Retain Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs, by far the most penalized team in the National Hockey League, are beginning to suffer the consequences of their lawlessness. Costly penalties have become Toronto's nemesis.

The Leafs, averaging almost 20 penalties per game, missed a golden opportunity to climb into first place during the week-end. The opposition connected four times in two games on the power play, leaving Toronto with only one of a possible four points.

New York Rangers scored three times with a manpower advantage Saturday night to scuttle Toronto 4-1. On Sunday night, a power play goal by Detroit stood up for a 1-1 tie with Toronto.

Montreal Canadiens ended a three-game losing streak with a 2-1 victory over Boston Bruins in the only other game played Saturday night. Montreal handed the Rangers a 5-2 setback in New York Sunday night while the Leafs were in the Black Hawks 4-3 in Chicago.

The results left Detroit in first place with 24 points, one more than Toronto. Montreal took third with 21 points, leaving New York one behind and Chicago in fifth with 17. Boston trails at 13 points.

PULFORD PENALIZED

Floyd Smith provided Detroit with a 1-0 lead in the first period while Toronto's Bob Pulford was in the penalty box. It was the 24th power play goal against Toronto this season, compared to the 30 they surrendered in 70 games last year.

Leaf captain George Armstrong evened the score late in the second period, picking up Eddie Shack's rebound and dumping it past a sprawling Roger Crozier.

Crozier and Leaf goalie Terry Sawchuk were unbeatable in the finale, and each wound up with 30 saves.

Sawchuk, however didn't have much of a chance against the Rangers. New York connected three times on the power play, scoring their first win over Toronto in five games. The other two contests were tied.

Pulford gave Toronto a 1-0 jump but Camille Henry tied it midway through the first period. Then the Leafs penalty-killing crew collapsed.

Henry added another, his ninth, while Tim Horton was penalized and Rod Selling scored while Pulford was off in the second period to give New York a 3-1 martin. Phil Goyette, who assisted on New York's first three goals, beat Sawchuk in the finale while Bob Baun was sitting out a minor.

Henri Richard returns from a season-long injury seemed to spark the Canadiens as they collected four points during the weekend. He scored once and set up J. C. Tremblay's winner against Boston and earned an assist on Dave Balon's deciding goal in New York.

The pocket rocket put Montreal ahead 1-0 on a beautiful goal that saw him swoop in on Boston's Ed Johnston and take the goalie out with clever stickhandling. But moments later, at 3:50 of the second period, Boston tied it when Tom Williams tipped in a rebound on an alert play.

J. C. Tremblay decided the issue at 1:32 of the third with a smoking drive that Johnston didn't have a chance on. The Bruins backstop had an otherwise fine night, stopping 38 shots while Charlie Hodge blocked 22 for the Habs.

The Canadiens bombed their old teammate, Jacques Plante, with 39 shots at New York, and outlasted the Rangers after taking a 3-2 lead in the first period. Montreal added an unanswered goal in each of the last two periods.

Jean Beliveau, Yvan Cournoyer and Balon scored in the opening period while New York replied with goals by Rod Gilbert and Vic Hadfield.

The Habs took command from that point, outshooting New York 25-13 in the last 40 minutes, and clinched victory with Jim Roberts' first NHL goal and a third-period tally by Ralph Backstrom.

The Hawks blew a two-goal lead at Chicago as the Bruins bounced back for a narrow victory on a third-period goal by Dean Prentice.

Chicago, down 1-0 after Murray Oliver's goal, stormed ahead on a goal by Chico Maki and a pair by Bobby Hull—his 18th and 17th of the season. But quick markers by Leo Boivin and Johnny Bucyk knotted the score late in the second period.

The ever-pressing Bruins, outshooting Chicago 39-32, got the winner early in the third. Prentice provided his eighth of the season on a 30-footer that eluded partially-screened Glenn Hall.

N.H.L. Scoring Statistics

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull ran his point total to 17 goals during the weekend and opened up a two-point lead in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Hull connected twice against Boston to give him a point total of 34 on 17 goals and 17 assists in 18 games. The Chicago star's current pace would have him projected total of 66 in 70 games.

Stan Mikita has the record he shared with Bernie Geoffrion and Bobby Hull, both retired from Montreal Canadiens.

Detroit's Norm Ullman registered an assist to hold second place with 32 points and 11 assists for 21 points, one more than Chicago's Stan Mikita.

New York Camille Henry is fourth with 16 points.

Four players - Claude Provost, Bob Pulford, Phil Goyette and Gordie Howe - are bunched at 15 points. Goyette leads the group with 12 assists, Provost has accounted for 11 assists in 16 games. The Chicago star's current pace would have him projected total of 66 in 70 games.

Howe has the record he shared with Bernie Geoffrion and Bobby Hull, both retired from Montreal Canadiens.

Detroit's Norm Ullman registered an assist to hold second place with 32 points and 11 assists for 21 points, one more than Chicago's Stan Mikita.

Leagues Start Draft War

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle lines are drawn and the $5,000,000 war is on between the National Football League and the American League for Dick Butkus, Gale Sayers, Steve DeLong, Jack Snow, Joe Namath and other prize United States college stars drafted during the weekend.

With 22 clubs involved, 14 in the NFL and eight in the AFL, backed by television millions, it is not unreasonable to expect that each will go for $250,000 to sign the chosen heroes.

The NFL struggled from 9 a.m. Saturday until 12:10 p.m. Sunday in a record 27-hour, 10-minute draft that covered 20 rounds and 280 players. Most of the same men were picked by the AFL in their 16-hour, 40-minute draft that ran from 8 a.m. Saturday to 12:40 a.m. Sunday.

Butkus, the fine linebacker from Illinois, can sift out offers from Chicago Bears of the NFL and the Miami Dolphins of the AFL. DeLong, the 243-pound Tennessee lineman, was a first-round pick of the Bears and San Diego Chargers. Sayers, Kansas back, is a prize for the Bears or Kansas City Chiefs. Ehlns, the Baylor pass catcher, is up for grabs between Houston Oilers and Green Bay Packers.

CAN'T SIGN YET

Namath, selected on the first round by St. Louis Cardinals and New York Jets, can't sign until after the Orange Bowl game with Texas. Snow, the batterymate of Notre Dame's John Huarte, was Minnesota Vikings' No. 1 pick and San Diego's seventh.

New York Giants, desperate for a running back, passed up Butkus and took Tucker Frederickson, Auburn back, as the NFL's No. 1 selection. The Giants signed him. Huarte, the Heisman Trophy winner, was selected No. 2 by the Jets and sixth by Philadelphia's Joe Kubarich, an ex - Notre Dame coath.

Scored Two Touchdowns

Munsey Given Hero's Accolade

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Munsey flinched as a hundred hands pounded him on the back. He preferred to talk about the linemen who set up his two touchdowns in British Columbia Lions' 34-24 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the East-West football final Saturday.

But Munsey couldn't stop his teammates amid the post-game sweat and champagne of the dressing room.

The 23 - year - old Minnesota grad never missed a play in his defensive halfback role and came on with a thundering offensive game at fullback after Bob Swift was hurt.

Late in the third quarter, as Lions scrimmaged the ball on their Hamilton 18, Munsey noticed the Ticat defence shifting its strength to the right. He took quarterback Joe Kapp's handoff, ran right, then sliced left to open ground and a touchdown.

SCORES ANOTHER

Three minutes later he was at defensive half when he sensed danger of an overhand lateral pass to Ticat halfback John Counts. He moved closer to the line and when the pass came Counts fumbled it, B.C. lineman Dick Fouts kicked it clear and Munsey galloped 65 yards for his second touchdown.

Munsey could have signed two years ago with Cleveland Browns of the National Football League but came to Canada because it "really is a land of opportunity up here."

Head coach Dave Skrien said it was B.C.'s best game of the year.

"I didn't think that we were going to be defeated under any circumstances after we got into the game and I felt the tempo of it," he said.

Bernie Faloney conceded in the Hamilton dressing room that the pass to Counts wasn't one of his better ones.

BALL GETS LOOSE

"I managed to grab the ball after I dropped it," the disconsolate Counts explained. "But somebody jumped on my back and the ball squirted loose."

"If there had to be a turning point in the game, that was it," said Ticat coach Ralph Sazio.

"We couldn't adjust during the first half and overcoming a 14-point deficit was just too much."

Sazio gave full credit to the Lions.

"We were just out-defenced," he said.

"They play a zone-type defence and hang back waiting for the passes. They didn't put the same rush on Faloney as we put on Kapp but it certainly proved effective."

The Gas House Hockey League

One shutout and another free-scoring affair were registered in the Gas House League's scheduled games here last night.

Joyce Realty outlasted Marysville by a 10-5 count.

Carm Milligan was a two-goal man for Marysville. Singletons went to Bill Richmond, Bob McCauley and Ray Summers.

Belleville, Trenton Minors Win

TRENTON (Special)—Belleville Oddfellows came from behind to edge Trenton Lions 4-3 in the midget half of last night's exhibition hockey double-header here.

In the other game, Trenton Legion juveniles whipped Wexford's Midget "A" squad to the tune of 6-1.

Meanwhile, over in Syracuse, Trenton RCAF Globetrotters dropped both weekend games to the Syracuse Stars.

The Stars scored four goal late in the game to pull out an 8-4 victory before the biggest crowd of the year Saturday night. There were 2,800 fans in attendance.

Globetrotters lost the services of goalie Darryl Johnston in Saturday's game. Trenton's junior "C" goalie, Ken Panko, was along on the trip and completed the game and also played Sunday.

Syracuse captured the Sunday game by a 9-3 count.

The Trotters play host to Toronto York Steel here this Friday.

In Sunday's exhibitions here, Legion juveniles led 3-0 and 5-0 by periods over their younger and lighter visitors. Tobin scored the only Wexford goal, assisted by Hope and Broadfoot in the final period.

Al Ferguson paced Trenton with a pair of goals while Andy Teeple and Jim Bonn each had a goal and two assists. Peacham and Fraser fired the other goals, Bennett and Reynolds drawing assists.

In the midget tilt, Trenton led 3-0 after one period but Belleville ripped back to tie it in the second and scored the only goal of a penalty-riddled third feast to grab the win.

L. Moore potted two Belleville markers with C. Wilson and J. Holgate getting the others. Holgate's was the winner and he also had an assist. C. Scott and D. Muir each got two assists, T. Boulter and Hannah one each.

Trenton scorers were Coe, Bonter and Wally. McDonald had his team's only two assists.

Browns Whip Eagles; Win Shy Of Playoff

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's scrambling defence has tied Jimmy Brown in the scoring column and has moved the Browns to within one game of playing Baltimore Colts for the National League championship.

The defence scored three touchdowns in the first half Sunday, triggering Cleveland to a 38-24 victory over Philadelphia Eagles. A Cleveland triumph or a tie against St. Louis Cardinals next Sunday would give the Browns their first eastern conference crown since 1957.

Brown, the league's leading rusher, failed to get the touchdown he needs to tie Don Hutson's NFL career record of 105. He has eight for the season, the same number the Cleveland defence now has tallied.

Philadelphia's Tim Brown bobbled the opening kickoff and the ball bounced into the end zone where Roger Shoals fell on it for a touchdown 18 seconds after the game started.

In the second quarter rookie Sid Williams burst through the Eagle line and blocked Sam Baker's punt of his own, then fell on the ball in the end zone for Cleveland's second touchdown.

Within 33 seconds, Jim Houston grabbed a King Hill pass and raced 42 yards for a touchdown.

In other games, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Pittsburgh Steelers 21-20, Baltimore defeated San Francisco 49ers 14-3, Green Bay Packers walloped Dallas Cowboys 45-21, Minnesota Vikings whipped Los Angeles Rams 34-13 and Washington Redskins dumped New York Giants 36-21.

In the American Football League, Boston Patriots drubbed Houston Oilers 34-17, New York Jets beat Kansas City Chiefs 27-14 and Oakland Raiders tied Denver Broncos 20-20.

Baltimore, which clinched the western title last week, won its 11th straight game, and Lenny Moore tallied a touchdown in his 15th consecutive contest.

Napanee Hands Rollins Peewees First Defeat

Rollins lost a 3-2 thriller to Napanee in the winner's rink in OMHA peewee play.

Belleville tied the score twice after the winners held 1-0 and 2-1 leads, before Van Alstine fired the winning goal, assisted by White.

Vanaistine opened the scoring for Napanee, aided by Garrison, with the only goal of the first period.

Austin Wilson tied it for Belleville, with Fred Stickle helping, but Elder put Napanee back in front before the second period ended. Brinklow got an assist on the goal.

Terry Meagher made it 2-2, with Stickle getting the assist, in the third. Then came the winner.

Rollins' goalie Paul Muldoon played an outstanding game to keep his club in the contest.

In OMHA play tonight, Oddfellows' bantams and midgets travel to Picton.

Ottawa Signs Clair

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Clair, who was offered the head coaching job with Toronto Argonauts and the most lucrative contract in Canadian football history, decided Saturday to stick with Ottawa Rough Riders.

The 48 - year - old Clair approved the terms of a new three-year Ottawa contract after the Toronto Eastern Football Conference club refused to meet his conditions for complete authority over players in the operation of the team.

The Argos' offer was reported to be at least $35,000 a year plus bonuses and would have been worth more than $100,000 to him in the proposed four-year deal.

Clair's new pact with the Riders he has coached since 1956 calls for an estimated $30,000 a year, plus bonuses that could earn him up to $25,000. His decision to remain dashed the prospect of his assistant, Bill Smyth, stepping up as head coach.

Riders' president Barry O'Brien, who said Smyth had been informed he would be offered the job if Clair did not return, added he now will be offered a separate three-year contract to remain as assistant coach.

Clair came to terms after a brief meeting with general manager Red O'Quinn and several club directors, headed by O'Brien. Although the coach had one year to go on his old five-year contract, they gave him permission to negotiate with Argos, but set a 10 a.m. Saturday deadline for him to agree to Ottawa's terms.

Blues Down McGill 5-3

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oh brother!

That exclamation is likely to be heard continually around the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League this winter as a brother duo of Steve and Hank Monteith add a blistering pace for the University of Toronto.

Steve, a right winger, scored four goals Saturday as the Varsity Blues downed McGill Redmen 5-3 for their second win without a loss this season. His linemate, younger brother Hank, assisted him twice and scored the fifth goal.

And Steve picked up an assist on Hank's goal.

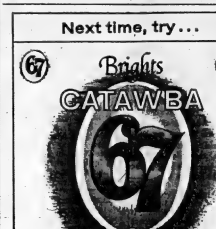
The University of Montreal bombed Hamilton's McMaster University 7-2 in the only other weekend game.

Tweed Juniors Edge Juveniles

A pair of unanswered goals in the third period gave Tweed Junior "D's" a 3-2 exhibition decision over Belleville A.C.T. juveniles here yesterday.

Belleville, strengthened by members of the city Junior "B" team, led 2-1 after one period. Neither team scored in the second but Tweed fired the final pair to snatch the victory.

Chisholm triggered the deciding goal on a solo effort. J. Long had the tying goal, assisted by A. Jarmin and J. Jarmin. Ray LeSage fired Tweed's first-period goal, unassisted.



Bob Boyle scored Belleville's initial marker, assisted by Larry Stewart. Stewart made it a 2-1 game, with Boyle and Frank Farrell getting helpers, but that was it for the "Travellers."

The game was rough and rugged in spots. Penalties included minors and fighting majors to Belleville's Ethier and Tweed's J. Chapman.

Big Picture Is Started Without Finished Script

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The atmosphere of the set made the film seem aptly titled—Morturi. Latin for—"we who are about to die."

Stage Eight at 20th Century-Fox had that funereal hush that either indicates the director is a quiet, meticulous worker or the picture is in trouble. The latter seemed evident.

Speed seemed to be the problem with Morituri, or rather, the lack of it. The film was in its 73rd day, an uncommon length in today's Hollywood, especially since the end of shooting is not in view.

If the set had problems, they seemed of little moment to co-star Yul Brynner. His dressing room had a sign over the door reading "Casino de Brynner," and he was seated with the back of his shiny head to the outside, playing poker with a trio of co-workers.

Near the stage entrance, leading lady Janet Margolin (David and Lisa) was sipping coffee from a paper cup and lamenting her lot. "I started on the picture in September and so far I've had no scenes," she remarked.

At the far end of Stage Eight was the lengthy dressing-room trailer belonging to Marlon Brando. He was closeted within until an assistant raced to the various dressing rooms to notify the principals that a scene would shortly be made.

PLAYS A GERMAN

Brando emerged. He plays a German who has been induced by the British to forestall the scuttling of a rubber - laden freighter captained by Brynner, an anti-Nazi but duty-minded German.

"How goes the picture?" I asked Brando.

"It's like pushing a prune pit with my nose from here to Cucamonga," he replied, "and here-I find myself in Azusa."

The finish date of the film keeps getting pushed back, he said. It's supposed to end Dec. 13, but Brando admitted he had no hopes of getting out of the trenches by Christmas.

Why the lengthy shooting? It appears to result from the methods of Bernhard Wicki, noted German director who is making his first Hollywood film. He is enthodical and painstaking in a manner which economy-minded studios no longer enjoy.

"But it isn't all his fault," said Brando. "We started without a finished script."

Death of a TV Program Never Formally Announced

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A tradition of network television is that the death of a program is never formally announced. It usually is admitted reluctantly when the replacement program is heralded.

This may be due to executive reluctance to admit a programming mistake.

During the week-end ABC announced a new program to fill its 7:30-8:30 p.m. spot on Saturday nights, starting Jan. 23. It the series, The King Family an An Hour of Music and Fun but not one word was spent on The Outer Limits, a science-fiction anthology series that will slip away in the middle of its second season.

The demise of the program, which often featured weird characters from outer space, is an interesting subject for speculation particularly when creatures from outer space and other worlds are the vogue.

GO FOR LAUGHS

Outer Limits monsters were most often scary apparitions threatening the security of the earth. Monsters in the current hit comedy series go for laughs instead of chills. The Addams Family are just about as scary as Ozzie and Harriet.

My favorite Martian is really an awfully nice fellow, he was a baby sitter Sunday night who is not only content to let the earth and its people alone, but just wants to get back home to Mars.

Recommended tonight:

Young People's Concert, CBS, 7:30-8:30 EST—The New York Philharmonic Orchestra and Leonard Bernstein; The Other World of Winston Churchill, NBC, 10-11.

Defeat Flyers 3-1

11,212 See Marlies Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

This year's Toronto Marlboros might be a shade weaker than last season's Memorial Cup champions but they more than make up the difference in fan appeal.

And that's probably one reason why this year's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club, liberally sprinkled with raw recruits, is boasting a four-point lead in the standings.

The Marlboros demonstrated their proficiency Sunday by defeating Niagara Falls 3-1 before 11,212 fans—largest for a game short of Maple Leaf Gardens' capacity. The win raised the Flyers' lead to a first-place tie.

Last season, during the Memorial Cup finals at the Gardens, the Marlboros and Edmonton Oil Kings played before fewer than 5,000 fans a game.

Elsewhere Sunday Peterborough Petes edged Montreal Junior Canadiens 6-5, Hamilton Red Wings and St. Catharines Black Hawks battled to a 7-7 tie and Kitchener Rangers defeated Oshawa Generals 5-2.

Wayne Moodell, Jim McKenny and Brit Selby handled the Toronto scoring as Marlboros took a four-point lead over the second-place Flyers in the standings. Rosaire Paiement scored for Niagara Falls.

Bobby Orr and Peter Mahovlich counted two goals each for the Red Wings. Nick Libett, Jim Peters and Bill Cobbett got the others.

Shoots Record 272 Score

Wall Wins Mexican Open

MEXICO (AP)—Art Wall of the United States shot a sizzling three-under-par 69 Sunday and won the Mexican National Open golf tournament with a record 272 score.

Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo shot a par 72 for a 281 total and second place. Third went to Don January of the U.S., who shot a one-over-par 73 for a 282 total.

Wall's performance topped the tournament record of 279 set by Al Balding of Toronto, Canada, who won last year's tournament. Balding wound up well back in the pack this year.

Best on the three Canadian players who finished the tournament was George Knudson of Toronto. He shared the lead with Wall, de Vincenzo on opening day but ended-in a tie for 14th place with 288, exactly par for the 7,215-yard course over 72 holes.

Knudson shot a sensational 67 opening day, followed by identical figures with a four-over-par 76 on the second 18 holes, shot another 76 Saturday and an even-par 72 Sunday.

The 14th-place tie brought him $148.80 in prize money.

Balding was out of the money with a poor 76-76 for the 8 holes. Andre Gagnier of Montreal had a 316 total.

A fourth Canadian entry, Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., was eliminated when his score for the first two days totalled 154.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE

NOTICE

The Council, pursuant to a resolution passed under date of November 9th, 1964, adopted a policy requiring the levy of an impost toward the cost of installing trunk, sanitary and storm water sewers against all undeveloped lands in the City (excepting the lands comprised in a registered plan of subdivision or by consent pursuant to Section 26 of The Planning Act.

The impost to be levied, effective January 1, 1965, is as follows:

(a) Single family detached dwellings and semi-detached single family dwellings — $1.75 per foot of the frontage at the building line.

(b) Multi-family residential development — $1960.00 per acre for each acre or part thereof of gross site area plus $37.50 per residential unit.

(c) Commercial development — $840.00 per acre of gross site area.

(d) Industrial development — $375.00 per acre of gross site area.

The impost shall be paid as follows:

(a) Where the subdivision plan contains less than 10 lots and shall pay the full impost levy at the time of the signing of a subdivider's agreement or prior to the registration of a plan of subdivision.

(b) Where the subdivision plan contains more than 10 lots and the owner shall pay to the Corporation at the time of the signing of the subdivider's agreement or prior to the registration of a plan of subdivision the full impost levy on a block of not less than 10 lots, and subsequent to the registration of such lots, the owner shall pay to the Corporation the impost levy as aforesaid, a third within 12 months after the issuance of a building permit, excepting the case where there are less than 10 lots remaining, in which case, at that time, the owner will be required to pay the impost levy on the remaining lots.

(c) Without prejudice to the foregoing, the owner may elect to pay at any time the impost levy on any undeveloped lands.

(d) Commercial and Industrial Development — The owner shall pay to the Corporation the full impost levy at the time of the signing of a development agreement or prior to the registration of a plan of development.

The future development of the City, and particularly industrial development depends on the extension of trunk watermain, sanitary and storm water sewers to the undeveloped lands. It is necessary that such services be provided in these areas as rapidly as possible in order to meet the residential, educational and industrial needs of the City. The cost of enlarging the City's capacity to service the lands on undeveloped land and the Council feels that the owners of this sort of development should bear part of the cost of providing these services through an impost levy.

Under the present policy, the cost of extending trunk services is assessed against the City as a whole. The Council has determined that this policy is inequitable in the case of undeveloped lands pays an annual tax of approximately $4.00 per acre, whereas the tax on an acre of land zoned for average homes is approximately $596.00 per year. As an illustration, it is estimated that the cost-of installing trunk, sanitary and storm sewers to service the 200 acres of undeveloped land in the North-West section of the City will be $1,213,000.00. Under the proposed impost levy the owners of the lands in the undeveloped land would pay approximately $244,000.00 towards this expenditure which is about 21% of the cost of providing these services. The balance of 79% would be assessed against the City as a whole.

The impost levied against residential development will raise the cost of the land in a single family lot by approximately $225.00. On a house costing $12,000.00 this would equal about a 1.9% increase. The impost levied against industrial development will increase the cost by an estimated $375.00 per acre in the price of the land. These increases in cost are not large and should not restrict either residential or industrial development.

In the years ahead, and particularly during the next 15 years, it is estimated that capital funds in the amount of 15 million dollars will be required for the extension of trunk services, as well as schools and extensions of trunk watermain, storm sanitary sewers to undeveloped areas within the City. The City will find it very difficult, if not impossible, to provide these services as required and still remain within-its borrowing powers unless additional capital funds are obtained through the impost levy.

Funds required from the impost levy will be placed in a Special Reserve account and will be used to either reduce the amount of the debenture to be issued to pay for the cost of extending the necessary services to the undeveloped lands, or to reduce the annual debenture payments in respect to the said services. This has the effect of reducing the amount to be levied against the City as a whole in the general rate.

The revenue received from the impost levy will assist the Council in providing the needed services required in the development of our City in the years ahead.

Cleveland Williams 'Critical'

Police Bullet Fells Boxer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Boxer, Cleveland Williams lay in a hospital today critically wounded by bullet, but hopes for a crack at the heavyweight title in January shattered.

He underwent nearly six hours of surgery Sunday for the removal of a .357-magnum bullet fired into his lower abdomen by a state highway patrolman.

Williams, the World's No. 2 heavyweight challenger, was shot by Patrolman Dale E. Witten, 36, who said Williams struck him and tried to flee after the fighter was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Officers later filed charges of driving while intoxicated and aggravated assault on a peace officer against Williams.

WANTS INVESTIGATION

Hugh Benbow, Williams' manager and co-owner of his contract, who described Witten's account of the incident as inconsistent with Williams' reputation, said:

"Sure, Williams has an occasional drink of beer, but nothing more. We are going to fight this thing and demand a complete investigation."

"He will live to fight again," Dr. D. L. Bricker said. "I've never seen a man with such a constitution."

The three were members of last year's Memorial Cup champion Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Selling, with New York Rangers, and Ellis with Toronto Maple Leafs, are currently in contention for the National Hockey League's rookie award.

First Santa Claus Parade In 12 Years Fine Success

PICTON (Staff) — Santa arrived in Picton on Saturday afternoon as the town held its first parade in 12 years for the jolly old chap. A crowd of 2,000 was expected to witness the parade and judging from the number of kiddies and adults on the street it was all of that. Some 25 floats most of these made and entered by local merchants and industries participated along with bands, majorettes and gaily decorated automobiles. There were also many beautifully outfitted horses and riders scattered throughout the parade.

The parade moved off from the fair grounds at 1 p.m. and continued up Picton's main street and back again leaving Santa off on the return trip to meet the children personally in the armories and distribute his candies and free theatre tickets. The event launches a week long merchants' "Early bird shopping campaign".

On Saturday Picton held its first Santa Claus parade in twelve years. A large crowd enjoyed the parade.

Employee Falls 45 Feet, Escapes Serious Injury

PICTON (Staff) — An A. E. Rule Construction Co. employee, Donald Mainprize, of R.R. 9, Picton, Saturday morning fell 45 feet from a construction site at Lake Ontario Portland Cement Company.

Mainprize, a middle-aged man landed in a large hole containing from 6 to 10 inches of water and mud, enough to break his fall. He was alone at the time of his accident and it is assumed that the high winds Saturday were responsible for the fall. His injuries, though undetermined, are not considered to be serious.

This is the second accident of this nature to occur at this location in a week. 24-year-old Maurice J. Finnegan of Oshawa, Ont., an employee of Dominion Bridge Co. fell 20 feet from a scaffolding on Tuesday. It was raining at the time and it was considered that the wet scaffolding may have contributed to his accident.

Although he landed on rough ground with jagged pieces of cement and rock in the area he was fortunate to have landed on his feet and possibly saved further injury. He suffered a broken heel bone. Both men were taken from the site to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital for observation.

Will your gift mean more than the moment?

Your gift brings the immediate joy that makes Christmas morning. Right now, of all the moments he's ever had, this is probably his favourite.

And your gift, if it wears the "Made in Canada" label, reaches much farther than the moment. It reaches into your children's future. It brings your children just a little closer to the kind of future you want them to have, in the kind of country you want them to live in.

Cap guns are part of a boy's business. But cap guns are part of your nation's business, too. Toys have become big business. Competition between toy-making countries is fierce, because toys put a lot of dollars into an economy.

Some of the finest toys in the world are made here at home. Yet most toys bought in Canada are imports!

When you take the trouble to look for the label, you keep more dollars at home. You bring your nation a step closer to balanced trade. You help industry thrive; you keep Ontario the Province of Opportunity. When you look for the label your children know you are proud to buy "Made in Canada". And they'll grow up doing the same thing. Gladly.

Helping Canada grow will come as second nature. Can you think of a more precious gift you could bring them?
